ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

SERVANT GIRL SLEW HER.

Mrs. Lane's Own Servant Killed Her at Brandon Last Week.

Brandon, Man., July 10.—Detectives McKenzie and Elliott returned here from Winnipeg with evidence enough to practically insure the conviction of Hilda Clark, alias Dicks, the servant girl in the household of Mrs. Lane, the woman cruelly murdered last week. The servant was at once arrested and in a very short time confessed that she had shot and killed her mistress. She said that she loved the woman and her four children, and after kissing Mrs. Lane had shot her in the back with the weapon she had purchased in Winnipeg on June 20.

The Woman's Story.

Her story is that she bought the revolver there, intending to shoot herself and she had contemplated suicide for five or six years. She says she was seized with an insane fit, rushed up and kissed Mrs. Lane and then shot her.

The Galician who was suspected of the crime has been released.

The murderess' is an orphan from Hockingham, County of Norfolk. She was sent out by Lady Borchamp with her brother.

The clerk who sold the revolver to the woman identified Miss Blake as the purchaser.

A bottle of laudanum was found in the girl's room, which she says she was to take if she was suspected.

The revolver when found was wrapped in newspaper, balance of which was found in the girl's room.

In the year 1306 a party of crusaders brought a number of rose bushes home to England with them from Damascus, and these flourished so well that in a short time the beautiful flowers were to be found everywhere throughout the country.

Drought in Jamaica.

Kingston, Jamaica, July 10.—The severe protracted drought in Southern Jamaica is causing widespread distress and alarm. The failing water supply of Kingston necessitates a curtailment of the service to 18 hours daily. The coffee, orange and corn crops are almost destroyed and the destruction of the natives' provision crop is causing a famine. The rural population is fleeing from the homesteads, seeking relief in town centres. The trouble is augmented by an outbreak of the typho-malarial fever through using the putrid water.

To Adjourn Till Spring.

London, July 10.—A telegram from St. Petersburg asserts that The Hague conference will adjourn at the end of July, the members agreeing to reassemble in the spring, and during the interval Emperor Nicholas will visit the principal European courts.

MISS CAPRICE.

BY ST. GEORGE RATHBONE

Author of "Doctor Jack," "Doctor Jack's Wife," "Captain Tom," "Miss Pauline of New York," Etc.

They are in a bad fix, wrecked several miles from their destination.

Darkness has now set in.

John rises from his knees and takes in the situation. It is evident that something must be done in order that they may be rescued from their unpleasant position.

Where are Mustapha and the driver? Both of them have utterly vanished in the most mysterious manner. Which then, will mount one of the panting horses and ride back to Birkadeen for succor?

"Let me go!" says Sir Lionel, staggering forward, and clutching an olive tree for support.

John sees his weak state.

"You are not in a condition to go. Stay here and protect the ladies, for it is a lonely place, and there may be wild animals in these woods, who knows?" With which words the young American throws himself on the horse's back and urges the animal along over the road they have travelled, followed by the anxious eye of Lady Ruth.

CHAPTER XVI.

John digs his heels into the sides of the animal he bestrides, and urges him on with every artifice known to a jockey, and, considering the darkness, the rough nature of the road, and the weariness of the beast, he succeeds in getting over the ground at quite a respectable rate.

Thus, meeting no one on the way, he finally bursts upon the village of Birkadeen much after the manner of a thunderbolt from a clear sky, and dashes up to the office of the stage line, which, as may be supposed, is managed by Franks.

A Frenchman has charge, and upon his vision there suddenly bursts a dusty figure, with hair destitute of covering, and clothing awry, a figure that has leaped from a horse bathed in sweat, a figure he imagines has broken loose from some mad-house, yet which upon addressing him shows a wonderful amount of coolness.

"Are you the agent of the stage line?" is the first question fired at him.

"I am Monsieur Constans. I have the charge of ze elegant equipage line zat you speak of as one stage," returns the Frenchman.

"You remember my passing through here a little while ago, bound for Algiers?"

"Parbleu! zat is so. I am astonish. What for are you back on ze horseback, too. Mon Dieu, have ze robbers been at it again? Ten sousan fury, and ze cadi promise zat we have no more trouble wif sem."

At the mention of the word, John experiences a sudden chill, remembering that he has left Lady Ruth and Aunt Gwen upon the loneliest part of the road to Algiers; but becomes somewhat reassured when it also crosses his memory that the gallant professor and the soldier hero of Zulu battles are there to defend them.

"You are mistaken. The miserable vehicle has broken down," he says.

"Ciel! is zat all?"

"All! Confound your impudence, and isn't it enough when two ladies are almost killed outright by the accident? All! when we've been rattled about like dry peas in a pod, until there's hardly a square inch of me that doesn't ache. I'll tell you, monsieur, what you are to do, and in a dused hurry, too. Order out another stage and fly to the scene of the wreck without delay."

"Begar! if I only had a vehicle," he groans.

"You shall find one of some sort inside of five minutes and go with me to the scene to rescue my friends, and take them to safety, or you must take the consequences," and in his excitement John glowers upon the dapper Gaul until the latter actually trembles with trepidation.

"Stop! I have zink of something. Zere is one old vehicle in ze shed, laid up for repairs. By careful handling it would do."

"Good! Get horses hitched to it; we must lose no time. To the rescue, Monsieur Constans. Ladies have been hurt; they must be taken to the city as speedily as possible."

The Gaul is excitable by nature, and he catches some of John's surplus enthusiasm, springs to his feet, and is out of the office door like a shot, shouting almost unintelligible orders to the gang of dirty Arabs who have rushed to the scene upon the advent of a Frank entering the village like a young cyclone and riding a horse that, from its harness, they recognise as belonging to the stage line.

John, finding they make such poor headway, proceeds to lend his assistance, and under his direction the job is finally completed.

An old stage, even worse than the wrecked one, is brought out, and the horse John rode harnessed to it, and, after some difficulty about the harness has been adjusted, they are off.

There is of course danger that the same catastrophe will happen to them, but the emergency is great, and John handles the reins himself.

Thus, through the darkness, they proceed, gradually nearing the scene of the disaster.

The nearer they come, the more John's fears arise, though he would find it hard to give good reasons for them, since they rest only upon the words that have been let fall by the dapper little French agent who sits beside him on the box, and holds on for dear life, uttering numerous exclamations; in his explosive way, as they pitch and toss.

A tree looms up. John recognises it as a mark which just preceded their overthrow. Hence the wrecked stage must lie just beyond, so he pulls in his horse and tries to pierce the darkness that lies like a pall around.

They have at his suggestion brought a lantern along, but of course this is of little use to them as yet.

"What is that cry up on the hillside?" asks John, as he hears a peculiar sound.

"Monsieur ca worry; he need be. Zat is some rascal jackal or hyena; zey hover around ze villages and do much mischief. I have seen zem myself carry off one sheep."

This is not very pleasant intelligence, but John is now engaged in trying to pierce the gloom, and believes he sees some object that may prove to be the wrecked stage.

He sings out with a hail:

"Ah, there, professor?!"

Not a reply, only what seems to be an echo is flung back from the hill-side.

Then John's heart stands still with a sudden fear, as he imagines that some terrible thing has occurred. He raises his voice and calls upon Philander. When there comes no reply to this, he makes use of Sir Lionel's name, and bellows it forth until the valley seems to ring with the sound. Still hopeless, for no answer bids him drop his fears.

Now the fact is assured that something serious has happened.

John jumps to the ground, desirous of seeing whether they have actually reach the spot where the wrecked omnibus lies.

He finds it to be true, and in another moment is standing upon the very place where Aunt Gwen reclined at the time of his departure.

There is much room for speculation. Any one of half a dozen things might have happened, for, to one who is utterly in the dark, there is no end of possibilities.

What can he do?

One chance there is, that while he, Doctor Chicago, was absent, bent upon his errand of mercy and rescue, Mustapha may have once more appeared upon the scene, and influenced the little party to move on in the direction of the distant city.

He still places implicit confidence in the guide, and has strong hopes, though the absence of the Arab at the time of the accident is utterly unexplainable.

By this time Monsieur has descended from his perch, and joins him. In his hand he carries the lantern, ready for use.

"What have you found, mon ami?" asks this worthy, as he arrives on the scene.

"Here is the wrecked stage, but my friends have vanished. It puzzles me to know what has become of them."

"No doubt they have gone ahead, fearing that you could not se new vehicle obtain. We may soon discover ze truth."

"By going forward, yes; but before we do that, perhaps I can learn something about the direction they took."

"Ah! you will apply ze wonderful science of ze prairie. I have heard of it, begar, and I shall be one very glad to see ze experiment."

He poses in an attitude of expectation and keeps his eyes fastened upon the other who has already picked up the lantern and bends over with the intention of following the trail.

This soon brings them from the ruined stage to the olive tree under which they had laid Aunt Gwen.

Arrived here he utters an exclamation.

"This tells the story. Confusion indeed."

"What now, monsieur?" echoes the Frenchman.

"See; the tracks are numerous."

"But they would have been had these people moved about a good deal."

"Look again, you will note that they are made by other feet. Many men have been here. What you once suggested——"

"Mon Dieu! robbers?" as if appalled.

"That explanation is nearer the mark than anything else."

The prospect is appalling, for these wild robbers of the desert fear neither man nor devil and when once they retreat to their hiding places in the mountains, it is next to folly to dream of following them.

John Craig finds himself in a dilemma. To whom can he appeal in this, his hour of trial? Will the authorities do anything for him, in case the American or British consul make a demand? Can they accomplish aught. These wild Bedouins of the desert do not come under the jurisdiction of the Dey. His orders would be laughed to scorn, and

A Cheap Luncheon.

A good story is told in connection with the last Ascot meeting. An American, who was used to going into racing booths in his own country, ordering luncheon and paying $1, found himself hungry at the royal meeting, so he walked into the first tent handy and told the attendant to give him something to eat. The man put a sumptuous luncheon before him, to which, as well as the champagne, the visitor did ample justice. He then handed the attendant 6 shillings, received his thanks and was bowed out of the tent, inwardly congratulating himself on the moderateness of the charge. An English friend whom he met outside said:

"I did not know you were acquainted with Lord H."

"Neither am I," replied the Bostonian.

"Oh, I beg your pardon," said the interrogator. "I thought you were, as you came out of his tent."—London Tit-Bits.

Bradlaugh's R's.

Mrs. Godfrey Clerk told me today at dinner that when she was in London last year some one said in her presence, "It is strange that Bradlaugh, although he speaks well, should never be able to manage the letter h." Sir F. Halliday, who was sitting by, remarked, "The reason is obvious; we know that

"'Twas whispered in heaven,
'Twas muttered in hell, and Bradlaugh will have nothing to say to either."—Sir M. E. Grant Duff's Diary.

The Paste Didn't Hold.

"I have shown this to a jeweler," said the young woman, flinging the engagement ring scornfully at his feet. "Did you think," she asked, with crushing sarcasm, "you could cement our affection with paste?"

"So!" hissed the young man, folding his arms and gazing at her with equal scorn. "It's paste, is it? And yet you are not stuck on it!"—Chicago Tribune.

Verdict as Rendered.

"Gentlemen of the jury," asked the clerk of the court, "have you agreed upon a verdict?"

"We have," replied the foreman. "The verdict of the jury is that the lawyers have mixed this case up so that we don't know anything at all about it."

MR. KRUGER IS COMING DOWN

Transvaal Volksraad Will Draft a Franchise Bill.

Uitlanders May Get a Show—Registration Act to Be Revised—Proposals Regarded as "Absurdly Insufficient" by the Uitlanders—The Crisis Is Passed, Says a Message to the Pope From London—To Be Tried for Treason.

Pretoria, July 10.—After an all-day secret session the Volksraad on Saturday appointed a committee of five to draft a franchise reform bill. The Government proposals comprise a revision of the Registration Act and provide for the Uitlanders obtaining the franchise by nine years' residence. They are to be allowed to exercise the right immediately.

Kruger's July 1 Message.

Brussels, July 10. — The Transvaal diplomatic agency here has published the text of President Kruger's message of July 1 to the Raad. The first amendment to the franchise bill provides that persons who do not wish to become naturalized in the manner fixed by the present law can obtain the franchise by taking the oath after a seven years' notice of residence. The law is so far retroactive that persons who, before the law comes in force, shall have taken up their residence in the Transvaal, may obtain the full franchise nine years after the establishment of their domicile, or five years after the law comes into force, provided they have been settled seven years in the republic.

The Volksraad approved the amendments, which will be drafted into the bill.

"Absurdly Insufficient."

London, July 10.—According to the Johannesburg correspondent of The Daily Mail, the Uitlanders regard the Transvaal Government's proposals as "absurdedly insufficient."

Two Contrary Opinions.

Cape Town, July 10.—The Hon. W. P. Schreiner, Prime Minister of the Colony of the Cape of Good Hope, says the Cape Government regards the Transvaal's reform proposals as adequate, and calculated to insure a peaceful settlement. The Colonial Premier, however, represents the Afrikander element. Sir John Gordon Sprigg, formerly Prime Minister and Colonial Secretary, who is an ardent Imperialist, considers them totally inadequate to meet the just claims of the Uitlanders, and altogether less than Sir Alfred Milner, Governor of the Colony and British high commissioner for South Africa, demanded of President Kruger at the Bloemfontein conference.

The Crisis Passed.

London, July 10.—The Rome correspondent of The Daily Mail says: "The Pope has been in correspondence with Great Britain, and yesterday he received a despatch from the Transvaal's chief magistrate, declaring that a settlement was still distant, but that the crisis was passed."

Will Prosecute for Treason.

Pretoria, July 10.—The Transvaal Government has decided to prosecute, on the charge of high treason, the three principal defendants whose complicity in the recent attempt to promote a rebellious rising at Johannesburg has been for several weeks under judicial investigation.

Kruger Dallying to Gain Time.

London, July 10.—All the despatches from Cape Town and Johannesburg to the morning papers concur as to the complexity and obscurity of the Boer proposals, and declare that the Uitlanders are profoundly disappointed. In Johannesburg it is believed that President Kruger is only dallying to gain time until the wet season makes campaigning difficult for the Britishers.

IS OTIS DECEIVING UNCLE SAM?

German Advices Indicate That His Despatches From Manila Are Doctored.

Berlin, July 10.—The press comments on the war in the Philippines, and the decision of President McKinley to increase the force of American troops there are not hopeful for American success. The difficulty of the situation is regarded as confirmatory of the views expressed before the rebellion. The Vossische Zeitung makes merry over what it calls Gen. Otis' Napoleonic art of preparing bulletins, and adds: "With negligence of the most obvious facts, he has been reiterating for months that the resistance of the Tagalos was broken, their armies in complete dissolution, and the end of the war in sight." The Deutsche Tages Zeitung prints a letter from a German at Manila complaining of the Americans "destroying the best part of trade and industry in the Philippines, and deceiving their countrymen at home by sending false news."

Having a Dreadful Time.

Manila, July 10.—It has been raining and storming almost constantly for two days, and the country along the American south and bay lines is literally flooded. The soldiers are suffering great discomfort. The 18th Infantry Regiment at Pasay is in the worst position, being practically surrounded by water. In many cases the men are sleeping with three feet of water beneath their bunks, which are elevated on cracker boxes.

Heart Failure.

Hyson—How did the Blank murder case come out?

Foochow—Oh, the woman was cleared of the charge!

Hyson—But how could that be? She shot the man deliberately, and he died instantly, as at least half a dozen persons testified.

Foochow—I know, but the defense had a medical expert. He made a post-mortem examination of the man whom the woman shot, and he declared that it was a case of heart failure.—Boston Transcript.

A Public Church.

Probably the only public church in the world is at Cynthiana, in Posey county, Ind. It does not belong to any certain denomination, but is open to all creeds who desire to hold services there. The church was built by the Wilkinson family, one of the pioneer families of that county.

The church stands about a mile south of Cynthiana. It is a neat little building and will accommodate about 1,000 people. The church is looked after by a board of trustees. Near the church is a cemetery, where all the Wilkinsons are buried in a row. The burial ground is public, and the farmers living in the neighborhood see to it that the place is not neglected. Every spring the farmers lay aside their work for a day and put the old burial ground in good shape.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Dr. A. W. CHASE
DISCOVERED A NEW TREATMENT FOR NERVOUS DISEASES

In his study of diseases of the nerves, Dr. A. W. Chase found that in nearly every case the cause of trouble was improper nourishment. About one-fifth of all the blood in the human body is found in the brain, and unless this blood is rich and pure the nerves cannot obtain proper nourishment, and become worn out and exhausted.

Nervous depression, nervous headache, nervous dyspepsia, loss of sleep and vital force, lack of energy, are symptoms of weak, watery blood and exhausted nerves.

It was as a food for blood and nerves that Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food was prepared. Its remarkable success in curing all diseases arising from thin blood and impoverished nerves is proof that Dr. Chase's theory of feeding the nerves and blood is the proper one; stimulants only urge on the tired and worn out nervous system until there comes a complete collapse.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food creates new brain and nerve cells, and makes the blood pure and rich. It restores to the exhausted nerves the vigor of perfect health. 50c. a large box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

GLEANINGS.

The highest house in Paris has eight stories.

London's record of deaths by violence was 2,814 last year, being 194 above the average of the preceding ten years.

A pearl diver considers it a good day's work if he collects anything over 200 shells. A thousand shells is the record of one day.

Some continental governments make money through lotteries. France raises $4,000,000 last year and Italy secures $2,500,000.

There are three conditions:
When the blood is poor;
When more flesh is needed;
When there is weakness of the throat or lungs.
There is one cure: that is Scott's Emulsion.

It contains the best cod-liver oil emulsified, or digested, and combined with the hypophosphites and glycerine. It promises more prompt relief and more lasting benefit in these cases than can be obtained from the use of any other remedy.

AMONG THE CHURCHES.

GEORGE-ST.

The morning anthem at the George-st church was "Ye Recruits of God," and was very effectively rendered. The evening anthem "I will arise" (Bailey), was nicely sung, the bass solo being taken by Mr. Frank Turner; The duet "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," was excellently sung during the offertory by Misses Clara and Annie Selligham. Rev. Mr. Shorey delivered a very effective address to young people.

ST. PETER'S.

Rev. Father Howell, of Ottawa university, is spending a short vacation at St. Peter's presbytery. He celebrated the Children's mass at 9.15 o'clock yesterday morning.

CHARLOTTE-ST.

The musical services at Charlotte-st. church yesterday were excellent. The anthem for the morning service was "Light of the World," with solo by Miss Hall, and duet by Messrs. A. L. Davis and W. J. Squires. The offertory hymn was "Home at Last." In the evening the anthem "Rock of Ages" (Dudley Buck), was rendered. Mr. A. L. Davis taking the solo. During the offertory Vogrich's arrangement of "Abide With Me," for quartette was sung by Misses Hall and Stephens and Messrs. Squires and Skitch. The unaccompanied parts were particularly good.

ST. LUKE'S.

Rev. E. V. Stevenson preached at St. Luke's church, Ashburnham, last evening. His many friends were glad to have him among them after his trip to England and he was warmly greeted by many. At the morning service Rev. Mr. Symonds delivered the second of his course of sermons on "The Parables of the Kingdom." The Sunday school picnic is being held to-morrow to Jubilee.

Owing to the length of the programme the Army and Navy Veterans were not able to complete their sports and games at their picnic here on July 1st. They were concluded at Toronto on Saturday, but the attendance was not large, only about 50 persons being present.

THE PRINCIPLES OF ORANGEISM

out, nothing narrow in this creed. Orangeism is a guarantee for

RELIGIOUS LIBERTY,

for freedom to worship God according to conscience. There has been an impression, not of recent origin, that Orangeism is directly antagonistic to Roman Catholicism, and that the mission of the society is to suppress it. Its constitution shows that it is not only the enemy of Roman Catholicism, but of all despotism, and while its duty may be to oppose the despotic system of the past, it is bound also to oppose all tyranny.

There is nothing stronger than a religious conviction. Men will for it. The lives of the greatest men have been made beautiful by it. It is God's voice speaking through men. It is God's method of reforming nations and individuals. Such was the power which took hold of William III and enabled him to take up arms and fight for the freedom of the people. The great moving power in his case was a religious conviction. Every society has had a reason or a seeming reason for its existence, but surely Orangeism has had the very best. The laws passed in the parliament of 1688 were oppressive to Protestants. An effort was being made to destroy English Protestantism. This was the time when William III was sent for to defend the faith of the weak and to fight for religious liberty. Whatever may be said as to the uselessness of the society now it was at that time a necessity. The Battle of the Boyne was and the victory was a victory of right over wrong and of liberty over oppression. Christendom is to-day enjoying the benefits won at that battle and perpetuated unto us by the adherents of the same cause. Religion and liberty are sacred things and William III was a Christian hero.

FOR A PRINCIPLE

Rev Mr Crossley expressed the opinion that in the beginning Orangeism made

ONE BIG MISTAKE.

He thought it should have been organized as a great Protestant church. It should not only have defended the faith of Protestantism but should have undertaken the propagation and teaching of that faith. Had the organization taken the form of a church instead of a secret society Protestantism might not now be disunited.

The principles of Orangeism are Christian. They are true and worthy. Every teaching was founded on and consistent with the Word of God. The preacher noted with pleasure that the Grand Lodge had recently passed a resolution strongly in favor of temperance and had made a rule that no man engaged in could become a member. In so doing they have set an example to some of our churches. They have seen that the liquor traffic is not in the interest of the elevation of mankind and thus have put up their own standard by shutting out all those who are contented to live by the liquor traffic. The speaker honored Orangemen more than ever for this action.

He could not say that all Orangemen were model men. He could not say that of all his own church members. But insofar as they live up to the principles and constitution of their order they could not but be worthy men. The standard was improving every year, especially in the virtue of temperance, and he hoped that this growth might continue.

A Thousand Tongues

Could not express the rapture of Annie B. Springer, of 1125 Howard-st., Philadelphia, Pa., when she found that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption had completely cured her of a hacking cough that for many years had made life a burden. All other remedies and doctors could give her no help, but she says of this Royal Cure—"It soon removed the pain in my chest and I can now sleep soundly, something I can scarcely remember doing before. I feel like sounding its praises throughout the universe." So will everyone who tries Dr. King's New Discovery for any trouble of the Throat, Chest or Lungs. Price 50 cents and $1.00. For sale by James Lynch, druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough; every bottle guaranteed.

Held the Whole Road.

People driving in and out on the Chemong road yesterday were greatly annoyed that the men doing the road-work near Milburn's hill had left all their machinery in the middle of the road, so that all drivers had to take the ditch and not a few horses were scared at the sight of the roller and engine. It did not leave the impression that the municipal workers were very thoughtful of the convenience of travellers. The annual exhibition of scientific roadmaking is now going on and some of the work done is sufficient to make the heavens stand aghast.

MAGAPHONE FOR STONY LAKE.

A Means of Communication Which Will Shortly Be Used in a Short Time.

Those who have attended large gatherings, bicycle meets, etc., where it has been used, have noticed the effectiveness of the megaphone in carrying the voice to all parts of a large crowd. The megaphone will carry sound a long distance and deliver the voice clearly and distinctly. This being true no long argument is necessary to convince any one of the usefulness of such an instrument at Stony lake, where islands are so close together, where boats are to be hailed and instructions given or requests made of those some distance across the water. A system of wireless telegraphy is necessary in order to maintain communication and the megaphone steps in and supplies the need.

On the upper lakes the megaphone is used by the steamers to hail and communicate with one another. At Stony lake they can be of great service to the summer residents. You can speak to your next door neighbor, though a wide stretch of water divide you, and ask her over to tea or lay plans for the morrow. You can hail the steamer and tell the captain to call for you to go down in the morning without paddling away out into the channel to talk to the steamer. Then let the fisherman think a minute! What a grand thing the megaphone will be to enable a man to announce to the world the capture of a big lunge. Why the size of the fish can be enlarged in accordance with the size of the circle the voice commands, and the possibilities of growth are simply marvellous. The megaphone will be a great convenience for Stony lake.

Recognizing this The Review experimented, and the result has been the manufacture of a megaphone of unusually fine quality. It is light in weight and most effective in long-distance talking. Already several orders for Stony lake have been received and others are expected. The megaphones are made in the Review bindary and are not expensive. Read the advertisement in another column.

A Grand Address Listened to at Juniper Island.

The summer residents at Stony lake yesterday had the pleasure of listening to an unusually fine discourse when the first service of the season was held at the pavillion at Juniper Island. The address was given by Rev. Dr. Lindsay, of Pittsburg, Pa. It was a talk on "Paul's Journey to Rome." The speaker described Paul as the greatest man who ever lived, not only as a preacher, but as a faithful worker in the cause of Christ, making a beautiful application of Paul's life, work and character as such as all should follow and profit by.

Rev. Dr. Lindsay was at the lake two years ago and then gave one of the finest addresses that it had ever been the privilege of many of his audience to hear. Dr. Lindsay will probably preach again at Juniper Island, and due notice will be given so that all may avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing him.

The Sting Within

It is said there is a rankling thorn in every heart, and yet that none would exchange their own for that of another. Be that as it may, the sting arising from the heart of a corn is real enough, and in this land of tight boots a very common complaint also. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor is a never failing remedy for this kind of heartache, as you can easily prove if afflicted. Cheap, sure, painless. Try the genuine and use no other.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF YUKON CHARGES

WHICH THE GOVERNMENT PREFERRED NOT TO HAVE INVESTIGATED.

A Brief Resume of Sir Hibbert Tupper's Indictments—The Utterances of Two Western Liberal Members on the Charges.

Those of our readers who have not been able to read the whole of Sir Hibbert Tupper's great speech on the Yukon administration will be interested in the following brief summary of his charges against the government and its officials. Sir Hibbert concluded his speech by moving an amendment to the motion to go into committee of supply, to the effect that a judicial commission be appointed to investigate the charges. The amendment was defeated by a party vote but three Liberal members, Mr. Oliver, member for Alberta, Mr. Richardson, member for Lisgar, and Mr. McInnes, member for Vancouver, voted against the government and in favour of investigation.

Mr. Oliver said:—I consider something more than an investigation is needed. I consider that a great wrong has been done to many people who went out as pioneers to that country; and while it may be impossible to redress these wrongs it is not impossible to punish those who perpetrated them. I will vote for the motion of the Hon. member for Pictou, not because I support all that his motion contains or the position he takes in every particular, but because I wish to place before the House and the country, in the most emphatic manner possible, my desire that the officials of the Government should be punished and punished as severely as possible, as the result of any investigation that may be held. I consider that it is necessary to hold an investigation for the credit of the officials as well as for their punishment. All were not guilty and all were not equally guilty, has been proven by the department investigation held by Mr. Ogilvie. It is desirable for the good name of those who did no wrong, that the right should be sifted from the wrong.

Mr. Richardson said: Supposing I refuse to vote for the resolution, how am I to appear before my constituents and the country as supporting the fullest possible investigation into what I am satisfied is wrong-doing. I thought at first of voting against the resolution and then introducing one myself, but after studying the matter over very carefully for nearly twenty-four hours and giving a great deal of worry to it, I have come to the conclusion that it is my duty to vote for the fullest inquiry into the Yukon, and that being the case I propose to vote for this motion.

THE CHARGES.

That the Hon. Clifford Sifton, Minister of the Interior, has been guilty of scandalous neglect, delay and misimanagement in the administration of his department in the Yukon district.

That the commission issued to Major Walsh were made without authority and were consequently void.

That the record of Major Walsh when superintendent of the Mounted Police and the evidence regarding him taken before a board of enquiry was of such a character as should have prevented his re-appointment to a position of trust and responsibility in the Government service.

That H. H. Norwood and J. B. McGregor, the one an uncertificated master of a whaler or small sailing vessel, the other a livery stable keeper, were appointed "inspectors," their duties to consist chiefly of inspecting mining locations and reporting thereon to the Gold Commissioners with a view specially of supervising the collection of dues and the settlement of conflicting claims; and that both were incompetent for the discharge of these duties.

That the Government on the recommendation of Mr. Sifton, appointed certain officials who were incapable and corrupt to positions requiring experience, technical knowledge and integrity of character.

That Mr. Sifton has been guilty of favouritism and partiality in the administration of the laws and regulations of the Yukon.

That according to official returns the following parties obtained leases of gold placer mining or gold dredging areas in the Yukon district: A. E. Philp, said to be of Brandon, for lease of Bonanza Creek; A. E. Philp, said to be of Ottawa, for lease of S. Ford (Stewarts); G. Philp, said to be of London, for lease of B. Salmon; A. E. Philp, said to be of Ottawa, for lease on Indian river or creek; J. A. Philp, said to be of Ottawa, for a lease on Stewart River or Creek. That A. E. Philp and A. D. Cameron were law partners of Mr. Sifton, when he became Minister of the Interior; P. C. Mitchell, said to be of Brandon; and W. L. Parish, said to be of Ottawa, applied for dredging leases in the Yukon, whereas they were residents of Brandon, who first learned of these applications by letter from A. E. Philp, advising them that the leases had been granted in their names and enclosing power of attorney in favour of Philp for them to sign and enable him to dispose of the property. That the return containing the above information also contains the names and addresses of the following, purporting to be applicants for dredging leases: F. Burnett, Vancouver; F. Burnett, Colburne; J. G. Burnett, Edmonton; F. Burnett, Colbourne; Frank Burnett, Brandon. Whereas Burnett was never in Colbourne in his life, but said Philp came from that place. That Philp re-

A Famous Fisherman.

Mr. E. B. Graves, of Rochester, one of the best known members of the Rochester Yacht club, was in town to-day en route from Burgeigh Falls to his home, and was keeping a watchful eye on a box which, he averred, contained 180 pounds of fine bass and maskinonge, the reward of his three days' industrious fishing at the Falls. It was his first visit to the waters of this district and he was in high glee at his success. He thinks Stony lake would be a much better possession than Cuba and the Philippines combined, and he made all arrangements to come back in September. He fished night and day and during meal times, but won a big bet made with some of his Rochester confreres that he would beat the party—which he did with lots to spare.

CAPT. WATKINS OWNS UP.

The Stranding of the Paris Was Due to an Unaccountable Error of His in Calculation.

New York, July 11.—The report of Captain Watkins of the stranding of the American Line steamship Paris was made public yesterday by the Local Board of Steamboat Inspectors. Captain Watkins makes no attempt to evade responsibility for the accident, but, on the contrary, says frankly the stranding of the ship was the result of an unaccountable error on his part. The accident, he says, was not due to any want of thought or anxiety about his vessel, but resulted from a mistake he made in calculating the position of the ship. Captain Watkins is still in charge of the Paris, and is acting in the interests of the underwriters, to whom the ship was turned over by the American Line officials.

License Suspended Two Years.

Attached to Captain Watkins' statement is a report of the United States local inspectors of the steam inspection service. This report concludes as follows: "We are of the opinion that Captain Watkins has not acted with the necessary care and attention requisite in the navigation of his vessel which a master should have used, and we, therefore, suspend his license as master of ocean steamers for a period of two years."

Steamer Portia Wrecked.

Halifax, N. S., July 11.—The Red Cross steamer Portia, from New York, bound to Halifax, with 75 passengers on board, was wrecked last night on Flinn's Island, off Sambro, a point 15 miles to the westward of Halifax. The disaster occurred during a thick fog. Everybody on the steamer, 117 all told, were landed on the island in safety and are being well cared for. The Portia is full of water and will prove a total loss. The passengers are nearly all summer tourists.

Bigamy Case at Chatham.

Chatham, Ont., July 11.—A case of bigamy was set down for hearing before Magistrate Houston, but the defendant failed to appear and his bail is forfeited. Henry Coulson is alleged to have married Bertha Hartford when his legal wife was Nellie Singleton of Highgate. The parties belong to Harwich Township.

Heavy Loss of Timber.

Quebec, July 11.—The exceptionally heavy rains of the last two days broke the boom at the mills of F. K. Gosselin & Fils, Baie St. Paul. The large quantity of logs confined by it were let down to the sea. The loss is estimated at $25,000.

THE REDISTRIBUTION BILL

Passed its Third Reading in the House of Commons.

The Names of the Three Judges Who Will Sub-Divide the Ontario Counties Entitled to More Than One Member Announced by Sir Wilfrid Before the Third Reading—Questions and Answers—Sixty-Nine Bills Assented To.

Ottawa, July 11.—The feature of yesterday's session of the House was the summoning of the Commons to the Senate Chamber by His Excellency the Governor-General, where assent was given to all the bills so far passed this session, 69 in number, and the supply bills for 1898-99 and 1899-1900, amounting to $3,582,654.44 and $6,978,585.79 respectively. The whole ceremony occupied about a quarter of an hour.

The Safety of Ships.

In the Commons, Sir Louis Davies introduced a bill respecting the safety of ships. He explained that the bill gives port wardens power to regulate deck loads with a view to safety, and also extends the time during which summer decks loads may be carried by steamships to Oct. 12, the present limit being Oct. 1.

The Alaska Boundary.

Col. Prior called attention to a newspaper report that the Alaska boundary negotiations were practically off and the blame, as usual, was thrown on Canada.

The Premier said he had already denied reports of this kind several times, and did not believe there was any more truth in this rumor than in those already contradicted.

Preston Still on Deck.

Mr. Davin asked if Mr. W. T. R. Preston was still in the employ of the Government.

Hon. Mr. Sifton—He is.

Who the Judges Are.

On the redistribution bill being reached, instead of the third reading being moved, the Government took it back into committee for the purpose of amending it, and in so doing, the Premier fulfilled his promise of naming the judges who will act as commissioners in subdividing counties entitled to more than one representative. They are Chief Justice Sir G. W. Burton, Chancellor Sir J. A. Boyd and Mr. Justice Falconbridge.

St. John's Representation.

Sir Louis Davies introduced an amendment designed to make it perfectly clear that the city of St. John, N.B., should elect one member, and the County of St. John one member. Up to the present the city has elected one member and the city-county, voting together, another.

A long discussion followed, which lasted until nearly 10 o'clock, and in which Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Messrs. Ellis, Powell, Costigan, Wallace, Hughes and others joined. The Conservatives held that it was unfair that 30,000 Conservatives in the city of St. John should have no more representation than 11,000 Liberals in the county, and that it would be more equitable to give the city and county two members. The amendment was, however, finally carried.

Redistribution Bill Passed.

After some further discussion and some slight amendments in the Quebec clauses, the redistribution bill was read a third time and passed.

The Militia Estimates.

The House then went into committee of supply, taking up the militia items.

Sir Charles Tupper expressed satisfaction with the increase in the vote, but criticised the policy of the Government in sending any part of the permanent force to the Yukon.

Hon. Dr. Borden defended the action of the Government in sending in the military force when it did, but made the important announcement that it was intended one-half of the force should be withdrawn as speedily as possible.

The House was still in supply at 2 o'clock on militia items, which will probably not pass before morning.

The Costs Are $12,000.

Ottawa, July 11.—The big law suit of Alexander Fraser v. the Hull Lumber Company and the Hull Lumber Company v. Alexander Fraser, in which some $65,000 was involved, has been settled out of court by the Hull Lumber Company paying the costs since the institution of the action, and Mr. Fraser retaining his possession of the property obtained by him through a former judgment. The property includes part of Table Rock. The costs since the action was started are some $12,000.

Fell 45 Feet to Death.

Toronto, July 11.—Thomas Williams, a bricklayer's laborer, fell 45 feet yesterday morning and died four hours after in the Emergency Hospital from the terrible injuries he received. He was working on the building now being erected on East Front street for Messrs. Gowans, Kent & Co.

Ocean Record Cut.

New York, July 11.—A cable announces that the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse arrived at Cherbourg at 2.45 yesterday afternoon in the record-breaking time of 5 days 20 hours and 55 minutes.

SENATOR SANFORD DROWNED

Accident Occurred in Sight of His Summer Home.

He Had Been Out Fishing, and While Fixing the Anchor Lost His Balance and Capsized the Boat—Miss Dowry Attempted to Save the Senator's Life, But Without Avail—Body Found—The Senator's Career.

Windermere, Muskoka, July 11.—Hon. W. E. Sanford of Hamilton was drowned yesterday morning while out fishing near his own island, in company with Miss Dowry. It appears that Senator Sanford found some difficulty in lifting the anchor of his boat, and was about to leave it, when, turning round, he lost his balance, upsetting the boat, precipitating both himself and Miss Dowry into the water. Miss Dowry caught a lifeboll, which the Senator made a practice of carrying with him, holding herself up and tried to hold the Senator. Losing her hold, the Senator sank and only rose twice. On hearing the cries for help, Miss Knight, a domestic in his employ, went to the spot, and rescued the lady, but could see nothing of the Senator. Taking Miss Dowry to shore, about 100 yards, she got her sister and returned.

The Body Found.

They found the Senator in a standing position, with his hands placed on a rock, his head about 18 inches under water, and about six feet from shore. They raised the body and took it to shore, and went to Mr. Baker's, on Florence Island, for help. All the men on the island were away gathering moss for the Senator. Mr. Baker at once rowed to Mr. T. Eaton's. He immediately got out his yacht and came for Dr. Cotton.

Dr. Arrived Too Late.

Dr. Cotton, on arriving, found it was too late to render any assistance, and his employer had already worked for some time trying to resuscitate him. The Senator's body was supposed not to have been in the water more than half an hour.

Mrs. Sanford and her two daughters are at present in Germany, and were about to sail for Canada and spend some time at their island. Mrs. Jackson Sanford and some other friends were visiting the Senator.

His yacht has left for Gravenhurst, where it will meet an embalmer from Toronto. The remains will be taken to Hamilton to-day for burial.

The Dead Senator's Career.

Hon. William Eli Sanford was born in New York City in 1840. At the age of 6 he was an orphan, and came to Hamilton, where his maternal uncle, the late Edward Jackson, then the leading citizen of Hamilton and its most liberal philanthropist, took care of him and reared him as his own son. His boyhood and school days were spent in the Ambitious City, after which he entered the publishing house of Farmer, Bruce & Co., New York. After residing in New York for six years he returned to Hamilton, married his cousin, Miss Jackson, and entered into partnership with Murray, Henderson & Edward Jackson, in a large foundry business in London, Ont. On the death of his wife, however, which occurred a few months later, he retired from this venture and returned to Hamilton and engaged extensively and successfully in the wool trade, and so well known did he become as a wool merchant that he earned the sobriquet of the "Wool King of Canada." In 1861 Mr. Sanford entered into business with Alexander McInnes in the wholesale manufacture of clothing, with a capital of only $20,000. This partnership existed for ten years, when Mr. McInnes withdrew. Mr. Sanford continued as the head of the W. E. Sanford Manufacturing Company. Mr. Sanford was greatly interested in industries having for their aim the development of Canada's resources. He was one of the projectors and vice-president of the Manitoba & Northwestern Railway Company. He was a past-president of the Hamilton Board of Trade. For years he was vice-president of the Hamilton Provident Bank. He owned 60,000 acres of arable land near Portage la Prairie, Manitoba, on which he had established a cattle ranch. TUESDAY, JULY 11, 1899.

THE "machine" must go.

THE latest reports do not bring any news of an investigation into the West Elgin frauds or any effort on the part of the Government to punish the guilty ones.

THE Kingston Whig refers to Sir Charles Tupper's loyalty as "shoddy goods." Sir Charles Tupper's life record gives all the answer necessary to such an ill-conceived and partisan reference. "Shoddy loyalty" if it exists is among the men and party who fought for commercial union and were in league with Farrar, et al.

SINCERE and general will be the regret and sorrow felt throughout Ontario and, in fact, Canada at the sad death of Senator Sanford. More especially will he be mourned by the Conservative party, of whose ranks he was a staunch and respected member. He was a Conservative on principle, believing that the trade policy of that party was the best policy for Canada, the policy that promised to build up the Dominion as a nation. He was imbued with Canadianism and was therefore a man useful and valuable to his country. His death will be deplored in all ranks.

A SERIES of experiments in the production of calcium carbide was recently conducted at the Armour Institute, Chicago, by Prof. Freeman, according to an exchange. An apparatus of special adaptation for the purpose was employed, viz., a huge arc lamp inclosed in firebrick in the interior of a furnace—the upper electrode was hollow, and through it was fed a powder composed of 60 per cent. of common lime and 40 per cent. of coke; this powder, being carried through the upper carbon or electrode directly into the electric flame, it was melted by the intense heat, producing a light so brilliant as to render it impossible to gaze on it without protecting the eyes with dark-colored glasses; all the power of the electric plant of the institute was turned into the electrodes, and calcium carbide in a molten state ran away from the machine. It was estimated that the carbide was produced at a cost of half a cent per pound, which is important indeed, chemists and electricians having long been at work endeavoring to cheapen the process of making calcium carbide, as on this point depends, of course, the cheapness of acetylene gas. According to Prof. Freeman, the great gain indicated in the above experiments was the continuous production of carbide—in a word, the demonstration that it can be produced continuously by feeding the ground lime and carbon into the furnace.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver, of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters'; and, to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50cts. a bottle, every bottle guaranteed. FROM BERLIN.

Confirmation from the German Settlement as to the Value of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Andrew Hauss Writes a Second Letter Which Confirms the First—Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Him and He is Satisfied.

Berlin, July 10.—Andrew Hauss, of this town, received a letter recently from a party in Toronto asking whether it was true that he was cured of backache and kidney disease some time ago by the aid of Dodd's Kidney Pills. His cure and statement were published and Mr. Hauss' first letter read as follows:—

Berlin, Jan. 12, 1898.

Dear Sirs,—I have been troubled with a pain in my back and kidneys for a year. I tried everything that I could get to rub with, or to take inwardly, but could not be relieved from it. One day while in conversation with a friend, he advised me to take Dodd's Kidney Pills, which I did, and got better from the time I started to take them, when I had taken one box I was perfectly cured. I am sincere in saying that Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me, for which I cannot be too thankful.

ANDREW HAUSS.

Mr. Hauss is still of the same opinion—that Dodd's Kidney Pills are a sure cure for backache and kidney trouble. He himself has never had a return of those complaints and he has several times advised others suffering similarly to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. In every one of such cases a complete cure has resulted.

Mr. Hauss has no doubt, but that besides backache, Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure the other symptoms of Diseased Kidneys—Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Rheumatism, Heart Disease, Urinary and Bladder Complaints, Dropsy, Nervousness, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Blood Impurities and Female Weakness.

His recent letter written to the Toronto enquirer who asked about his cure by Dodd's Kidney Pills, reads as follows:—

Berlin, June 19, 1899.

Dear Sirs,—I am pleased to say I am cured entirely through taking Dodd's Kidney Pills as stated.

Yours truly,

ANDREW HAUSS.

The Difference.

"Pa, what's the difference between talent and genius?"

"A man with talent is able to built for himself the finest monument in the country. The public usually has to provide the monument for a genius."—Boston Journal.

tures, Mr. Sanford was widely known throughout Canada in political, philanthropic, social and church circles. For years he had been a staunch supporter of the party of progress. In 1887 he was made a Senator. He was a near associate of the late Sir John Thompson. In 1894 he was in London, and was negotiating a trade treaty with Cecil Rhodes of Cape Colony, when Sir John Thompson was stricken dead at Windsor Castle. He accompanied the remains home to Canada on H.M.S. Blenheim, and this, together with his attentions to the body of the deceased statesman at Windsor Castle, brought him into much prominence. He gave largely to philanthropic objects, and education ever found in him a sturdy friend. He was president of the Hamilton Ladies' College, when Dr. Burns was principal. He was on the board of regents of Victoria University. He was lay treasurer of the educational fund of the Methodist body in Canada. In social life Senator Sanford was affable in manner, courteous and gentlemanly, and was always the reigning spirit of the company in which he was found. He was a member of the Hamilton Club, the Albany Club and the Rideau Club. In religion he was an active member of the Methodist Church. In all his charities and benefactions—and they were legion—he was heartily aided by Mrs. Sanford, to whom he was married in 1866, and who, is the youngest daughter of the late Thomas Vaux of the House of Commons. Mrs. Sanford and her two daughters, one recently married to Capt. Tudor, an English officer, whose appointment to Halifax was but a day ago received, are in Europe. The deceased had but one son, H. Jackson Sanford, B.A., who died a few years ago. He was reputed to be a multi-millionaire. He had $120,000 insurance on his life. The policies were but recently taken out.

The Senate Adjourns.

Ottawa, July 11.—In the Senate yesterday afternoon Sir Mackenzie Bowell said it was his sad duty to draw the attention of the Senate to a telegram which had been received by a member of the House of Commons containing the news of Senator Sanford's death. Information of this kind is of a very sad character. "Those who have known the Senator as he had would regret the sudden ending of his life. He had been amongst them many years and was best known as one of the most active members of the Senate. He was known also by his charities and gifts of benevolence. He hardly knew of a man who would be more missed than Senator Sanford. His business was of an enormous extent, and he was just building new warehouses. Under the circumstances, he did not know that they could pay a greater mark of respect to his memory than to move the adjournment of the House.

Hon. David Mills said that it was with very great regret he had read the telegram addressed to Mr. Ross Robertson from his Toronto office. He agreed with everything Sir Mackenzie Bowell had said. Senator Sanford was a most useful member of the Senate. He was a man held in the highest esteem, a man of great patience, of broad views and wide sympathy, and would certainly be greatly missed in the community. His business was continually growing. He was a thorough master of it and managed it with constant skill. He thoroughly agreed with Sir Mackenzie Bowell that the Senate should adjourn out of respect to the late Senator.

And the Senate then adjourned.

The News at Hamilton.

Hamilton, July 11.—Feelings of great regret are being expressed on all sides here at the sudden death by drowning of Senator Sanford. The Senator had more personal friends, perhaps, than any man in Hamilton. His death means a big loss to Hamilton. Over 1,000 persons are employed, directly or indirectly, by his firm. The big factory was closed down soon after the news was received. Flags are half-mast on all the public buildings.

At a meeting of St. George's Society last evening a resolution of deep regret was passed, although the deceased was not a member of the society.

The City Council also passed a resolution of condolence to the Senator's wife and family.

Messrs. Joseph Green and George Sweet of the Sanford Manufacturing Company, left yesterday afternoon for Windermere, to arrange for the bringing of the remains to this city.

General Regret at Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, July 11.—There is general regret here over the sad drowning of Senator Sanford.

TALKING COALITION.

Premier Semlin of British Columbia Agrees to Abandon His Policy to Save an Appeal to the Electors.

Victoria, B.C., July 11.—The following appeared in The Globe yesterday afternoon:

"The Globe is in a position to announce that arrangements have almost been perfected for a coalition between the Opposition and the Government, which arrangement will obviate the necessity of a general election.

"Unless all present plans should be changed, Mr. Martin's successor will be H. D. Helmcken, Q.C., senior member for Victoria city.

"Two other members of the Opposition will be given portfolios also, but just who these gentlemen will be has not yet been finally decided.

"Messrs. Semlin and Cotton will remain in the Government.

"One important feature of the negotiations, which have reached a stage warranting this announcement, is the fact that Messrs. Semlin and Cotton have agreed to the demands of the Opposition that one of the conditions of the coalition shall be a change of policy. The eight-hour law affecting the miners, and anti-alien legislation will be repealed, and there will also be a general change in the policy pursued by the Semlin Administration since it assumed office."

CONSERVATIVE PLATFORM.

Manitoba Conservatives Adopt Four Good Planks in Convention.

Winnipeg, July 11.—Every constituency is represented in the Provincial (Conservative) Convention here last night.

Hugh John Macdonald presides over the enthusiastic gathering. The following planks in the platform were adopted:

1. The alarming condition of the finances demands the introduction of such measures of economy as will re-establish the equilibrium between receipts and expenditures.
2. That the number of salaried Ministers be reduced to three, two Ministers without portfolio being added for purposes of consultation.
3. That the indemnity of members be reduced to $400.
4. That the present iniquitous franchise law be repealed, and that an equitable act, based on the principle of manhood suffrage and one man one vote, be enacted.

The convention did not close till after midnight. Their platform is Government control of rates, specified in all future charters granted to railways, and options of franchises, or future options of railways.

ANOTHER FASHODA AFFAIR.

The Newfoundland Trouble More Serious Than Anticipated.

St. John's, Nfld., July 11.—The Colonial authorities are understood to have been informed that the report of the royal commission of inquiry into the French shore complications is withheld for the present by the British Colonial Office, because it so strongly endorses the case of Newfoundland that its publication would provoke another Fashoda difficulty. Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, the Imperial Secretary of State for the Colonies, has, however, "determined to force the French to abandon their arrogant pretensions on the coast before another season opens."

Laurentian's Carpenter Drowned.

Quebec, July 11.—Mr. M. Finlayson, the carpenter of the steamship Laurentian, on her way down from Montreal, on Saturday, accidentally fell overboard and was drowned.

Aguinaldo Will Not Give Up.

Madrid July 11.—Aguinaldo, according to a despatch from Manila, refuses to liberate the Spanish military prisoners in the hands of the Filipinos

Five Artillerymen Killed.

Pretoria, July 11.—Five artillerymen were killed yesterday by the explosion of a powder magazine in Maxatoland.

CANADA HAS BEEN WARNED.

This Country Must Come Down Off the Perch or Our Motherland Will Give Us a Spanking.

New York, July 11.—A Washington despatch to The Press says that England has warned Canada to lessen her demands in regard to the Alaskan boundary, owing to the danger of a serious difficulty between the American miners and the Canadian officials.

Still Hope.

London, July 11.—There is still hope for an agreement on the Alaskan boundary question. An official of the Colonial Office said yesterday that he expected a modus vivendi would be arranged.

May Not Meet Again.

Washington, July 11.—Unless Senator Fairbanks, while in Alaska, succeeded in finding a satisfactory solution of the vexed boundary question and brings with him the materials for the arrangement of a modus vivendi, the joint high commission will not meet in August.

It is conjectured here that the Senator, though himself a member of the commission, has, during his Alaskan trip, been unable to acquaint himself with the unsatisfactory state of the negotiations between Mr. Choate and Lord Salisbury, respecting the arrangement of a modus. At any rate, it is stated here that there has been no change in the status of the case, and no communication from Mr. Choate that would tend to encourage the hope that the high joint conference can reconvene in Quebec, Aug. 2, to which date the adjournment was had at the last meeting.

PACIFIC CABLE COST.

Australasia Shoulders Eight-Eighteenths, Britain and Canada Dividing the Balance.

London, July 11.—The Daily Mail says this morning: "It has been agreed that Australasia shall bear 8-18 of the cost of the Pacific cable, and Great Britain and Canada each 5-18."

GIVES NO PREFERENCE.

Provisional Reciprocity Treaty With the U.S. Concluded for Jamaica.

London, July 11.—In the House of Commons yesterday the Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, answering a question on the subject of the Jamaica situation, said a provisional reciprocity convention had been made with the United States in behalf of Jamaica. The convention gives no privileges or preference to American goods over British goods.

The Irish Cried Shame.

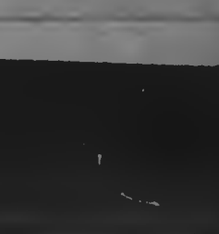
The Under Secretary of State for the War Office, Mr. George Wyndham, replying to a question of Mr. Michael Davitt, Irish Nationalist member for South Mayo, in the House of Commons yesterday, acknowledged that bullets similar to the dumdum bullets, which were condemned at The Hague peace conference, were being supplied to the British troops in South Africa. The statement was greeted with loud Irish cries of "Shame!"

MONACO WILL NOT FIGHT.

He Says Castellane Is His Inferior and a Bogus Count.

New York, July 11.—A Paris despatch to The Evening Journal says the Prince of Monaco, who has just returned from a sea voyage, has declined to fight a duel with Count Castellane on account of the Dreyfus affair. In his reply to Castellane's recent insulting letter, the Prince openly gives as his reason for the declination the fact that Castellane is a person inferior to his station. He says he has reason to believe that Castellane has assumed the title of Count when he is not entitled to it. Monaco says that in the circumstances the challenge from Castellane is an impertinence and is not entitled to notice.

The next step below bronchitis is consumption. It is near the bottom on the down-grade hill of disease. The symptoms of bronchitis are tightness in the chest, difficult breathing, soreness; darting, sharp, or dull and heavy pains, or a prickly, distressing sensation, accompanied usually by a nagging cough and expectoration. There is no cure for bronchitis, or for sore throat and weak and bleeding lungs, unless the blood is purified. Those ailments will last as long as the blood remains thin and weak until the stomach is put in proper shape to make good blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the safest and surest remedy for all the persistent, aggravating, wasting diseases of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs that come in advance of consumption. With it the sufferer can face about the other way, and mount upward on the steps of health. It is a tonic, and creates hunger. It is an aid to digestion, and helps the weak stomach to do its work properly. It brings about the proper assimilation of food, and thus makes the blood pure. As the pure blood courses through the veins, all the microbes and impurities disappear, and with them the diseases which they cause. Don't take substitutes when the dealer offers them. Substitutes for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery are not to be depended upon. They may contain alcohol or morphine. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains neither. It is a temperance remedy, and creates no desire for strong drink or narcotics.



"I had long been a sufferer from chronic catarrh of the head," says Chas. T. Stone, Esq., of Whitford, Chester Co., Pa. "It finally developed into a very disagreeable and hacking cough, with soreness and fullness of the chest. Doctors here pronounced it bronchitis. I tried several doctors and took different remedies without receiving any benefit whatever. I then wrote Dr. R. V. Pierce in reference to my case. The first bottle of his 'Golden Medical Discovery' stopped the cough. I used several bottles, with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and have since had no symptoms of a return of the cough."

Nearly everybody is more or less constipated, and thus subject to the endless chain of troubles that stubborn bowels cause. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation and biliousness quickly, without griping.

OUR SPECIAL OTTAWA LETTER

A RESUME OF LAST WEEK'S BUSINESS AT THE CAPITAL.

How Elections are Won—Parliament will Investigate the Threshing Machine—The Transferor and the Yukon Scandals—The Redistribution Bill—What the Senate is Doing.

Special Correspondence of the Review.

Ottawa, July 8.—The past week at Ottawa has not been uneventful. The end of the Yukon charges was not reached when Parliament voted down Sir Hibbbert Tupper's motion asking for a judicial enquiry into the Yukon scandals. The London Times is a great force in the world. Tho' far removed from Canadian political influence, it is well informed on Yukon matters. Miss Flora Shaw, the colonial editor, visited the Yukon last year and gave the world the results of her inquiry into official management there. These unpleasant disclosures made a strong impression in England at the time. Now that the Government has refused further investigation the Times returns to a discussion of the subject—saying that the Canadian government has made "a rather serious mistake." The Times goes on to declare that the facts stated by its own special writer "were sufficient to prove that the administration was surprisingly bad and that a searching investigation by competent and impartial commissioners was required." It holds that Mr. Cyllvie has not the qualifications for this work, and speaking of Sir Hibbert's charges expressed regret that the Laurier government should have treated a matter so serious as a party question. In conclusion the Times affirms that "the government would have been better advised had they shown a deeper sense of the serious character of the charge and the necessity of meeting it."

THE "TIMES" IN PARLIAMENT.

All this has become a part of the record of Parliament, for Mr. Davin read in the House on Friday the Times' article and pointed out that the course adopted by Parliament had cast discredit on the Government not only in Canada, but in the mother country, and in all countries where the London Times is read. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Sifton replied that the Times was not well informed, and contended that the Government was doing all that was necessary in the way of investigation. The premier recalled the fact that the Times was mistaken once when it made charges against Parnell, and claimed that it was equally in error in this case. Mr. Sifton again challenged opposition members to make charges against him, and promised that if they should do so they would get all the investigation they liked. No one repeated Sir Charles Hibbert's mistake of taking the Ministers at their word, but the leader of the opposition offered a few remarks. He observed that the Times appeared to be well informed and had summed up the situation exactly. The Government had invited charges and had got them. By refusing investigation the Ministers pleaded guilty to the indictment, and a repetition of these blatant challenges would not blind this country to the fact. Sir Charles turned against the premier Sir Wilfrid's reference to Parnell. It was true, he said, that the Times was wrong about the Irish leader, but Parnell did not shirk a judicial inquiry. He courted it. Why? Because he knew he was not guilty. He could afford to challenge inquiry and stand by his challenge. If the Canadian Ministers were in that position we should have had a commission of judges long ago. Having refused such an inquiry they will be held to be guilty of everything that has been charged against them. Such was the view strongly expressed by Sir Charles Tupper and other opposition members who spoke in the debate.

A BYE ELECTION ENQUIRY.

It is not more than once in a parliament that the House of Commons exercises its right to summon any one to appear at the bar. This was done on Friday of this week when the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery was asked to attend. Mr. Chapleau was not accused of wrong-doing but was asked to appear with the records of the bye elections in West Huron and Brockville, the first of which took place in February and the other in April of this year. Both constituencies returned government supporters, and Mr. Comstock, of Brockville, who was elected after the House met, and captured a seat from the Conservatives, received an ovation from his party when he made his first appearance in the Chamber. Information has been received that extensive election frauds took place in these two contests, including the stuffing of ballot boxes and the stealing of ballots. The election officers are regarded as servants of Parliament, and Mr. Borden, of Halifax, on Thursday moved that the records be produced, and on Friday followed this with a motion that the Committee of Privileges and Elections be instructed to enquire into the conduct of all officials concerned in the two elections. In doing so he gave the grounds for the demand.

THE ELECTION FRAUDS.

In regard to the West Huron contest Mr. Borden produced a bundle of affidavits of 48 voters who made solemn declaratioin that they voted for the Conservative candidate at Poll No. 4 in the Township of Colborne. The returning officer of the poll had reported only 20 votes for this candidate. There is a greater shortage in one of the polls in the town of Goderich. Mr. Borden wants to find out what became of the lost ballots. He also wants to learn where certain marked ballots came from which have been found at Brockville and Huron, and thinks it is worth while to learn why one officer refused to seal the ballot box, why another was found the night before the election talking with a campaign heeler and handling a ballot, and how it happened that canvassers were circulating marked official ballots outside the booth all election day at Brockville. These questions, he thinks, are especially pertinent just now after the West Elgin exposures.

THE THRESHER DISCUSSED.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier did not refuse Borden's request. He objected to some of the proceedings and criticised Borden's tone, but did not oppose the motion. Sir Charles Tupper congratulated the premier on the conclusion he had reached that he could not afford to refuse this inquiry. After dwelling upon the operations of the machine and using some strong language of his own Sir Charles quoted still stronger words used in other days by Sir Richard Cartwright. The Minister in one of his inspired moments had said that the balance of power was in the hands of corrupt voters, adding: "the only practical difficulty in the way of a party in power and having sufficient money is simply the difficulty of bringing these corrupt means into direct and actual contact with the great masses of the electors."

This "Mechanical difficulty" has, according to Sir Charles, been over come by the "machine" whose operations have recently come to light. Sir Richard appeared to be rather amused over the tributes paid by Sir Charles to his prophetic gift. He remarked, following Carlyle, that the appearance of Sir Charles in his present attitude was "a sight to make angels and jackasses weep." "I do not see the angel," said Sir Charles, scrutinizing Sir Richard through his glasses.

After Mr. Casey had declared that he still had confidence in Mr. Macnish and would vote for him again, Dr. Sproule gave some account of the operation of the "Threshing Machine" in the bye election which returned Mr. Paterson, the Minister of Customs. He told how in another contest the gang voted a colony of Indians, then took them home stripped off their clothes, put them on the squaws and voted them all over again.

THE ALLEGED GERRYMANDER.

The redistribution bill has had its second reading and got through committee at one o'clock Saturday morning. The character of the measure has already been pretty fully discussed in these letters. The opposition members from Ontario did not mince matters in their contemptuous criticism of the measure. They protested once more that it did not carry out the pretence on which it was introduced "out of due season." It professes to restore county boundaries but leaves them broken as often as it restores them. While professing to be equitable it gives two seats to one county with fewer inhabitants than another which is allowed but one member. It establishes single member seats as small as 10,000 population and as large as 40,000. It breaks up a double seat in Toronto to establish single seats, and joins single seats in Prince Edward Island to make double constituencies. Professing to undo the work of the representation bill of 1892, it cuts up constituencies which have stood fifty years, and abolishes others which have stood for a generation. All these and many more charges were made in the House and in Committee against the bill.

THEY WILL NOT TOUCH IT.

The Opposition members refused to propose a single amendment to the measure. They believe that there is only one time to rearrange the seats and that is right after the census. They hold that the measure now before the House is contrary to the spirit and probably to the letter of the constitution. They refuse, therefore, to have any part or lot in the transaction, and will not consent to it even to the extent of suggesting an amendment. The only changes made in committee was the addition of one member to Toronto, and the substraction of one from Kent, Ontario, and a few in Quebec. The motion for the second reading was carried by a majority of 36, or much less than the regular majority. It was a straight party vote so far as it went but a number of government supporters were absent without pairs.

THE DRUMMOND COMBINATION.

At the beginning of the week Mr Blair's contracts with the Grand Trunk and Drummond Counties railway companies were brought up in the Senate, one by the Minister of Justice, the other by the Secretary of State. It soon became manifest that the measures would not go through in their present shape, especially the clause binding the government for ninety-nine years to come to deliver to the Grand Trunk in preference to any other line, all unconsigned freight originating on the Intercolonial and destined for points west of Montreal reached by the Grand Trunk and its connections. This is condemned as a perpetual servitude of the Intercolonial, binding the hands of its management for the future to a control that may be inconvenient and even fatal. The Government at length offered a compromise. Those senators who have opposed the bill and who have since its first rejection secured amendments by which it is claimed millions have been saved to the country believe that the measure is still improvident and that the Grand Trunk has the best of the bargain. The fate of the bill will be decided next week. It is safe to say that the Grand Trunk corporation must concede something more if the bill is to become law. In any case it is likely to be opposed to the last by a considerable number of senators.

A GROWING TEMB.

The Minister of Militia is involved in a grave difficulty. Last year when he sent his 200 soldiers to the Klondike he bought over $30,000 worth of supplies from Bate & Co., a prominent and generous Liberal firm in Ottawa. As the supplies were bought without tender, and as the prices appeared to be higher with freight added than the goods should cost on the Pacific coast, Mr. Earle, one of the British Columbia members, wanted to know about it. Mr. Borden explained that Mr. Bate had agreed to pay freight to Vancouver. That was last spring. The other day the accounts were before the House and Mr. Earle pointed out that Mr. Borden had paid $2,300 freight on these goods from Ottawa to Vancouver. Mr. Borden said he could not understand it himself. He promises to explain when he finds out how it happened. In the meantime the money has been paid to the Bate firm apparently without question.

A Well Known Farmer

Of New Glasgow, P.Q., Says:

"Paine's Celery Compound Saved My Life."

Mr. Dunbar Had Been a Sufferer for Fifteen Years.

Hospital Treatment and Patent Medicines Failed to Cure Him.

Six Bottles of Paine's Celery Compound Made Him a New Man.

Wells & Richardson Co., Montreal.

Gentlemen:—After fifteen years of terrible sufferings from that most miserable of all troubles, dyspepsia, I have been completely cured by Paine's Celery Compound, and I am delighted to make my experience known for the good of sufferers who have not yet found the great dispepsia banisher.

During my long years of agony, doctors in St. Jerome and St. Liu prescribed for me and attended me, and for a time I was in the Montreal Hospital, but all the best medical aid failed to meet my case. I had also used a great many patent medicines, but they failed to give the results they promised.

A friend who had successfully used your Paine's Celery Compound advised me to give it a trial, and I now thank Heaven for my deliverance from a slow death. After using six bottles of your wonderful medicine I am perfectly cured, feel younger, stronger and more active; I can sleep, eat and do all my work now with pleasure. Paine's Celery Compound certainly saved my life.

Yours sincerely,
JOHN DUNBAR,
New Glasgow, P.Q.

REVIEWS.

The July number of Harper's is especially interesting for the unusual number of short stories it contains, and in this respect is admirably suited to summer readers. Israel Zangwilli contributed "Transitionah" a touching story of how a little Jewess renounced her Christian lover for her father's sake. "The Wrath of the Zuyder Zee," by Thomas A. Janvier, is in many respects the best of Mr. Janvier's short stories. Frederic Remington is both the author and the illustrator of "The Hour of the Troop." "Matilda's Address Book," by Margaret Sutton Brimoe, illustrated by A. B. Frost, is one of the most entertaining features of "The Drawer." Jessie Van Zile Belden contributes "Not on the Passenger List," and Wolcott Le Clear Beard tells a pathetic story of a telegraph operator in a rough Western town.

Children Cry for CASTORIA.

A SONG FOR CANADA.

Oh! gather, sons and daughters of the beauty of the North;
Oh! gather, men and women, for the nation bids you forth!
Your Canada demands it; you, her children, are you true,
Are you faithful to the Empire and the old Red, White and Blue?
Some are boasting no true Briton ever wears the Maple Leaf;
Some would set the hardy Beaver on to fight his Lion Chief.
Let them hear our proud defiance—they may dry Niagara's flood
Ere our land forgets the Name for which our fathers shed their blood!

Let them say there's not a Briton in our dear Canadian home,
But the bond of blood is stronger than the barrier of foam;
A thousand leagues may separate—a thousand ties will bind
Till the brotherhood of Britain is the glory of mankind.
We cannot and we will not have our Canada disclaim
Her portion in the Empire, in the Flag, the Roll of Fame;
Britain leads among the nations, she will set the people free,
She will march to man's redemption, but she needs the Maple Tree.

They would pilfer his allegiance from the strong Canadian heart,
And bargain for his heritage with diplomatic art;
They would hew our stately Maple into splinters in their spite
Till they left no branch in Canada to bear her emblem bright.
But her forests are not wider than the race of patriot sons
That will bless her, every acre, where grass grows or water runs,
That will love her, live and work for her, and die for her at last,
And sleep beneath her maples with the heroes of the past.

Let folly fill the shallow heart that lays his birthright down;
Confusion take the hollow heart disloyal to the Crown!
There's no excuse of vicious king or monarch led astray
To justify the traitor to the world's best hope to-day..
For England, mother England, still fights hard for right to be,
Her glittering Crown the symbol yet of valient men and free.
Look, fellow Britons, look and judge what alien banners are,
For a brighter flag than England's you must seek another star!

Then rise and reign, Dominion fair, between the world-wide seas;
White Peace her mighty pinion spreads to cherish your decrees;
Strong as the North your sons go forth with Freedom for their dower,
To guard from blame your name and fame, to build you like a tower.
No destiny will daunt them, no adversity dismay,
The King of kings will grant them wisdom with the power they sway;
And while their pride to Britain turns—the Empire of the Free—
For Canada their loyal love, their heart's desire shall be!

—Albert E. S. Smythe.

AN OLD SAND CLOCK.

It Used to Mark Time in Olden Times Before Clocks and Watches Had Been Invented.

It is very easy for us who have watches and clocks to tell the time of day or to note the passage of the minutes, but in the olden time, before the invention of clocks and watches, there were others just as important to their owners, if not quite as accurate as ours. At first the ancients had sun-dials, by which it was easy to tell the hour of the day by the shadow that they cast. In the night time this was impossible, and so water clocks and sand clocks were invented. The water clock was nothing more than a vessel of water with a small hole in the bottom through which the water leaked away. An upright rod in the vessel was marked by the hours registered on the sun-dial in such a way that as the water flowed out the figures remaining above water showed how many hours had passed since it was filled. But this was rather inconvenient, for the vessel had to be refilled every day, and it was rather a damp clock at best, not well adapted to stand on the mantelpiece. Working on the principle used in it of reckoning the time by the amount of space left empty, the idea of using sand, the most fluid of solids, was reached. This was not allowed to run away, but merely passed through a minute hole from one glass to the other. In the National Museum of Germany is one of the oldest of these sand clocks, dating from the year 1600. It was intended to mark each quarter of the hour, for on the first hour glass the figure one-quarter showed that when all of its sand had passed downward 15 minutes were past. The second was marked two-four; it was a half-hour glass. The third was marked three-four, making the last a real hour glass. All the difference between the four glasses lies in the amount of sand being increased by the amount in the first one in each succeeding glass.

Iron Felt.

A new insulating material known as iron felt, and made in Germany, is being extensively used in Europe for a number of purposes. For the prevention of vibration it is said to be quite successful, and it is placed between engines and their foundations and also between rails and sleepers. It consists of the larger and stouter woollen fibres treated with a by-product of petroleum and then coated with gelatine and India rubber and vulcanised. After pressure it is used in the form of plates somewhat over two square feet in area, and from one-half to two inches in thickness. The plates are said to be extremely elastic and imperishable, and have a surface so hard as not to be cut by the sharp edges of bolt-heads or iron girders.—Public Opinion.

THE SAD DEATH OF WILL MOORE.

HE WAS ONLY A FEW MINUTES FROM CAMP WHEN THE ACCIDENT OCCURRED.

He Started Once and Returned to Have His Photograph Taken—The Funeral Was an Unusually Large One—A Peculiarly Sad Case.

There is but little more to chronicle regarding the sad death by drowning of Mr. Will Moore than was told in these columns yesterday, the reports of people from the lake—and the fatality has been almost the sole topic of discussion since — but confirming the story published. The facts are, briefly, that he left his camp at Eagle Mount on Thursday agout half-past eleven o'clock in his sailing canoe to visit friends at Bonchink, stating that he might be absent until Saturday. When he did not return on Saturday as agreed Messrs. Fred and Victor Ferguson, with whom he had been camping, went down to Bonchink Sunday morning and found to their surprise that he had not arrived there. The friends were alarmed, and Sunday afternoon a search was instituted and enquiries made. Nothing being discovered his father was telephoned and told of his son's disappearance. Mr. Moore and Mr. Adam Hall drove to McCracken's, reaching there early in the morning. A thorough search of the shores was then instituted and about noon a Dummer man, named Graham, discovered the body lying on the Dummer shore just opposite Eagle Mount and below Brown's Bay. The unfortunate young man had not proceeded far on his journey when catastrophe overtook him, as his body was found a short distance from camp. He left the camp about 11.30, and his watch had stopped at 11.45, so that he was not long away from his companions when the accident occurred.

Mr. Fred. Ferguson says there were about one hundred pounds of stones in the bow of the canoe as ballast, when Will left the camp. There can be little doubt of how the accident occurred. The heavy wind and sea swamped the canoe, which loaded with stone went to the bottom leaving the young man to struggle in the water. He no doubt would make an effort to reach the shore, but failed. It is remarkable that no one saw the accident or heard cries, for this part of the lake is within view of several cottages. No trace of the canoe has been found.

The deceased young man had started for Bonchink earlier in the morning, and had got out some distance when he was called back to have his photograph taken, Mr. C. D. Mathias having come to the camp with a camera. He returned and with his friends had two photos taken, one in the sail boat and one at the tent. He then left on his fatal trip.

The remains when found were in a very bad condition from the water and exposure. They were immediately conveyed to the summer residence of Ald. John Sawers, uncle of the unfortunate young man, where they were incased in a shell, packed in ice, and sent from there to Lakefield on the steamer "Tramp," where they were transferred to a casket and last evening were brought down in the hearse. When about two miles from town the funeral party was met by a big concourse of people and the casket was covered by a profusion of beautiful wreaths and flowers. By the time it reached town the procession was an unusually long one, and proceeded direct to the cemetery.

The service at the Little Lake cemetery was conducted by Rev. Dr. Torrance, of St. Paul's, and was deeply solemn and impressive owing to the sad nature of the death, the large attendance of sympathizers and the weirdness of the scene by lamplight. The universal respect for the young man and the wide sympathy for the bereaved family were forcefully manifested by the large number of people who turned out for the funeral, although notice was not given until late in the afternoon.

The pall bearers were Messrs. G. Sawers, Chas. Ames, R. F. McWilliams, L. Hall, N. Hall and Oscar Dumble.

The sad and untimely ending of the life of such a bright and popular young man aroused the most sincere regret amongst the entire community, and the deepest sympathy goes out to the bereaved family who were so suddenly afflicted. His mother and sister, Miss Ethel, were visiting in Rochester and to them the news would come as a crushing stroke. It was a peculiarly sad occurrence, which has caused general sorrow.

The deceased was twenty-five years of age, and was the eldest son.

ACTIONS SETTLED

The Complications in Dr. Ross's Business Affairs Amicably Settled.

The proceedings taken in the same connection bearing on the purchase of Dr Ross's practice by Mr. H. Wightman have also been dropped. SOCIAL EVENING.

A Pleasant Hour Spent at the George-St. Epworth League.

A very enjoyable evening was spent at the regular meeting of George-st-E.L. of C.E. last evening. After devotional exercises led by Rev. Mr. Shorey a short but pleasing musical programme was given, those taking part being Miss Gumpricht, Mr and Miss McClennan, Miss Hobbs and Miss Henderson. The remainder of the evening was spent in finding answers to questions furnished by the committee in charge. This proved to be a most enjoyable and profitable feature of the evening's entertainment, as well as serving to make the members and visitors better acquainted with one another.

AS TOLD BY ONE OF THEMSELVES

CUSTOMS OF THE PERSIANS DESCRIBED AT ST. ANDREW'S.

Some Strange Facts About These People and Their Method of Life—An Address Appreciated by the Audience.

If it is interesting to hear an account of the manners and customs of a far off race, it is doubly so when the speaker is himself one of the people whom he describes to us and is dressed in the distinctive garb of his country. At least so thought those who heard the address by Mr. D. O. Eshoo in St. Andrew's school room last evening.

Mr Eshoo, a native of Persia, and son of a converted Mohammedan, is taking a medical course at Knox College and at its completion will return to his native land as a physician and Christian missionary. One of his reasons for taking the medical course is as on account of the scarcity of doctors he will be allowed to have much intercourse with the Mohammedan Persians and will have a better chance of doing missionary work.

There are about fifty cities in Persia, he began. The country is mountainous and the climate more temperate than ours, all our products and many other fruits growing there. To build a house a Persian first makes a round mound of clay about three feet high. He leaves it thus for a couple of weeks till it becomes dry and hard. He then adds a couple more feet of clay to its height, lets it dry, adds more, and works in this way until he has the walls or wall about eight feet high, when he places large beams across the top of it. Over these he crosses smaller ones and others across these again, afterwards covering this structure with, first straw, then clay. Thus he builds his house. The house is one large room with a hole in the centre, which is used as a stove. No chairs are used, the natives squatting on the floor, which is covered with carpets. In the evening the family retire at 8 or 9 o'clock, and to pass the time before sleep comes the father tells stories. Some of the families are very large, sometimes consisting of 40 or 50 souls, due to the custom of the sons when they are married coming to live with their father. No forks or spoons are used in eating, but instead a piece of the loaf is used to take up other food on, the loaf being about three feet long and two feet wide, but as thin as paper. Their cheese, which is made of sheep's milk, is salted and put away in the ground for three or four years before it is ready to be eaten. The men, who eat first, all sit in a ring and eat out of the same dish, the women taking what they leave. The girls are married when they are from 12 to 15 years old, their husbands being four or five years older. The girls have no pleasure after they are four or five years old. At that age they begin to wear the veils on their heads and are forbidden to talk to any boys. At 8 or nine they are engaged, and a few years later married, when they begin their labors, a bride having to slave for her husband's relatives and being forbidden to speak to them. When a son is of marriageable age his mother goes around the town looking for a suitable bride for him. If she sees one the parents of both boy and girl hold counsel and the boy's father agrees to pay the girl's father a certain sum of money. The boy's father then gives the girl an engagement ring. During the engagement a girl must make a great number of presents for the guests at the wedding. Before a wedding the groom's father gives a great 7 days feast to about 400 or 500 guests. When this is on the guests go for the bride, with music and singing, place her on horseback and accompany her to her husband, who has mounted to the roof of his house and welcomes her with a shower of rotten eggs, apples, etc. After the wedding ceremony each kiss the bridegroom, and laying their hands on the bride's head kiss their hands. The darker a woman is the more beautiful she is considered and frequently uses powder and paste to darken her eyes and hands. The men shave their heads and let their beards grow, having a superstition that for every hair on a man's face he has an angel guarding him. When entering a house a Persian always takes off his shoes, leaving his cap on, however. The style of dress never changes.

The heathens at certain times of the year subject their bodies to tortures and fasting in order to purify themselves. One person never likes another to sit beside him, they having a superstition that the one sitting in front of the other will have to carry the other on his back for eternity. Little girls are not allowed to eat with their brothers as this will result in their having hair on their faces when they grow up. A girl before leaving home to be married walks around the stove seven times, believing this will deter her husband from beating her. Mr Eshoo, however, never knew the charm to work satisfactorily.

During his talk he sang a few hymns in the native Persian tongue. He also showed the garments worn by the women, also other articles used by his countrymen.

Mr Bruce Anderson, who acted as chairman, in a few words expressed his thanks to Mr Eshoo for his lecture, and was joined in this by the audience.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

Chances for Canadian Firms.

London, July 11.—The following were among the inquiries relating to Canadian trade at the office of the high commissioner for Canada recently:

A firm in London, which does a large business in all kinds of fruit pulps, canned goods, etc., desires to have the names of Canadian exporters of the first-named class of goods.

An inquiry has been received for the names of hosiery manufacturers who have hosiery wastes to dispose of.

The addresses of Canadian exporters of evaporated apple rings are asked for.

Birth Heir to Russia's Throne Dead.

St. Petersburg, July 11.—The Grand Duke George, brother of the Czar, is dead. Deceased was by birth heir to the throne, but early in life developed an incurable malady of the nature of tuberculosis, and the second son was crowned. Several times Grand Duke George was at the point of death, but rallied.

The Grand Duke George of Russia was born April 27, 1871.

Big Plot at Belgrade.

Belgrade, Servia, July 11.—Martial law has been declared throughout the Department of Belgrade, including this city, owing to discoveries made during the course of inquiry into the recent attempt upon the life of former King Milan.

Plague at Alexandria.

Alexandria, July 11.—Three cases of plague were reported here yesterday. The inhabitants are discontented with the sanitary precautions; have threatened trouble, and yesterday roughly handled two doctors.

Delagoa Bay Award.

London, July 11.—The Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office, Mr. William St. John Broderick, announced in the House of Commons yesterday that the Delagoa Bay award would be made in October.

The Extinction of Great Names.

Neither Bacon, Newton, Locke, Davy nor Stuart Mill left a son to inherit his fame, while of historians Hume, Gibbon and Macaulay were never married. Among our great painters Reynolds, Lawrence and the late Lord Leighton were bachelors. Hogarth perpetrated a romantic love match, which was fruitless, and Turner, the great magician of color and canvas, twice soured by early disappointments, never married.

Handel, who may almost be claimed as an Englishman, had no wife but his art. Brahams, perhaps our greatest singer, whose daughter we some of us remember as Lady Waldegrave, I believe left no son, while of the giants of the footlights Davy Garrick and John Kemble died childless, and the direct male issue of Edmund Kean ended with the death of of his son Charles.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Like a Lady.

"Frances," said that little girl's mamma, who was entertaining callers in the parlor, "you came down stairs so noisily that you could be heard all over the house. You know how to do it better than that. Now go back and come down the stairs like a lady."

Frances retired and after a lapse of a few minutes re-entered the parlor.

"Did you hear me come down stairs this time, mamma?"

"No, dear. I am glad you came down quietly. Now don't let me ever have to tell you again not to come down noisily, for I see that you can come down like a lady the second time, while the first time you made so much noise."

"The last time I slid down the banisters," explained Frances.—Harper's Bazar.

MISS CAPRICE.

BY ST. GEORGE RATHBONE

Author of "Doctor Jack," "Doctor Jack's Wife," "Captain Tom," "Miss Pauline of New York," Etc.

mounted on their swift Arabian steeds they would mock any effort to chase them.

So John is deeply puzzled, and knows not how to turn. If the Frenchman, usually so bright and witty, cannot suggest something to help him out of this dilemma, he will have to depend upon himself alone; but Monsieur Constans shrugs his shoulders, and professes to be all at sea.

Dimly John begins to suspect that this may not have been such an accident after all.

He begins to suspect a plot.

The driver, what of him?

His actions have been strange and almost crazy from the start, and yet John feels sure that if the cases were thoroughly investigated it would be found that he was not in the habit of thus running with his loads over the rough part of his trip.

There is something unusual in this, and something that demands investigation. The man's actions were suspicious, to say the least, for just as soon as the breakdown occurred he had vanished from view.

Evidently he was in league with some one.

John is furious to think that he left the scene of the disaster.

Why did he not let Sir Lionel go? The baronet seemed to be in earnest in his offer, and under such circumstances—but what nonsense after all, to think that he could do more, when the veteran of three wars was evidently unable to prevail against his foes.

Thus, after summing up, John is compelled to admit with a groan, that he knows absolutely nothing about the case, and is in a position to learn little more.

He is a man of action, however, and can not bear to see minutes pass without at least an effort to utilize them.

Can they follow the track?

It is a possible solution of the problem, although it promises to be hard work.

Then, again, he thinks of his companion. How far may the Gaul be trusted? He has known Frenchmen who were brave; he has a good opinion of them as a fighting nation, and yet this individual specimen may not turn out to be a warrior.

With the hope of getting an ally, then, he turns to the subject of his anxiety.

"Monsieur Constans."

"I am here."

"Your words have come true. Arab robbers have, I fear carried off my friends."

"Mon Dieu! It ees sad."

"I am determined to rescue them."

"Bravo! bravo!" clapping his hands with the excitement of the moment.

"One thing worries me."

"Ah! monsieur must be plain."

"It concerns you."

"How far can I depend on you?"

At this the French agent draws his figure up with much pomposity. He claps one hand upon his breast.

"To ze death, monsieur!"

"Good! Tell me, are you armed?"

"It has been my habit, among sese Arabs, sese negroes, sese ragged Kabyles from se mountains. I would not trust my life wisout sis."

Then he suddenly flourishes before John's eyes, delighted with the spectacle, a genuine American bull-dog revolver, which, judging from its appearance, is capable of doing considerable execution when held by a determined hand, and guided with a quick eye.

John instantly matches it.

"Hurrah!" he exclaims with enthusiasm, "we are well matched, Monsieur Constans. Let it be the old story of Lafayette and Washington."

"It ees glorious! Zey won se fight. Why should not we, monsieur——"

"My name is Doctor John Craig from Chicago."

"I greet you sen, Monsieur Doctaire. Zis is all new business to me. Tell me what to do and I am sere."

"Then we'll follow these tracks a little and try to learn something about those who were here, their number, whether mounted or afoot, and the probable direction they took."

"Superb! I am one delighted to serve wis a man of zat calibre. You meesel se vocation I sink, Monsieur John, instead of se doctaire you should be se general."

John knows it will not pay to stop and talk with Monsieur Constans. A Frenchman is inclined to be voluble, and valuable time may be lost.

So he walks on, bending low in order that the lantern light may be utilized. Thus he follows the tracks some little distance, with the fighting Gaul at his elbow, endeavoring to penetrate the darkness beyond.

It is a peculiar situation, one that causes him to smile. This time he is not tracking the deer through the dense forests of Michigan. Somewhere ahead are fierce Arab foes who have his friends in their hands.

At the same time he has a vague feeling of alarm in the region of his heart, alarm, not for himself, but concerning the fortunes of Lady Ruth.

A month, yes, hardly more than two weeks before, John Craig did not know there was such a being in existence.

Even when first made acquainted with her he thought her rather haughty, according to his American notion of girls.

Gradually he has come to know her better, has come to understand the piquant character underlying what he was pleased to look upon as pride, and which her aunt must have had in mind when she gave her the significant name of Miss Caprice.

Thus events have rolled on until now, in this period of suspense, when the girl seems to be in desperate danger, he awakens to the fact that he loves her.

With Monsieur Constans at his side, John has gone perhaps a few hundred yards when the light of the lantern suddenly falls upon a human figure advancing: an Arab, too.

John is about to assume an offensive attitude when he recognizes Mustapha Cadi, the guide.

CHAPTER XVII.

A startled exclamation at his side causes the young doctor to remember that he has a companion. He whirls around, and just in time to avert what might have turned out to be a catastrophe, for Monsieur Constans, seeing the figure of an Arab coming toward them, has no other idea than that it is an enemy.

Perhaps the fiery Gaul is somewhat anxious to try his firearms. At any rate, when John so suddenly wheels upon him, monsieur is in the act of covering the advancing figure.

John, with a sharp cry, knocks his levelled weapon up, and calls out:

"It is a friend; my guide, Mustapha Cadi."

"Diable! I am one fool," exclaims the Gaul. "I recognise se man now, and but for you he would be dead. I shall beg his pardon. It was one grand meestake."

Meanwhile Mustapha has come up. Doctor John Craig is filled with a new excitement now. In his eyes the coming of this man means much. It is strange that no suspicion enters his head in connection with Mustapha. Even while he is so certain that the driver of the omnibus is in league with their enemies; that the breakdown is only a part of the grand scheme to obtain possession of the English girl who can pay a big ransom, he has never once connected the Arab guid with the matter.

This is all the more singular because Mustapha Cadi was on the top of the coach at the time of the wreck, and he disappeared with the driver.

It can only be accounted for by the fact that like most keen men John Craig is in the habit of relying upon his judgment in such matters, and there is something about the face of Mustapha that wins his confidence.

Then, again, there are the events of the preceding night. The courier stood by him like a Spartan hero; yes, he can be trusted.

Thus John meets the guide warmly, and a new hope immediately springs into existence, a hope born of confidence.

"What does all this mean, Mustapha Cadi? See, I have brought the agent of the stage line, but when we arrive at the scene of the wreck we find it deserted. What does it mean? Have my friends fallen into the hands of robbers?"

Mustapha immediately nods his head.

"It is so, monsieur."

"Who are they?"

"Arabs, Kabyles. Moors—all who hate the Franks, yet love money more. They are under a desperate leader, the Tiger of the Desert."

At this Monsieur Constans utters a low cry.

"He means Bab Asoun, se terrible gateway of death."

Mustapha again nods, and John resumes his cross-questioning with a lawyer's tact.

"Were our friends injured?"

"Not seriously. They fight well. The soldier threatens to kill all, but they do not allow him to do it."

"Brave Blunt; he deserves a Victoria Cross. But where were you, Mustapha?"

The Arab hangs his face; he looks sheepish.

"I come up just when all was over. They twenty against one. It would be foolish for me to try and fight. I believe I can do better; so I watch, I follow, I learn much."

John cannot restrain his feelings. He seizes the Arab's dusky hand and shakes it with a real Chicago ardor.

"Mustapha, you're a jewel. Go on. Where did you go at the time of the accident?"

"Bismallah! I was after him, the cause of it all—him, who entered into this conspiracy—the driver, monsieur, he ran like a deer through the dark. I sought to grasp him more than once, but each time he turned and let me hug the air. But success at last."

"You got him?"

"He picked up a stone with his foot and stretched his length on the ground.

Conversation Without Words.

The traveler in a foreign land is not necessarily helpless because he does not know the language. Nor was a correspondent who admits that when he entered Italy his nine words of French and 15 words of German were of no great use to him. He says:

In Genoa I went into a photographer's shop and selected a dozen photographs.

I pointed at the photograps and looked at him inquiringly, which meant "How much?"

He nodded his head and wrote "14" on a slip of paper.

I nodded, signifying "I will take them."

He walked over to a calendar hanging on the wall and pointed to 20. Then he walked back and picked up the photographs and shook his head, which clearly meant that he could not allow me to take the ones I had selected, but would have the others printed by the 20th.

Thereupon I pointed to 25 on the calendar and said "Roma," which meant that I should depart for Rome on that date.

He nodded and then pointed to 30 and asked "Eh?" which meant, "Shall you be in Rome until the 30th?"

I nodded violently.

"Hotel?" he asked.

I wrote my Rome address on a slip of paper.

In making change he held out 1 lira.

"Poste," he explained.

Then I departed. Ordinarily a shopper selecting a dozen photographs to be printed to order and forwarded to him at the next town would spend ten minutes or more in making inquiries and giving directions. Our total conversation was just five words.—Chicago Record.

Muscular Powers of a Beetle.

The following anecdote of a three horned beetle will give some idea of its vast strength of body. A beetle was brought in, and, there being no box at hand in which to put it, it was clapped under a quart bottle of milk, which happened to be upon the table, the hollow at the bottom of the bottle allowing the insect to stand upright.

Presently the bottle began to move slowly and glide along the smooth table, propelled by the muscular power of the imprisoned beetle, and continued its travels for some time, to the astonishment of all who witnessed it. The weight of the bottle and its contents could not have been less than three pounds and a half, while that of the beetle was about half an ounce. So that it readily moved a weight 112 times greater than its own.

A better notion than figures can convey will be obtained of this feat by supposing a lad of 15 to be imprisoned under a great bell weighing 13,000 pounds and to move it to and fro upon a smooth pavement by pushing it from within.

The Diet of the Consumptive.

Dr. Cutter of New York, one of the editors of The Dietetic and Hygienic Gazette, declares the most important part of the treatment of tuberculosis patients is the diet. It should, he says, consist largely of animal foods. Of these, eggs and milk should preponderate. Eggs are best given raw when the patient can take them thus. The albumen of the egg is similar to blood albumen and is digested, or rather absorbed, into the blood without undergoing an elaborate digestive process. The white of the egg, mixed with water, is often tolerated when the yolk cannot be borne by the stomach. Bone marrow of the ox he regards as of greater value than cod liver oil. Good butter may be used freely and should be spread thickly on thin slices of bread. Heavy meals are to be avoided. The patient should take small quantities of food between meals.

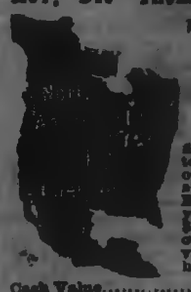
Rev. Dr. Thompson Testifies



Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, North American Life Assurance Co., Toronto:

DEAR SIR,—Your official notice came duly to hand, apprising me of the results obtainable upon my 15-year Endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000, which matured on the 5th inst. Of the various options you have given me, viz.:

Cash Value.....$1 564 86
Paid-up policy, payable at my death.....2,560.00
Yearly income for life of.....166 20

I have decided upon the cash value; and it gives me pleasure to testify that, as I anticipated it would be when I took out the policy, it is very satisfactory. This returns me the full premium of the 15 years and over 4½ per cent. compound interest, in addition to which you have carried the risk upon my life. In view of the lowering rates of interest which have been obtainable during the later portion of the period, it is difficult to see how this excellent result could have been surpassed.

Yours sincerely,

MILITIA TO STAY AT LONDON

Council Took Up the Matter of the Saturday Riots.

They Won't Have Mob Rule—Former Employees of the Railway Company Must State Their Grievances at Once

London, July 11.—Apart from the fact that the riots on Saturday and the presence of the militia and cavalry on Carling's Heights are the topic of conversation everywhere throughout the city, the excitement has calmed down and affairs have apparently resumed their normal condition.

The outside militia, consisting of four companies, one each from Lieut.-Col. Guillott, 21st Essex Fusiliers, Windsor; Major Acheson, 29th Infantry, Galt; Col. W. W. White, 30th Infantry, Guelph, and Col. Hegler, Oxford Rifles, Woodstock, reached the city yesterday morning at 11.45 o'clock via C.P.R., and were escorted to the barracks by a detachment of the Royal Canadian Infantry, followed by a large crowd of boys and youths, who lustily yelled, "Scab" and such like names. Up to the time of writing the redcoats have had nothing to do but enjoy themselves.

$5,000 Damage Done.

The estimated damage incurred by the mob Saturday is nearly $5,000—$2,000 of which is to the company's property, and the balance to private property, nearly every plate-glass window in the neighborhood of the trouble being broken.

In the absence of Magistrate Parke, Mayor Wilson presided at the Police Court yesterday. The three men who were arrested Saturday night for refusing to disperse after the reading of the Riot Act were remanded for a week, bail being fixed in each case at $600 on themselves and two securities of $300 each. Col. Leys and J. M. McAvery went security in each instance.

Non-Union Motorman Arrested.

John W. Dare, non-union motorman on the London Street Railway, was arrested yesterday morning at 12.30 o'clock, and taken to the police station. He is charged with unlawfully obstructing the free passage of cars by tampering with a switch. A police officer is the complainant. Dare is the man who turned the switch at the corner of Lyle and Dundas streets, when the three cars were run into the barn Saturday afternoon. He has been employed for some time since the strike as a non-union motorman, but went out on strike Saturday noon.

Dare said that the non-union men had been dissatisfied with their wages for some time. The company promised to pay them $1.50 a day whether the cars ran one hour or nine, and the company had been paying them for only 7½ hours' work at 15½c an hour. Seventeen of the men had agreed to go on strike Saturday at 2.30 o'clock, and it was arranged that he should turn the switch. The men in charge of the first car to go in were among the 17, and they refused to take their cars out again. Motorman Saner and Conductor Fitzsimons, in charge of car No. 56, and Motorman McKnight and Conductor Van Norman, in charge of car No. 66, had not been asked to join the proposed strike.

Manager Carr denies that there was any trouble whatever between the new men and the company. He says Dare misled the men in charge of cars 56 and 66 by telling them that the company had ordered the cars in on account of the crowd.

Must Be Settled at Once.

In consequence of the trouble on Saturday a secret meeting of the Council was held yesterday morning, at which, after considerable discussion, resolutions were passed, (1) calling upon the company's former employes to furnish a list of their grievances not later than 10 a.m. on the 12th inst., in order to secure an early termination of the strike; and (2) calling upon the company to run their cars on schedule time and upholding the mayor in his efforts to maintain the public peace.

Outside Militia to Remain.

Some of the aldermen expressed the opinion that the calling in of outside militia was unnecessary, but now that they were here concluded to make the best of it and keep them here for a few days.

The cars ran as usual yesterday, and appeared little the worse for the rough handling they received Saturday evening, a gang of men having spent Sunday repairing them. In spite of the city's request for a 17-hour service the cars ran into the barn at 8 in the evening.

Other Arrests Made.

Late yesterday afternoon the police made several arrests, including: W. Tellisferro, a freeman at The Advertiser, on the charge of assaulting Motorman Rigney; W. Nelson, charged with assaulting Detective Spicknell; Fred. Goodall, on the same charge as Dare, who was arrested in the morning. Bail in any amount was refused. It is expected other arrests will take place shortly.

List of Those Injured.

The following is a list of those injured in the riots Saturday: S. Rigney, struck three times, nose broken, ribs fractured and scalp injured; O. Smither, cut over the left eye; — Wyley, shoulder bruised; — Sauer, left elbow bruised; W. E. Crittle, side injured; Edward Hayden, struck with a stone on the right temple and received a nasty wound; Charles Myers, butcher, of the Hamilton road, struck by a missile and received a bad cut.

One Man "Wanted."

Windsor, Ont., July 11.—Forty men picked from the local companies of the 21st Essex Fusiliers, under command of Capt. Gordon Gauthier and Lieut. D. J. Cheyne, left over the G.T.R. for London yesterday afternoon in response to the call for troops to quell the disturbance in that city caused by the striking street car employes. George Grant, a member of Company No. 2, Walkerville, refused point blank to go with the soldiers to London, and an information has been laid against him charging him with "refusing to join his corps to act in assisting the civil power." He will answer before the magistrate on Thursday.

A WRONG IDEA OF... DYSPEPSIA

Throws all the Blame on the Stomach—The Real Seat of Trouble is the Intestines—The Permanent Cure is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

It is an old idea long since exploded that digestion is confined to the stomach. No modern scientist denies that by far the greater part of digestion and the more difficult part takes place in the intestines. This explains why dyspepsia is never really cured by preparations which merely aid stomach digestion and act only on the stomach.

This fact also explains why Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have been so remarkably successful as a cure for the worst forms of dyspepsia and indigestion.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills act directly on the kidneys, liver and bowels, and give new tone and vigor to the intestines, and make them able to perform their work of digesting the substances on which the stomach has no effect.

Stomach treatment may do well enough for slight indigestion, but if you have chronic indigestion or dyspepsia of a serious nature you can profit by the experience of scores of thousands who have been permanently cured by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. One pill a dose, 25c. a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

The Sting Within
It is said there is a rankling thorn in every heart, and yet that none would exchange their own for that of another. Be that as it may, the sting arising from the heart of a corn is real enough, and in this land of tight boots a very common complaint also. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor is a never failing remedy for this kind of heartache, as you can easily prove if afflicted. Cheap, sure, painless. Try the genuine and use no other.

THE AMERICA'S CUP.

FACTS AND FIGURES ABOUT THE NEXT COMPETING YACHTS.

Lipton's Shamrock—Times' Speculation as to Her Build From the Glimpse Obtained at Her Launching—The Yacht Columbia, the New American Cup Defender.

The London Times says of the build of Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, the Shamrock: "So far as could be judged during the very short time the vessel's underwater body was visible, there has been no radical departure with regard to shape. There are the long counter raking the stern post and overhang forward that characterizes the modern racing yachts. The profile of the bow slopes easily and gradually aft, until perhaps a third of the length is reached, and then the outline takes a sudden dip down almost in a vertical line.

"The midship section may be described as that of somewhat shallow bodies, the vessel having an extremely easy entrance and delivery; and, depending from this structure, is a large and approximately flat surface, which will afford the necessary lateral resistance for keeping the vessel to the wind.

"If the body plan be compared with that of the Defender it may be judged that the Shamrock has the flatter floor and the squarer bilge and will therefore possess more stability of form than her rival.

"In regard to the dimensions nothing more than a guess can be given; but it may be supposed that the yacht will build up to her full size and will probably be over 90 feet on the water line. For this length she possesses considerable beam. Certainly the Shamrock is not a narrow craft and differs most materially from some earlier cup challengers.

"The lead is evidently carried in the way now usual with racing yachts. The keel is slightly bulbous in form as in the Defender. That is to say the cross section dimensions are greater at the bottom than they are higher up and nearer the main body. There is, however, nothing approaching the hideous bulb keel that was so common a year or two ago with many racing craft."

The yacht Columbia is said to be the largest and costliest vessel ever designed for purposes of sport. Of all the things about the Columbia the most impressive is the power of her sails. In a fair wind they are equal to the engines of a fast steam yacht. The Columbia displaces 145 tons. A steamer of that size, in order to equal her speed, would need engines of 1,500 horsepower. The total sail area of the Columbia, including all her top and head sails, is 19,945 square feet. That includes the mainsail, 7,475 square feet; the jib, 1,850 square feet; the topsail, 1,400 square feet; the jib topsail, 1,690 square feet, and the spinnaker, 7,000 square feet. The lead in the keel of the Columbia weighs 90 tons.

CUP DEFENDER COLUMBIA.
Sketch of Sheer and Sail Plans and Amidship Section.

The running rigging to be used on the Columbia is one and one-half miles in length. Here are the chief items in this rigging calculation:

Mainsheet, 770 feet; throat halliards, 463 feet; mainsheet jig, 308 feet; peak halliards, 300 feet; jib halliards, 300 feet; jib jig, 270 feet; jib downhaul, 180 feet; staysail halliards, 230 feet; jib topsail halliards, 600 feet; spinnaker halliards, 600 feet; topsail halliards, 350 feet; topsail sheet, 200 feet; topsail tack, 90 feet; jib topsail sheets, 250 feet; jib sheets, 180 feet; staysail sheets, 100 feet; spinnaker boom lift, 240 feet; spinnaker boom guys, 180 feet; spinnaker boom overhaul, 200 feet; spinnaker boom sheet, 90 feet; balloon jib sheets, 150 feet; balloon jib downhaul, 280 feet; reefing tackle on main boom, 100 feet; club topsail halliards, 250 feet; club topsail guy, 200 feet; club topsail tack, 90 feet; boom tackle, 180 feet; quarter lifts, 180 feet; quarter lift tackles, 660 feet; topmast backstays, 240 feet; topmast backstay tackle, 200 feet masthead runner tackles, 200 feet. The rope used in the Columbia's rigging averages an inch in thickness.

A steel mast has been built for the Columbia, and she may sail either with this or a wooden one. The steel mast is, of course, hollow. It is 110 feet high and 60 inches in circumference at the thickest part.

There will be at least 40 men to haul on the mainsail, as one or more of the owners and officers are sure to take a hand in the work when there is need for it. The 30 sailors on the defender will get $35 a month apiece. For a season of five months they will draw $6,250 in pay. Their food will cost $10 a month apiece. Capt. Barr will receive $4,000 for the season. The matter of salaries and food alone will cost over $12,000.

No one can accurately predict how much it will cost to sail a yacht like the Columbia for a season—not even the owners. It is probable, says The New York Journal, that it will reach finally a total of $200,000.

Waste of Interest.

The drives about Florence are among the loveliest in Italy, and the walks in the old quarter of the town are an unfailing source of pleasure.

Coffins in Russia are never covered with black. If the deceased is a child pink is used; if a woman, crimson, though for a widow they use brown.

Siamese women entrust their children to the care of elephants, who are careful never to hurt the little creatures; and if danger threatens, the sagacious animal will curl the child gently up in his trunk and swing it up out of harm's way upon its broad back.

Good Barbers.

In India the native barber will shave you while asleep, without waking you, so light is his touch.

"YES, I AM GUILTY," SHE SAID.

Hilda Blake Acknowledges in Court That She Murdered Mrs. Lane.

Brandon, July 11.—Emily Hilda Blake, charged with murdering Mrs. Robert Lane, had a preliminary trial before Magistrate Campbell in the Court House yesterday. Detective Foster gave evidence substantially as previously reported.

When asked if she had anything to say, the accused, rising to her feet, said: "Yes. I am guilty, and deserve the severest punishment you can give me; that's all."

The prisoner struggled hard to maintain her composure, but her lips trembled and her short statement ended in a sob. The scene was affecting. The magistrate committed her for trial at the next Assizes, Nov 14.

He Ended the Feud.

When the Republicans were about to nominate somebody to run for governor in 1844, there were candidates in all parts of the woods. The day of the convention, however, "Uncle Dick" went down and, without having present any semblance of candidacy other than his own personality, he was nominated by acclamation.

His brother-in-law, David T. Littler, was a candidate for state treasurer. He had been to some pains to make his candidacy an organized feature of the days preceding the convention. When Oglesby was named for governor, Littler was put out of the calculations by reason of coming from the next county and was side tracked in consequence. Although Mrs. Oglesby and Mrs. Littler were sisters, the houses of Oglesby and Littler were far apart from that time. The heads were so completely estranged that one did not speak to the other. For ten years they remained strangers.

Littler lived in a great old fashioned mansion in Springfield. Oglesby lived on his farm near Elkhart. One day, to the surprise of the Littler family, ex-Governor Oglesby walked in.

"How are you, Dave?" said the ex-governor.

"How are you, governor?" said Littler, as he struggled against his astonishment. Then the extended hand of the unexpected visitor was cordially grasped.

"I came to take dinner with you, Dave."

"Well, I'm glad of it," answered Littler, as he took the hat and coat of his caller.

"Is the whisky bottle in the same old place, Dave?"

"It is, and there's whisky in it."

And that was how the family feud ended forever.

Ammonia as a Fire Extinguisher.

Probably the best fire extinguishing liquid is aqua ammonia, without any addition whatever. We have personally had experience with the almost marvelous power of this substance in this direction. In one instance, where fire had originated probably from spontaneous combustion, in a pile containing several tons of cotton seed, and the interior of which was almost a solid body of live coal, a half gallon of ammonia completely smothered the fire.

In another, which occurred at Savenay, France, the vapors of a tank containing 50 gallons of gasoline caught fire in the linen room of a laundry. The room was instantly a mass of living flames, but a gallon and a half of ammonia water thrown into it completely and almost immediately extinguished the fire. The ammonia was in a glass demijohn in an apothecary shop next door to the laundry and was thrown into the room by the druggist as an experiment. So completely was the fire extinguished that workmen were enabled to enter the room almost immediately, where they found the iron tank of gasoline intact.—National Druggist.

The following story of a dog of the restoration has been taken from the voracious Pepys under the date Sept. 11, 1661: "To Dr. Williams, who did carry me into his garden, where he hath abundance of grapes: and he did show me how a dog that he hath do kill all the cats that come hither to kill his pigeons, and do afterward bury them; and do it with so much care that they shall be quite covered, that if the tip of the tail hangs out he will take up the cat again, and dig the hole deeper. Which is very strange; and he tells me that he do believe that he hath killed above a hundred cats."

"The Best Man That Ever Lived."

After hearing so many women express themselves upon the subject we have come to the conclusion that "the best man who ever lived," if he ever marries, will have to take what he can get. The ordinary, everyday sort of man will probably continue, as heretofore, to gather in the cream of the fair sex.

Did you ever See a Snow Storm in Summer?

We never did; but we have seen the clothing at this time of the year so covered with dandruff that it looked as if it had been out in a regular snowstorm.

No need of this snowstorm.

As the summer sun would melt the falling snow so will melt these flakes of dandruff in the scalp. It goes further than this: it prevents their formation.

It has still other properties: it will restore color to gray hair in just ten times out of every ten cases.

And it does even more: it feeds and nourishes the roots of the hair. Thin hair becomes thick hair; and short hair becomes long hair.

We have a book on the Hair and Scalp. It is yours, for the asking.

If you do not obtain all the benefits you expected from the use of the Vigor, write the doctor about it. Probably there is some difficulty with your general system which may be easily removed. Address,
DR. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

JANITOR SHOT PRINCIPAL.

Startling Tragedy at a Revival Service in a Texas Town.

Houston, Tex., July 12.—A special from Dallas, Tex., says: At 9.30 o'clock last night one of the most startling tragedies Dallas has ever known occurred in the First Christian Church. In the midst of a protracted meeting, John T. Carlisle arose from his seat, walked to where Prof. William Lipscomb, principal of the Central High School, the leading educational institution of the city, was seated, and shot him dead without a word of warning. Carlisle was seized and taken to the County Jail. He would not talk of the tragedy. Carlisle has been chief janitor of the High School, but failed to be reappointed by the school board. He attributed his defeat for reappointment to the professor's influence and it is believed this was the cause of the murder. Carlisle is a cousin of former Secretary of the Treasury John G. Carlisle.

Newfoundland Budget.

St. John's, Nfld., July 12.—The Colonial budget that was laid upon the table of the House of Assembly yesterday shows a deficit of $32,000 for the last fiscal year. It estimates, however, a surplus of $30,000 for the present year. In view of all the existing conditions the budget is very favorably regarded.

How Did It Get Out?

Paris, July 12.—At a Cabinet meeting yesterday the Minister of the Interior confirmed the authenticity of the Orleanist intrigues set forth in the report of the prefect of police, published by The Gazette de France on Monday, and an investigation will be made in order to find out how it reached the newspapers.

John Bull's Jack Tars.

London, July 12.—Mobilising for the naval manoeuvres began yesterday. 118 warships and about 25,000 men taking part in the operations. One of the principal objects of the manoeuvres is to exhaustively study the value of torpedo boat destroyers, of which 54 are engaged.

To Prosecute Druce Claim.

London, July 12.—The Pall Mall Gazette says a syndicate in the city has subscribed £10,000 to prosecute the Druce claim to the dukedom of Portland, and that arrangements have been concluded for the subscription of another £10,000.

A British Columbia Loan.

Vancouver, B.C., July 12.—British Columbia has just floated successfully in London a loan of £340,000 ($1,700,000) at a fraction over 98.

HOUSE 33 HOURS IN SESSION

A Struggle Between Parties on the Militia Estimates.

Mr. Taylor Brings to the Premier's Attention the Fact That Gossip in Ottawa Said He Had Been Presented With a House by Mr. H. N. Bate Because of Contracts Received Without Tender—Sir Wilfrid Makes Flat Denial of the Story.

Ottawa, July 12.—The session of the House which opened at 3 o'clock on Monday afternoon did not rise until 1 o'clock on Tuesday. The trouble began at 1 o'clock Tuesday morning, when Col. Sam Hughes proposed that the first item in the militia estimates should be passed and the committee rise. This did not suit either the Minister of Finance or the Minister of Militia, who proposed that all the items should be declared passed except one, on which a general discussion of all the items should take place.

When the Struggle Began.

To this the Opposition objected, and the struggle began and continued all night and all forenoon.

The night session was not marked by many special features, but was, for the most part, a dogged, determined fight on the part of the Opposition to show that by the abandoning of the tender system the present Government was paying extravagant rates to favorites. The case of H. N. Bate & Sons of Ottawa, who supplied $34,000 worth of provisions for the Yukon military expedition, occupied the attention of Messrs. Taylor, Wallace, Clancy and others for the better part of the early morning, and in the course of his remarks Mr. Taylor said that the reason Bate & Son were favored was because one of the firm, Mr. H. N. Bate, had presented a house to Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Mr. Taylor said this story was current in Ottawa, and probably accounted for the favor shown Bate & Son in the sale to them of binder twine and the purchase of supplies.

Government Denied the Story.

The statement met with indignant denials from the Government benches, but was passed over at the time. In the afternoon, however, the Premier, who was not in the House during the all-night sitting, took advantage of the slight break caused by an item being passed to rise in his place and make an emphatic denial of the story.

Mr. Taylor—Mr. Chairman, I accept the hon. gentleman's statement. The statement I made was current in Ottawa, and I think the hon. gentleman ought to be under a compliment to me for having brought it to his attention publicly, so that he might give it a flat denial, as he has done to-day.

The discussion of the militia items was resumed and continued until 6 o'clock, when the House, still in committee, took a recess, as it had already done from 1 o'clock to 3, for luncheon.

At 9 o'clock the last of the militia items was passed, and Hon. Dr. Borden left the chamber to get a little rest, after having been 13 hours under fire on his estimates.

The railway items were then taken up, and a long discussion sprang up on the vote for additional accommodation for the I.C.R. at St. John, N.B., which lasted until 12.10, when all but one of the railway items were allowed to pass, and Monday's session ended by the House adjourning after 33 hours' sitting.

CANADIAN AGGRESSION.

The Latest Tale From Washington About This Country's Awful Doings.

New York, July 12.—A special to The World from Washington says:

An unofficial intimation has reached the State Department that the Canadian Government intends to send to the Porcupine region in Alaska, a body of Mounted Police to maintain order. If this proves correct the Administration will meet the situation by ordering troops to Pyramid Harbor.

They Don't Believe It.

Washington, July 12.—In the absence of official information confirming the report that Canadian Mounted Police are to be sent into the Porcupine country, which is now claimed by both the United States and Canada, the State Department attaches no credit to the report.

The Talk in London.

London, July 12.—The officials of the Colonial Office, when questioned yesterday concerning the report, absolutely denied that there was any possibility of Canada contravening Great Britain's pledge to keep out Canadian police from the disputed strip if the United States Government agreed not to send troops to Pyramid Harbor.

Gave Him a Funeral.

Buffalo, July 12.—A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of deliberate murder against Thomas Collins for the killing of Joseph Pessalonte on July 4. The evidence was conclusive that Collins, who was standing on a street corner looking at Pessalonte as he passed by on a bicycle, remarked to some friends: "I guess I'll give that fellow a puncture," drew a revolver and shot him in the back. Collins has not yet been captured by the police.

SENATOR SANFORD A HERO.

Refused Lifebelt Handed Him by Miss Dowrie.

Told Her to Keep It and Save Herself—Then He Sank to His Death—The Dead Senator's Body Arrives at Hamilton for Burial—Said to Have Left $2,000,000—The Funeral on Thursday.

Hamilton, July 12.—The death of Senator Sanford was the principal topic of conversation in business circles yesterday. Owing to his many financial interests and the skill he displayed in handling large business concerns, his loss is greatly deplored by commercial men. It is said that his estate will be worth close on $2,000,000. His city properties are worth considerably over a quarter of a million, and he had a large ranch in Manitoba, considerable real estate in Chicago, and silver mines in Mexico, besides large blocks of stock in prominent companies.

Board of Trade Condolence.

A special meeting of the Board of Trade was held yesterday afternoon with President Barker in the chair, to take action in regard to the Senator's death. Adam Brown moved and A. T. Wood, M.P., seconded a resolution of condolence, which referred at length to the great worth of deceased as a citizen and business man. Mr. Brown, during his speech, said that when Miss Dowrie handed the lifebelt to the Senator he told her to keep it and save herself.

The Funeral.

The remains arrived on the 6.55 express. The remains were conveyed to Wesanford, and the funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. The beautiful mausoleum erected by the late Senator not being completed, the casket will probably be placed temporarily in the Watkins vault.

Mrs. Sanford and her two daughters will sail from Liverpool to-day and she cabled that the interment was not to take place until her return.

Smallpox in Toronto.

Toronto, July 12.—Shortly after 8 o'clock yesterday afternoon Medical Health Officer Sheard was notified of a case of smallpox in town. The disease was discovered at 47 Delaney crescent, the patient being Mrs Thornton. After being notified, Dr. Sheard had the patient removed to the Isolation Hospital and the house in Delaney crescent was quarantined.

Ontario's Native Woods at Paris.

Toronto, July 12.—Mr. J. M. Macoun of Ottawa, the forestry expert for the Paris World's Fair, called yesterday at the Exposition Office in the Parliament Buildings, and, accompanied by Mr. Jardine, interviewed Messrs. White and Southworth of the Crown Lands Department. Arrangements were made for a complete collection of the native woods of Ontario.

Yellow Jack at Santiago.

Santiago de Cuba, July 12.—Gen. Leonard Wood, the Military Governor, returned yesterday from the United States, and immediately began vigorous action to stamp out the yellow fever. He found the situation serious.

Again the Geoghegan Case.

Hamilton, July 12.—The Geoghegan case was before the committee of discipline yesterday afternoon, Rev. Father Geoghegan having appealed against the decision of the court of triers appointed from that committee. It is understood the revision of the case was concluded yesterday, but nothing can be learned of the decision arrived at.

Will Work Together.

Montreal, July 12.—The Grand Trunk Railway and the Dominion Steamship Company have come together again and made an arrangement in regard to handling business at Portland next winter.

Sifton Declared Elected.

Banff, N.W.T., July 12.—A. L. Sifton was declared elected for Banff by the returning officer yesterday by 34 majority over Dr. Brett.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

The Daily Review.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 12, 1899.

BE WARNED.

The wisdom of the precaution that has been advocated and urged upon canoeists by Mr. R. B. Edwards, and endorsed by the press and others so frequently, comes forcibly before the public every now and then when there is a drowning from a canoe swamping. An air chamber or air-tight compartment in a canoe will prevent the craft from sinking in case of accident, and with the canoe floating the average swimmer can safely ride the waves until rescued. The great value of such a precaution is shown by Peterborough's last and much lamented drowning, and canoeists at Stony lake or on any other waters would be wise in heeding the sad warning and have their crafts rendered doubly safe by placing in an air chamber or compartment.

A CHAT ON "THE MACHINE."

After the West Elgin election, a Government official telegraphed, so Mr Macnab, the Liberal candidate, says, as follows:—"Hug the machine for me" The "machine did it in West Elgin and it will 'do' the Liberal party if the rope slack is not hauled in. The greatest danger and curse to the Liberal party to-day is "the machine." It is not fighting for principle; it fights for the spoils of office. It has branches in nearly every city in Canada.

The above is from the Winnipeg Tribune, edited by a Liberal M P, Mr Richardson, and there is more truth than poetry in it. The Tribune would probably make a more forcible reference to "the machine" if it was in Ontario and witnessed its workings. The "threshing machine," for which Mr Preston had such affectionate regard, is only a wing of the great machine system which has been established and maintained in Ontario to keep the Mowat and Hardy Governments in office. The system has been worked in every constituency, and included always the men who were not "fighting for principles," but for "the spoils of office." Officials who were an organized gang of election workers the year around, many of them not doing two weeks work in the whole year. Fortunately the exposures that have been made have given the people a view of "the machine" in its true light, and its end is therefore in sight.

WORKING FOR THE "PULL."

Events, the independent journal published at Ottawa, the editor of which states that he was always a Liberal, has this to say:—

"To our utter disgust there never was a time in the history of our land when corruption—bold, barefaced, shameless corruption—was so rife in election contests. The party press and the party leaders, while they must have known what was going on, boldly denied every charge until it was brought home to them with crushing positiveness, till they were driven into a corner until they had it piled upon them until they were completely covered with the proofs of their rottenness. There was no mistaking what went on in West Elgin. The confession is there, and it is a confession that will make every honest man blush to read, every patriotic Canadian ashamed to acknowledge, as the record of one of the great political parties of the country. The shame of it is there, and there it will remian so long as the instigators, the executioners and the beneficiaries of this rotten business remain at large. It is no justification of any one in authority to say that he was not aware of what was going on. Corruption is not like charity—it is not done for the mere love of doing. Not at all. The men who corrupt the voters do so in order to have a "pull" with the powers that be, and if they do not make the "powers" aware of the "good work" they have done, they are not likely to reap any benefit. All of us who are not fools know that these things are done with the knowledge of the party leaders, in whose interests they are done."

This will be recognized as a truthful statement of the case, and the Hardy Government stands in the dark under the cloud of the West Elgin exposure, especially when no effort is made to punish the guilty ones. Preston's "pull" gave him a $6,000 berth under the Laurier Government, and the reward for services has not been withdrawn, although the disgraceful character of those services has been exposed and has brought disgrace on Ontario, and in fact the Dominion.

Hardy's majority is an unknown quantity. —Kingston News.

From which it is to be inferred that it is X. And the News is not far out in its algebraic computation.—Ottawa Free Press.

Or more correctly speaking it could be represented by a V., as that seems, in the light of recent exposures, to have been the price paid for the said majority when it was being bought up by "the machine" in a ugly lots of one vote each.

A UNIQUE WEDDING.

French Joe Tied the Knot, and He Did It In Rhyme.

Wild and romantic as any highland legend or border story is the account of the first contract marriage in the interior of Alaska, as narrated by "Windy Jim" Dodson, who was present and witnessed the unique ceremony.

It was on the banks of the Dall river, a small stream which flows into the Yukon near Fort Hamlin. A young man, Gillis by name, accompanied by Aggie Dalton, a charming maiden with whom he was in love, had set out from the month of Dall river to go across the mountainous divide into the Koyukuk valley. As they started up the Dall they met Dodson, and in the course of conversation it developed that the young people were anxious to get married, but in that wilderness there was small chance of finding either priest or magistrate to perform the ceremony.

"I know a man who can tie the knot," said Dodson, "and he lives only a few miles from here. His name is Joe Durant, but everybody knows him by the nickname of 'French Joe.'"

To yearning hearts and youthful vigor a few miles in that vast solitude was as nothing, and they were soon at Durant's place. Dodson went with them as guide and witness. The spot was one just fit for such romantic nuptials. It was on a wild, mountainous slope, by the side of a clear lake and under the shelter of a friendly tree whose evergreen branches defied the chill November winds.

Durant gladly agreed to perform the pleasant task, but as he had no law form or church rituals at hand he devised a form of his own and put it into rude rhyme, having the bride and groom each repeat four lines after him.

The bride repeated the following:

"Ten miles from the Yukon, on the banks of this lake,
For a partner to Koyukuk Gillis I take.
We have no preacher, we have no ring;
That makes no difference—it's the same old thing."

Drant then tied the knot as follows:

"I swear by my sled pole under this tree
A husband to Aggie I always will be.
I'll love and protect her, this maiden so frail,
From the sour dough toughs on the Koyukuk trail."

Durant then tide the knot as follows:

"For two dollars each in chechaco money
I unite this couple in matrimony.
He is a rancher, and she is a teacher.
I'll do up the job as well as a preacher."

THE ROBUST MAN.

Reasons Why His Weaker Brethren Often Outlive Him.

"The advantages of a robust frame and a sterling temperament are many and obvious, but there is a reverse to this medal as to others," says The Medical Press. "The man with a bad constitution—that is to say, with an organism which 'rounds on him' with implacable ferocity whenever he relaxes, be it ever so slightly, his observance of the laws of hygiene, dietetic or social—may be likened to the impecunious citizen who rejoices in little or no credit and is constrained to pass his purse in review before proceeding to make a purchase. He can not run greatly into debt, because his bills are presented day by day.

So it is with him physiologically. He looks with envious eyes at his sturdier fellow who violates every rule of health and propriety night after night, yet rises with (or after) the lark, gay and apparently unaffected by his previous indiscretions, while he, poor man, is punished severely by a day of headache and dyspepsia, following not improbably a night of unrest. With him the punishment follows too swiftly on the offense for any doubt to subsist in his mind as to the relationship of cause and effect.

The consequence is that he, more or less reluctantly, avoids the excesses which he enjoys for such a brief period and regrets for so long. The carefulness of habit thus begotten ultimately characterises his life as a whole. He, at any rate, will not smoke one cigar too many or too strong. He is not the man to cycle himself into a state of exhaustion which the morrow only accentuates.

The stronger, burlier vivour goes, so to speak, the whole hog. He rejoices in apparently unlimited credit, and he stops not to count the cost. Slowly but surely the bills accumulate, and by and by he finds himself physiologically bankrupt. It is not until the bills are presented that he realises how extravagant he has been, and this at a stage too late for the lesson to be of any benefit. 'The creaking gate hangs long.'"

A Living Arrow.

The shark is generally considered the most dangerous of deep sea fish. While he is the most voracious, recent investigation shows that he is not the most dangerous, since a small fish, met with sometimes in shoals, is often as destructive of human life. The garfish never grows to an imposing length. It has a long, sharp beak, which gives it an arrowlike shape. This living arrow, when alarmed, dashes out from the water and goes soaring away over the surface in short bounds with such force that when it strikes a foreign body it either passes through it or inflicts painful and serious wounds. An English officer was struck by one on the peak of his cap. This resulted in an investigation by a representative of the British government, and it was found that men had lost their lives from this cause.

Hard on the Doctor.

The late Dr. Nedley was one of the last of the midcentury Irish wits. The stories told by and about him are innumerable. One he used to tell against himself apropos of his own medical officership of the Dublin metropolitan police. One Sunday afternoon a crowd was standing outside a public house before the psychological moment arrived. Dr. Nedley approached, was recognised by some of the crowd, which opened out to let him pass, one of them remarking: "Let the doctor pass, boys. Sure he has kilt more polis than all the Invincibles put together."—

KRUGER'S PROPOSAL NO GOOD

Substance of a Reply to a Query by Mr. Chamberlain.

Machine Guns Sent to the Cape—Thirty of the Death Dealers and More Troops Ordered to South Africa—The Dismissal of Premier Schreiner and the Dissolution of the Cape Parliament for Disloyalty Asked for in England.

London, July 12.—The Parliamentary Secretary for the War Office, Mr. George Wyndham, replying to a question in the House of Commons yesterday, said the communication published by The London Times, July 5, giving the names of British officers detailed to proceed to South Africa to organize the forces there, had been sent with the knowledge of the Marquis of Lansdowne, Secretary of State for War.

The Franchise Scheme.

The Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Chamberlain, during the course of a reply to Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, Liberal leader in the House, on the subject of President Kruger's latest proposals, said that, in the absence of fuller information, it was impossible to be certain as to the practical effect of the franchise scheme. But, so far as he was able to judge, it would have no immediate effect on the representation of the Uitlanders in the first Volksraad, and he was not certain the Uitlanders would be able to carry any of the new seats allotted to them in the Rand until a very much later date.

Want Premier Schreiner Removed.

London, July 12.—The Globe and other Conservative papers yesterday morning urged Sir Alfred Milner, Governor of Cape Colony, to dissolve the Cape Parliament and dismiss Premier Schreiner and the Ministers for disloyalty to the Crown in giving moral support to Kruger.

MACHINE GUNS SHIPPED.

Thirty Death-Dealers and a Lot of Soldiers for the Cape.

London, July 12.—The 73rd Battery of Artillery has been ordered to South Africa, making the fifth battery of field artillery now under orders for the Cape. All the gun carriages of these batteries are being painted to match the local color. Thirty machine guns were shipped to the Transvaal yesterday.

Queensland Offers Troops.

Lourenzo, Marques, Delagoa Bay, July 12.—The British second-class cruiser Doris and the first-class gunboat Widgeon, with Rear-Admiral Sir Robert H. Harris, in command of the Cape and West African station, on board the cruiser, have arrived here.

NOW CLEAR OF THE ROCKS.

Big Liner Paris Afloat, and Hopes Are Strong for Saving Her.

London, July 12.—The salvagers have moved the American Line steamer Paris astern for a distance of 150 yards and have shifted the vessel's position slightly to the eastward. They hope to be able to get the after stokehold fires alight. The Paris is now clear of the rocks, and the sea is smooth, but a heavy fog prevailed last night. The German salvagers are elated at the unexpected success in floating the Paris. She had been weighted with nearly 1,000 tons of granite as the stern, with a view of holding her bows free from the rocks. Unless something unforeseen occurs the Paris will be towed to Falmouth to-day. The Paris left Southampton May 20 for New York. The next morning at 1.19 she went on the rock, where she had remained, in spite of repeated efforts to pull her off.

ANTI-RITUALIST VICTORY.

Use of Candles and Incense Forbidden to Established Churches.

London, July 12.—The anti-Ritualists have won a signal victory in their crusade against high church practices in the Established Church of England.

The Archbishops of Canterbury and York, the highest prelates in the church, made a report yesterday as a result of the protracted inquiry held during the past few months in Lambeth Palace upon the use of candles and incense in church ceremonies. Both Archbishops agree in declaring that the use of incense and candles is not in accordance with the ritual and their use is forbidden to all Established Churches.

Steamer Sunk—All Saved.

London, July 12.—The British steamer Maria, Captain Sherry, last reported at Barcelona, on June 20, from Sunderland, is reported to have struck on the Island of Ushant, off the coast of Brittany, at the entrance of the English Channel, and sunk last night, during thick weather. All on board were saved.

Ontario Knights of Pythias.

London, July 12.—The twenty-eighth annual convention of the Ontario Grand Lodge of the Knights of Pythias is being held in this city, with some 60 delegates in attendance, representing 35 lodges. The reports show the order in Ontario to be in a flourishing condition.

WRECK OF THE PORTIA.

An Assyrian Boy Was Drowned, But That Was the Only Life Lost.

Halifax, N.S., July 12.—The loss of the Red Cross Line passenger steamer Portia on Big Fish Shoal, to the westward of the entrance to Halifax Harbor, at 7 o'clock Monday night, was attended by the drowning of one person, an Assyrian boy known only by the name of Hanna, who was travelling second-class from New York to St. John's, Nfld., where his mother lives.

The escape of all the others on board the steamer, numbering 70 passengers and a crew of 34 officers and men, is accounted extraordinary. The stories from the wreck show that the escape from death was not accomplished so easily as previously reported.

The Portia slid off from that rock that she crashed upon, and was drifted by the current for three-quarters of a mile, when she sank in eight fathoms of water. This was about 45 minutes after the ship grounded. Captain Farrell was seven miles outside his course. He attributes his deflection from his course to strong currents.

The passengers of the Portia lost everything, some of them being insufficiently clothed.

LONDON STREET CAR STRIKE.

Arrests Being Made Wholesale and Many Summonses Issued.

London, Ont., July 12.—With the exception that summonses are being issued, and arrests made by the wholesale, there is nothing to remind one of the excitement that prevailed here Saturday and Sunday. The police yesterday arrested an elderly man named William Hayes, charged with rioting. Hugh Day, another striker, is charged with the same offence. James Sherlock of Cheapside street is charged with having assaulted Non-Union Motorman Rigney. All the prisoners were committed for trial and released on bail at yesterday morning's session of the Police Court, Magistrate Parke presiding.

A List of Grievances.

A lengthy list of grievances was submitted to the strike committee of the Council. The document was read and discussed, but not in detail. The strikers complain that the company has in the last six months repeatedly broken seven of the clauses in the agreement between the company and its employes and the strikers ask for a full and fair arbitration and a sub-committee has been appointed to bring this about.

An Old Man Badly Hurt.

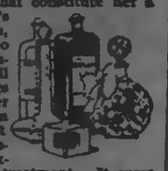
James Dobbin, an old man nearly 80 years of age, was knocked from his wagon yesterday morning by a street car and badly injured. The spectators say that if the car had slowed up at the crossing the accident would not have occurred. P. C. Smith says the gong was rung twice, but many who saw the accident deny this.

Soldering Glass.

Margot, in some interesting investigations in soldering glass, has established the fact that an alloy composed of 95 parts of tin and 5 parts of zinc will melt at about 392 degrees Fahrenheit. Becoming firmly adherent to the glass, it is unalterable and exhibits an attractive luster. An alloy containing 90 parts of tin and 10 parts of aluminium will melt at 500 degrees Fahrenheit, and also forms a strong and brilliant solder for glass. With these two alloys always ready to hand, glass may be soldered as easily as two pieces of metal. When the glass is heated in a furnace, the soldering can be accomplished by rubbing the surface with a rod of either of the compositions named. The alloy as it flows can be evenly distributed with a soldering iron.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

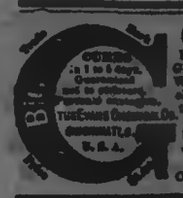
Woman Wrecks. Every once in a while the newspapers tell of some once beautiful woman who has been consigned to an asylum, because physical weakness drove her to seek temporary strength in the alcholic mixtures that are found on many women's toilet tables.

The story is an old, but ever-new one. A woman finds herself suffering from weakness, nervousness, despondency and irritability. She cannot divine the cause, and her family physician seems equally at loss. A friend who suffers in the same way tells her that a wee drop of cologne, brandy drops, ale, beer, "malt-extracts" or other stimulant will give temporary relief. And that is the beginning that ends in a madhouse. The women who suffers from the symptoms described may safely infer that there exists disease or at least weakness of the delicate organs that constitute her a woman. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which contains no alcohol or other stimulant to inebriate, will promptly put things right, and make her strong and healthy in a womanly way. It does away with necessity for obnoxious examinations and local treatment. It cures in the privacy of the home. It gives vigor and virility to the organs upon which depends the perpetuation of the human race.



Mrs. E. A. Alsbrook, of Austin, Lonoke Co., Ark., writes: "After five months of great suffering I write this for the benefit of other sufferers from the same affliction. I doctored with our family physician without any good result, so my husband urged me to try Dr. Pierce's medicine—which I did, with wonderful results. I am completely cured. I took four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, four of his 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets.'"

Constipation kills slowly. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure quickly.



CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Spermatorrhœa, Whites, unnatural discharges, or any inflammation, irritation or ulceration of mucous membranes. Not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

Mr. Whitton then selected Cameron, Star, Omemee, Fenelon Falls, North Verulam, Reaboro and Red Rock.

Mr. Flavelle then offered 8 7-16c for a further selection, which was raised to 8 1-2c. by Mr. Fitzgerald, who took Dunsford, Mariposa, Cambray, Bobcaygeon, North Ops and Janetville. Maple Leaf and Pine Grove refused the offer.

Mr. Flavelle again led the bidding for the third selection, offering 8 1-2c and taking Palestine, Lorneville and Little Britain, and secured Pine Grove and Maple Leaf by offering an extra sixteenth.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver, of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters'; and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50cts. a bottle, every bottle guaranteed. For sale by James Lynch, druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough.

Bryan Sticks to Silver.

Colorado Springs, Col., July 12.—William J. Bryan spoke before a large audience at the Opera House last night on imperialism and trusts, the silver question and the income tax. In the course of his remarks he said the Democratic platform of 1900, on the silver question and income tax, would be the same as in 1896.

Cut His Throat.

Hamilton, July 12.—Monday night Joseph Robbins, a printer, employed at The Times office, cut his throat with a razor in the hope of ending his life. He was found with two gashes in his neck by some of the members of his family and removed to the hospital, where he is doing fairly well.

WEARY OF EXPERIMENTING.

With salves, suppositories and ointments and dreading a surgical operation, scores and hundreds have turned to Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment and found in it an absolute cure for piles. The first application brings relief from the terrible itching, and it is very seldom that more than one box is required to effect a permanent cure.

PARTIAL PROHIBITION.

The Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance Passes a Resolution Asking for Prohibition by Provinces.

Toronto, July 12.—The Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance held its annual meeting yesterday in the Pavilion, beginning at 9 in the morning. J. J. Maclaren, president, took the chair.

After routine business and general internal reports, the report of the committee on legislation was submitted. It read in part as follows:

Prohibition by Provinces.

"That in view of the large vote and the great majority recorded in favor of prohibition in six provinces and the Northwest Territories, the least measure of immediate legislation that could be looked upon as reasonable would be such as would secure the entire prohibition of the liquor traffic in and around these provinces and territories.

"That such legislation ought to be enacted by the Dominion Parliament, which alone could prohibit the sending of intoxicating liquor into prohibition provinces from places in which prohibition was not in operation.

"That failure to enact at least this measure of prohibition must be considered inexcusable disregard and defiance of the strong moral sentiment of the electorate as emphatically expressed in the plebiscite.

Party Organization Urged.

"That prohibitionists ought to oppose any government or pary or any candidate that will refuse to recognize and respond to the demand of the people to at least the extent of such legislation.

"That the friends of prohibition in every constituency of the Dominion are earnestly urged to at once take such steps as they may deem best adapted to secure the defeat of any political candidate who will not favor such legislation, and to secure the nomination and election of candidates who can be relied upon to carry out the policy above stated.

"That in view of the substantial majority in favor of prohibition of all the votes polled throughout the Dominion in the recent plebiscite, including an overwhelming majority in all the provinces but one and a large proportion of all the possible votes in those provinces, this meeting desires to express its strong dissatisfaction at the failure of the Government to take any steps to give effect to the will of the people as expressed at the polls.

"That this convention reaffirms that nothing short of the total prohibition of the manufacture, importation and sale of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes throughout the Dominion can be accepted as a settlement of the liquor question. That such prohibition is the only right and effective remedy for the evils of intemperance and must be steadily pressed for until obtained, notwithstanding any temporary delay because of the adverse vote of one section of the Dominion."

After ample and very full discussion the report as a whole was carried.

At the evening session a resolution was passed calling for the suppression of the canteen in militia camps; another that temperance should be properly taught in the public schools; one that cigarettes should be prohibited, and still another congratulating Manitoba on Premier Greenway's stand for prohibition.

The officers elected for the current year are: President, Rev. Dr. W. A. McKay; vice-presidents, Hon. A. Vidal, Hon. J. C. Aikins, Hon. G. W. Ross, Mrs. A. O. Rutherford, Hon. G. A. Cox, George H. SULTANA OF AFGHAN.

SOLOMON IN ALL HIS GLORY NEVER DRESSED MORE LAVISHLY.

In the Matter of Taste, However, the Great Jewish King Was Probably Far Ahead of the Fat Asiatic First Lady of the Land—Why an English Woman Thought She Must Laugh or Die.

An Englishwoman who has spent some time in Afghanistan thus describes her sensations when she first beheld the Sultana:

"Shall I ever forget the appearance of the Sultana when she entered, followed by a crowd of ladies in the most beautiful and costly garments! But for some time these latter were unobserved, my whole attention being divided between the marvelous creature that headed the procession and the most agonizing inclination to laugh—an inclination which almost overpowered me; I felt I must laugh or die.

"How shall I describe her? She is rather under middle height, and distinctly embonpoint; but her dress, her whole get-up, was what was so wonderful. She had evidently been so desirous of making, upon the first Englishwoman she had ever seen, an impression of gorgeous magnificence, that she had far exceeded the limit after which ornaments cease to adorn, and had made a ludicrous spectacle of herself. Instead of wearing the usual Cabul dress, she had on what she was pleased to style a Russian gown. These so-called Russian gowns were made to imitate the crinoline period, and had been copied from old pictures brought from Russia 17 years ago, when the Ameer returned from his long exile. The dress the Sultana wore on this great occasion was of royal blue gros-grain silk, the full trouser of the same material reaching to the ankle, where it was bordered with a fringe of flat diamonds mounted in gold; which fell over a pair of rather high-heeled, massive velvet elastic-side boots with patent-leather toe caps. But the funniest part is yet to come. Over these full trousers she wore an enormously full skirt extending to the calf; this garment I afterward had an opportunity of examining. It was cut just like the cover of an umbrella, and was over 12 yards round the bottom; but, to add even to this great width, it was bordered with three rows of thickly plaited silk. Over this came a second skirt, equally full, but about six inches shorter, edged in the same way; but as though this were not enough to make it stick out from the waist like an old-fashioned ballet girl's attire, the whole thing was lined with stiff net. Wide as the door was, she filled the whole aperture as she came through, and resembled nothing in heaven or earth but a huge walking balloon.

"To relieve all this violent blue, she wore on her shoulders a sheeny white silk shawl; but even this shawl, which as usually worn gives so much softness to the face, was rather stiff and unmanageable and seemed to add to the width; moreover, it could not be thrown over the head in the ordinary way, for the Sultana had on her state head-dress, a stiff velvet cap about four inches high at the back and rising to a peak in the front and covered all over with every imaginable precious stone under the sun. Rubies, emeralds, diamonds, sapphires, topazes, both pink and yellow, and I know not all what. There seemed to be but little design, the great object having evidently been to pile on as many as possible. From the tip of the peak three long marabout feathers descended to the nape of the neck. These she afterward explained were in imitation of Queen Victoria's caps, copied from photographs, of course.

"She was so got up that she looked as if her face had been enameled; and as she had a heavy layer of some cosmetic obscuring her really fine eyebrows, I fancied she could have no natural ones, and put her down as the very ugliest woman I ever met in my life—a nightmare! Her ornaments were both many and great, and must have weighed something. Close round her neck were four rows of gigantic pearls, the largest in the center being about the size of a cooking cherry. Below this was a necklace of flat emeralds, some of which must have measured fully three-quarters of an inch by half an inch, and from the links between these hung huge pearl-shaped emeralds. The necklace was so long as to reach to the waist, round which a waistband of broad gold braid was fastened by a heavy diamond buckle; on either side of the bodice was a watch pocket, the one containing her watch, the other almost concealed by an enormous brooch of emeralds, which secured the other end of the massive gold watch-chain set with very fine Burmese rubies.

"To add to this she wore white silk gloves, over which she wore more rings than I could count, some of them very fine diamonds."

Guaranteeing the Interest.

Winnipeg, July 12.—In the Local House yesterday Mr. Greenway introduced a measure providing for a guarantee of interest on Mackenzie & Mann's railway extension to Gilbert Plains.

MEN OF MARK.

Collis P. Huntington started his superb art collection years ago with the first $5,000 he saved.

Ex-Speaker Reed writes home that he is enjoying his European tour as he never enjoyed a vacation since his school days.

Pittsburg newspapers say that D. T. Watson, a lawyer of that city, has an income in excess of $100,000 a year from his legal practice.

Russell A. Alger, secretary of war, was originally intended for the bar, but his close application to his books so undermined his health that he ceased study.

Horace Nicolas, tribal representative of the Oldtown (Me.) Indian reservation in the state legislature, leads the only Indian brass band in the country and is a composer of note.

Mr. A. J. Balfour scarcely ever reads a daily newspaper. Two secretaries prepare a kind of news summary for him every morning, and he peruses that at the first free moment.

President Eliot of Harvard says he considers Herbert Putnam, librarian of congress, not only one of the best librarians in the country, but one of the best that ever lived anywhere.

The Chinese minister at Washington has proved himself a witty after dinner speaker. Being told of this, Senator Depew quoted Bret Harte's line, "We are ruined by Chinese cheap labor."

Director of the Census William R. Merriam was educated at a Racine school modeled on English lines. He there became an expert cricketer and still retains a great interest in the game.

Lieutenant Governor Worthington of Kentucky, during Governor Bradley's recent two weeks' absence from the state, broke the record by exercising executive clemency in 40 cases, including those of five murderers.

Philip D. Armour was asked by an American friend who met him at Baden how much he made or lost in opposing the Leiter wheat deal. "The public will never know exactly," said Mr. Armour, "for I don't exactly know myself."

Almost any day Dr. Richard Garnett, the recently retired keeper of the printed books in the British museum, may be seen sitting among the ordinary readers in the great rotunda and getting the books he requires by the recognized routine of establishment.

Major Apostolos Mavroyenis of Athens has just celebrated his one hundredth birthday. He studied medicine in Italy, but returned about the time of Byron's death to fight in the war for Greek independence. When he settled in Athens in 1827, the Piraeus was but a collection of squalid hovels.

Tom Mann, the English labor leader, has become landlord of a London tavern. His new venture has created considerable excitement in labor circles. A few years ago he thought of entering the church and actually made his appearance in the pulpit at St. Thomas' Square chapel, Mare street, Hackney.

Walker Whiteside, who has been selected to play the part of Ben-Hur when the dramatization of the book of that name is presented, is a son of Judge Thomas C. Whiteside of the supreme court of Indiana, and Logansport, his native city, is not far from Crawfordsville, where General Wallace wrote his famous novel.

THE BEE KEEPER.

Honey may be taken from the hive at any time while the sun shines.

Honeybees are unable to work in red clover, but can work very well on alfalfa.

Sections filled with foundation are practically as good as those with empty comb.

When you wish to swarm bees use a little smoke. Then they will generally cluster.

Extracted honey requires less skill, but there is more profit in producing the best white comb, for which there is always a demand.

The best time to introduce a queen is in the middle of the day, when the greater part of the bees are at work, full of honey and in good humor.

It is always best to have some extra hives on hand, according to the number of colonies kept, so that a swarm may be hived as soon as it settles.

If a colony becomes queenless and it is not desired to unite it with another, give it a frame of brood from another colony containing brood in its first stages.

In the heat of the day, when the air is full of them on the wing, is the best time to work with bees. They will sting less and the work may be done better than at any other time.—St. Louis Republic.

HUMAN NATURE.

A sick man never looks as sick as a sick woman.

Some men have a way of being mean that counts double.

Very few men can tell of a hailstorm without exaggerating.

When an old bachelor who has been good to his sisters marries, how they criticise his wife!

When a girl has a new engagement ring, she finds many occasions for feeling if her back hair is in good order.

Every one wonders why those ten years older than himself don't put their affairs in shape to be ready when death comes.—Atchison Globe.

QUEER.

Well, where are we at? Here's Pugilist Jeffries declaring for total abstinence and an Episcopal minister denouncing Sunday schools as instruments of the devil.—Boston Herald.

Prizefighter Jeffries declares for total abstinence, and in the same paper a preacher maintains that the Sunday schools are instruments of the devil. Without making a careful analysis we venture to say that the pugilist is the more honest man of the two.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

SISTERLY CITIES.

If The Hague hasn't the right atmosphere for the peacemakers, they might try Philadelphia.

The epidemic of suicides in New York indicates that the people there have discovered that New York is a good place to die in.—Chicago Record.

St. Louis should not place too much reliance in the prediction of Professor Gilbert, who declares Lake Michigan will slop over and make a vast puddle of Chicago.—Washington Post.

THE GLORIOUS TWELFTH.

The Local Orangemen go to Lakefield—Some to Millbrook.

To-day is the 12th of July and the Orangemen are celebrating the anniversary. In this district there are several demonstrations, at Lakefield, at Millbrook, at Kirkfield and at Lindsay. The Peterborough Orangemen are at Lakefield and Millbrook. Those who went to the latter place left on a special at nine o'clock.

The greater number went to Lakefield, leaving on a special at 10.30. No. 80 and No. 221 went to Lakefield. The brethren assembled at the Orange hall at the corner of George and Simcoe-sts., and headed by the Sons of England band marched to the station. The mounted men were Bro. W. A. Kindred, District Master, and Bro. Geo. W. Hall, County Master of Ceremonies, who will be marshall of the day at Lakefield. At Nassau the Nassau Lodge boarded the train, so that there was a good crowd on board when the special reached Lakefield. Many had gone up to Lakefield on the early train.

CHARGES DISMISSED.

The Three Havelock Men Charged With Assault Discharged.

The charges of assault against Wm. Chambers, John Daly and John Jackson, Havelock men, who it was alleged assaulted the woman, Mrs Kellog, and her son, were dismissed to-day. The evidence of the woman and son heard at the first session of the preliminary hearing was contradictory, while evidence of other parties went to establish the innocence of the accused.

No further evidence was taken and to-day the charges were dismissed.

Mrs Kellogg and her son are understood to have left town.

DALLEY'S FAMILY or LIVER PILLS are painless and effectual. Price 10 cents.

A SEVERE STORM.

The Electrical Storm was Severe in the Adjacent Districts.

The storm which passed over town yesterday evening about five o'clock was accompanied with a terrific electrical display in neighboring districts. While not severe here, the thunder and lightning did damage as near as Millbrook and Omemee.

At Millbrook a barn was struck and the lady operator at the Grand Trunk station was rendered unconscious by a shock received.

The telegraph wires also suffered and the Trunk line service from Millbrook outwards and Omemee outwards was put out of business. Repairs were being made to-day.

PICTURESQUE PETERBOROUGH.

A GREAT SUCCESS.

The Annual Outing of St. Luke's Sunday School a Pleasant One.

St. Luke's church Sunday school held its annual picnic yesterday, which was the most successful in every respect for many years. The congregation and their friends supported it nobly and turned out en masse to the tune of over three hundred. Jubilee was the place chosen and the City of Peterborough was chartered for the occasion. The sail down the river was thoroughly enjoyed by all hands and long before Jubilee was reached the pure and bracing atmosphere of the Otonabee made itself left in the lunch baskets. After dinner the following events were run off, much to the joy of the juveniles and amusement of their parents and friends, in charge of a special committee composed of Rev. Herbert Symonds, Rev. John Bushell, Messrs. Frank and Harry Adams, E. A. Peck, Harold Young, who is a host in himself, Wm. Irwin, Wm. Gibbs and Dr. T. W. H. Young:

Girls' race, 5 years and under—1, Alma Curtis; 2, Eva McLean.

Boys' race, 5 years and under — 1, Howard Wyatt; 2, Merton Adams.

Girls' race, 8 years and under—1, Kathleen Long; 2, Mabel Craig.

Boys' race, 8 years and under—1, Chas. Graham; 2, Norman Geale.

Girls' race, 10 years and under—1, Clara Adams; 2, Lillie Scott.

Boys' race, 10 years and under—1, Fred Hickey; 2, Herbert Geale.

Girls' race, 12 years and under—1, Muriel Scott; 2, Lulu Scott.

Boys' race, 12 years and under—1, Sid Ferguson; 2, Willie Connors.

Girls' race, 14 years and under—1, Olive Parker; 2, Rossie Bennett.

Boys' race, 14 years and under—1, Fred Hickey; 2, Willie Connors.

Girls' race, 18 years and under—1, Olive Parker; 2, Sarah McGregor.

Boys' race, 16 years and under—1, Sid Gibbs; 2, Fred Hickey.

Boys' three-legged race—1, Robert Long and Geo. Crows.

Girls' needle race—1, Minnie Graham; 2, Ethel Payne.

Boys' boot race—1, Robert Long; 2, Sid Gibbs.

Lady teacher's race — Miss Alice Tivey; 2, Miss Lillie Fitzgerald.

Hop, step and jump—1, R. McFadden.

Fat men's race—1, Harry Neil.

The entries for this last event were Fred. R. Mitchell, Wm. Gibbs, Wm. Irwin and the conquering hero. When the pistol was fired Harry bounded quickly to the front scoring so wonderfully that Hon. Irwin had a slight palpitation and F. J. R. shouted "Stop him; he'll float out to sea," but in passing the goal posts Harry secured one and was saved. The lady teachers' race was the most graceful event of the entire meeting and the record was again broken.

After the races Mr. R. M. Roy kindly took a group picture of the S.S. scholars and their friends. After a stroll over the Point the picnickers made for the steamer and just before starting Mr. Roy took a snap of the crowded boat. On the home trip the prizes were distributed by the Rector in his usual pleasant and kindly manner to the victors amid great enthusiasm. Popular songs and choruses were indulged in and on entering Little lake "God Save the Queen" was most heartily sung. Ashburnham was reached before 8 o'clock. Just as the boat left Peck's wharf for town St. Luke's gave their Peterborough friends and supporters a grand volley which was returned with interest. Rah, Peterborough.

The picnic was an entire success, both numerically and financially and everyone enjoyed themselves thoroughly, thanks to the popular Rector. Rah, St. Luke's!

THE BROWN MEMORIAL

Some Much-Needed Improvements Made in Central Park.

Alderman Langford, as chairman of the Parks Committee, has greatly improved the appearance of Central Park, and turned an eyesore into a beauty spot. The Brown monument or fountain which stands in Central Park had been neglected for years. Now the fountain and its surroundings have received attention.

The water has been connected with the fountain, for heretofore it was a fountain only in name, never giving forth water or anything else for the refreshment of the wayfarers. Then a granolithic square has been laid about it, and this again surrounded by a sodded plot, which is beautified by two flower beds. The idea was good, and the result is all right.

An ice box will be placed in the fountain and the water turned on, so that the passerby with a thirst will be able to find a cool refreshing drink here at all times.

OBITUARY.

Death of Miss Rachael Helen Roger at "Cordach."

The death occurred yesterday evening at "Cordach," the family residence, of Miss Rachael Helen Roger, third daughter of the late Rev. John M. Roger, and sister of Mr. G. M. Roger. The deceased lady had not been in the best of health for a year or more, and last spring she suffered an attack of grippe, since which time she has been sinking, first gradually and then more rapidly until death came. The deceased was a native of Peterborough, having been born here, and was highly esteemed by an extended circle of friends.

The funeral takes place from the family residence, "Cordach," to-morrow afternoon, at three o'clock, and will proceed to Little Lake cemetery.

THE LATE JAMES DELANEY.

The sad intelligence was received by his relatives yesterday of the death at Grand Forks, Dak., of Mr. James Delaney, son of Mr. John Delaney. Particulars as to the cause of death have not been received. The deceased had been away from town for a number of years, but he will be remembered by many old associates who will regret to hear of his demise. He was a comparatively young man. Interment will take place at Grand Forks.

PRETTY HOUSE WEDDING

Miss Margaret Neill Wedded to Mr. J. A. Phin, of Toronto.

Peterborough friends were much interested in a happy nuptial event, which was celebrated in Brantford yesterday, being the wedding of Miss Maggie Neill, sister of Ald. R. Neill, of town, to Mr. J. A. Phin, of Toronto. The Brantford Expositor referring to the happy event says:—

"The prettiest home wedding of the season was that which took place today at the home of Mrs. Robert Neill, 78 Brant avenue, when Miss Margaret Neill, daughter of the late Robert Neill, of Barrie, was united to Mr. J. A. Phin, of S. T. Britten & Co., Toronto. The wedding was a quiet one, the guests for the most part being the relations of the bride and groom and intimate friends, and for the occasion the beautiful residence was charmingly decorated. The house had veritably the appearance of a conservatory, and on every side there were arranged palms, ferns, vines and flowers, making an appearance that it would be impossible to correctly and creditably describe.

"The hallway at the door was very ingeniously decorated with roses and evergreens. The guests passed through a very pretty arch on going upstairs and through a similar arch of evergreens near the entrance to the dining room. The stairs were draped with lily of the valley leaves, and small vines; and everywhere were palms and ferns, systematically arranged, giving altogether a most cosy appearance.

"The ceremony was carried through most successfully by Rev. S. J. Shorey, of Peterborough, and there was not the slightest delay or hitch. Promptly at 1.30 the bride, leaning on the arm of her brother, Mr. R. Neill, of Peterborough, entered the drawing-room, the splendid Mendelssohn wedding march being played by an orchestra. The bridal procession was an imposing one. An aisle had been prepared and through this the party passed to the place where the nuptial knot was tied. The ceremony took place beneath a floral bell, which was most exquisitely designed. The bell proper was made of carnations, roses and lilies, all of white, and three pink roses formed the tongue.

"Behind the party were a number of pretty vines, so arranged as to form a gate, the background being a mass of palms and ferns. Roses in countless numbers were on all sides.

A little niece of the bride, Miss Margaret Neill, acted as maid-of-honor, and she performed her duties admirably. She was prettily dressed in a lace gown with organdie tucks and carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses. The bride was most charmingly dressed in a white liberty silk over white taffeta and carried white roses. She also wore a very beautiful diamond in a pearl pendant, the gift of the groom.

"After the ceremony dejeuner was served in the dining-hall, and a room more beautifully decorated could not be imagined. The tables were nicely dotted with roses and from one end to the other of them trailed smilax and sweet peas. The happy couple left for points east and will reside in Toronto.

"The gifts to the bride were most beautiful, and it would be difficult to describe them accurately. She received a beautiful display of sterling silverware from the groom's friends, and a number of cheques from her brothers. A very handsome clock came from Mr. Goold, of Montreal. There were many guests and among those from a distance were:

"S. T. Britten, Toronto; Mrs. Ross and Miss Laura Ross, of Guelph; Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Neill, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. J. Phin, Hespeler; Mr. and Mrs. S. Neill and Miss Dora Neill, Guelph; Mr. and Mrs. John Neill, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. John Phin, Hespeler; Mr. Goold, Montreal; Mr. Geo. Morris, Guelph; Mrs. Armstrong, Fergus; Miss Rife and Miss Minnie Roberts, Hespeler; Mrs. J. E. Smith, Thornton; Dr. Charles Neill, Peterborough, and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Gregory, Lindsay."

—The 57th Battalion band is not going to Chemong this evening.

—The absence of light in West Nicholls park prevented the Sons of England band giving their concert last evening.

—The granolithic walk on Water-st. is being laid outside the trees, thus adding to the housefronts and narrowing the street. The change is generally commended.

—Before leaving for Lakefield this morning the Sons of England band rendered a number of selections in front of the Orange hall on George-st.

—The Review has received a number of the Berlin (Germany) newspapers, thanks to the thoughtfulness of Mr. Dickson Hall, of the firm of R. Hall & Son, who is now visiting the European centres on a purchasing tour for the firm.

—Toronto druggists are preparing to fight the Alliance on the question of their right to sell soda water on Sunday. One of the city druggists was recently prosecuted under the Lord's Day Act for selling soft drinks on Sunday and the question will now be settled.

—Two years ago on the 1st July a buggy was stolen from W. J. Graham's barn, Norwood. Though every effort was made for its recovery no trace of it could be found until June 30th when Mr. Graham found it in Belleville, in possession of an individual who lives in or near the city. As there were private marks on the buggy by which it could be easily identified, Mr. Graham had no difficulty in proving his property. The person in whose possession it was, claimed to have purchased it from a stranger shortly after it was stolen.

The Sting Within

It is said there is a rankling thorn in every heart, and yet that none would exchange their own for that of another. Be that as it may, the sting arising from the heart of a corn is real enough, and in this land of tight boots a very common complaint also. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor is a never failing remedy for this kind of heartache, as you can easily prove if afflicted. Cheap, sure, painless. Try the genuine and use no other.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

He Beat the Turk.

Professor Comstock of Cornell in speaking to his class on the trials of scientists told this authentic tale of the experience of a professor of invertebrate zoology in a sister institution, which had better be left nameless.

Trichinæ in pork, the cause of the frightful disease trichinosis in human consumers, give a peculiar appearance to meat, which is studded with little cysts. It is then known to the trade as "measly pork." The learned scientist, wishing some for study, went to the butcher and asked if he ever got any measly pork.

"Sometimes," said the butcher cautiously, "but I always throw it away."

"Well," said the professor, "the next time you have any I wish you'd send me up some," meaning, of course, to his laboratory.

The butcher stared at him, but said he would. Three weeks passed, when the professor, growing impatient, again dropped in.

"Haven't you found any measly pork yet?"

"Why, yes," said the butcher. "I sent up two pounds a week ago."

A sickly grin broke over the professor's face.

"Where did you send it?" said he.

"Why, to your house, of course," said the butcher.—Kansas City Times.

Jerry's Version of It.

A prominent Detroit woman with a great interest in juvenile mission work has this excellent anecdote to tell:

One of her classes in a certain mission is composed of little street children to the number of 20 or more whose ages range from 3 to 6. Most of the scholars are boys, though now and then one notices the pinched face of a little daughter of poverty in the ranks.

The other day the lesson was on the peculiarities of English. Words that are pronounced alike and spelled differently and words that are pronounced differently but spelled alike were discussed at length. She explained the difference between lead the metal and lead the verb, and the children grasped the point instantly. Then she took the two words "week" and "weak." She explained the difference in the meaning and use to the tots, and then called up a little fellow, aged 5, to use the word "weak" in a phrase. The little fellow thought a moment, then answered, "A weak old woman." The teacher nodded her approval, and smiled into the eyes upturned to hers.

"Now, Jerry Ryan," she said, turning to another little boy, "you take the word 'week' and use it in a phrase."

Jerry thought a minute, and then, he, too, replied, "A week old baby."—Detroit Free Press.

His Final Request.

A Scotch farmer, celebrated in his neighborhood for his immense strength and skill in athletic exercises, very frequently had the pleasure of contending with people who came to try their strength against him. Lord D., a great pugilistic amateur, went from London on purpose to fight the athletic Scot. The latter was working in an inclosure at a little distance from his house when the noble lord arrived. His lordship tied his horse to a tree and addressed the farmer. "Friend, I have heard marvelous reports of your skill and have come a long way to see which of us two is the better wrestler."

The Scotchman, without answering, seized the nobleman, pitched him over the hedge and then set about working again. When Lord D. got up, "Well," said the farmer, "have you anything to say to me?"

"No," replied his lordship, "but perhaps you'd be good enough to throw me my horse."—Public Opinion.

Fooled the Passengers.

A man sitting in an electric car the other day pulled out of his pocket his handkerchief, when out sprang what seemed to be a snake. It wriggled and jumped around on the floor at a great rate. The ladies screamed and huddled together, the men made for it, and one stamped his foot on it, but upon examination it proved to be a copper wound bass piano wire, which the man with the handkerchief had coiled up in his pocket and, having become uncoiled, jumped to the floor. How the women looked daggers at him after they became quieted down was a caution. He soon got off, we presume to put it in the piano that needed it, not because of the looks of the women.—Salem Gazette.

Once Was Enough.

This is one of General Miles' stories. In the Confederate army, Longstreet's corps was making a night march. About 4 o'clock in the morning, when every one was worn out, a Georgia regiment stopped. A Georgia soldier put his rifle up against the tents on the other side of where Longstreet was.

"Well," he said, "this is pretty hard—to fight all day and march all night. But I suppose I can do it for love of my country." He continued: "I can go hungry, I can fight, if need be, I can die for my country, because I love my country. But when this war is over I'll be blowed if I'll ever love another country!"—Woman's Journal.

MISS CAPRICE.

BY ST. GEORGE RATHBONE

Author of "Doctor Jack," "Doctor Jack's Wife," "Captain Tom," "Miss Pauline of New York," Etc.

there was my opportunity. I embraced it. Both were out of breath, but I held him there, pinned to the earth. Great is Allah, and Mohammed is his prophet."

"Did you make him confess?"

"I tried to persuade by silvery speech, but it did not meet with success. Then I turned to muscular force. Monsieur, when Abdul el Jabel saw I was in earnest, he cried out for fear, and swore by all the prophets that if I would let hielvm mbatkkal 'vkph s ow lp of mm him live he would confess the truth."

"Good, good!" says John, pleased with the business qualities of his guide.

"Begar! it ees better san one play," mutters the French agent.

"So I made the miserable driver confess that he had entered into an arrangement with one of the robbers to upset us between Birkadeen and Al Jezira, so that they could make the capture."

"The villain! he deserves hanging. I hope you executed Arab justice on him then and there."

Mustapha shakes his head.

"Monsieur forgets. I had given my word. An Arab will never break that. But I let him go after a few kicks, which, you see, I have learned to give from the Franks. He will not go back. He now becomes an open ally of Bab Asoun, the desert tirger."

"Well——"

"Monsieur, one word more. He could not tell me all, but gave me to understand that Bab Asoun was in the employ of another party, some Frank who loves revenge."

This opens up a new vista, John is visibly agitated by the news.

"I believe I see light; the hand of Pauline Potter is behind it all."

"Monsieur, pardon."

"Well, what is it now?"

"From all he said I was inclined to believe it was a man who bought Bab Asoun."

"Yes, yes; but he may have been mistaken. Besides, Blunt fought like a tiger. It does not matter just now. What we want to do is to rescue them all."

"That is right."

"You came upon the scene just as these friends of mine were overpowered. Tell us what next occurred."

"A move was made. I feared that it would be the end, for Bab Asoun and his followers usually dash into the desert when they have secured plunder, the pursuit from the French soldiers being what they fear, since the Algerian rulers have given all over into the hands of the Franks.

"Monsieur, I was surprised to see them start off on foot. I was more than pleased to find that they took a chemin de travers or what you call a country cross road that leads to the deserted mines or caves of Metidja. This told me they were encamped there, and I heard one man telling another they would not leave until morning, as they had other business in hand."

At this John plucks up courage. The thought of Lady Ruth being miles away, mounted on a fast horse and speeding toward some desert fastness of the robbers, was one to almost paralyze his brain, for the chances of his doing anything to help her in such a case were few and far between.

"What can we do, Mustapha? We are bold and determined, still we are only three against an army. The odds are great."

"Ah! monsieur, it might be beyond our power to overcome the fighters of Bab Asoun by force, but there are other ways."

"Thank Heaven, yes."

"The battle is not always to the strong nor the race to the swift."

"He speaks like se prophet," murmurs Monsieur Constans, gazing upon the sublime face and magnificent figure of the Arab courier with something that partakes of the nature of awe.

"True we are three—they are forty. If we venture to attack we will meet death. That is very good; death comes to all men, and the Koran teaches us that the brave who die in battle, with their faces toward the foe, are transported immediately to paradise. That is why the followers of Mohammed never know fear in battle. But if we die, what then becomes of those in the hands of Bab Asoun?"

"Ay, what indeed?" mournfully.

"Therefore, to save them, monsieur, we must try to live."

"It ees good; we will live," echoes the Gaul.

"And rescue the prisoners of the desert tiger."

"How far away are these deserted mines?"

"About a mile."

"Among the hills on this side of the plain known as Metidja?"

"It is even so, illustrious Frank, on a line with that snowy peak, Djara Djura, which towers above the Atlas Mountains."

"Your plan, Mustapha—speak, for I know you have been considering it."

The courier places his hand on his chest and bows. Praise delights even the tympanum of an Arab, and flattery gains favor in the most unexpected quarter.

"Ciel! we are in the agony of suspense," declares the Frenchman, never once taking his eyes off the Arab's face.

"Great is Allah, and Mohammed is his prophet. I am but as a grain of sand on the sea-shore. Let the praise be his."

With this preliminary, Mustapha gives his plan of action briefly.

It was his intention to go to Al Jezira, to seek the French commandant at the barracks known as the Kasbah, and give him the information concerning Bab Asoun.

It has long been the ambition of the various French generals stationed in Algeria to kill or capture the notorious desert prince who for years has defied their power, suddenly making a bold dash upon some point, and, leaving smoking ruins in his wake, as mysteriously vanish.

Again and again have they sought to track his band over the plains, along the desert and into the wild recesses of the mountains, but it has always turned out a failure. Bab Asoun, on his native heath, laughs them to scorn, and once laid an ambuscade in which the soldiers suffered badly.

Hence, it can be set down as certain that the military governor of Algiers will be delighted with a chance to surround the tiger of the desert, and his band, so close to the city—that as soon as the news is carried to him he will fit out a secret expedition against the enemy.

Now that there are three of them instead of one, it is not necessary that all should go. A single messenger is enough.

Whom shall it be?

Fate decrees.

They look to Monsieur Constans. Mustapha is needed to serve as a guide to the old mines, and Doctor Chicago ought to be on hand, because it is to rescue his friends they go.

Even the French agent recognizes this fact.

"Parbleu! Monsieur Craig, it ees right I should go. Besides, I am well acquaint wis se commandant. Zen, let us consider se business as settle. I shall away to se Kasbah, and zen in due time look for se swoop of se seoaves. Begar! if Emile Constans may have a hand in se capture of zat deevil, se reward will allow him to visit se adorable Paris again. I am off. I shall let nothing stop me. Adieu!"

With a majestic wave of the hand, he turns his back on them and runs.

They stand and listen.

Plainly can they hear him plunging on through the darkness in the direction of the spot where the old stage was left. Once, twice, he measures his length on the ground, only to scramble to his feet, and uttering choice Parisian invectives, continue his flight.

"Now he reaches the stage," says John.

Then comes the crack of a whip.

"They are off. Jupiter! what a noise he makes! How the old stage rattles and bangs. The man is raving mad to plunge over such ground at a reckless pace like that. He will surely meet the same fate, sooner or later, that befell the old vehicle we were in. He only thinks of the reward; of a great holiday lasting six months, on the boulevards and in the cafes of Paris. Sometimes there is a slip between—— Great Scott! he's over!" as there comes a grand smash and then utter silence.

Mustapha appears uneasy.

"Monsieur, it is their worst fault; they are too hot-blooded. Not so the English. He is dead."

"Hark!"

Now they hear the clatter of a horse's hoofs; the sound heads towards Algiers.

"Has that horse a rider, Mustapha?" asks John, ready to rest his decision upon the trained ear of the Arab.

"It is even so. You hear yourself; runs too regularly to be loose."

As he speaks they catch a cry from the quarter where the horse runs, a cry as of a rider urging his steed on.

"That is enough. Monsieur Constans is on the way to the Kasbah. Now we can turn our heads in the direction of the mines of Metidja."

"It is well. Follow me, monsieur," says the courier, gravely.

"We may need this," holding up the lantern.

"It would be dangerous to carry it, for the eyes of Bab Asoun's men are like owls'. Besides, monsieur, we do not need it. Another lantern will give us all the light Allah desires."

As he speaks he points toward the east, where, just peeping above the hill-top is a golden rim like a monster eye that is about to be fastened upon the earth below.

"The moon; that is a blessing. I accept it as an augury of success. Mustapha, I am ready. Lead on, and may the God of battles decide for the right."

KITTY'S PICTURE.

I took my kitty yesterday
To have her picture made;
They wanted me to hold her still
Because she was afraid.

(I never have my picture took,
Because I always cry,
When it begins to stare at me,
That awful camera's eye).

My kitty wiggled all about
And stood upon her head,
And I forgot the camera
Until—"All done!" they said.

But when the picture came it was
The queerest thing—you see,
The kitty didn't show at all—
The picture was of me!

INDIANS CAPTURE A SAFE.

Disgust of Some Apaches With $7,000 in Their Possession.

"The Apache Indians had a hard nut to crack when they got hold of our paymaster's safe," said the ex-sergeant of cavalry who was asked about his experiences in Arizona. "On this particular trip I was detailed with six men to escort him. He and his clerk rode in an ambulance drawn by mules, and of course the escort were mounted. We were in camp one night between two forts when we were jumped by at least 100 Indians. They killed two men before we got out, and of course the ambulance was left in their hands.

"The paymaster's safe contained about $7,000 in greenbacks. It weighed something like 400 pounds and worked with a combination. None of the redskins had ever examined one at close quarters before, but they all knew what it was hauled about from post to post for, and of course they were anxious to get hold of the money. They first pounded off the knob with stones, thinking the door could then be pried open. It was a failure, of course, and then they tried their tomahawks on the chilled steel, hoping to cut a hole in it. They had seen iron softened by fire, and the third move was to give that safe a three hours' roasting. Luckily for Uncle Sam it was fireproof. They threw big rocks upon it while it was still hot, and it was dented here and there, but they were as far from the money as ever. After working away for a night and a day the safe was dragged up the side of a mountain and tumbled over a precipice 200 feet high. They expected to see it burst open, but the only damage done was to break one of the wheels off. It was left lying where it fell for three or four days, and the gang then returned and carried it to the river and let it soak for a whole week. It was thought that this would soften it up, and great was their chagrin when baffled again. Then they tried gunpowder, but knowing nothing of blasting, they brought about an explosion which burned half a dozen warriors and left the safe as good as ever.

"The Indians were fooling with that strong box for a month or more. They roasted it again, and they gave it another fall, and no burglars ever worked harder to get at the long green. They failed to get at the inside, however, and in disgust they tumbled it into a deep ravine and left it. It was 14 months later that peace came, and we accidentally got track of the safe. An ambulance and a guard were sent for it, and we found it lying in the bed of a creek with a great pile of driftwood piled around it. It was a lonesome looking old safe, as you may suppose, and nobody had the slightest hope that the money had escaped fire and water. When we got it to the fort and blew off the door, we found the $7,000 as snug as you please. Some of the bills were a little tender from the heat and some had grown moldy from the water, but Uncle Sam redeemed every dollar, and the paymaster was made happy again.

Put Out as a Feeler.

Mr. Willingham—What would you do, Mr. Rockington, if I were to ask you for your daughter in marriage?

Mr. Rockington—Well, that is something that I hardly want to answer offhand.

Mr. Willingham—I'm glad of that. Now, if I could be sure that you would not answer with your foot I would feel free to go ahead.

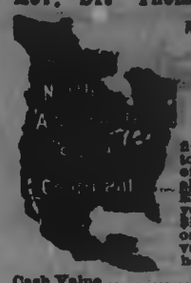
Rev. Dr. Thompson Testifies



Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director North American Life Assurance Co., Toronto:

DEAR SIR,—Your official notice came duly to hand, apprising me of the result obtainable upon my 15-year Endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000, which matured on the 5th inst. Of the various options you have given me, viz.:

Cash Value.....$1 564 96
Paid-up policy, payable at my death.....2,500.00
Yearly income for life of.....166 20

I have decided upon the cash value; and it gives me pleasure to testify that, as I anticipated it would be when I took out the policy, it is very satisfactory. This returns me the full premium of the 15 years and over 4 per cent compound interest, in addition to which you have carried the risk upon my life. In view of the lowering rate of interest which have been obtainable during the later portion of the period, it is difficult to see how this excellent result could have been surpassed.

Yours sincerely,
REV. J. THOMPSON, D.D.

MADE A TOP SCORE.

The Shooting Begun at Bisley—Lieut. Blair Made a Score of 50 Out of a Possible 50.

Bisley Camp, July 12.—The National Rifle Association's great annual carnival is now in full swing. The competitions really started yesterday, although the meeting opened the afternoon before with revolver practice for prizes at the Stickledown range. The Canadians are on the ground and all look fit enough to do their whole duty. They are comfortably housed in their pretty bungalow, which, in decoration and general aspect, differs very little from its appearance last year. The weather is exceedingly hot and the wind yesterday was peculiarly shifty for those at the butts. Some of the team, nevertheless, went into the open competitions, more for the practice than with the idea of capturing any of the leading prizes. Sergt.-Major Huggins of the 10th made a couple of very good targets in the Golden Penny and Premier. Lieut. Gilchrist and Sergt. Crowe also put in some good bull's eyes at these ranges.

The Golden Penny.

The Golden Penny is an unequadded competition, which is open to all comers from yesterday until next Monday, seven shots, kneeling, at 200 yards. First prize, a gold medal the size of a penny; five drawings for second and third, valued at five guineas, and £45 in money prizes added.

The Premier is also an open unequadded competition for the same period, seven shots at 600 yards. First prize, a £91 Coventry bicycle and £100 in money prizes.

In the Golden Penny, at 200 yards, Sergt.-Major Huggins of the 13th scored an inner with his first shot and followed with six successive "bulls," 34 out of a possible 35. Lieut. Gilchrist, 1st R.F.A., made precisely the same score.

In the Premier, at 600 yards, Sergt.-Major Huggins was again in evidence with four bulls, an inner and two bulls, while Sergt. Crowe made his 34 with two bulls, an inner and four bulls following.

Blair Made a Top Score.

In the Burt competition yesterday, Lieut. H. C. Blair of the 79th Battalion put in ten good bullseyes and made a top score of 50; Sergt. L. T. Bertram of the 77th Battalion was next, with 48; Pte. J. H. Simpson of the 10th Royal Grenadiers, 47; Lieut. A. Robertson of the 77th Battalion, 46; Lieut. R. A. Robertson, 13th Battalion, 46; Sergt.-Major Huggins of the 10th Royal Grenadiers, 46.

The "Burt" is open to all comers from yesterday until Monday next, ten shots, at 200 yards. The first prize is an oil painting and $45; one prize of $20, one of $4, six of $2, 93 of $1.

The "Armourers Company," an unequadded competition, opened yesterday and concluded on Monday. It is open to all comers, the distance is 900 yards and the number of shots ten. The aggregate value is placed at $55. In this competition Lieut. Blair made a score of 46. The wind and weather was in the proper condition for shooting in both of these events.

The commandant of the Canadian team, Lieut.-Col. McLean, dined in London last night with the Marquis of Lorne.

DROWNING ACCIDENTS.

Death by Water at Madoc, Collingwood and Bayfield, Ont.

Madoc, Ont., July 12.—Little 5-year-old Walter West, only son of Norman West, was drowned at noon yesterday in a cistern which was left uncovered for repairs. Every effort to resuscitate was made, but without avail.

Nurse Was Drowned.

Collingwood, July 12.—Yesterday the body of John Burns, teamster, was found in the harbor at the end of the town wharf. He had been missing since Saturday, and was supposed to have been drowned, as he was last seen going toward the bay. He is said to have been intoxicated. He leaves a wife and eight children, seven girls and one boy, the eldest being but 15 years of age.

Boy Drowned at Bayfield.

Bayfield, Ont., July 12.—A son of Mr. Houston, principal of the High school at Clinton, one of a picnic party, was drowned while in bathing yesterday. He got beyond his depth, and before assistance could reach him was drowned. His body was found 25 minutes after, too late to be revived. He was 14 years old.

Lived and Died a Coward.

Listowel, Ont., July 12.—William Manning, a laborer about 40 years of age, of this town, was in the habit of beating his wife when he got the worse of liquor, and gave her a beating on Saturday morning, after which she laid a complaint against him before the magistrate. When he found it out he gave her another beating. Saturday evening, finding the constable was coming to arrest him Monday morning, he said he would never appear before the magistrate and took a drink of laudanum and died yesterday, leaving a large family in very poor circumstances.

McDonald Sentenced.

Kingston, Ont., July 12.—At the Police Court yesterday morning William McDonald, aged about 45, was sent to the Kingston Penitentiary for two years on each of the three charges of theft, sentences to run concurrently.

Toronto, July 12.—The run of live stock at the cattle market yesterday was large, 72 loads all told, composed of 1,100 cattle, 500 sheep, 50 calves and 1,200 hogs. The quality of fat cattle was only medium. Some few lots of good cattle were offered, but there are altogether too many unfinished animals coming forward. EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, N.Y., July 12.—Cattle—There is considerable apprehension owing to the active restrictions of the United States Government in the matter of the duty of $2.75 per head on all cattle over a year old. Shookers not worth on the average over $3 to $10 are too heavily burdened by a duty of $2.75, and the tariff is practically prohibitive.

Sheep and Lambs—Spring lambs, $6.50 to $6.75; sheep, $5 to $5.25. Clipped lambs, dry fed, were quotable $5.25 to $5.50.

Hogs—Heavy were quotable $4.25; mixed, $4.27½ to $4.30; Yorkers, $4.30; roughs, $3.65 to $3.75.

A WRONG IDEA OF... DYSPEPSIA

Throws all the Blame on the Stomach—The Real Seat of Trouble is the Intestines—The Permanent Cure is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

It is an old idea long since exploded that digestion is confined to the stomach. No modern scientist denies that by far the greater part of digestion and the more difficult part takes place in the intestines. This explains why dyspepsia is never really cured by preparations which merely aid stomach digestion and act only on the stomach.

This fact also explains why Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have been so remarkably successful as a cure for the worst forms of dyspepsia and indigestion.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills act directly on the kidneys, liver and bowels, and give new tone and vigor to the intestines, and make them able to perform their work of digesting the substances on which the stomach has no effect.

Stomach treatment may do well enough for slight indigestion, but if you have chronic indigestion or dyspepsia of a serious nature you can profit by the experience of scores of thousands who have been permanently cured by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. One pill a dose, 25c. a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

The Usual Lay.

A sweet little poem entitled "The Lay of a Song Bird" is being printed in the newspapers. The lay of a song bird is commonly an egg.

Is the baby too thin?

Does he increase too slowly in weight?

Are you in constant fear he will be ill?

Then give him more flesh. Give him more power to resist disease. He certainly needs a fat-forming food.

Scott's Emulsion is just that food. It will make the baby plump; increase the weight; bring color to the cheeks, and prosperity to the whole body. Thin children take to it as naturally as they do to their milk.

LODGE DOCTORS.

The Question Before the Ontario Medical Council.

The subject of lodge practice continues to cause discussion among the medical men of Ontario. An interim report was presented at the Ontario Medical Council Saturday morning with reference to lodge doctors. The committee expressed hesitation about bringing in a final report until next year when fuller information was at hand.

A proposal to send circulars to the different fraternal societies was not approved by Drs. McLaughlin, Thorburn, Moore, Thornton, and Powell. It was pointed out that the Medical Council could easily pass edicts with reference to the matter but it was another thing to obtain good results from such a course.

Dr. Barrick, the chairman of the committee, said that as long as the Medical Council held that nothing could be done, nothing would be done. He asked that the committee should have the privilege of collecting information before the matter was disposed of finally. He thought that the doctors and members of the friendly societies could settle the question, but, until that time, he thought a thorough investigation ought to be pursued. If the Council didn't wish information he would let the idea drop.

Several other members of the council thought the Medical Council might get into trouble by meddling in the matter. Dr. Dickson, of Pembroke, said that lodge practice was an undesirable thing, and that he would hoe potatoes before he would have anything to do with it.

The topic showed signs of getting warm, and, as the Medical Council is a very parliamentary body, further discussion was suspended.

The following members of the Council were appointed to confer with the prosecutor in cases which may be instituted during the year:—Drs. Britton, Barrick, Gelkie, Thornburn, Macdonald and Emery.

A Biking Spill.

Presently the young men who scorch on their wheels down the Hunter-st. hill will learn some sense. There is nothing that so much discourages the scorcher as a good hearty spill and repair bill. The facts linger in his memory long after his bruises have healed. There was a beautiful spill on Hunter-st. just at the Bethune-st. crossing at noon to-day. Speed will tell, and it did this time, resulting in a cut face, a wrecked wheel and general indignation. Both contestants will realize the force of the rules to ride at moderate speed and to turn to the right. As both were wheelmen there is no special need for sympathy, the pedestrian fortunately not being mixed up in it. One may sometimes turn to the left—in an emergency—and get out all right, but it should be done as David Harum advises, "do it fust." After the collision the bicycle appeared as follows:—

MR. BLEZARD'S EYES OPENED

As What He Saw in Algoma and He will Henceforth be a Warm Friend of That District.

The Sudbury Journal has the following reference to East Peterborough's representative's explorations in Algoma:—

Mr. Thos. Blezard, M.P.P. for East Peterborough, one of the Algoma tourist party, and who was invited to visit Sudbury by the deputation which went up to the Sault last week, arrived in town from the west Monday morning. Mr. Blezard is one of the oldest members of the House, having been in the Legislature for over twenty-one years, and has never been defeated. He was delighted with his western trip, and declared that, like the great majority of the residents of older Ontario, he could not believe that Algoma possessed such great resources until he had seen it with his own eyes. Like others, he had believed it was only a mass of rock, carrying in some places mineral, but on the whole worthless as an agricultural country. While he had repeatedly in the House backed up the demands of the members for Algoma and Nipissing for grants for roads, etc., he often thought they were stretching the truth when they spoke of the vast resources of these districts, and the duty of the Government in opening up and developing the country. Mr. Blezard goes home with entirely new ideas. To use his own words, "The half has not been told," and we believe that in future when any question comes up in the Legislature affecting the interests of these districts they will have no stronger advocate in the House than the member for East Peterborough.

Mr. Blezard, after his arrival in town, first drove out to take a look at the township named after himself. On his return, in company with Mayor Ryan and Messrs. Jas. McCormick and S. N. Doyle, he visited Copper Cliff, and was much interested in viewing the various mines of the Canadian Copper Company and the extensive operations carried on. In the afternoon, with Messrs. R. Martin, S.N. Doyle and the Journal representative, he was taken for a drive over the Murray Mine road to Chelmsford. The northern half of Mr. Blezard's constituency is one of the roughest in Old Ontario, but he had no hesitation in declaring that the road to the Murray Mine was the worst he had ever travelled over, and he assured those with him that he would embrace the first opportunity of impressing on Hon. Mr. Gibson the necessity for making a liberal grant for the building of a new road from Sudbury to Rayside. With the appearance of the country through Rayside and Balfour Mr. Blezard was both delighted and astonished, and could scarcely believe it possible that there was such a magnificent farming country so near Sudbury, and yet so difficult of access from this town. The other members of the party very generously offered to bring Mr. Blezard back over a much worse road through the Township of Blezard, but he had no desire to travel over anything worse, and the others did not press the matter. At Chelmsford the party were well entertained by Mr. P. O'Donnell at the Algoma House, and were accompanied back through the northern portion of Rayside by Reeve Belanger and Mr. I. Hortie, reaching town about 10 p.m. Several members of the Council and Mr. D. L. McKinnon, of Copper Cliff, afterwards called on Mr. Blezard at the American Hotel parlor, to whom he expressed the great pleasure he had experienced in visiting Sudbury, and the very hospitable manner in which he had been treated.

We are confident that great good will result from Mr. Blezard's visit to this place. As an old and valued supporter of the Government any recommendation he makes should have due weight, and from what he said while here we are satisfied that he will back up any reasonable request.

A Thousand Tongues

Could not express the rapture of Annie E. Springer, of 1125 Howard-st., Philadelphia, Pa., when she found that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption had completely cured her of a hacking cough that for many years had made life a burden. FIELD OF GENERAL SPORT

Golf.

Apropos of the coming tournament at Ottawa for the Canadian championships, it is a very noticeable fact that for some reason golf in Canada dies out almost entirely during June, July and August. It does not seem to be so anywhere else. Matches and tournaments of all kinds and degrees in the Old Land, in Australia and all over the United States go on as briskly in the summer months as in the spring and autumn. For the past few weeks practically nothing has been heard of the clubs of either the Upper or Lower Provinces. No tournaments have been held, no matches of any moment played off. An utter stagnation falls upon the golfers in the three hot months of the playing season, which in Canada is too short under any circumstances. In contrast, note the activity of both the women and men in the United States, where almost all the big club tournaments are held in July and August.

Lacrosse

The Brampton lacrosse team, accompanied by several supporters, arrived at noon to-day and are playing the local team in a league match this afternoon.

Toronto Telegram: Brampton went down before the Tecumsehs on the Rosslea lacrosse grounds Monday in a pretty exposition of the national game. The islanders were short Davis and Grimes, and played home fielders on defence, consequently the Brampton team scored more games than they were entitled to; but the total—Tecumsehs 5, Brampton 3—was a pretty fair representation of the play. Brampton made the pace from the start, and for the first game made the heart of Doc Roberts glad. After that it was all Tecumseh. The Brampton crowd, after the victory over Peterborough, expected better things of their team, and were not very enthusiastic. However, they have a fast team, a trifle light and young, but licensed to do better in future. Brown and Claridge are probably the Excelsior stars, though Whitehead in goal did a lot of good work. That erstwhile phenom., Hollis, found Patterson too hard a proposition.

Wheeling.

Teddy Edwards, the famous cyclist, who made a world's record last year for century riding, reeling off 250 centuries on consecutive days, was in Toronto the other day. He is riding through on his way to San Francisco, having left New York a week ago. It is purely a pleasure trip, and Mr. Edwards says that he doesn't care whether it takes him two years to complete the ride or not. "I can afford to wheel along now with upturned handlebars and to wear a linen shirt," he jocularly remarked. "I have had enough of riding with my nose touching my front tire." Mr. Edwards last year attempted to ride 100 miles every day, but he had only completed 259 when he was compelled to desist, having contracted typhoid fever at Terre Haute, Ind., as a result, he says, of drinking some water at that place. "Teddy," as he is generally known, is an Englishman, and though of slight build he is possessed of remarkable staying powers and pluck. The Columbia firm, for which he contracted to ride last year, were put to an enormous expense while he was on the road, having to pay for pacing, training, hotel and travelling expenses. Edwards has just returned from Paris, where he was for two months. Horseless vehicles of all kinds are the rage over there, he says, and it is a common sight to see fifteen or twenty motor tricycles tearing around the tracks at a speed of twenty to thirty miles an hour.

Tennis.

Messrs. O'Connor, Harding, McLean and Kennedy, of the Lindsay Tennis Club, played a match with the Millbrook team in the latter town on Monday. The Lindsay boys suffered defeat, but expect to redeem themselves in the return match, which takes place in Lindsay next Friday. The following is the score: O'Connor, (L) beat Mulligan (M) 6-0, 6-2; Wood (M) beat Harding (L) 6-4, 6-3; White, (M) beat McLean (L) 6-1, 6-1; Needler (M) beat Kennedy (L) 4-6, 7-5, 6-1; Wood and White (M) beat Harding and McLean (L), 6-4, 6-1; Mulligan and Needler beat Kennedy and O'Connor (L), 6-4, 6-1.

THE JOLLY BEST MAN.

HE TELLS WHAT HEAPS OF FUN HE HAS HAD AT WEDDINGS.

His Experiences, as He Relates Them, Also Explain Why He Remains, as He Says He Always Will Remain, a Free and Easy Bachelor.

"This," said the bachelor, "has been my busy week. I'm it for two weddings, and I've been attending to my duties as best man. The weddings aren't due for several days, but the arduous duties of my role began ten days ago. I'll never get married. No, sirree! If there wasn't any other reason, why, I'd never have the cruelty to ask a friend of mine to go through the troubles of a best man. I've been through them too often myself. In the first place, they"—

"Who?"

"Oh, the individuals commonly referred to as 'the happy man.' Happy! You never saw such a good imitation of blue funk as a bridegroom to be can give during his last week of bachelorhood. His mental and moral teeth are all of a chatter, and he clings to his best man like a prisoner to his last hope. I've jollied a dozen of them through that interesting period, and I've seen good, sensible, hard headed fellows go clean daft before they got through.

"I'll never forget one chap. The wedding was to be at 12 o'clock, and of course we were out in the vestry a quarter of an hour ahead of time, so as to be sure to be ready. That is one advantage the man has. He can drive there with a leisurely margin to spare, but the bride has to time her trip so as to get to the front door as nearly as possible on the stroke of the hour. Of course she doesn't want to wait around the vestibule, so she is generally at least a few minutes late.

"But, bless you, the bridegroom never thinks of that. He just walks holes in the vestry carpet, eats the ends off his glove fingers and bullyrags the longsuffering best man. This particular chap began to fume about five minutes before 12 o'clock. At three minutes to 12 he was white with terror. When his watch showed the very hour, he began saying things.

"'She ain't coming!' he mapped out. 'I won't wait.'

"'Go 'way with you!' I said. 'Did you think she was so anxious to have you that she'd come down here at daybreak to be sure to be on time?'

"'But it's past the time now,' he protested, showing me his watch, which indicated 30 seconds after 12. I learned later to get hold of the happy man's watch before we went to the church and turn it back from 5 to 20 minutes, according to his condition. This time, unhappily, I hadn't done so, and the poor fellow simply got more frightened with every tick of his watch. At two minutes after 12 he made a dive for the door.

"'I won't wait,' he said when I caught him by the arm. 'I tell you I won't wait to be made a laughing stock of. Those people in there,' jerking his thumb toward the church, 'are talking about it now. I can hear them. They know she won't come. I tell you I won't s'ay.'

"'But I tell you she'll be here in a few minutes,' I protested. 'She's only a little late.'

"'Well, then, if she's late she isn't worth waiting for anyway. I—she'—

"He was just a blethering idiot by that time, you know, and I simply restrained him by force for a few minutes until we were notified that the young lady had arrived. Then I wiped the cold perspiration from his forehead and from mine addressed him in a few bracing phrases which shriveled the paper on the vestry walls, took him by his arm—limp it was as a rag—and steered him into the church.

"Why, you've no idea of the number of snags a prospective bridegroom runs against the week before he is married. I'll never forget the first time one of them came to me to be rescued from the hat problem. He had that look of utter despair I've so often seen on their faces, poor things! He looked as if he was saying:

"'I've put up with everything, and I've been as meek as a Christian martyr, but the worm has turned.'

"What he did say was, 'How do I get my hat?'

"'Hat?' I said.

"'That's what I said,' he declared. 'How do I get my hat? Tell me that, will you?'

"'Beg or borrow it, my dear fellow,' I said, recovering myself and trying to be facetious. 'That is the favorite method of obtaining it. I don't advise you to steal one unless you want to do a comic opera act and pass your wedding eve in the county jail.'

"'Don't get gay,' he said briefly, 'but tell me how I am to get my hat after the ceremony is over. I've had a sleepless night over that thing. I go into the church by the back door, don't I? And I go out by the front door. Now, how do I get my hat when I go out?' he persisted, his voice getting higher. 'I can't take it to the altar with me, and I can't ask to be excused after the ceremony so that I can run back to the vestry and get it. What am I going to do, I want to know?'

"Well now, you know, most people don't think of those little things until they run right up against them, but I tell you when a bridegroom to be meets a problem, even if it's one that wouldn't fease an infant, he just topples back on to his best man and howls for help. I've got two of them on my hands now, and the two of them together won't be as happy as I shall be when their carriage doors have both banged shut and they are off on their honeymoons. I don't know what excuse other people have for that tired feeling, but the best man at a wedding needs no other excuse."—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Comparative Success.

"Yes," said the man who was showing him around, "that's Professor Allover, the eminent writer on scientific subjects. He is a perfect walking cyclopedia, and there's hardly a branch of knowledge he hasn't studied profoundly, but he has no head for business affairs. In fact, he has to write for the scientific publications in order to make a living."

"What a failure he's made of life, hasn't he?" exclaimed Mr. Gaswell, leaning comfortably back in the carriage.—Chicago Tribune.

Rather Give Than Receive.

"Penniless at last!" said she to herself. In the meanwhile the conductor stood looking moodily at the five copper coins.—Indianapolis Journal.

"Fusil" was the old name for the flint lock to distinguish it from the match lock, and fusileers were those who carried fusils.

The Doctor's Servant.

Calino, the French "Mrs. Partington," does not amuse so much by the confusion of his words as by the quaintness and unintended plainness of his remarks. He entered the service of a well known doctor, who, after Calino had been buying hay for his horses for awhile, made up his mind that the hay was worthless.

"That is very poor hay that you've been buying," the doctor complained.

"But the horses eat it, sir," said Calino.

"No matter. It's bad hay."

"Yes, sir," said Calino respectfully "I'll change it. I know you are a much better judge of hay than the horses are!"

One day the bell rang, and Calino came in.

"A patient has arrived, sir," he reported.

"An old patient or a new one?" asked the doctor.

"New one, of course, sir," said Calino. "The old ones never come back!"

Calino admired very much the beautiful teeth of a lady among his master's patients.

"Ah!" he exclaimed. "Her teeth are as fresh and sound and white as a new born baby's!"

Parson and Pheasant.

There was a sort of Jack Russell parson who was called in from his shooting one day to a christening, and with him came his factotum, who was both parish clerk and keeper. He put gun and bag down in the porch and commenced the service, but it was interrupted by a wild fluttering outside the open door, and one of the pheasants, which was not as dead as it ought to have been, rose up and flew hither and thither through the church with the noise and commotion of which only pheasants and frightened pheasants, are capable. "Mark that cock, John," said the parson in his usual sonorous voice, and then resumed the service. And here again I do not think one of the little party around the font saw the humor of the thing, and certainly John, who replied "Yes, sir," with as much propriety and dignity as he had just been responding "Amen," saw nothing incongruous or unbefitting in the scene.—Longman's.

Couldn't Be Divided.

In Felix Moscheles' "Fragments of an Autobiography" occurs the following: Mme. Schumann was wanted to play at a little musical reunion, but she did not respond. Mr. Moscheles was deputed to approach her. "Was she inclined to play?"

"Particularly disinclined," was the discouraging response.

The envoy mentioned her husband's "Carnaval." "One part I particularly love, the 'March of the Davidsbundler.' If I could only hear you play just that page or two!"

This roused her. "Page or two indeed!" she cried. "Wenn man de 'Carnaval' spielt, spielt man ihn ganz." (When one plays the "Carnaval," one must play it all.) And she played the whole.

County Attorney Donahue Waxes Warm at St. Thomas.

The Exciting Cause Was the Prosecution of Martin J. Cahill—He Squeals About Expense—All Because the Private Prosecutor Thought It Necessary to Lay Other Charges—Verbatim Report of His Speech.

St. Thomas, July 13.—It seems the Government officials are determined to baulk the prosecution of the perpetrators of the West Elgin ballot stuffing rascalities. Martin J. Cahill, alias A. E. Montgomery, appeared Tuesday for trial before Police Magistrate Davidson, and the Crown Attorney asked for an adjournment on the ground that the poll book and other documents in possession of the clerk of the House had not been produced, and that some of the witnesses had not been served. The Crown Attorney only placed the summonses in the hands of the constable for service between 4 and 5 o'clock Saturday night for the following Tuesday, and it was then absolutely impossible to get the witnesses he said he required, although the constable made every effort.

A Precaution Taken.

As a matter of precaution the private prosecutor laid three additional charges when he found that Cahill was in attendance and might be let go on his own recognizance. This excited the wrath of the Crown Attorney and in open court he indulged in unseemly violent abuse of the informant, who had dared thus to call the "machine" to account for its misdeeds.

Mr. Donahue Was Wroth.

The following is a verbatim report of Mr. Donahue's language:

Mr. Donahue—Is Mr. Nicholls here? Call him, please. There is this unfortunate feature, your worship, about this case that all the informations have been laid without a moment's consultation with the Crown's officers, so far as I know, and therefore, it is impossible for me to speak as to the propriety or impropriety of having them laid. No man would ever request that I should be instrumental in the laying of these or any other information.

Mr. Davidson—Were you not consulted about these informations laid to-day?

Mr. Donahue—I have never been consulted in this matter.

Mr. Davidson—I mean these sworn to this morning.

Mr. Donahue—No. I have received no instructions from anybody prior to the laying of the information. Mr. Nicholls knows that I am accessible, knows that the Crown officers of this county are accessible to him at any time, and if he wishes to lay a charge or wishes the assistance of the Crown, it is no more than common courtesy, not to say common decency, that he should consult with me before laying these informations. I regard it as a dishonest way of treating the officers of the Crown, and I wish it understood so. I am open to give such assistance as I can to the conduct of every honest prosecution in this county, but I don't wish to be the instrument of men who have no character nor respectability, and, therefore, with reference to the three informations laid this morning, I am in a position to say that I do not know when Mr. Nicholls, or those behind him, will be ready to prosecute these charges, and it is just as well to threw off any delicacy of feelings with reference to men of that character, and to say that the fact of the matter is that, while there are five informations laid against this man, in this court, and two charges before the Election Court, that practically one charge covers all this man's offence, if he be guilty of any, and that that charge is that he came here on election day and acted in the name of Montgomery, and if Mr. Nicholls and those advising him seek to multiply informations, and to multiply the costs on the county, I wish it to be understood that I am no party to the multiplication of these charges and costs, and every man knows that it is a dishonest thing for to proceed to lay seven informations practically against this man for the commission of an offence, which, if it be an offence at all, is amply covered, is practically covered by what was before the trial judges, when able counsel were representing the respective political parties on the occasion on which the election was voided. I feel it my duty to make these remarks, because I feel that there are certain classes of men in this community who are endeavoring to entrap Crown officers, and no matter what is the conduct, or how efficiently a Crown officer discharges his duty, he is open to the captious, unreasonable objections of some men who haven't the public justice but their party or partisan interests to serve.

The Charges Against Cahill.

As has already been stated, Cahill is charged with the commission of several distinct and separate offences, the case of course being exceptional and extraordinary in that there are probably few instances on record where there was such a series of offences in so short a space of time as were committed by the West Elgin fakir deputies.

Trial was fixed for July 25, Cahill's bail being reduced to himself in $500 and two sureties in $250 each.

The private prosecutor has already given the Crown Attorney the list of witnesses and instructed him as to the evidence to be got from each.

The Geoghegan Appeal.

Hamilton, July 13.—After carefully reading over the evidence in the Geoghegan case, the committee on discipline of the Synod of Niagara yesterday dismissed the application of Rev. Thomas Geoghegan to be allowed an appeal to the House of Bishops. The verdict has been sent to Bishop DuMoulin, who is at present in Gloucester, Mass. Rev. Mr. Geoghegan says he was not notified of the meeting, and the committee is being criticized. Mr. Geoghegan says he had more evidence to present to the committee.

HE HAD SIX WIVES.

Harry F. St. Clair in the Toils of Rochester Police—Real Name O'Brien.

Rochester, N.Y., July 13.—Yesterday Assistant Chief Hayden gave out the information that he had discovered another wife of Harry F. St. Clair, who was arrested Thursday last on the charge of bigamy, in addition to the three who testified against him in Police Court on the day of his hearing, July 7, and the two whom St. Clair boasts of having in Canada.

Chief Hayden also stated that the name of St. Clair is an assumed one, and that the young man's correct name is Frank O'Brien, and that his home is in Hamilton, Ont.

Uncle Sam Will Not Sell.

Washington, July 13.—An offer from a prominent firm of ship brokers, doing a large foreign business, to purchase the Reina Mercedes, and any and all of the other war craft captured during the late war, has aroused a suspicion that Spain is trying in this manner to obtain possession of the vessels and thus remove the offence to Spanish pride caused by the floating of the American flag over her ships. The Navy Department will not sell any of these vessels, and that answer will be returned to the writer of the letter.

Yukon Steamers Burned.

Seattle, Wash., July 13.—The steamer Humboldt arrived from Alaska yesterday with 180 passengers from Dawson, who added over $100,000 to the gold receipts from the Klondike. Nearly $60,000 was in the Humboldt's treasure box.

HON. W. B. IVES IS STRICKEN

Ex-Minister of Trade and Commerce Seized With Paralysis.

He Had Been on a Visit to Rossland, B.C., and Was on the Train En Route for Ottawa—Unconscious at Midnight, Leading Physicians Had Little Hope He Would Live Through the Night.

Ottawa, July 13.—Gloom has been thrown over the House of Commons by the sudden disaster which has overtaken Hon. W. B. Ives, ex-Minister of Trade and Commerce, who was stricken by paralysis on the Winnipeg train yesterday morning just after leaving North Bay. The particulars of the case as learned from the porter of the sleeping car, Mr. William White of Pembroke, and others, is substantially as follows: Mr. Ives had been visiting the Rossland district, where he has large interests, and was on his way to Ottawa. He rose in the morning between 6 and 7 apparently in the best of health and spirits. While dressing he asked the porter if there was a bath on the train, and when answered in the negative, expressed regret, saying that a bath would freshen him up. Mr. Ives finished his dressing, and the porter went into another car just as the train pulled into North Bay.

Stricken With Paralysis.

When the train left North Bay the porter entered the sleeper again, and saw Mr. Ives coming out of the closet. Some mucus was dropping from his lips as if he had been vomiting, and he was staggering. The porter took hold of him and assisted him to his berth. Mr. Ives tried to say something, but could not articulate. He was made as comfortable as possible, lying unconscious in his berth, and as there was not a doctor on the train, a telegram was sent to Mattawa asking that a physician meet the train there. By some accident the telegram was not sufficiently intelligible, and the doctor who did meet the train was not prepared to go on to Ottawa. A telegram was then sent to Dr. W. W. Dickson of Pembroke, who met the train at that place. Mr. William White, brother of ex-Speaker Peter White, also boarded the train at Pembroke.

His Condition Serious.

Dr. Dickson at once pronounced the case an extremely serious one of paralysis of the brain. Every possible care was taken of Mr. Ives, and on arriving at Ottawa Mr. Ives was at once conveyed to St. Luke's Hospital, still insensible.

In a very short time the news spread about the House of Commons, and Sir Charles Tupper and Dr. T. G. Roddick, M.P., at once went with Mr. Pope to St. Luke's Hospital, where a consultation was held with Dr. Dickson, who accompanied Mr. Ives from Pembroke, and Dr. R. W. Powell of Ottawa. Dr. Roddick said that the case was an extremely grave one, and that although the patient was resting quietly, still unconscious, and was apparently slightly improving, his chances of recovery were not very great, although he may get over this attack. Sir Charles Tupper took a rather more hopeful view of the case.

Mr. Ives was travelling alone, Mrs. Ives being at her home in Sherbrooke. The sad intelligence was conveyed to her by her brother, Mr. Rufus Pope, and she is expected to come on to Ottawa immediately.

He Is Still Unconscious.

At midnight Mr. Ives condition had been improved. He is still lying unconscious, but moves very slightly occasionally.

At 10 o'clock Sir Charles Tupper saw him again, with Drs. Roddick and Powell, but no change for the better could be seen. He is sinking gradually, and the doctors have little, if any, hope that he will live through the night. Mrs. Ives will be here in the morning.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

The Daily Review.

THURSDAY, JULY 13, 1899.

Given a Call to Port Hope.

At a meeting in the First Presbyterian church, Port Hope on Monday evening, a unanimous call was extended to the Rev. A. G. Sinclair, at present of Toronto. Mr. Sinclair, is the son of a Presbyterian minister in Nova Scotia, and had a brilliant career, both at the University of Toronto, Knox College and Edinburgh Theological College. His entrance to the University was secured by the possession of a valuable scholarship in Classics and Mathematics. During the first two years he followed both the Classical and Mathematical courses, obtaining first-class honors in each. At Knox College scholarship followed scholarship each year, and taking into consideration two Classical ones obtained at the University, he has had the proud distinction of earning his own education. Amid great competition, he secured in 1898 the prize for which all Knox men strive, the travelling scholarship, valued at about $500. The scholarship entitled him to a year in Edinburgh, where he has spent the last winter.

The Sting Within

It is said there is a rankling thorn in every heart, and yet that none would exchange their own for that of another. Be that as it may, the sting arising from the heart of a corn is real enough, and in this land of tight boots a very common complaint also. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor is a never failing remedy for this kind of heartache, as you can easily prove if afflicted. Cheap, sure, painless. Try the genuine and use no other.

Carpenter Shop Personages.

The Carpenter had put down his tools and gone for his luncheon.

"Life with me is a perfect bore," said the Auger.

"I'm a little board myself," said the Small Plank.

"There's no art in this country," observed the Screwdriver. "Everything's screwed in my eyes."

"You don't stick at anything long enough to know what you're driving at," interjected the Glue.

"That's just it," said the Screw. "He never goes beneath the surface the way the Jack Plane and I do."

"Tut!" cried the Saw. "I go through things just as much as you do. Life's stuffed with sawdust."

"Regular grind," said the Grindstone.

"I agree with you," observed the Bench. "It doesn't make any difference how well I do my work, I'm always sat on."

"Let's strike," said the Hammer.

"That's it!" cried the Auger. "You hit the nail on the head that time."

"I'll hit it again," retorted the Hammer, and he kept his word, but he hit the wrong nail. That is why the Carpenter now wears his thumb in a bandage. It was his thumb nail the Hammer struck.—Harper's Bazar.

PARIS IN FALMOUTH HARBOR

Five Tugs and Three Salvage Boats Towed Her There.

The Big Ship Will Be Beached—The Wrecking Companies Will Receive a Percentage of Her Value From the Underwriters—Gang of Overhaulers From Glasgow Will Put the Big Liner Into Shape.

Falmouth, Eng., July 12.—Superintendent Nisbett, who has been in charge of the work of saving the Paris, is greatly elated at her refloating. He says it was accomplished with remarkable ease. The wind happened to make the tide a foot higher than expected. Immediately after it was perceived that the steamer was afloat a steam winch connected with the hawser fast to an anchor astern was set in motion, and the Paris was speedily clear of the rocks. During the night her pumps materially reduced the amount of water in her holds. Her fires will be lighted to-day and the Paris herself will be able to cope with the pumping work, though there are still large holes in her bottom to be patched up. The worst of these is four feet square. The superintendent no longer has the slightest anxiety as to the success of the operations to provide for the safety of the ship.

Towed Safely In.

Owing to the more favorable weather and the fact that such repairs as were left could be rapidly effected, the salvers changed their plans and suddenly started towing with five tugs, supported by three salvage boats, for Falmouth, and shortly after midnight the Paris safely entered the harbor. Preparations are being made to beach her in the tidal harbor.

No Specific Sum.

London, July 12.—The Salvage Association says no specific sum has been agreed upon for the salvage of the American Line steamer Paris, but that the wrecking companies will receive a stipulated percentage of the value of the steamer when placed in dry dock, the underwriters, of course, paying the bill.

A Gang of Overhaulers.

Glasgow, July 12.—A special train, having on board a large force of workmen, left here last night for Southampton for the purpose of extensively overhauling the American Line steamer Paris. It is said that a Clyde firm secured the contract, as it promised to effect the repairs more speedily than the American builders of the steamers of that line.

Abandoned to the Underwriters.

New York, July 12.—James R. Wright, second vice-president of the American Line, said yesterday that the company had abandoned the Paris to the underwriters, but that if it proved that she could be put into first-class shape again, there was nothing to prevent her resuming her place in the American Line. He had received no details of the salvage of the Paris.

ZOLA IS ON THE WATCH.

Taking Note of the Dreyfus Affair—Will Write About England.

Paris, July 12.—Emile Zola is still in Paris, closely watching the Dreyfus affair. He is not in the best of health, having had a touch of some heart trouble which his doctors are unable to relieve. During the closing stages of the trial he purposes writing two or three powerful newspaper articles in his most vigorous style.

"It is a significant fact," the novelist said yesterday, "that nobody any longer is trying to find proofs of Captain Dreyfus' innocence. They seek only proofs of his guilt."

M. Zola intends much later on to write a book, giving his impressions of England. Although he is in much need of money, he now refuses to accept any of the brilliant offers he has received, especially from America, basing his refusal on the feeling that he must keep quiet, and that he particularly must not write for the foreign public until Captain Dreyfus shall have been acquitted. He will do nothing to hurt that cause. He feels that he must still hold himself in reserve, in case his help is needed.

THE CRUELTY TO DREYFUS.

M. Lebon's Reply to the Charges Made Against Him.

Paris, July 12.—M. Lebon, the former Minister of the Colonies, has addressed a long letter to the Government in reply to the charges of M. Louis Havet, member of the French Institute, who accompanied Mme. Dreyfus to Rennes, and who alleged Dreyfus was cruelly treated in his island prison. The former Minister says no one in 1896 questioned the justice of the verdict of the Dreyfus court-martial, and that in September, 1896, it was reported that an American vessel was about to rescue the prisoner, and there was some talk among the warders as to the possibility of his escape. Hence M. Lebon became solicitous for the safety of the prisoner and ordered Dreyfus to be confined in his hut with double-locked doors, but with a sentinel inside until the hut was surrounded by a palisade, when the hut might be opened. The building of the palisade occupied longer than expected, but no harm to the health of the prisoner was reported.

M. Lebon denies tampering with the correspondence of Dreyfus.

Fell Across a Saw.

Kingston, July 12.—A young man named Frank Jones, working in a sawmill at Odessa, a small village west of Kingston, met with probably fatal injuries last night by falling across a circular saw while it was in motion. The right arm was severed above the elbow and fell on the floor. He also sustained a dangerous wound in his head, the saw cutting across the forehead and through the skull.

THE COMMONS.

After Routine, There Was a Long Discussion on Three Judges Appointed by the Quebec Government.

Ottawa, July 12.—In the House, on the orders of the day being called yesterday afternoon, Col. Hughes complained that there had been no meeting of the public accounts committee this week, and was promised by the chairman (Mr. Fraser) that one would be called shortly.

Mr. Ingram on Deck.

Mr. Ingham, who was in the House for the first time since his accident, called attention to the resolution of Methodist and other conferences, urging that steps should be taken to promote purity in elections, and asked the Government to take over a bill he introduced some time ago for that purpose.

The Premier promised to consider the proposal.

James Quick's Dismissal.

Mr. Cowan called attention to a newspaper report that James Quick, lighthouse keeper at Pelee Island, had been dismissed for leaving the lighthouse for a few hours while rescuing people from a wrecked vessel. Mr. Cowan said the inference in the report was that he had secured Quick's dismissal because he was a Conservative. This was not true. On the contrary, he had tried to have Quick retained in his position, but could not do so on account of Quick's persistent refusal to make reports to the meteorological office.

Sir Louis Davies corroborated this statement.

Quebec Justice Congested.

Mr. Madore called attention to the action of the Quebec Government in creating three new judgeships to relieve the congestion of legal business in Montreal, and called on the Government to provide salaries for these judges, which had not been done in the main estimates.

A very long discussion followed, which was participated in by a large number of legal gentlemen, and lasted until 6 o'clock and for a couple of hours after. The matter then dropped and the orders of the day were called, the House going into committee of supply at 10.15, taking up the item of the Intercolonial vote for the long wharf property at St. John.

The House adjourned at 1.45, after passing the canal items.

GRAND TRUNK LEASE BILL.

The Senate Passes the Second Reading of the Measure.

Ottawa, July 12.—The Senate discussed the Grand Trunk lease bill at both the afternoon and evening sessions yesterday, and finally defeated Senator Perley's motion for the six months' hoist by a vote of 34 for to 17 against.

Hon. David Mills' motion for the second reading was then carried by a vote of 34 for to 17 against.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell said that while he moved the vote for the second reading so that the bill could get into committee, he would vote against the third reading unless the bill was altered in committee on the lines of the amendment of which he had given notice. This amendment gives the Minister of Railways power to cancel the traffic arrangement at the time of six months' notice, but binds the Grand Trunk for all time to hand over to the Intercolonial at Montreal all eastbound freight for points on the Intercolonial instead of making the transfer at Levis or at Chaudiere Junction. It is said that the Grand Trunk will not accept this.

The Vote.

The second reading was carried on the following division:

Yeas—Aikins, Allan, Baird, Baker, Bowell (Sir Mackenzie), Carling (Sir John), Cochrane, Dandurand, Dever, Drummond, Ferguson, Fiset, Forget, Kerr, King, Kirchhoffer, Loughead, Lovitt, McDonald (P.E.I.), McInnes, McLaren, McSweeney, Mills, O'Donoghue, Ogilvie, Paquette, Perley, Power, Scott, Snowball, Temple, Templeman, Thibaudeau (Rigaud), Vidal, Villeneuve, Wark, Yeo—37.

Nays—Almon, Armand, Bernier, Debouchervile, Casgrain, Clemow, Landry, McCallum, McDonald, C. H. Owens, Perley, Primrose, Prowse, Wood—17.

Privileges and Elections Committee.

Ottawa, July 12.—Yesterday the privileges and elections committee had a preliminary sitting in the inquiry into the malpractices in the Brockville and West Huron elections. After considerable discussion, it was agreed to summon certain witnesses, and the committee adjourned till Friday.

THE 12TH OF JULY.

Orangemen of the Province on Wednesday Celebrated the 200th Anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne.

Toronto, July 12.—The 200th anniversary of the battle of the Boyne was fittingly celebrated by the Orangemen of Toronto and vicinity yesterday morning, when nearly 5,000 men walked in procession in honor of the event. Early in the day the colors of orange and blue were prominent on the streets, and they continued to flourish until late at night. This year the Orangemen returned to the old order of proceedings and went out to the Exhibition Park, where, instead of the athletic sports as on previous occasions, the loyal and patriotic followers of King William of Glorious Memory witnessed an entertainment of fancy dancing and listened to orations from prominent men. The procession was very brilliant and the citizens crowded the sidewalks to see it go by. It took 55 minutes to pass a given point. The celebration was one of the greatest in Toronto's history.

Celebrations Elsewhere.

At Cornwall, for the first time in 87 years, the Orangemen walked. The procession was a mile and a half [illegible] and the people who took part, as participants and spectators numbered 8,000.

At Orillia 2,000, including the bands, walked in the procession. A feature of the celebration there was P.G.M. Parkhill's address.

At Shrewsbury the district lodges celebrated with a procession half a mile in length. After the speeches there were games.

At Carberry, Man., the Orangemen of the province held a grand celebration.

At London there was a big crowd, numbers coming in from many surrounding counties. Hon. M. Clarke Wallace, Grand Master, delivered the address of the day.

An Orangeman Killed at Palmerston.

Palmerston, Ont., July 12.—A young Orangeman named William Cleminshaw of Brinton, Ont., who was here attending the celebration yesterday, was accidentally killed by the train from Stratford, due here at 5.05 p.m. He jumped on a loaded coal car as the train was passing slowly through the Y over William street, and rode to Main street, jumping off and on the car several times between the two streets. When the train stopped at the north end of the yard to back down to the station he fell off in some manner and was instantly killed by the train passing over him.

DR. J. J. MACLAREN ORGANIZER.

The Dominion Alliance Meeting in Toronto Does Some Very Important Work.

Toronto, July 12.—The Council of the Dominion Alliance met here yesterday. Major Bond was in the chair, and there was a big representation.

It was agreed to have a paid organizer to organize the temperance workers of the Dominion, and the political resolutions of the Ontario branch of the Alliance, already published, were carried just about as they were reported.

The New Officers.

The following are the new officers: Hon. president, Hon. A. Vidal; president, J. E. Dougall. Vice-presidents—At large, J. J. Maclaren; Ontario, J. W. Flavelle, B. J. Fleming; Quebec, R. L. Bond, Hon. S. A. Fisher; Nova Scotia, T. B. Flint, M.P., Hon. A. R. Dickey; New Brunswick, Rev. Dr. McLeod, J. E. Woodburn; Prince Edward Island, J. X. Rees, A. Horne; Manitoba, W. R. Malock, Rev. L. Gaetz, D.D.; Northwest Territories, F. Oliver, M.P., W. J. Brotherton; British Columbia, Rev. J. C. Speer, J. B. Kennedy. Corresponding secretary, F. S. Spence; recording secretary, J. H. Carson; treasurer, W. H. Orr.

An executive of 50 was also elected.

The newly-elected executive met for a few moments and appointed Dr. J. J. Maclaren chairman and organizer.

Will Now Be Tried.

Toronto, July 12.—The Ontario Government has sent down the papers to Walthy for the prosecution of those men reported by the judges for bribery when Charles Calder was unseated: Thomas S. Baker, John Shearon, Patrick Shearon, Frederick McLean, William Hayes, James McGrail, Austin McGrail, Arthur Stapleton, Lewis Lake, W. H. Thomas, David Lockwood, William Beer, Aaron Harmon, Stewart Bruce, G. H. Banbury, W. F. Jones.

Blaze at Neepawa, Man.

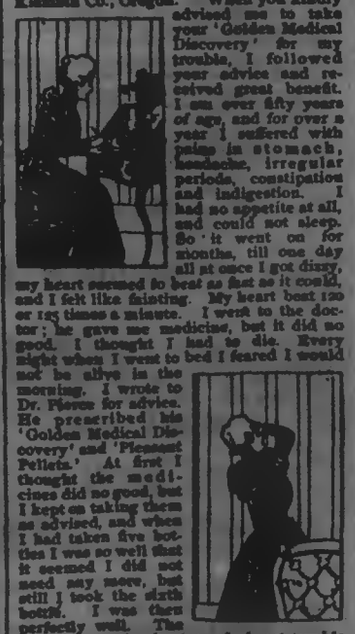
Neepawa, Man., July 12.—Phil Gosling's large livery stable was burned last night. The horses and summer rigs were saved, but cutters and considerable hay and other contents were destroyed. The total loss is $4,000.

TERRIFIC STORMS IN ENGLAND.

Valleys Flooded, Railway Traffic Interrupted, Struck by Lightning.

London, July 12.—Severe thunderstorms, accompanied by a great downpour of rain, flooding valleys and interrupting railroad traffic, occurred yesterday in many portions of England. In Leeds and other cities total darkness prevailed for several hours. In Westmoreland and Lincolnshire a number of houses and seven persons, two of whom were fatally injured, were struck by lightning.

"With pleasure I write to let you know the great benefit I have received from your medicines and self-treatment at home," writes Mrs. A. Flackus, of Dairy, Klamath Co., Oregon. "When you kindly advised me to take your 'Golden Medical Discovery' for my trouble, I followed your advice and received great benefit. I am over fifty years of age, and for over a year I suffered with pains in stomach, headache, irregular periods, constipation and indigestion. I had no appetite at all, and could not sleep. So it went on for months, till one day all at once I got dizzy, my heart seemed to beat as fast as it could, and I felt like fainting. My heart beat 120 or 125 times a minute. I went to the doctor; he gave me medicine, but it did no good. I thought I had to die. Every night when I went to bed I feared I would not be alive in the morning. I wrote to Dr. Pierce for advice. He prescribed his 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets.' At first I thought the medicines did no good, but I kept on taking them as advised, and when I had taken five bottles I was so well that it seemed I did not need any more, but still I took the sixth bottle. I was then perfectly well. The headaches, pains in stomach, heart trouble and all left me. I have had a good appetite ever since, and can sleep well and do all my work."



If you are not sure what ails you write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., stating your symptoms fully, and he will prescribe for you free of charge.

The Montana Brand of Poker.

A Montana man, speaking of how poker was played in the state in the old days, said: "Senator Clark used to sit in a little game in the Silver Bow club, in Butte. He generally played with Marcus Daly, Haggin, Hearst or some one of those big fellows, and they enjoyed themselves. On one occasion a New York drummer dropped into the club while the game was on. He had a card with a two weeks' run on the club. Well, he saw Daly, Haggin, Clark and another fellow sitting in the game, and he sashays up, perlike, and says:

"'Well, gentlemen, any objection to my taking a hand?'

"'No,' says the players, cheerfullike, and then this drummer he pulls out a thick roll and peels off a $100 bill and shucks it on the table. 'Gimme chips for that,' says he, and looks around, puffed up like. He goes and hangs up his coat, and when he comes back and sits down there lays that bill.

"'What's the matter, gentlemen?' he says, huffy like. 'Ain't my money good?'

"'Why, yes, to be sure,' says Marcus Daly. 'Clark, give the gentleman one white chip.'

"Well, that gentleman from the effete east he nearly drops dead, he does, and he goes out to get some of the mounting air."

His Draft.

A Methodist minister visited the Queen lane pumping station the other day. When he reached the engine room, the engineer said: "What I'm proudest of here is my draft. Here she is. Look at her."

He raised a trapdoor in the floor, discovering a black hole about a foot square, and the minister looked in eagerly. Nothing whatever was to be seen, but a tremendous draft sucked in his silk hat.

"Ha, ha, ha!" shouted the engineer. Then he continued excitedly: "Now you are performing an interesting experiment! Nothing could demonstrate better the excellence of this draft. Just watch that skyscraper of a stack there."

He pointed to the lofty stack, and even as he spoke the silk hat shot straight up out of it for 50 feet or so, and then, like a large black bird, sailed slowly away down the wind.

"Goodby, my friend," said the minister. "This has been, indeed, a grand experiment, and I thank you for it. My property, let us hope, will prove undamaged." He then scaled a high barbed wire fence and ran lightly over the fields in the direction which his hat had taken.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver, of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters'; and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50cts. a bottle, every bottle guaranteed. For sale by James Lynch, druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough.

A Hard Cough.

"Doctor, I want to know exactly what's the matter with me."

"My good sir, your ailment is a tendency of the lungs to expel air suddenly and forcibly through the glottis, the effort being accompanied by a raucous and more or less guttural sound."

"That's what I told the doctor I discharged the other day. He said it was nothing but a cough."—Chicago Tribune.

Sensible Girls.

"What did Finnerty give the bride?"

"Two fire escapes and a jumping net."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

WEARY OF EXPERIMENTING.

With salves, suppositories and ointments and dreading a surgical operation, scores and hundreds have turned to Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment and found in it an absolute cure for piles. The first application brings relief from the terrible itching, and it is very seldom that more than one box is required to effect a permanent cure.

THE MAKING OF SALT.

ANCIENT AND MODERN SYSTEMS OF REDUCING BRINE.

Who Methods Used Include Solar Evaporation, Bottles and Open and Vacuum Pans—Salt Beds of American and Their Ancient Origin.

There are two general sources from which salt is obtained, natural brines and solid deposits. A number of theories have been advanced to account for the latter. The general impression among scientific men is that rock salt has been formed by evaporation from ancient seas, which had become inclosed in some way. In confirmation of this notion it is pointed out that deposits are being made today at the bottom of several well known salt lakes. But doubts have been expressed as to the applicability of the explanation to such thick strata as these at Stassfurt, Germany, 1,800 feet deep, and at Sperenberg, near Berlin, 3,600 feet thick. However this may be, the substance is found, in greater or less purity, in all parts of the world. The minerals associated with it are those which are apt to exist in the ocean. What is commonly known as "salt" is principally chloride of sodium. But chlorides of lime and magnesium, sulphates of lime and magnesium and even minute quantities of iodides and bromides are usually mingled with the chief constituent.

For a long time Tutk's island, in the West Indies, was a copious contributor to this country's supply of rock salt. But a number of mines are now being worked in the United States. The most famous at present are those at Livonia, N. Y. The salt is taken out in solid chunks, ground, passed through sieves of differing mesh—to be graded according to coarseness—and put up in bags or barrels. There is a famous deposit in Louisiana much nearer the surface of the ground and more easily worked, which will be an important producer some day.

There are many salt deposits in this country which are made available, not by mining, but by the pumping of brine from their vicinity. Through a large part of Michigan, for instance, and from the central part of New York state out as far as Buffalo, there are beds varying in thickness from 112 to 300 feet and lying from 600 to 2,600 feet below the surface. All through these two regions, as well as in southern Ohio, wells have been sunk, and the brine is pumped up like oil. Fresh water springs supply the water, no doubt, and this, flowing over and through the solid salt, dissolves the latter and puts it within man's reach. In a few places there are salt springs which eject their mineral laden fluids without coaxing.

There are five principle methods of treating brines in order to get the salt from them. One of the oldest systems is that so extensively employed at Syracuse. The brine is poured into enormous, shallow, wooden vats and exposed to the sun and wind to dry. Whenever there is a rainstorm, covers are drawn over them to exclude additional water. Precautions are also taken against the admission of dirt. The product obtained in this way is called "solar salt." Owing to the slowness of the evaporative process the grains thus formed are coarse.

To hasten matters artificial heat is often used. For instance, rows of kettles are arranged so that coal fires may be maintained under them. As the water boils off the salt crystallizes in the bottom of the receptacle. By regulating the degree of heat applied and providing for marked differences of temperature in two sets of kettles, grains of different sizes can be secured, the finer ones resulting from the more rapid evaporation. This method is an ancient one.

In Wyoming county, N. Y., artificial heat is used in another way. Metal pans about 125 feet long, 25 feet wide and perhaps 2½ feet deep, are warmed by furnaces directly under them. Coal is used in the latter. The heat being applied directly, the system is known as the "direct heat" plan. It is further characteristic of the process that it is conducted with open pans. An indirect mode of bringing the heat to bear on the brine is to line the vats, which are smaller receptacles than those just described, with steam pipes, which run around the inner edge of the same and transmit their heat to the fluid. The indirect heat apparatus is called a "grainer."

Finally it has been found feasible to save fuel and obtain a purer salt by inclosing the brine in a tight vessel from which the air has been almost entirely exhausted. This is called a "vacuum pan." It is a well known fact that evaporation takes place at a lower temperature when the air pressure is reduced than at ordinary pressures. This is the reason why water boils at a lower temperature on a mountain top than on a plain. In the vacuum pan the work can be done by heating the brine to only 112 degrees. The product of the vacuum pan process is a beautiful article and commands a higher price than other salts. The grains form in cubes instead of flakes. The salt obtained from the indirect heat (steam pipe) system is also of an excellent quality.

Salt had been obtained from sea water in many parts of the world. Owing to the nearness of the drainage into the ocean from the land it is desirable to be particular about the source of supply. Moreover, there are regions in the tropics where the salinity of the water is greater than it is in the older climates and where the same amount of labor will yield a larger quantity of solids. The industry is carried on, however, in a modest way on Cape Cod and in Bristol, Mass. A more considerable business is done in San Francisco bay, in the county of Alameda. From 25 to 30 establishments are in operation in that part of the country. Other factories for getting salt from the sea are situated in Los Angeles and San Diego.

The salt beds of America are found in various geological formations. Those of western New York, northern Ohio and some parts of Michigan represent the silurian period, when the earliest forms of animal life made their appearance. The deposits near East Saginaw, Mich., belong to the carboniferous age, which is much later. The Kansas beds are placed in the triassic series by Professor Robert Hay, and some of the Virginia wells tap tertiary rocks. From the table of the seven of today it is apparent that a good deal of salt is still left undeposited. The work of solidification and storage has been going on, then, more or less intermittently for an almost incalculable period and yet is not finished.—New York Tribune.

One Thing They Didn't Have.

R. H. Sothern tells a good story of his father, the famous Dundreary. Whenever the elder Sothern arrived at a town, one of his first means of diversion was to stroll about the streets and have fun with the natives. He was in Chicago during its earliest days, and one day he saw a sign over an undertaker's establishment which read:

"Everything Furnished For First Class Funerals."

Going inside, he inquired, "Do you furnish everything for funerals?"

"Yes, sir," replied the clerk.

"Then I want a coffin."

"Do you want carriages too?"

"Yes; have five carriages ready."

"Certainly, sir. Anything else?"

"Three dozen chairs."

"Anything else?"

"You might have a hearse ready. And now I would like to look at a corpse."

The clerk was amazed.

"Now," said Sothern, "you advertise to furnish everything for funerals. If you can't do the thing thoroughly I shall have to patronize another store."

And, wishing the clerk good day, the comedian departed.

A Sight For Sackcloth and Ashes.

If there is one thing that American has to be ashamed of, it is the neglected state of her shipping, says H. Phelps Whitemarsh in The Atlantic. It is a disgrace to the nation. No wonder the foreigner opens his eyes in amazement; no wonder the ancient mariners of the capes foam at the mouth when they speak of it. The sight of gray old Salem, with its empty harbor, its decayed, rotting wharfs and not a deep water ship to its name. The sight of this historic port alone is enough to make any patriotic American go out into the highway in sackcloth and ashes.

Poor Papa!

The father of a family, becoming annoyed at the fault finding of his children over their food, exclaimed in a rage one day at dinner: "You children are intolerable! You turn up your noses at everything. When I was a boy, I was often glad enough to get dry bread to eat."

"Poor papa!" said Rose, the pet of the family. "I am so glad you are having such nice times now, living with mamma and us."—What to Eat.

Escapes on a Technicality.

The Blakely (Ga.) Reporter says there is a man in Early county who has been relieved of road duty for years on a "technicality." It is customary to summons a man to work the road nearest to where he sleeps and has his clothing washed. As this man has never been seen with so much as a clean shirt on, the supposition is that he has no washing done, and he is relieved of road duty. We know of no better reason.—Savannah News.

RAILWAY TIES.

The first electric railway in the world was built in Ireland, from Portrush to Giant's Causeway.

New steam railway construction this year will reach 5,000 miles. Nearly 4,000 are under way already. This is a record unequaled since 1900.

The Japanese railways have introduced newspaper reading cars on some of their passenger trains. Tall piles of newspapers are kept at the service of travelers, so that they may read as they ride.

French railways are now running English and American close in the matter of speed. Of 35 expresses doing over 50 miles an hour 5 do from 54 to 58 miles, including stoppages. The express from Paris to Amiens does 57.7 miles an hour, the total distance being 81½ miles.

THE SPEAKERSHIP.

It is now about time for somebody to step up and prove that General Henderson is an Ohio man.—St. Paul Dispatch.

If there is anything else General Henderson wants in the line of support for the speakership, he will probably get it.—Minneapolis Times.

If it turns out that Ohio has no candidate for the speakership, the number of the wonders of the world will be increased to eight.—Albany Times-Union.

If Mr. Henderson is elected, he will be the first speaker of the house from and representing the vast region west of the Mississippi river.—Detroit Journal.

Two Points of View.

An old Scotchwoman was walking to church with her family. The Auld Kirk minister rode past at a tremendous rate, and the old lady said to her children: "Siccan a wey to be ridin, and this the Sawbath day. Aweel, aweel, a gude man is mareifu' to his beast!"

Shortly afterward her own minister rode past just as furiously, and the worthy old wife cried: "Ah, there he goes! The Lord bless him, puir man! His heart's in his wark, an he's eager to be at it."

Origin of "Pall Mall."

"Pall Mall" (pronounced pel mel) comes from palle maile, an ancient game supposed to have been played on the present site of Pall Mall by Norman monks, by whom it was introduced into England.

The observant Pepys, in his famous diary, makes mention of it thus:

"April 2, 1661. Into St. James' park, where I saw the Duke of York playing at Pelemele, the first time that ever I saw the sport."—Pall Mall Bulletin.

The Trouble.

Hicks—Why is it you are so hard on Wellington? He never did you a bad turn or ever spoke ill of you.

Wicks—I know that, but the fact is the first time I saw Wellington I thought he was somebody out of the ordinary, and I was as polite to him as I knew how to be. I never shall be able to forgive him for that mistake.—Boston Transcript.

An Ancient Building.

The oldest Christian structure in Ireland is a remarkable building, evidently very ancient, but wonderfully well preserved, at Dingle, in County Kerry. It is popularly known as the "Oratory of Gallerus." Who Gallerus was history does not say, but, as the oratory has stood practically unimpaired for more than 1,000 years, he was probably one of the converts of St. Patrick.

Garden Social.

A most successful garden social was given under the auspices of the Selwyn Baptist church at the residence of Mr Jas Roberts, "Pledwick," near Selwyn, on Thursday last, 6th inst. There were over two hundred friends present and, the weather and general surroundings being exceptionally favorable, the gathering was one of the most enjoyable reunions ever held in the neighborhood. Football, quoits and fireworks were among the attractions, and the party separated with a determination not to miss any future gatherings under the same auspices.

THE ANNIVERSARY OF THE BOYNE

DEMONSTRATION OF THE ORANGEMEN AND TRUE BLUES AT LAKEFIELD.

A Fairly Successful Celebration Held—The Procession—Addresses Given—Notes of the Day.

The memory of King William the Third was honored and the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne was celebrated by the Orangemen and True Blues of Peterborough district yesterday by a demonstration held at Lakefield. While the attendance was not as large as had been expected the gathering was sufficient to make a big day in the village and the event was very successful. There were no untoward incidents of any kind, the weather was fine, the people of Lakefield were hospitable, the procession was one that afforded the sightseers good satisfaction, the addresses given were interesting, being anything but the stereotyped kind, and altogether the crowd was a happy friendly assemblage, each and all of whom seemed to enjoy the occasion.

The village was gaily decorated with a profusion of British and Canadian ensigns, streamers of bright colored bunting and mottoes, some of welcome and others recollective of the stirring events that were being commemorated. Many of the principal stores were also hung with colors and the main street of the pretty village, viewed from either end, presented a gala and charming appearance. All day the streets were thronged with men, women and children, the regalia of the brethren and the rich banners of the different lodges giving the picture a dash of brightness, and all day the roll of the drums was heard above the shrill notes of the fifes or the louder strains of the brass bands. Refreshment stands and dining booths had been thrown up at every suitable spot facing the street and the enterprising owners kept up continuous cries of the merits of their wares that added to the din so peculiar to a Twelfth of July celebration.

The people came by railroad, steamboat, in vehicles, on foot and on bicycles. The Lakefield lodges and some of the Smith brethren were early on the streets. The morning train from town took many up to the village, and a larger contingent, including lodges No. 49, No. 180, and No. 321, besides the Sons of England band and a lot of general passengers, went up on the special train of five coaches which went up about 10.30 o'clock. Nassau lodge boarded this train at Nassau. The visitors from Harvey and Apsley came down on the steamer Sunbeam, which drew in at the wharf as early as 9 o'clock. When the special train from

STONY LAKE.

A Few Notes of Things in Motion at the Summer Resort.

The steamer Sunbeam had a busy day yesterday. She brought down the Orange and True Blue lodges of Apsley and Young's Point to Lakefield and then took the passengers from the morning train up the lakes. On her return she ran another trip north with those she had brought down in the morning.

The steamer Majestic will meet the morning train from town next week and the Sunbeam the noon train.

It is not the intention after next week to have the steamers wait at Burleigh during the dinner hour, as has been the custom. This is not the doing of the steamboat men but they state that Stony lake cottagers demanded it. The stop for dinner was a great convenience to many.

The summer traffic on Stony lake is hardly up to the mark. The Toronto and American traffic is about as usual but the steamboat men say that the Peterborough trade is not as good as it should be.

Eight rowboats were taken up a couple of days ago for a party of twelve from Pittsburg, who are taking quarters at Fairy lake villa. They evidently all want to get on the water at one time.

Building the Ship.

Work is being rushed on Capt. Reynold's new steamer at Lakefield. A big staff of men is busy at it. The work of encasing the steel frame of the hull with oak planking has been finished and the seams are being caulked. The engine and boiler have been placed in position in the hull. The engine is a fine model. The superstructure of the ship is also being erected. The steamer presents a handsome outline and was admired by many people in the village yesterday.

Brevities

—A farm horse attached to a buggy ran away down George-st. last night, starting near the C.P.R. station and disappearing in the country. It caused considerable excitement.

—The Government has appointed Henry Elliott of the Township of Hope, registrar, of the East Riding of Durham. The vacancy was caused by the death of the late Chas. Ward.

—The Galt Reformer reports that in fifteen weeks the Galt Public school pupils have contributed $900.87 to the school banks recently established. Brantford, where the system proposed for Peterborough has also been inaugurated, has $300 more than Galt for about a like period.

—A public meeting of the Council and Board of Trade of Lindsay was held on Tuesday evening and the question of granting the Bell Telephone Co. an exclusive franchise of the streets, to exclusion of the newly-organized Victoria Telephone Co. was discussed at length. Judging from the discussion reported the Bell Company is not likely to secure its exclusive franchise.

THE TRENT CANAL BEFORE THE HOUSE

THE APPROPRIATION PASSED WITH SOME DISCUSSION.

The Liberal Minister, Hon. Mr. Blair, says He Would Never Have Commenced the Work, but it Must be Completed.

The appropriation in the estimates for the Trent Valley canal was up in the House of Commons yesterday. The discussion as reported in the Globe is interesting:—

"Upon the item of $645,000 for the Trent Valley Canal construction, Mr. Pettit, while admitting that the construction of the canal would benefit the County of Prince Edward and many of the electors of that county, said that he did not believe there was a man of them would approve of the expenditure of money upon the work. He asked the Minister of Railways and Canals whether he considered the Trent Valley Canal would ever be of any use to the country. Mr. Blair in replying said he would be very sorry to say that it was not to be of any use to the country. As the Dominion had embarked upon the undertaking before this Government came into power, the present Government would continue the enterprise, although they did not initiate it. It would be rather a matter of regret if they left the canal constructed half-way between Lake Simcoe and Balsam Lake. The Government, it seemed to him, was bound, by reason of what had occurred to complete the work; there did not appear to be any other alternative.

Mr. Pettit asked the depth of water in the canal.

"Mr. Wm. Gibson said that he thought the Government could well cut the vote in two. If the money was expended in Port Colborne, it would realise a better return to the people of the country than if spent in the building of this canal.

"Mr. Blair, after some further discussion, said that, while he did not expect [illegible] to handle much through business, he expected it to be a very great convenience for local traffic. While he would not have recommended the work in the first place, he thought they should complete it.

"Mr. Bertram said he had always thought the undertaking of the Trent Valley canal was a grave blunder, but it was the duty of the Government to complete it, and, if possible, give value to the money already invested.

"Mr. Richardson made a vigorous protest against the work on the Trent canal being pursued, as the work, when completed, would not be of any permanent national value to Canada. The item passed; also all the other items under canals chargeable to capital were passed, except $984,000 for the Galops canal, which stands for further explanation. The items on income account for Lachine, Carillon and Grenville, Lake St. Francis and Trent canals were passed, and the committee rose at 1.45 and the House adjourned.

A LIQUOR CASE IN POLICE COURT

MR. FELCHER CHARGES THE CHIEF WITH NOT ENFORCING THE LAW PROPERLY.

A Reminiscence of the Toronto Civic Employees Picnic—A Number of Other Cases Heard by the Magistrate.

There was a fairly busy day at the police court this morning. There was, however, but one case which arose out of yesterday's celebration. The others were business that had accumulated.

Mr. Job was charged with assaulting Mrs. Job on July 12th. Job's need of pocket money was the cause of the trouble and in his tribulation he did not display that degree of patience which should be inherited with the name. He promised this morning to reform and abstain and was discharged.

A woman named Mrs. Mahar was charged with being disorderly. She also was dismissed. The particulars appeared that the woman had a pail of beer and a man asked her for a drink, whereat she struck him over the head with the pail and spilled the beer on him.

Jas. Thompson and John Boyd were charged with allowing their cows to run at large at Auburn. Thompson's fine and costs amounted to $5.75 and Boyd's to $6.10.

Lem Felcher was charged with selling intoxicating liquor at the Nicholls park on July 1st without a license therefor. The occasion was the picnic of the Toronto civic employees. C. Guy and W. Fleming testified that they sold lager there that day in Mr. Felcher's employ. Mr. Felcher also sold. This was the chief evidence for the prosecution. Mr. Felcher then told his story. He stated that he had not sold for himself but simply to assist and at the request of the committee in charge of the picnic. Two kegs of Rheinhart's lager had been sold and all to people of Toronto. He had not intended to defy the law and the booth at the park was simply for the convenience of the picnickers. He did not deny that lager had been sold but the circumstances were very exceptional. Mr. Felcher then went on to express his opinion of Chief Rossel, who was present. He (the defendant) had not expected prosecution for his part in this matter in view of the leniency and laxness with which the liquor law has been enforced in town both this year and last. He thought that the Chief displays a great deal of leniency generally and it would be more to the point if he squelched all lawbreakers.

The magistrate stated that he had no alternative but to make a conviction but he recommended Mr. Felcher to appeal to the Council to remit the fine.

Mr. Felcher went on:—"The Chief has been very discreet in the past or has been mighty well greased." He could show where the chief was "greased."

The Chief interrupted him here but he stated that he was on his oath and could show that the Chief was not a fit and proper person to occupy his position.

Defendant was found guilty and he gave notice that he would appeal the case. The lowest fine is $50.

Lucy Minicolo charged her husband, Philip Minicolo, with assault. The charge was the result of a fracas held last Sunday. Philip was not present at the court and an enlargement was made till to-morrow. It may be settled privately. Mr. Michael Basso, of Toronto, the Italian interpreter, was present to assist.

AN APOLOGY.

Mr Felcher Excuses His Remarks Made in Police.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—Will you please allow me a sufficient space in your next issue to retract the insinuations I made concerning Chief Rossel this morning while giving evidence before His Worship Police Magistrate Dumble. In a moment of wrath I said on my oath that the Chief had been "greased."

I now wish to take this means of apologizing to the Chief and frankly admit that I am in possession of no facts other than hearsay that would in any way cast the slightest reflections on the Chief's honor or character, and I do deeply regret that I should so forget myself as to make the insinuations I did in view of the very fearless manner in which he usually discharges his duty.

Yours, etc.,
L. B. FELCHER.

PETERBOROUGHS TOOK REVENGE

FOR THEIR BIG DEFEAT AT BRAMPTON

And Defeated the Bramptons on the P A A A Grounds by the Score of 11 to 1—Peterborough's Combination and Close Checking Won Them the Result.

The Peterborough lacrosse club won back its laurels from Brampton in the league game played on the P. A. A. A. grounds yesterday afternoon, defeating the visitors by the big score of 11 to 1. This was all the more surprising to some, when it was remembered that the Peterboroughs had met defeat on Dominion Day at Brampton by the score of 9 goals to 1. What made the difference? Where was the change? It was undoubtedly largely to be found in the fact that the Peterboroughs were not in good shape when they played in Brampton, while yesterday they were in better condition and were playing for their life in the league. It was a good, clean, fast game of lacrosse. The Bramptons can play good lacrosse, but they cannot play with the local twelve when that twelve are playing their game. Peterborough's combination was good, while they checked their opponents closely, thus preventing them getting in their combination work, a kind of work that they understand very well, too. The local boys all did well.

The game was called shortly after half-past two and the teams lined up as follows before Referee J. D. Bailey, of Toronto:

Brampton—Goal, Whitehead; point, Jennings; cover point, Brown; 1st defence, McClure; 2nd defence, Parker; 3rd defence, Clangs; centre, Neeley; 3rd home, Millener; 2nd home, Lowes; 1st home, Henry; outside home, Hollis; inside home, Rebecon; field captain, J Thorburg.

Peterborough—Dobbin, goal; Jim McCabe, point; Brown, cover point; McDonough, 1st defence; Mein, 2nd defence; Lewis, 3rd defence; Bogart, centre; King, 3rd home; Glover, 2nd home; Jack McCabe, 1st home; Lipset, outside home; McWilliams, inside home; field captain, Joe Bagley; umpire, C LeBrun.

Bogart secured the ball at the face off and passed to Lewis, who passed to King. Here the ball was lost, but after some clever checking Lewis secured the rubber and passed to McDonough, who passed to King, who, after making a pretty run, passed to Glover, who scored. Time 5 min.

In the second game Bogart again got the face off. The ball was hurried to the Peterborough flags. After a scrimmage Brown got the ball, and after some exceptionally pretty combination work the ball was passed between the Brampton flags by McCabe. Time 2 min.

After the usual rest play was again resumed.

Peterborough secured the ball, which they brought up into Brampton territory, and after a scrimmage King shot, but the ball was cleverly stopped by Whitehead, who threw to the side. Here the Bramptons showed some clever combination work, but the home team again secured the rubber and after some pretty stick handling and running King scored for the local team in 5 minutes.

In the fourth game Bogart as usual got the face off, but on a pass lost. The visitors came up the field in fine style, but the home defence were too strong, and by a long throw from Brown the ball was once more in the vicinity of the visitors' flags. It looked as if a goal had been scored, but apparently such was not the case. Lewis took the ball about centre, and after some fine stick work McCabe scored the fourth goal for the home team in 4 minutes.

The fifth game was Brampton's game and they worked for it. After a scrimmage in the centre the ball came towards Peterborough's goal and a good shot was secured, but Dobbin was too sharp and succeeded in warding it off. Peterborough then managed to get about half way up the field with the ball, but a clever check turned the tide the other way. Clangs managed to get the ball and by a neat shot scored Brampton's first and only goal in 2 minutes.

The sixth game was the fastest game of the match as the visiting team had begun to pick up courage, but they were again doomed to disappointment. After some clever open play Glover with a clean side shot passed the ball between the flags, making the score 5 to 1. Time 1½ min.

The seventh, as were most of the games, was short. Peterborough again got the ball and showed some pretty combination. However, they were not alone. This was probably the prettiest game of the afternoon, excellent combination work was indulged in on both sides, Lewis particularly staring by his clever catching and phenomenal dodging, in fact he seemed to be all over the field at once. King trapped the ball from centre and passed to Glover, who returned. King shot but failed. The ball was tossed out in front of the Brampton goal, where the goal was scored in a scrimmage. Time 3 min.

In the next game the excitement seemed to subside, as Peterborough had such a great lead, but nevertheless the strong play of the local team was still maintained. The ball was kept pretty well on the move, while Brown showed up with his long throws and relief of the goal several time. The ball then came in the neighborhood of the flags, but with the strong defence the game was transferred to the other end. After some good combination work King, with McWilliams' assistance bothering the goal keeper, scored in 2½ min.

The ninth was the longest game of the match. Good work was indulged in on both sides, the Brampton men getting in some excellent long combination work, but their flags were continually in danger. McCabe secured the ball on a beautiful pass from Bogart and scored in 9 minutes, making the score 8—1 in favor of Peterborough.

The Bramptons were now becoming discouraged and two of their men left the field, but were persuaded to return and make another fight.

The three remaining games were much on the same lines as the preceding ones, noted for the excellent combination of the local twelve. In the eleventh game Lewis was laid out by an accident, but when the whistle blew he came on the field plucky, but very lame. However, he showed up in fine form with practically only one leg to stand on. These three goals were scored in the following succession:—Glover, 9 min.; Glover, 10 min.; McCabe, 2 min, with 20 minutes more to play, the score standing 11 to 1 in favor of Peterborough.

The game was particularly noticeable for its absence of rough play. The attendance was good.

The record of the scoring was follows:—

1 Peterborough—Glover, 5 min.
2 Peterborough—McCabe, 2½ min.
3 Peterborough—King, 5 min.
4 Peterborough—McCabe, 4 min.
5 Brampton—Clange, 2 min.
6 Peterborough—Glover, 1½ min.
7 Peterborough—Scrimmage, 5 min.
8 Peterborough—King, 2½ min.
9 Peterborough—McCabe, 9 min.
10 Peterborough—Glover, 2 min.
11 Peterborough—Glover, 10 min.
12 Peterborough—McCabe, 2 min.

The result this year is judged on games, not goals. Peterborough now has to play Markham. If Peterborough wins the teams will be a tie; if Markham wins it wins the district championship.

High cloth stocks are making considerable use of fringes of every width in silk or chenille or both in combination.

Some very beautiful tints in blue and in gray are used for evening toilets of veiling, peau de soie, faille francais and satin foulard.

The new lovely rose color called American beauty is a prominent shade among rich or dainty summer textiles and on French millinery in hats entire or among the striking accessories.

Summer cloth and foulard and etamine or canvas and foulard form very smart gowns. A few of the latest gowns are double skirted, but the majority are in one piece when made of wool of any description.

White trimmings are greatly in evidence on summer gowns of every description—white lace, white chiffon, tulle, etc. Cloth dresses, those of veiling, crepon and henriette cloth, have white pipings and folds.

Entire white costumes will be in marked vogue this summer, and as white parasols and beautiful white dress materials are now to be purchased at such surprisingly low prices it is very easy to make a selection for white toilets.—New York Post.

Now that so much white lace, white chiffon, cordings, etc., are used for trimming evening toilets, white suede gloves are in great use, but other very popular tints include the soft shades of tan, maize, primrose, canary, pearl gray, delicate cameo and Persian mauve.

Many dressmakers are using flounces cut straight from the goods instead of the long popular circular shapes cut bias. The reason is that on wash fabrics the former come from the laundry in better condition than the others, and on very light, airy fabrics they hang better.

The phenomenal and perennial trotter Bert Sheldon, Jr., won another race at Waverly park on Decoration day and added three more heats better than 2:20 to his long list.—Turf, Field and Farm.

So far as the boundary dispute is concerned all that we can claim is what Russia warranted when we bought Alaska, and that we'll have, with or without arbitration.—Detroit Tribune.

When the United States took the territory known as Alaska, all the right of Russia came with that territory. Canada made no claim to the boundary which it now marks out. The United States has held undisturbed possession for more than 30 years. That would constitute a good title in England, even were there no other.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Mustapha Ouadi, like most Arabs, possesses many of the properties that in times gone by distinguished our American Indians.

The signs of the desert and mountains are like an open book to him, and he is quite at home in an undertaking of this sort, a mission requiring energy and daring, as well as caution.

So, without much apparent trouble, he leads the young Chicagoan along. Sometimes the way is difficult, indeed, impossible in John's eyes, but the Arab knows the secret, and finds a passage where none appears to exist.

Thus they advance for nearly an hour. John imagines they have gone farther than is the case. This is on account of the rough ground.

"Now, caution. We draw near the place. They will be on the watch. Monsieur knows what discovery means."

"Yes—death. That is understood, but it does not prevent me from desiring to advance. Still we will redouble our caution."

They see lights. These appear to come from openings in the hill, doubtless mouths of the deserted mines which the robber band of Bab Asoun occupy temporarily, with their accustomed boldness.

Drawing still nearer, under Mustapha's clever guidance, they discover that the main body of the robbers are encamped in the largest cavern, and as it seems natural that they would bring their prisoners here, the two men devote their time toward looking up that quarter.

The Arab courier has played as a boy in these old mines, and knows all about them. This knowledge may serve him well now, and John is pleased to think he is in the hands of one so well informed.

In half an hour they have managed to learn an important fact. The prisoners are in the main cavern. All escape is cut off by the presence of numerous guards at the mouth of the mine, and they are watched besides.

Mustapha, putting his knowledge of the place into good use, has led his companion into a cleft where there is hardly room to crawl; but, as they reach the end, they have a chance to gaze upon the interior where the Arabs and Kabyles, the Moors and negroes, who battle under the free banner of Bab Asoun, are assembled.

Eagerly John looks upon the face of Lady Ruth. His heart seems in his throat, and he no longer can deceive himself regarding his true feelings toward this young lady.

"What can we do?" he whispers to the Arab.

"Nothing but wait," is the reply.

John has a great fear tugging at his heart. On their way they have discussed the situation, and Mustapha has related the habits of the Arab desert outlaws. Should it appear that a rescue was imminent, it was their habit to murder any prisoners.

Surely this is enough to arouse John's keenest fears. What if the French forces do come and annihilate the robber host—if the prisoners share their doom what has been gained?

That is why he asks so anxiously if there is nothing to be done.

The Arab by this time realizes why he is so anxious, and hesitates a little before making reply.

"We must watch and wait. Monsieur will see something soon. Watch the soldier."

This gives John a new idea, and he speedily discovers that Sir Lionel is not idle. The soldier has been in too many desperate situations to be dismayed over such a trifling thing as this.

He is not bound, and hence can move about. Now he seems to be talking to the professor and anon to Aunt Gwen. Last of all he speaks to Lady Ruth, who nods eagerly.

And a strange feeling comes up in John's mind as he surveys this scene. What causes him to remember the harbor of Malta, the words of the boatman before leaving the steamer, the tragic scene in the blue waters?

It comes over him like a flash. Perhaps he did Sir Lionel an injustice when he suspected him of criminal plotting in such a case, but the circumstances were decidedly against the man.

If he could be guilty of such a scheme, what would he not do in order to win favor at the hands of the young English beauty?

Again it flashes through John's mind; did not the driver, in speaking of the facts tell Mustapha that, in his opinion, it was a man who had entered into a conspiracy with Bab Asoun?

John's first thought was of Pauline Potter—that she had hoped to get hold of him; but now he changes his mind, and locates the trouble elsewhere, fixing it upon the veteran.

Under these circumstances it may be interesting to see how the Briton intrude working his plan. John's only desire is a sincere wish that Lady Ruth may be rescued from her predicament. He has no wish to put her to any unnecessary trouble in order that he may play the hero. As well Sir Lionel as any one else, so long as she is benefited.

With this spirit, he can watch the development of affairs composedly, though the suspicion that has crept into his mind causes him a little worry.

Sir Lionel is evidently getting ready to make a move for liberty. His very actions betray it in more ways than one. John cannot but think that he goes about with something like a flourish of trumpets that is hardly in keeping with the situation, for it is supposed that a dozen pairs of eyes are upon them.

First of all, he secures a weapon that is hanging upon the wall near by. It must be his own revolver, John believes. How lucky that the Arabs hung it so close to his hand. No one appears to notice the action. Really, Sir Lionel is attended by the goddess of luck.

Then the professor makes a move in the same direction, crawls forward, and lays hands on a gun that rests against the wall. This he smuggles back with him, and again the guards are all interested in other business, laughing and joking.

So far, good. Perhaps they can, if this marvellous good fortune follows them, steal all the arms in the camp, and even capture the brigade. So John concludes with a smile, as he sees what the professor has done.

Anxiously, he waits to see what there will be next on the programme. Some of the guards have left the place, others lie down to sleep.

"The grand climax is coming," he thinks, as he takes note of these things. "Blunt is getting ready to sweep the board. Well, good luck to him."

Even Mustapha has discovered that something strange is on the tapis.

He has a singular way of expressing it.

"Poor Monsieur Constans," he whispers.

"What is the matter with him?" ejaculates John, in about the same tone.

"It is too bad."

"Mustapha, speak out."

"He will come after awhile."

"Yes, yes."

"And he will find no Bab Asoun, no band of illustrious robbers to do battle with."

John's mind instantly hits upon flight as the cause for all this.

"Why do you speak so?"

"This wonderful soldier, he do it all; by the mighty power of his arm he will overcome the mighty hosts of Bab Asoun. Great is Allah, and Mohammed is his prophet; but I have never seen such a thing before in all my life."

Then the exquisite dry humor of the thing strikes John, and with such force that he comes very near bursting with laughter.

He has not the slightest desire to do anything that will bring about a change in the plan. So long as Lady Ruth is rescued from her unpleasant position, it matters little what the means are.

Hence, he watches the development of matters with a keen interest. It is not long before he is in a position to see that there is solid truth in his suspicions. The actions of Sir Lionel confirm the fact that he has been induced to compromise his honor in order to succeed with John as a rival.

When the divine spark touches the heart, it causes men to do strange things.

Here is one who in times past has been very jealous of his honor, and would as soon cut off his hand as compromise himself. Yet, reduced to sore straits by the success of a rival, he now descends the scale, and schemes as cleverly as any rascally adventurer.

The critical period draws near, and our military hero can scarce restrain his valor. Indeed, he shows symptoms of wanting to rush out and annihilate the whole band of Arabs and Moors, but Lady Ruth restrains him, as though she is clever enough to see the folly of a move too premature.

It is a picturesque scene, and one that John will never forget. The grotto alone has charming features, since the walls are white and encrusted with some metallic substance that shines like silver.

On either side can be seen giant stalactites dependant from the roof, looking like mighty columns to support the dome.

The fire and torches illumine the scene until it looks like one of enchantment. The strange costumes of the nomads, with the various colors they boast, add to the romantic nature of the exposition, and his must be a poor soul, indeed, that fails to catch something of artistic fervor when such a picture appears in view.

There were twenty of Bab Asoun's men present an hour before, but now only half of that number can be seen.

The remainder have mysteriously disappeared. Things seem to be working to suit the desperate plans of the veteran Zulu fighter, and he will soon be in a condition to open the engagement.

There will doubtless be a battle. John is lost in admiration of the genius that could prepare such a scene, such a triumph. He does not anticipate that even if the Briton is successful in his plans, he will carry the heart of Lady Ruth by storm.

The Sagacious Rat.

One day a well fed and sagacious rat came across an object made of wire, whose sole occupation seemed to be to take care of a liberal piece of cheese. Having had several years' experience with men and their machinations, the rat looked the ground over with great care, and he was still engaged in this occupation when a mouse appeared and wanted to know what was up.

"Why, the fact is," replied the rat, "I have more cheese here than I can possibly eat at one meal, and as cheese quickly spoils in this climate I was waiting for some one to come along and accept a portion."

"You are generous," said the mouse.

"Don't mention it. Just step inside and pass the cheese out, will you?"

The mouse had no sooner nibbled at the bait than there was a crash, and he found himself trapped.

"Ah, that's the way it works, is it?" queried the rat. "I couldn't just make it out. Um! I see. Spring there somewhere. Good idea."

"But I'm caught," exclaimed the mouse in great agitation.

"So I observe."

"And what's to be done?"

"Well, I leave that for you to decide. I let you in on the ground floor, and my responsibility ceased there. Fine day. Hope we shall have a good harvest."

A Fortune In a Kiss.

It was a kiss which made the fame and fortune of one of the leading artists in France today.

When he was a young student in the Quartier Latin, Paris, he came to the end of the slight resources left by his parents and was almost on the verge of starving.

In a moment of hilarity he stole a kiss from a pretty pair of lips he met in the street and was quickly called to account by the offended girl.

When he made his appearance in court, the presiding judge asked if he was a relative of Maitre C——, a famous French advocate of the sixties.

"I am his son," the culprit answered. After inflicting a small fine the judge asked the young man to call on him in the evening.

It transpired that the young artist's father had been the judge's dearest friend and adviser many years earlier, and the judge, who was a bachelor, was delighted to be in a position to assist his son. He bought many of the artist's pictures and introduced him to several wealthy art patrons, so that fame and fortune came quickly.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

One of Millions.

Once upon a time there lived a man who wanted only a few things that everybody wants. He wanted plenty to eat and drink, leisure and the woman he loved. But he found that to have time to himself to make it possible to live pleasantly with his sweetheart and give her all he wanted and to take care of the children that they might have—to do all this he must have a great deal of money. So he went to work, and built up a great business, a very complicated machinery. To this money producing machinery he was forced to give most of his energy. It gave him no time for leisure, no energy for enjoying the sunshine, his wife and children. But he began to enjoy the machinery of his business.

When he had made a large fortune, the only thing he enjoyed was the machinery by which he could make more money. He had lost his interest in the things for which he began his business. Perhaps he still had interest in food, his wife and all the naive physical and sentimental pleasures, but it was a blunted, dull interest. The only live interest he had was his business.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Life Assurance Co.,
Toronto:

DEAR SIR,—Your official notice comes duly to hand, reminding me of the fourth calculable date upon my 15-year Endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000, which matured on the 5th inst. Of the various options you have given me, viz.:

Cash Value.....$1 564 00
Paid-up policy, payable at my death.....2,560.00
Yearly income for life of.....166 20

I have decided upon the cash value; and it gives me pleasure to testify that, as I anticipated it would be when I took out the policy, it is very satisfactory. This returns me the full premium of the 15 years and over 4½ per cent compound interest, in addition to which you have carried the risk upon my life. In view of the lowering rates of interest which have been obtainable during the latter portion of the period, it is difficult to see how this excellent result could have been surpassed.

Yours sincerely,

London, July 13.—The Cape Town correspondent of The Daily News says: The Transvaal field cornets have refused to register American citizens unless they take oath to bear arms for the republic in the event of war. AT BISLEY.

Canadian Riflemen Doing Well at the Imperial Shoot.

London, July 13.—Canada's representatives at Bisley began well at the ranges, several of the team doing some highly creditable shooting.

Yesterday morning in the "Extra Prizes," Capt. Bennie of the Queen's Own Rifles, Toronto, got within the "bull" in each of his seven shots, scoring a possible. He also gained a similar position in the Premier Competition. He had seven shots, and landed in the centre disc each time. In both these events the shooting was at 600 yards.

In the "Premier" Pte. A. R. Fleming made a possible as well, scoring 35.

Sergt. L. T. Bertram of the 77th Battalion made a possible in the Ladies' Prize, getting within the inner circle in each of his seven shots.

Lieut. John Ogg of the 1st Field Battery and Lieut. R. A. Robertson of the 13th Battalion made top scores in the Association Cup match at 600 yards. Sergt. A. Graham of the 48th Highlanders followed closely, his score being 34.

During the progress of the shooting in these events the winds were shifty.

CANADA AS A GRABBER.

Uncle Sam, However, Was Watching and Prevented Harm Being Done.

New York, July 13.—A Washington despatch to an evening paper says:

A shrewd Canadian scheme, relating to the Alaskan boundary dispute, has been exposed at the State Department. The department has received from London the precise variation which England desired to have made in Secretary Hay's provisional boundary line.

The State Department verifies the story that Canada insisted on the inclusion of the Porcupine district in Canadian territory. It also reveals these two things:

First—That Canada attempted to grab, by an apparently innocent request, one of the finest gold-bearing districts of the United States.

Second—That the proposed variation would give Canada the control of the upper part of a river which flows virtually into the Lynn Canal.

The State Department looked over the British proposition carefully, with the assistance of coast and geodetic survey experts, and rejected the whole proposition. Hence the deadlock, which is understood here to mean the indefinite postponement or practical breaking off of negotiations between England the United States on the provisional boundary line.

DECLINE IN CANADIAN SHIPPING.

The Cause Is That Lost Vessels Are Not Replaced by New Ones.

Ottawa, July 13.—The Dominion shipping list, issued by the Marine Department, was distributed last evening, and shows that although last year there were a few more vessels built than in the preceding year, the trend of Canadian shipbuilding is downward, and the number of vessels of all kinds on the registry list is steadily decreasing, as vessels are lost and not replaced by new ones. Last year 278 vessels, of 24,528 tons, were built and registered, as compared with 321 vessels, of 17,094 tons, in 1897, and 326 vessels, of 21,243 tons, in 1894. The registry shows that in 1870 there were 7,471 vessels, steam and sail, of 1,232,094 tons; in 1880 there were 7,155 vessels of all kinds, with tonnage of 1,046,491, and in 1890 there were 6,643 vessels, of 606,-789 tons. The value of the vessels built last year is estimated at $1,103,490, and the total value of Canada's merchant marine is placed at $90,806,460.

NEWS OF GRAVEST IMPORT.

England and Germany to Make a Demonstration Against Guatemala.

New Orleans, La., July 13.—The Picayune prints the following:

News of the gravest import from Guatemala was brought to this city by the passengers on the Snyder steamship Brookwater, which touched at four or five of the leading Central American ports before putting in here late Monday night. The reports seem to be authentic in the main.

"Just before sailing on the steamer for New Orleans," said one of the passengers, "I was informed by persons in the best of positions, that probably before I could get back, both England and Germany would make a naval demonstration at the two leading ports of the Republic of Guatemala. I investigated the information before sailing, and everything seems to point to its genuineness. A large amount of Government debt in the form of bonds issued by the Government of Guatemala is held by English and German interests. These bonds have been practically repudiated, at least the bonds have sunk to nothing, and the German and English holders have protested vigorously to their Governments.

"Four warships are said to have been ordered to Guatemalan waters, two German and two English. One of each flag will proceed to Puerto Barrios, and one of each will be sent to San Jose de Guatemala, which is on the Pacific side of the republic.

The Monroe Doctrine.

"The point that most interests the United States is that if the seizure of the customs houses should result in a long holding of these ports, in order that the amounts could be collected, it would be necessary for a protectorate to be established over the Republic of Guatemala while this was going on. In that case, the natural course of affairs would be to turn to either Mexico or the United States for that protectorate. The first proposition would hardly be probable, because of the bad feeling existing between Guatemala and the Republic of Mexico over the boundary disputes."

Some of the cures effected by Dr. Chase's Ointment are more like miracles than anything else. The case recorded here was one of the worst ever brought to the attention of Toronto's best physicians, and when doctors gave up all hope of recovery Dr. Chase's Ointment was successful in producing a perfect cure.

Mr. James Scott, 136 Wright Ave., Toronto, states: "My boy Tom, aged ten, was for nearly three years afflicted with a bad form of Eczema of the scalp, which was very unsightly and resisted all kinds of remedies and doctor's treatment. His head was in a terrible state. We had to keep him from school, and at times his head would bleed, and the child would scream with agony. For two and a half years of battling with it in vain, but at last tested a cure in Dr. Chase's Ointment. About five boxes were used. The original cause dried up, leaving the skin in its normal condition. To say it is a pleasure to testify to the wonderful merits of Dr. Chase's Ointment is putting it very mildly."

THURSDAY, JULY 13, 1899.

town reached the village about 11.30 o'clock a procession was formed and a march made down to the village hall, where all dispersed for the noon hour.

Good arrangements had been made for feeding the crowd and there was no trouble over this score. All the hotels had made special preparations and several eating houses had been provided for the day. Mr. Munro, of the Queen's hotel, had had the ground floor of the village hall fitted up as a dining room and a great many satisfied themselves here.

About 1.30 o'clock the procession formed up at the village hall. The marshalls at the head were G. W. Hall, County Director of Ceremonies; Allan McCarthy, District Director of Ceremonies; and W. M. Graham, County Master. The lodges all marched well, Nassau L.O.L. and Col. Sanderson L.O.L., of Otonabee, sharing the honors between them. The display of banners was a fine one. The Sons of England band and the North Smith Band were chief musical aggregations. The streets had been watered and as a good breeze was blowing the walk was not a weary ing one. The streets were densely lined with spectators. The order of march was from the village hall up Queen-st. to R. C. Strickland's residence, thence to Regent-st., thence to Albert-st., to Bridge-st., to Clemantine-st., to Nassau-st., to Caroline-st., and back by Bridge-st. to the village hall, where on the adjoining green a meeting was held. The order of the parade was as follows:—

THE ADDRESSES.

After the parade a meeting was held on the green adjoining the village hall, local clergyman giving addresses. The audience was large and was apparently interested in the remarks made, if not enthusiastic over their tenor. Bro. W. M. Graham, of Lakefield, fulfilled the duties of chairman standing up.

Rev. A. C. Reeves, Lakefield, was the first speaker. He expressed pleasure at meeting the audience. He thought the celebration should leave a great impression on the minds of all, that it must have a beneficial effect. There is no order meeting with so much favor at present as the Orange order. This is at the hands of all denominations. Roman Catholics do not view it in the same light as of old. We are learning to avoid the extremes of ultra-Protestantism and ultra-Roman Catholicism. If this land, where there are many creeds and peoples, is to be a prosperous one we must learn the lesson of living together in peace. All who believe in liberty and freedom of conscience, must, however, believe in the Orange order. The speaker, as a native of the province of Quebec, knew that the laws of that province militate against the Protestants and that there are still there religious disabilities; but a better feeling is steadily growing up between the denominations. He closed with a panegyric on the greatness of Canada and an exhortation to continued loyalty.

Rev. Mr. McCannus was pleased to be present at such a gathering because the Orange order is founded on distinctly Christian principles. He knew this because he saw the open Bible carried in the procession and because he knew the constitution of the society. The order was often misunderstood. Its misrepresentation as a faction opposed to Roman Catholicism is a great mistake. Its principles are not inimical to any class of people. As a Christian minister he, therefore, felt free to congratulate them on the success of the day. But Mev. Mr. McCannus also pointed out that the lessons of history should not be forgotten. They should not forget the Reformation on the day whose anniversary was being celebrated, a day on which the prestige of the British empire was established. The Battle of the Boyne had secured liberty of conscience and he exhorted all to stand firmly for that liberty and for all the blessings which come from an open Bible.

Rev. Geo. Warren, also of Lakefield, delivered a straightforward address. Referring to some remarks which had been made by the preceding speaker about persecution in the middle ages he reminded his hearers that the credit for the persecution is too often laid altogether at the feet of Roman Catholics. Let everybody be fair. In a country where Roman Catholics and Protestants live together it is well to know that it was due as much to Protestants as to Roman Catholics and they had persecuted the Catholics as much as the Catholics had done to them. There was here a little demurring in the audience but Rev. Mr. Warren stated that he was in the habit of speaking the truth and he believed Orangemen were men enough to hear the truth told. Next, he believed in the open Bible. Every man should have liberty to search the Bible for his convictions. He congratulated the Orangemen on the success of their procession. He was glad to see that they revere the memory of their fathers. The cause won at the Battle of the Boyne was that of religious liberty. But the battle was part of a great war and at its conclusion there were still both Protestants and Catholics and people learned that they must live together in peace. King William, the great Protestant champion, wanted them so to live. Here in Canada there is no need of Roman Catholics fighting against Protestant or Protestant against Roman Catholic. The brethren should maintain the truth, but maintain it for love, and he prayed that the open Bible may pour forth all truth into all hearts.

Rev. Mr. Foster, of Buckhorn, sketched the life of William III. in parrative form. He described him as a man of business and tact, uprightness and a thorough Protestant. He also traced the events leading up to the meeting of William and James in Ireland and gave a graphic description of the seige of Londonderry and the battle of the Boyne.

The meeting then closed with "God Save the Queen."

The main part of the Peterborough contingent left for home on the 5 o'clock train arriving in town at 5.40. They were escorted to the Lakefield station by the other brethren and on arriving formed in procession and marched, headed by the Sons of England band, to their hall at the corner of George and Simcoe-sts., where they dispersed. The evening was a very quiet one.

NOTES.

The crowd at Lakefield was a most orderly one. There was no trouble or excitement in the village during the day.

Col. Sanderson L.O.L., of Otonabee, was one hundred men strong.

The committee having charge of the arrangements at Lakefield was composed of Bro. W. Northcott, District Master; Bro. W. M. Graham, County Master, and Bro. J. W. Stewart, treasurer.

As a coincidence of the day it may be remarked that Bro. Jas. Martin, Edinburgh-st., joined the order just fifty years ago yesterday, being initiated at Vankleek Hill at the house of the father of Mr. Johnathon Griffin, of Lakefield. He was, therefore, celebrating his jubilee as an Orangeman.

Orange lilies were the flowers of the day.

There were more plug hats, ancient and modern but mostly ancient, in the village than will be seen for a year.

A man with a bright green sweater on and his coat wide open walked around quiet unmolested. These be changed times.

The white horse was in evidence. Sometimes he was grey, because it is always hard to get anything absolutely pure—but he was there.

The number of children in the village was awful. Smith township will never be uninhabited.

Marching and patriotic airs largely took the part of the old party tunes.

The route of march was a puzzle. It was hard for the procession to find a place to turn around.

There are prospects of a monster district demonstration here on July 12th next.

One of the old timers sang:—

Then up jumped Jerry, wid a great big stick,
And he began to slaughter,
Singin', I'm the boy from the County Clare,
And I'm goin' to cross Boyne wather.

OUTWITTING ROTHSCHILD.

The Scheme a Shrewd Dealer Worked on the Astute Banker.

An amusing story, told in the "Memories of an Old Collector," makes clear the tricks in trade to which an unscrupulous dealer in antiquities will resort in order to get a large sum for his wares. The two parties were Alessandro Castellani, the clever dealer, and Baron Adolph Rothschild of Paris.

Castellani had managed to get hold of a superb enameled ewer, together with the dish on which it stood. He knew that Baron Adolph had a fancy for objects of this kind, but he also knew that no Rothschild was ever so carried away by his fancy as to pay more than was reasonable for anything that pleased him. Castellani, who in trade was what Machiavelli was in politics, devised a bit of strategy.

The baron, on arriving in Rome, visited Castellani's shop and was shown the best things the dealer had, except the enameled dish and ewer. When everything else had been inspected, Castellani drew from a hidden cupboard the dish, but not the ewer. The baron was so pleased with the dish that he agreed to buy the lot of which it was a part, for one of the custom of the shop was not to sell a rare specimen apart from the group of which it formed the principal object. The baron paid heavily for the whole, lamenting that there was no ewer to stand on the dish, and departed for Florence.

There he was visited by an agent who told him of an old lady who wished to sell several beautiful majolica pieces. He visited her house in the country and was disappointed, as the majolica lady, seemingly chagrined, left the room to order refreshments, and the baron saw through the open door of a bedroom a ewer covered by a glass shade on which rested a wreath of immortelles.

When the lady returned, the baron asked permission to examine the ewer. It was brought out, and the baron saw that the enamel was of the same work as that of the dish he had bought, but he wished to be certain that the foot of the ewer would fit into the hollow of the dish. He inquired the price of the ewer and was told by the lady that it was not for sale, as it was the only souvenir she possessed of her husband.

The baron went back to his rooms, had the dish unpacked and found that the foot of the ewer fitted it perfectly. The next day the baron sent the agent to offer the old lady a princely sum for the ewer. He brought back a refusal to sell. But at last the widow's scruples were overcome.

Castellani, with his Italian cunning, had planned the whole affair. The agent who called and the old lady who was sentimental were his aids in making the baron pay a much larger sum than he would have given had ewer and dish been sold together. The Italian shopman's scheme had taken in the Jewish banker, reputed one of the most astute of business men.

APES AS CASHIERS.

Siamese Merchants Employ Them to Detect Spurious Coins.

In that faroff, dried up little oriental country, quite near China, you know, there are large quantities of counterfeit coin in circulation, and the counterfeiters of Siam must be most proficient, for we hear that it is the hardest thing in the world to detect the bad from the good money.

The merchants are often deceived and frequently swindled. The smartest men they could employ were deceived, too, for the bad money was such a wonderful imitation that the closest scrutiny often failed to find the difference between a good and a bad piece.

In this dilemma some Siamese merchants called to their help some one who was always thought not so smart as a man—a monkey. And these "large apes of Siam" proved such a success at their new avocation that the custom of employing them for the purpose of detecting bad money has become universal. The ape cashier of Siam holds his situation without a rival.

He has a peculiar method of testing coin. Every piece is handed to him, and he picks up each bit of money, one at a time, and meditatively puts it into his mouth, tasting it with grave deliberation. If the coin is good, he declares the fact plainly. He takes it from his mouth and carefully places it in its proper receptacle beside him. He has pronounced judgment, and every one is satisfied that the judgment is correct.

But if the coin is bad the cashier makes known his verdict in an equally unmistakable manner. He throws it violently from his mouth to the floor, shaking his head with as much disgust as the merchant himself might feel at being imposed upon. With loud chattering and angry gestures, he makes known his displeasure at being presented with a bad piece of money. The merchant himself could not express it better.

Now, how does a monkey know what a man cannot tell? Ah, that is his secret. He never reveals it.—Siam Independent.

A Gift That Won Her.

The prettiest story of the giving of presents that I know anything about is a chapter in the life romance of an adorable little woman who is the wife of an ex-senator from a state in the middle west. She was a widow when the senator first met her and he a widower. It was the afternoon of life with both of them, but he wooed her with the ardor of a boy and the persistence of a man. At one time she had definitely made up her mind that her duty forbade her to marry him, and she told him so. She was deaf to his pleadings, and he went away, asking only that he might give her some gift in token of his unalterable affection. She would accept nothing but a trifle—a book, she said, and a book he gave her. It was the most magnificent edition to be had, and on the back was emblazoned the title, "Paradise Lost."

But later he added to his library—their library, in fact—"Paradise Regained."—Washington Post.

A Compliment With a Sting.

Miss Keene—Do you know, Mr. Tubbs, that vawse always reminds me of you?

Mr. Tubbs—Of me? How's that?

Miss Keene—Oh, it's so large and shapely, and—

Mr. Tubbs—Ahem! Yes?

Miss Keene—And there's never anything in it, you know!—Jewelers' Weekly.

Many animals in desert regions never have any water except the dew on vegetation. A parrot in the London zoo is known to have lived 52 years without drinking a drop of water.

Anybody who knows enough can learn something from anybody else.—Boston Christian Register.

A Mean Subterfuge.

Sharp Dame—I must frankly tell you, Mr. Ginx, that my consent to your marrying my daughter has been wrung from me under protest.

Mr. Ginx—Eh? Protest?

Sharp Dame—Yes, sir. I knew that if I did not consent she would disgrace the family by an elopement. When she wants anything, we all have to give in to her or take the consequences, and long experience has taught me that I might as well try to fan off a cyclone as reason with her when she gets angry, especially if there is a flatiron or a rolling pin handy, and so I just give up at once. Has the wedding day been fixed on yet, Mr. Ginx?

Mr. Ginx—Um—er—not yet, and, in fact, madam, I'm—I'm a little afraid I can't afford to marry. Goo-good day—Exchange.

Dangerous Fluids.

Benzine and gasoline should never be allowed to stand in a bottle or in anything else where the hot sun shines on it. Not long ago a house was set on fire in that manner. Never use either of these inflammable fluids in a room where there is ever so little fire. A match will ignite the volatile fumes exactly as quick as a base burner in full blast. We make no apology for this caution, for hardly a week passes that some one, somewhere, is not seriously burned by careless use of one or the other.

Why He Waited.

A hungry traveler, a stranger in Red Bank, N. J., entered a restaurant in that town and ordered ham and eggs, as that seemed to be the only available dish. After he had waited half an hour, staring impatiently at the bottles in the caster, he summoned the proprietor, whom he questioned regarding the delay. "The ham is all cooked," was the reply, "but my little girl is still out in the yard waiting for the hen to lay another egg."

AT MILLBROOK.

A Successful Celebration of the 12th at the Village.

The celebration of the 12th of July at Millbrook was a great success. There was an immense crowd present from all parts of Durham county. Many went down from Peterborough on the morning train, more people going there, perhaps, than to Lakefield. The streets were prettily decorated and were thronged all day. The procession was a big one. It included five brass bands, those of Port Hope, Millbrook, Welcome, Bethany and Omemee. After the procession addresses were delivered by several speakers of the village. Besides the procession the attractions included the baseball match and a lot of smaller affairs. Everybody in the village was well satisfied with the day.

MRS. THORNLEY IN THE HOUSE

Her Charge of Drunkenness in Canada's Militia Camps.

Minister Borden Indignantly Denies That There Was Any Sale of Liquor—The Lady Was Asked for Evidence, But She Had Not Even Shown the Courtesy to Send a Reply, the Minister Remarked.

Ottawa, July 14.—Yesterday was one of the quietest days the House has enjoyed for some time, and excellent progress in supply was made by Mr. Mulock with his postoffice estimates.

The Long Service Medals.

In answer to a question by Mr. Kloepfer, the Minister of Militia said it was expected that at an early date regulations would be promulgated in connection with the long service medals which had been authorized for the colonies by royal warrant. This order had been published in The Gazette and, he supposed, would shortly be published in Canada.

In answer to a further question, he said that an officer who had served upwards of 32 years, and who had just been placed on the retired list, would be eligible for a medal.

Booze in Canteens.

Hon. Dr. Borden, arising to a question of privilege, read the Associated Press despatch containing the remarks made by Major Campbell at the Ontario Alliance and the resolution passed condemning him for the alleged sale of liquor in the canteens at the camps this year. He read the regulations with respect to sale of liquor in canteens being prohibited, which had not been changed since 1892, and said that both Major-General Hutton and himself had taken the utmost pains this year to prevent the sale of liquor in the camps, and he did not believe that any liquor had been sold. Major-General Hutton had been written to on the subject and had replied that he had been in command of the first camp at London, and did not see a single drunken man during the whole meeting.

Mrs. Thornley Asked for Evidence.

Mrs. Thornley, who had made the charge, had been written to, asking her to mention some names or give any evidence she may have about drunkenness in any of the camps, and she had not even had the courtesy to reply. He said he thought a good deal of the trouble with the temperance people arose from their not understanding the word canteen. They seemed to think it was a drinking place, while it was in reality a store for the sale of pipe clay, tobacco and a number of articles which the soldiers required, but which they were not allowed to go outside the camp to purchase. The sale of spirituous liquors, beer, wine, etc., was absolutely prohibited in canteens.

Colonies and Motherland.

Col. Hughes called attention to the despatch stating that the Government of Queensland had offered to supply a contingent in the event of war in South Africa. He thought 5,000 men could be raised in Canada, and offered his services in raising a regiment any time the Government felt like offering assistance to the Motherland.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier hoped there would be no need for Queensland or any other colony sending troops to the Transvaal. He thought the trouble would be settled without the sword being unsheathed. He did not think it too much to expect that the Boers would recognize that equal justice should be meted out, and if this was done there would be no occasion for sending any troops to the Transvaal.

Sir Charles Tupper thought that the knowledge that the various parts of the Empire were prepared to assist the Home Government would contribute to a settlement of the difficulty.

Senate Reform.

On the orders of the day being called, Sir Charles Tupper asked if the Government had decided to abandon its Senate reform resolution.

The Premier said the resolutions would be brought down probably next week.

The House then went into committee of supply.

All the postoffice items were passed by 11 o'clock, when the St. John harbor item in the railway vote was again taken up, and was still continuing at midnight with a prospect of lasting an hour or two more, when the House will probably adjourn.

THE SENATE.

The greater portion of the afternoon and evening session of the Senate was passed in committee of the whole on Senator Dandurand's usury bill, which finally passed through committee and was reported, after having been considerably amended. The third reading was fixed for Tuesday, but it is understood that the bill will not be proceeded with this session, but will be reprinted as an amendment and distributed to boards of trade, banks, etc., during the recess, with a view to obtaining expressions of opinion before the bill is taken up again next session.

SETTLEMENT TO BE FORCED.

French Shore Dispute Must Soon Be Brought to a Head.

St. John's, Nfld., July 14.—Another evidence of the determination of the British to force a settlement of the French shore question was afforded by the action of the Colonial Legislature last night in passing a bill granting mining leases along the shore. Mr. Morine, Minister of Finance, in moving the passage of the bill, said he expected that within a few months all restrictions upon mining operations along the coast would be removed by the action of the British Government.

TO HELP HER SUBJECTS.

The Queen Regent of Spain Agrees to Cut Down Her Civil List.

Madrid, July 14.—The Cabinet yesterday, after a long discussion, accepted the offer of the Queen Regent to assist the finances of the country by giving up another 2,000,000 pesetas from the civil list. The total civil list for Spanish royalty is 7,500,000 pesetas annually, or $1,500,000.

Uprising in Peru.

Lima, Peru, July 14.—The Separatist uprising in the southern provinces of Peru is spreading and the Government has sent 600 infantry and cavalry into the rebellious district.

DEATH TO ARBITRATION

If All the Claims Advanced by Venezuela Are Allowed.

Paris, July 14.—Sir Richard Webster, Attorney-General of Great Britain, concluded yesterday before the Venezuelan arbitration commission his presentation of the British case. During the course of his remarks he said it would be a death-blow to arbitration if the courts sanctioned such claims as advanced by Venezuela. It would, he added, in fact, imply that an unsupported claim amounted to a title. The sessions of the commission were then adjourned until Wednesday next.

Lady Salisbury Is Ill.

London, July 14.—The Marchioness of Salisbury, wife of the Premier and Minister of Foreign Affairs, had a slight attack of paralysis yesterday at Walmer Castle. She rallied well and is now improving in health. Lord Salisbury was obliged to curtail the diplomatic reception at the Foreign Office yesterday immediately after the receipt of the grave tidings, and took a special train to Walmer Castle.

The Khedive in Quarantine.

Alexandria, Egypt., July 14.—The yacht Mahrousse, with the Khedive and the Khedivah on board, has proceeded to Cassomane, in order to perform 12 days' quarantine before disembarking the Khedivah at the Island of Rhodes and taking the Khedive to Trieste.

British Ship and Crew Lost.

Perth, Western Australia, July 14.—The British ship Carlisle Castle was lost in a storm yesterday off Rockingham. The crew perished. The Carlisle Castle, Capt. Lindsay, of 1,344 tons net register, left the Clyde March 21 for Fremantle, near Perth, Western Australia. She was built at London in 1868.

KOLAPORE CUP MATCH.

The Canadians at Bisley Still Continue to Shoot Well.

Bisley Camp, July 14.—Canada's eight to shoot for the Kolapore Cup will not be officially announced until this morning by Capt. Helmer, Adjutant of the Canadian team. The contest for the "Rajah of Kolapore's Imperial Challenge Cup," as it is known officially, takes place to-day. The cup was given in 1861 by His Highness the late Rajah of Kolapore. The competition is open to teams of eight—one team of volunteers from the Mother Country, one team from the militia or volunteers of each British colony and one team from members, home on leave, from the Indian Staff Corps, or of the covenanted or uncovenanted Indian service or Indian volunteers. The distances are 200, 500 and 600 yards.

In the "Golden Penny" Private A. F. Fleming and Private J. H. Simpson each scored 34.

THINGS HOT AT THE CAPE.

The Premier, Mr. W. P. Schriener, May Be Impeached.

His Anti-British Attitude Will Furnish the Reason—Afrikander Party Working a Pro-Boer Agitation—Free Fight at a Loyalist Meeting—War Supplies for Kimberley—Volksraad Has Adopted Preamble of Franchise Law.

Cape Town, July 14.—The Cape Parliament will open to-day, and exciting scenes are anticipated, owing to the attitude of the Premier, W. P. Schreiner, on the Transvaal question. A large number of Opposition members favor his impeachment.

Loyalist Meeting Frustrated.

In the meantime the Afrikander party is working up a pro-Boer agitation, and doing its utmost in this direction. An attempt to hold a loyalist meeting at Worcester yesterday afternoon was frustrated by the Afrikanders, who precipitated disgraceful scenes, forcibly dragging the loyalists from the platform and expelling them from the hall amid jeers and insults. It is reported that several Dutch members of the Legislature participated.

The publication of the text of the Transvaal franchise law, now being debated at Pretoria, has accentuated the bitterness between the two elements.

Supplies for Kimberley.

The military authorities here are purchasing horses, mules and wagons, and preparing to forward supplies to Kimberley.

The Volksraad at Work.

Pretoria, July 14.—The Volksraad yesterday adopted the preamble of the franchise law, which declares that the necessity exists for the immediate adoption of the law, thus avoiding the three months' previous publication required by the constitution. The discussion of the articles of the law is now in progress.

The Daily Review.

FRIDAY, JULY 14, 1899.

MORE STRAIGHT GRIT TALK.

Let the Grit Winnipeg Tribune, edited by a Liberal M. P., again give its views of the Hardy Government and its "machine" methods. We gave a short reference made by the Tribune in a former issue. Now here is another:

The statement signed by Mr Macnish, who was elected in West Elgin, confesses explicitly that to procure his election, voters and deputy returning officers were personated, that ballots which had not been polled were put into the ballot boxes, and that others which had been polled were missing. These things are criminal offences. For one of them, and not the worst, a man was sent to the penitentiary from this city as a result of action taken by the provincial Attorney General. What is the Attorney General of Ontario going to do?

His duty and the duty of the Ontario Government is plain. Will they perform it? Or can it be possible that because the criminals worked for the success of the Government candidate the matter will be smoothed over?

It is not so much the punishment of the tools employed that is desired, as an investigation into the nature, ramifications, and origin of the machinery of the undisputed fraud and corruption which has been at work in one constituency after another. Who employed these men? Who supplied the funds? The Ontario Government cannot afford to let these questions remain unanswered, neither can the people of that province.

This is not Conservative talk, but the confession of a Grit member of Parliament who, residing in Winnipeg, has not been contaminated by the influence of and connection with "the machine" in Ontario. If the questions he asks are left unanswered what defence can the Hardy Government have when facing the people, whose province they have disgraced.

The Sting Within

It is said there is a rankling thorn in every heart, and yet that none would exchange their own for that of another. Be that as it may, the sting arising from the heart of a corn is real enough, and in this land of tight boots a very common complaint also. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor is a never failing remedy for this kind of heartache, as you can easily prove if afflicted. Cheap, sure, painless. Try the genuine and use no other.

MEGAPHONE!

AFTER B.C. FISHERMEN.

Uncle Sam Again Showing His Good Feeling for Canadians.

Seattle, Wash., July 14.—The revenue cutter Scout captured four fishing boats and nets yesterday on the west side of Point Roberts. The boats were the property of British Columbia canneries, and had fish aboard caught on this side. The capture was made two miles this side of the boundary line.

Very Young for This Experience.

Hamilton, July 14.—If Harry Frank St. Clair, now locked up in Rochester on charges of being a bigamist several times over, is Frank O'Brien of Hamilton, another case of bigamy goes to his credit. On March 24, 1896, Frank O'Brien, whose appearance tallies with the Rochester prisoner, married Melinda Lovejoy, Locke street south, when she was scarce 17. Not long after she deeply regretted her act and left Frank. She is now residing in either Tonawanda or Lockport, N.Y. Frank at that time was a beauty boy, 23 years old, with curly hair and a fascinating style. After Mrs. Melinda left him O'Brien tried to persuade another Hamilton girl, named Miss Young, to become Mrs. O'Brien, but she had heard of the former marriage and declined.

Big Win for the Northern Pacific.

St. Paul, Minn., July 14.—The Northern Pacific won over one million acres of land yesterday in the suit of the Government to declare void part of the land grant of that road, which was based on the question whether the terminus of that road was at Duluth or at Ashland. The decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals was handed down yesterday afternoon, and is in favor of the company's contention that Ashland is the terminus.

Sunday Clothes.

What has become of the sanctity that used to be attached to one's best clothes? They were folded away Monday morning and didn't appear for a whole week. The association with Sunday and sermons in time gave them a sort of sacred and religious air that is no longer associated with best clothes, since they are put on for every dinkey little party during the week.

For Over Fifty Years

AN OLD AND WELL-TRIED REMEDY.—Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhœa. Is pleasant to the taste. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Its value is incalculable. Be sure and ask for Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup and take no other kind.

THE PINTO.

Launch of Canada's Fine New Steamer From Gourley's Yards.

London, July 14.—The Canadian Government steamer Minto was successfully launched from Gourley's shipbuilding yard here. The christening ceremony was performed by Mrs. Robertson of Ottawa, wife of Prof. Robertson. Captain McElhinney was present on behalf of the Department of Marine and Fisheries. Prof. Robertson proposed the toast of "Prosperity to the shipbuilding and shipping interests." In the course of his speech he said that Canada was prospering greatly and would require ten new steamers a year to carry the increased output of her products. He also spoke highly of the service of eminent Scotsmen to Canada, including the Marquis of Lorne, Lord Aberdeen, Lord Minto, Lord Strathcona and Principal Peterson of McGill University.

WILL OPPOSE THE REICHSTAG.

Emperor William Will Object to the Penal Servitude Bill.

Berlin, July 14.—Emperor William's despatch on the unveiling at Bielefeld yesterday of the tablet commemorating his speech in 1897, promising protection to national labor, has made a great sensation in political circles. It was addressed to his former tutor, Dr. Hinzpeter. As it was at Bielefeld that he first announced a measure dealing with labor matters, the telegram is interpreted to mean that he does not intend to acquiesce in the Reichstag's rejection of the strikes or "penal servitude" bill.

Blow at U. S. Beef.

Berlin, July 14.—The Reichsanzeiger publishes a decree issued by Dr. Struckmann, president of the Rhine Province, at Aix-la-Chapelle, prohibiting the importation of fresh beef. It is aimed at live cattle imported from the United States and killed in Belgium.

ALLIANCE OF CAPITAL.

British and American Interests Pooled to Do Great Work in China—An Unprecedented Demand.

New York, July 16.—The Tribune today will publish the following: A business alliance between the American China Development Company and the British and Chinese corporation has been effected. This makes a combination of the most powerful capitalists in the world, the field of their activities being China. The concessions from the Chinese Government to the American China Development Company consist of the right to construct a railroad 750 miles long from Canton to Hankow, exceedingly valuable coal mining concessions and other industrial franchises of less individual but great aggregate value. The British company had a contract to build an 80-mile railroad from Canton to Kowloon on the sea coast. The two resolved to pool their undertakings and their profits.

Mr. Whitteridge, chairman of the American end of the combination, asserts that Lord Salisbury has already instructed the British ambassador in China to treat the contracts secured by the American company and shared with the English company as if it were a British contract, and urge the Chinese Government to fulfill its terms. The American company sent Mr. Parsons to Washington yesterday to make a formal request that the Government of the United States take a similar stand. Such a demand upon the United States Government is probably unprecedented.

MENIER A PHILANTHROPIST.

Free Church, Free School and Free Hospital on Anticosti Island.

Montreal, July 14.—Mr. Langlois, editor of La Patrie, who returned yesterday from Anticosti, states that their party was met at the wharf by the Governor's Band playing "God Save the Queen," while the British flag floated over the settlement of Bay St. Clair. Mr. Menier has built a free church, established a free hospital, with a doctor always in charge; provided a school, provided a good teacher and has established compulsory education in his domain.

At Gamache Bay 150 men will begin in August a wharf 20,000 feet long, and this is intended to be a port of refuge which can be reached by steamers during a storm.

As for the Fox Bay trouble, the case will come before the court at Murray Bay in a few weeks. It is said that a settlement satisfactory to both sides will be reached.

Train Backed Into the River.

Chicago, July 14.—A train of nine empty passenger cars plunged into the river from the Northwestern Railway Kinzie street bridge yesterday. The conductor and brakeman saved their lives by jumping. The locomotive stayed on the tracks. The train was backing into the yards to carry a crowd of excursionists to Elgin when the accident occurred.

That Famous Roller Boat.

Kingston, July 14.—F. A. Knapp, owner of the famous roller boat, was in the city yesterday, and engaged the Donnelly Wrecking Company to release the roller boat, now ashore at Bowmanville, and convey her to Prescott.

The organization of the United American Glue Company, with a capital of $25,000,000, was completed on Thursday at a meeting in New York City. The company announces that it will invade Canada and endeavor to get a monopoly of the glue business in British America.

Drowned at Greenesville.

Dundas, Ont., July 14.—Edward Arthur Bennetts, son of Rev. Samuel Bennetts, aged 7 years, was drowned while fishing at Greenesville, where his parents had recently settled. Every means tried to resuscitate him was without avail.

Mr. McLaughlin was on the stand. He said all he got out of 18 claims was $363, which if he had billed his clients in a regular way would have amounted to $6,000. He denied getting 20 per cent. from farmers and also receiving pay from the Government for the same work.

ARE FIGHTING STILL.

U.S. Troops Have a Brush With Filipinos at Mantilupa—U.S. Soldiers Are Badly Worn Out.

Manila, July 14.—On Tuesday the troops had an engagement at Mantilupa, on the south shore of the lake. They found 500 insurgents there, entrenched near the shore. The Napidan shelled the rebels, and a party of American troops, numbering 135, landed and drove them, by a sharp running fight, to the hills, where they were too strongly entrenched for a small force to attack them. Two of the cavalrymen were wounded, and the bodies of 10 insurgents were found. It is supposed that the enemy's loss is 35.

Volunteers in Bad Shape.

San Francisco, July 14.—Advices received by the transport Newport, from Manila, dated June 11, are as follows: The volunteers are greatly debilitated, in consequence of their hard campaigning through three months of tropic weather. Since the middle of May no volunteer regiment has had a sick list of less than 20 per cent. Most of them at present have 25 per cent. ill, and a few regiments have less than one-third of their number on duty.

Nebraska Regiment Suffered.

The Nebraska Regiment has suffered the worst. It came in from San Fernandino a few days ago with less than 200 men in the ranks.

The South Dakota followed on Wednesday with 275 men on duty. The Montana and Kansas Regiments at San Fernandino have not more than 350 available men each.

The morning after the Washington troops took Morong, a week ago, only 248 men responded to the roll call. The Washington men have been engaged since March 19 in preventing the insurgent armies of the north and south from forming a junction on Laguna Bay, and they engaged at the same time with the enemy in opposite direction.

It's a Sad Tale.

Twenty-four of the Nebraska officers are on the sick list, and the Montana, Washington and the South Dakota Regiments show 20 or more officers in the hospitals, or sick in their quarters. These regiments have borne the brunt of the fighting. Their losses in killed and wounded ranged from 160 in the Montana Regiment to 220 Nebraska men. The loss of the Kansas Regiment is second to that of Nebraska, while the Washington and South Dakota Regiments follow closely, each with losses of about 200. The Oregon Regiment suffered severely. Of the regulars the 3rd Artillery is the heaviest loser, its killed and wounded numbering 122.

Gen. Otis has tried the horses of Manila and nearby countries, and none of them seem to be suitable for cavalry.

Dewey at Port Said.

Port Said, Egypt, July 14.—Admiral Dewey arrived here last evening on board the cruiser Olympia.

Some women at the critical period of approaching motherhood fortunately receive every care and attention which abundant means can bestow, but the vast majority of them are obliged to take care of themselves and do their own work into the bargain; and what woman with family duties dependent upon her can be expected to patiently endure the long-drawn-out weariness of waiting and hoping in sickness and wretchedness for a recovery that seems to come on leaden wings?

"My wife has been a great sufferer from troubles incident to approaching motherhood," says Rev. E. R. Nelson, of Dartville, Dinwiddie Co., Va. "She suffered with such distressing sickness at times that she could not take food; what little was forced down could not be retained. Her breath was very offensive and indicated a bad state of the stomach. The digestive organs refused to work. The trouble became so severe and obstinate that I was really alarmed. She began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' and about the same time I wrote to Dr. Pierce for particular advice. He promptly and very courteously replied, saying that he felt sure a persistent use of these remedies would prove effectual.

"By the time the letter was received she was improving fast and before all of one bottle each of the 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery' had been taken she was able to eat, retain and digest her food. She continued to improve until entirely well, not taking many than the two bottles mentioned and some of the 'Pellets.'"

Accept no substitutes for these world famed medicines, that may be urged upon you, not for your good, but that the dealer may make a little extra profit.

These remedies contain no trace of alcohol, nor opium, nor any of the dangerous drugs which enter so largely into many advertised "compounds," recommended for the cure of invalid women. They will not create craving for stimulants.

DR. RUDOLPH VIRCHOW.

Famous Pathologist Who Gave Important Testimony at the Tuberculosis Congress.

Dr. Rudolph Virchow, whose testimony before the Berlin tuberculosis congress now in session has caused much comment, is probably the foremost pathologist on the continent, not even excepting the famed Koch. In addition to his remarkable and original work in biology and pathology, Virchow has won note as an anthropologist and a politician. He was graduated quite young as an M.D. from Berlin, and at 26 he was made professor of pathological anatomy at Wurzburg. In 1856 he returned to Berlin as professor, and distinguished himself for his labors in the new pathological institute there. His world-wide fame is due to his work in scientific subjects, but he has been likewise a keen and even a bitter politician. Ultra-Liberal from the first, it was he who originated the celebrated phrase, "kulturkampf," or the war of the state against a reactionary church. His extreme political opinions caused him to lose his rectorship of the Berlin University in 1887, but his great eminence as a man of science induced the authorities to restore him in 1892. He is one of the founders of the German Anthropological Society, and his "Archives of Pathological Anatomy and Physiology and Clinical Medicine" is approaching its 150th volume. Dr. Virchow is 78 years old.

Insomnia.

Insomnia is often caused by assuming an incorrect position when asleep, and therefore it will be of interest to those who cannot secure all they need of "nature's sweet restorer" to know what the learned in things anatomical consider to be the proper position of the body while at rest. The sleeper should lie on his side, on the right side, if possible, because the heart then has more room to perform its work, digestion is continued with least exertion, and the weight of the stomach does not compress the upper portion of the intestines. The arms should lie at the side of the body and be kept there. The pillow should be only high enough to cause the head to lie easy and to be in a straight line with the body.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver, of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters'; and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50cts. a bottle, every bottle guaranteed. For sale by James Lynch, druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough.

Financial Poetry.

An unusual album was presented to Willis Clark, brother of Lewis Gaylord Clark, the poet, on one occasion, with a request for "some rhymes."

Mr. Clark was at the house of a farmer, and the man's daughter had turned an old account book into an autograph album in which were inscribed the names of her various friends and relatives below appropriate sentiments.

Mr. Clark saw his opportunity, and after turning over the leaves for a minute or two he took a pen and wrote the following verse:

STARTLING CONFESSIONS.

Show that 25 per cent of men and women suffer the tortures of itching piles. Investigation proves that Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment has never yet failed to cure itching piles, and all of these men and women could end their sufferings at once by using it. Scores of thousands have been cured by this treatment. Everybody can be cured in the same way.

LAKE ERIE FISHING.

SOMETHING OF THE FLEETS AND THE METHODS OF WORK.

Business Is Just Like Gambling, in That the Fisher Folk Go Out Not Knowing What They Will Get—Equipment of a Fishing Steamer in Men and Material.

The crew of a Lake Erie fishing steamer consists of six men exclusive of the engineer and captain. The fishing is all done by means of nets, and the capacity of a boat is gauged by the number of boxes of nets she carries. Large boats carry 20 boxes, each box containing eight nets, averaging 400 feet long.

When the towns and villages on the coasts of Erie are buried in their profoundest slumber the fishing fleet is the scene of its greatest activity. Scores of men come tramping to the wharves where the tugs are fuming and sputtering in the faint gray dawn anxious to be off over the lake that lies like a shadow beyond the black docks and blanker warehouses.

The start is made about 4 o'clock in the morning, and every morning, too, except Sunday. When the fish are "running" the tugs go out Sundays the same as a week-day.

It's just like gambling. You go out not knowing what you'll get. Some days the boats come in with big lifts, other days scarcely anything at all.

A fishing steamer when she reaches the fishing grounds, five, ten, 20 or more miles out, puts out her nets with a buoy in the center. These gill nets range from 400 to 800 feet and are four feet in depth.

When a steamer's nets are all out they stretch over many miles of water. Most of the steamers have machinery to draw the nets, but the old method of winding them in with a hand roller is still employed.

The size of the fishing tugs vary from 50 to 75 feet, with a tonnage of from 15 to 25 tons. Where schooners are employed the latter are towed in and out of the harbor by the tugs as they come and go. Two tons of a catch to a boat is a good day's work.

The day on a fishing steamer runs from 3 o'clock in the morning to about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The return to the wharves with the catch is made about 1 or 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The fish are landed out of the boat's hold with scoop nets into a box with long barrow-like handles cleated to the sides. Two men carry a box and pile the shining cargo in the center of the long, dark, cool and unsavory-smelling warehouses.

Life on a fishing schooner is hard work. The men do not live on the boats, they live ashore. This is possible because they are out on the lake not more than ten hours a day, usually, and home at night. Wages of the lake fishermen range from $2 to $2.25 per day, according to the season. The captains and engineers holding more responsible positions receive larger compensation, from $60 to $100 per month.

What might be termed the staple fish of the Erie fleet are herring and blue pike. The bulk of the catch each year is composed of these species. The blue pike "run" from the opening of navigation in the spring to about the 25th of May, during which time they are taken with gill nets off shore.

After that, and until July 1, my some strange perversity, the pike hug the shore and the fishing is continued by pound nets. These are nets that stretch from the top of the water to the bottom and are secured by stakes driven in the bottom of the lake.

The net is a trap, a sort of marine corral, and once in it the fish cannot escape. Each one of these pound nets with its necessary apparatus costs about $200. After the middle of July the pike come to the surface of the water and then they cannot be taken till December, when they are again the staple catch until navigation closes.

About August 1 the herring season sets in and lasts till October. With the herring there are usually caught a number of white fish and a few perch. For the herring and blue pike seasons a gill net of two-and-a-half-inch mesh is used. White fish require a four-inch mesh. These nets are made of hempen twine and are very tough and durable.

One of the sights along the wharves is the great frames with nets stretched over them, drying in the sun. After a steamer has made her lift for the day the nets are again set and left and the boats return home.

The disappearance of the sturgeon may be termed the tragedy of the lake fisheries. A few years back, eight or ten, they were so plentiful and cheap that buyers dictated the size the fish must be before they would purchase them. No sturgeon under four feet was marketable, and then they sold for $1 each. To-day it is one of the scarce fish of the lakes. They are caught from May 1 to July 1. They range in weight from 100 to 120 pounds. They have been fished out and are growing scarcer every year.

Once in the warehouse, or packing-rooms, the fish are handled by an entirely different set of men, known as the "house gang," about 75 in all. Here the fish are cleaned, salted, frozen, packed or refrigerated as the case may be. First, they are sorted and then the fish to be salted are heaped in one pile, those to be shipped into another and the surplus that is to be frozen into a third. The herring to be salted are taken in the big barrow-handled boxes to tables, where men stand each with a section of table to himself. Here the cleaning is done with neatness and dexterity. The operator holds a scimeter-shaped short knife in his hand, and with three deft cuts completes the process of gilling, opening and eviscerating the fish. It is then dropped into a receptacle, where it is washed and salted.

In salting herring, which is the only fish now put up in this way, 80 pounds of salt are used to a hundredweight of fish. Each fish is salted separately and is permitted to remain in the brine four or five days before being packed for shipment. Over 40,000 half barrels, 100 pounds to the package, is an average salting for a summer. The refuse of the packing houses is hauled away by farmers and truckmen, who use it for fertilizer.

During the season the supply of fish is often greater than the demand, in which case the surplus is frozen and put away for winter use when the catch is small and prices high. Piled in one corner of every warehouse as high as the ceilings are hundreds of zinc pans three inches deep, nine inches wide and about 24 inches long. The surplus fish are packed carefully in these pans, and the pans piled in alternate layers with crushed ice and salt. One night under this blanket of cold and the fish are frozen compactly and hard as iron, after which they are stored away in a gigantic refrigerator to await the winter's demand.

Vagaries of taste and custom must be taken in account by the shipper. Thus all the fish that are sent to the great cities are forwarded just as they are caught.

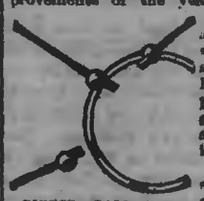
For country towns and smaller cities the fish are often cleaned, and a higher price is thus obtained for them. In making up a shipment of say 100 pounds for retail customers, fish of all kinds are included, blue pike, a couple of white fish, some herring and an odd fish or two of another species. All tastes are thus consulted. The shipping by express is in light pine boxes; a layer of ice and a layer of fish alternate till the box is full.

Fish carts are used for shipping in bulk to wholesalers. These are heavy affairs, a sort of chest with a lid and mounted on low, broad wheels. Fish and ice are packed in them, they are wheeled into the refrigerator freight cars at the warehouse, and wheeled out again at their destination, the empty cart being returned with the car. The capacity of these carts range from 1,000 to 1,600 pounds each.

CYCLE DEVELOPMENT.

Three Principal Improvements That Are Giving Much Satisfaction.

The wonderful development of the bicycle year after year has been one of the greatest achievements of this or any other age, and the three principal improvements of the year '99 mark still another era in the art of cycle construction, they are the direct ball head spoke, dust proof skeleton gear case and ball and roller bearing.



DIRECT BALL HEAD SPOKE.

The direct spoke, which does away with the old style bent spoke (which was continually breaking), consists of the hub end of the spoke terminating in a small ball, which is forged under great pressure, the spoke, being straight, cannot possibly break or snap, except by accident.

The skeleton gear case is constructed in a radically new design and only covers the chain, front and rear sprockets. It is not only handsome and adds to the attractiveness of the wheel, but is so absolutely dust-proof that the chain requires lubricating but once a year.

Another improvement of them all though, is the ball and roller bearing, which works on the following principle: In ordinary bearings the surface of any two balls, when in motion, revolve against one another, thereby causing a retarding friction, which has ever been the aim of inventors to overcome, but unsuccessfully until this season, when the ideal was achieved by placing a suspended roller, which carries none of the load, between every ball, and from practical experience it has been found that the motion of one ball is imparted to the next, furnishing an impetus which is carried throughout the entire bearing. This bearing is being adopted for electric fans and other light machines of high speed.

He Refused a 25 Cent Cigar.

Some one tells a good cigar story on the late Dick Oglesby which runs something like this: It was during the Cleveland-Blaine campaign, and Mr. Oglesby was making his first visit of any length in New York. For the first time Delmonico's attracted his attention.

"What kind of a place is that?" he asked.

"Come in and see," responded his companion. Uncle Dick went in, and the friend ordered a luncheon, on which the two dined right royally. Luncheon finished, he asked the governor to "join him" in a smoke. The clerk at the cigar counter handed out some fine Havanas. Uncle Dick was in the act of taking one when suddenly he drew back and said:

"What's the price of these?"

"Twenty-five cents," said the clerk.

"Holy smoke!" exclaimed Uncle Dick. "Put 'em back; put 'em back, quick!"

"But, governor, this is my treat,' argued the friend.

"Daren't do it; daren't do it! Put 'em back!"

"But, governor"—

"See here, young man," returned Uncle Dick, "I daren't do it. Why, man alive, if they ever found out in Illinois that I smoked 25 cent cigars, whether I paid for 'em or not, they'd turn me out of the church, and it would ruin me politically forever. No, sir. Five cent cigars at home and 10 centers in New York are good enough for me."—

TO THE ONE THAT HATH HIS HEART.

Aurora, in her rosy cloak,
Came gently o'er the hill.
The slumber of the lark she broke,
The blackbird on the bough she woke,
Yet left the forest still.

She bathed her ankles in the mere
Below yon belt of fir;
Of prying eyes she knew no fear—
The stars had fled, the sky was clear,
The sun but scarce astir.

When lo, were all at once undrawn
The curtains of the day—
You stood upon this dewy lawn,
Your golden hair outdid the dawn
And swept my grief away!

WON OVER BY A WOMAN.

Her Gentle Words Changed the Course of a Railroad Line.

The engineer who lays out a railroad dislikes to move a stake when it has once been driven.

Once, when the present chief engineer of a western railroad was locating a line in Missouri, he was asked to change the stakes and refused. "After the stakes had been set, a young, unshaved man appeared and asked that the road be "moved over a bit."

"The road cannot be changed," promptly returned the engineer. "This is the best place for it."

The man went into a house, got a rifle, came out and pulled up the stakes. The indignant engineer started toward him, but was intercepted by an elderly woman.

"Can't you move your road over a little piece, mister?" she asked.

"I don't see why I should," responded the engineer. "My business is to locate the line, and you can call on the company for damages. What does that young blackguard mean by sitting there on a stump with a gun?" he angrily demanded.

"That's Nip. He ain't no blackguard. That's Nip, my son."

"Well, I'll nip him if he gets funny."

"Oh, no, you won't. I ain't afraid of that," said the woman. "What come over me when I seen you starting for Nip was that p'r'aps you had a mother, and how bad she'd feel to have you come home that way."

"What way?"

"Well, if you persist in driving them stakes there you'll go home dead."

"Look here. Do you think I'm to be blurred by that ruffian?"

"Nip ain't no ruffian," said the woman. "You see, we've always lived here—Nip was born here—an when the guerrillas come an called out paw an shot him we buried him jist whar he fell, an we've always kept as a reservation, an Nip he's determined you shan't disturb it; that's all."

"Then you don't object to the railroad?"

"Lord o' mercy, no! We want the road, but we don't want you to disturb paw's grave."

"Come," said the engineer, "let's go and see Nip."

When they came up to the stump, the big engineer held out his hand. Nip took it, but kept his eyes on the stranger.

"Here it is," said the woman, touching a low stone lightly with her foot.

"I see," said the engineer. "We can miss that easily enough."

He moved a mile of the road. From that day forward until the road was finished and long afterward the widow's home was the stopping place of the engineer.—"Story of the Railroad."

Shocked the Stage Manager.

Mr. David Belasco, the playwright and stage manager, does not, in his outer semblance, fulfill one's idea of the personality of the average stage manager. In his clerical black cloth, his clerical black apron, his clerical white stock, his pale, clean shaven face, his dreamy eyes and his aspect of gentle piety, he might be, and frequently is, mistaken for a member of the Jesuit brotherhood. As he leans against the wall of the lobby of the theater, abstractedly gazing at the crowd filing through the turnstiles, he looks as if he had wandered in there by mistake.

The story is told of an usher in the theater of a small western town who, thus seeing Mr. Belasco for the first time, stepped up to him in the lobby, and, pointing to a church and a crowd on the opposite side of the street, whispered, "Excuse me, sir, but that is St. Aloysius', across the way."

It took Mr. Belasco two days to recover.—Leslie's Weekly.

Some Negro Stories.

Sir William Robinson, in his paper on "Trinidad," retailed some of the negro stories he collected while governor of the island. A church of England dignitary had as servant a negress who was very fond of hymn singing and petty pilfering. She took loose money off his dressing table to the tune of "Hold the Fort" and under cover of "Onward, Christian Soldier," sequestrated the eatables.

The late Bishop Rawle asked a negro sitting in idleness by the roadside how he managed to pass the time. "I sit in de sun, massa, and let de time pass me," was the quaint and philosophical reply.

These Trinidad negroes, it appears, are long and heavy sleepers. There was a severe earthquake at 4 o'clock one morning, and Sir William, driving into town, said to his groom, "Edward, did you feel the earthquake at 4 o'clock this morning?" "No, massa," he replied; "I on'y went to bed at half past 3 last night."—London Chronicle.

Clear Air.

The air is clear at Arequipa, Peru. From the observatory at that place, 8,060 feet above the sea, a black spot one inch in diameter, placed on a white disk, has been seen on Mount Charchani, a distance of 11 miles, through a 13 inch telescope.

An orator stated that "the worst enemy any cause can have is a double lie in the shape of half a truth," and the newspaper reported it, "a double eye in the shape of half a tooth."

Playing Beethoven or Mozart.

There are passages in Beethoven which have not been heard by the modern ear, simply because the modern piano is not the piano they were written for, and on the piano they were written for they produce a totally different effect to the effect they produce on the modern piano. The best pianists either boldly play the loud passages of Beethoven and Mozart with about 30 times the intensity of tone the composers wrote for, or "fake" the instrument as an oboist does when his oboe gets quarter of a tone flat in the middle of a symphony.—Saturday Review.

THE EXAMINER AND THE TRENT CANAL.

The Examiner has spoken on the Trent canal again, and verily this time it has added another worthy contribution to its record in dealing with this undertaking. This time our contemporary is making wise (!) comment on the Globe's report of the discussion which occurred in the House when the appropriation for the canal was passed. This report (which was also published in The Review) showed that several Grit members opposed the appropriation, while there was no Conservative voice raised against it. But the Examiner finds no fault with the Grit members, its friends, who openly opposed the canal and the appropriation, but, with short-sighted anxiety to get a slap at some Conservative members, it complains that the members of this district did not prolong the debate by "lifting up their voice." The Review does not know whether the Globe gave the names of all those who participated in the debate or not, but one thing it is sure of and that is that any Conservative member from this district who had seen fit to prolong the debate could only have reiterated what he had urged more times than once from his place in the House. Who have been the men who have fought the canal's battles in the House? Have they not been the Conservative members of this district, such men as Mr. Bennett, Mr. Corby, Mr. Hughes, and others? These men fought the canal's cause when the Examiner, its proprietor and its friends were worse than lukewarm and were either throwing cold water on the project or opposing it openly. The Examiner's record and the record of its proprietor and others on the canal question is not so old as not to be remembered, and the enthusiastic and ardent supporters of the waterway into which they were suddenly transformed by the accession of the Liberals to power at Ottawa has caused many to smile, although as a friend of the canal The Review was heartily glad to see the change of front, no matter what caused their former attitude or what wrought the transformation. But it is too much the good thing to see our contemporary—the organ of the President of the Canal Association—make such a complaint as it does against the members from the canal district who were fighting the canal's battles long before the Examiner became so ardent. Then, too, it was only Grit members who were opposing the canal, and the Examiner might better pay attention to them than attempt to make party capital by reflecting on gentlemen who have not only advocated the cause in Parliament but have given their time and talents to advancing the interests of the undertaking. If the Examiner desired to make capital against West Peterborough's member, Mr. Kendrey, it was again unfortunate and unwise in its course. Mr. Kendrey has urged the claims of the canal on the Government from his place in the House, and when the appropriation was in the estimates this was sufficient evidence that the Government proposed to continue the work, and would therefore control its own following. But, the complaint bears on Mr. Laing, the Examiner's candidate in East Peterborough, who is one of the district members who has not seen fit "to life up his voice in its favor" in the House of Commons. He is a Liberal, too, and therefore his voice should have more weight with his refractory colleagues. But Mr. Kendrey, or Mr. Bennett, or any of the Conservative members of this district who have placed themselves on record and shown their loyalty to the canal by a consistent course have nothing to defend if they continue a debate that was being handled by a Liberal Minister and when the only opponents were Liberals. The charge made that these men come forth as strong advocates of the canal at election time and then have a "faculty of absenting themselves when the subject comes up in the House," does not apply, and comes with ill-grace from our contemporary, who should be ready to acknowledge the services rendered. The records stamp this charge as false and malicious, and it is all the more reprehensible coming from the newspaper of the President of the Trent Canal Association. Does the Examiner mean to say that the record of these members is not more consistent and more constant than that of some of its friends? What has called forth such an unfair attack it is hard to conceive.

But now to deal with the other portion of the Examiner's ill-advised comment. It says, "the Minister of Railways and Canals was the only one besides Mr. Bertram to stand up for the Trent Valley waterway." Then it says:—

However, it is a pleasure to note that the Canal has friends at court, that Hon. Mr. Blair has been true to his pledges, made during and since his inspection of the route, and that Mr. Tarte's concern in the work has been implemented by the Government, whose interest in the waterways of the country indicates the intelligent grasp they have upon the supreme importance of perfecting our means of transportation so far and as rapidly as the resources of the country will permit.

Now how did Mr. Bertram stand up for the waterways? What is the "intelligent grasp" the Government has of the importance of this canal as a means of transportation? Let the Globe's report to which the Examiner's comment was attached answer:—

Mr. Blair, after some further discussion, said that while he did not expect the canal to handle much through business, he expected it to be a very great convenience for local traffic. While he would not have recommended the work in the first place he thought they should complete it.

Mr. Bertram said he had always thought the undertaking of the Trent Valley Canal was a grave blunder but it was the duty of the Government to complete it, and if possible give value to the money already invested.

Now, is this how Mr. Bertram stood up for the canal? Is this what the Examiner thinks the President of the Trent Canal Association would describe as an "intelligent grasp" of the importance of this work? Has the Association not been spending money, distributing pamphlets, promoting deputations and delivering addresses with a view of showing the importance of the canal as a national undertaking, as a waterway between the great west and the seaboard, as a "short cut" for the through traffic? And yet the Government, represented in the Minister of Railways and Canals, says it does "not expect the canal to handle much through business." This is hardly what the canal advocates will term an "intelligent grasp" or a satisfactory presentment of the claims of the canal. The Examiner's comment is ridiculous in the face of the Minister's statement, and especially when he added that "while he would not have recommended the work in the first place yet he thought they should complete it." Here is an admission that he is a supporter of the canal appropriation simply because the Conservative Government had the work so far advanced that it must be completed. What is there to excite the enthusiasm of the Examiner as a canal advocate in such a beggardly way of supporting a grant. Mr. Blair confesses he is an unwilling supporter, and only recommended the grant because he has to.

One or two questions suggest themselves:—

1. What possessed the Examiner to reflect on the loyalty of the members for this district, as canal advocates, when their course in supporting the work, both when a Conservative Government; ruled and since the Liberals' accession to power, has been consistent as canal supporters, when — leaving his past record to one side—Mr. Stratton is President of the Trent Canal Association and has simply co-operated with these men in efforts to promote the construction of the canal?

2. Why does it complain of the silence of political opponents and yet say nothing about its political friends who openly oppose the grant?

3. Does the Examiner or Mr. Stratton consider Mr. Blair's statement as cited above as an "intelligent grasp" of the importance of the canal?

4. Does the Examiner consider that Bertram stood up for the canal when he said "he had always thought the Trent Canal a grave blunder."

5. If they do, do they consider themselves honest in presenting the claims of the canal as a national undertaking in the manner they have been doing?

6. Would the interests of the canal advocates have been better served from the Association's standpoint, if such an unfair and unwise comment not been made?

7. Is the manner in which Mr. Blair and Mr. Bertram "stood up" for the canal likely to make supporters for the undertaking among the Montreal Board of Trade members?

In making such comment in the same column with the remarks of the Grit members and Minister the Examiner reflected more on the intelligence of its readers than upon the loyalty of the Conservative members in the House.

AT IDYL WYLD.

Guests are Arriving Daily at the Beautiful Resort.

The beautiful island of Idyl Wyld, with its picturesque environment of bright waters surrounded by high green mantled shores, is attracting many summer visitors. Everybody that visits it is so well pleased that the number is constantly increasing. The resort never looked better than at the present time and the visitors of the year have been charmed with it.

The arrivals at the Idyl Wyld hotel this week have been: Dr. Murray, Baltimore; G. T. Bickle, Ed. Fairy, Cobourg; Dr. Sands, Kingston; Jas. H. Johnston, Grafton; Wm. Southor Lakeport; Jas. Kendry, Mrs. J. Kendry, Mr. H. Kendry, Miss Kendry, Miss Rutherford Peterborough; Prof. Taylor, Miss Taylor, Miss Ethel Taylor, Toronto; Francis Johnston, New York.

The lack of first class communication between Idyl Wyld and Peterborough has heretofore been something of a difficulty. An effort is now being made to overcome this. A syndicate of Keene gentlemen are considering a project of putting a steam launch on the route from Keene to Idyl Wyld, connecting with train from Peterborough. This would be a great convenience both for the local traffic and for all travellers on the route.

The Idyl Wyld hotel has this year been enlarged, renovated and fitted up with splendid results and the guests are now sure of the best accommodation. The sleeping wing has been made double its former size. Under the able management of Mr. W. J. Macdonald the resort should be very popular this season. It is intended to proceed further with the building operations in the fall.

Yesterday all the steamers on the Otonabee and Rice lake were gathered at the wharf and made quite a little fleet. Inspector Thompson made an inspection of their engines and boilers. OBITUARY.

Death of Mr. Wm. Datcher, One of the Town's Old Residents.

The death of Mr. William Datcher occurred yesterday at the family residence, 540 Gilchrist-st. The deceased was one of the old residents of the town. He was born in Rockcvry, Monaghan county, Ireland, seventy years ago and came to Canada fifty years ago, settling in Peterborough the year of his arrival and living in town ever since.

Early yesterday morning he was prostrated by a paralytic stroke, death resulting about eleven o'clock the same morning.

The funeral took place this afternoon at 3 o'clock to the Little Lake cemetery.

DESTROYED THE VINES.

A Piece of Vandalism of a Mean Nature.

Last night some unknown person committed a mean and despicable trick by cutting down and destroying the beautiful vine which adorned the residence of Dr. Carmichael at the corner of Water and Brock-sts. They were cut clean off close to the ground. The doctor is much incensed, and justly, and would reward anyone for information that might be used to bring the culprit to justice. The vines at Dr. Halliday's residence were also cut during the night and flower beds in lawns in that block were destroyed. Such deeds are most contemptible and if the perpetrator is discovered will doubtless be severely punished.

Scorching in the Park.

Some night there will be a big accident on the bicycle track of the Nicholls park. Almost every evening it is crowded with cyclists—men, women and children. This is as it should be for there is no prettier or cooler place in town of a summer evening. But it is also the rendezvous of a lot of people who are afflicted with the speed craze and who apparently can find no other time or place to demonstrate their unhappy condition and indulge their mania except at this park in the evenings. The crowd is composed of nearly the same individuals every evening—a lot of green youths taking all they can get out of their first bicycle and a few who have reached the age of manhood without learning any more than they knew when boys. These gather in big bunches and scorch around the track mile after mile at a three minute clip. The other riders, especially the women and children, can get no enjoyment out of the track while this continues, and the number of would-be racers is so large that it generally continues till dark. Mr. Richard Hall has made efforts to have the nuisance stopped, but apparently ineffectually, and it would be well to stretch the special constable idea a little further and have a few of those who render the track valueless to the general public arrested and punished. The rest might then be able to appreciate the fact that the track is open to all who wish to ride as fast as they like but that it is against the rules to do scorching in the evenings.

—A carload of hogs was received at the Matthews Co.'s factory yesterday from Mr. McIlhargey, Lindsay.

—The series of letters on "A Trip to the Eternal City," will be resumed in to-morrow's Review. The first letter on "Rome" will appear.

—A man with a load of brick met with a slight accident at the Aylmer-st. crossing of the C.P.R. yesterday afternoon. His wagon was damaged somewhat.

—The Sons of England band were unable to give their concert in Inverlea park on Tuesday night owing to there being no lights but the job of putting in incandescent lights at the band stand has since been done, the wiring being completed yesterday.

—The employees of Gooderham & Worts, Toronto, will hold their annual excursion to Peterborough on July 27th. About five hundred of them will come. They will picnic in West Nicholls park.

—Fishing off the end of the pier at the locks yesterday evening Mr. W. Morris caught a beautiful bass weighing over four pounds, the landing of which required some skillful work. He used a four inch perch as bait but it attracted a big fish.

—Canoeing seems to be gaining greatly in favor. Every evening there are many boats to be seen out on Little lake and in the river, far more than has been the case for some season's past.

—The band of the Salvation Army gave a concert in the parklet at the corner of Charlotte and Park-sts. last evening, entertaining a considerable audience of people of the south ward with a number of sacred selections, some of which were very pretty.

—The Review has to thank Mr. Brown for a string of bass caught at Chemong. The "black beauties" were tangible evidence that the proverbial fisherman's luck does not attend those who throw a line at Chemong.

THE MARS PUZZLE.

Washington and General Howe's Dog.

While the British occupied Philadelphia and the American forces lay in winter quarters at Valley Forge, one day as Washington and his staff were dining, a fine hunting dog, which was evidently lost, came to seek something to eat. On its collar was the name, "General Howe."

Washington ordered that the dog should be fed, and then he sent it to Philadelphia under a flag of truce, with a letter reading: "General Washington's compliments to General Howe. He does himself the pleasure to return to him a dog which accidentally fell into his hands and by the inscription on the collar appears to belong to General Howe."

The British commander, in reply, sent a cordial letter conveying his warm thanks for this act of courtesy of his enemy.—Paul Leicester Ford in Ladies' Home Journal.

A Famous Milestone.

One of the oldest milestones is to be seen in the museum at Leicester, England. It is a cylindrical block of sandstone, roughly inscribed with an abbreviated statement to the effect that it was erected during the emperorship of Cæsar Hadrian, son of Trajan, conqueror of Parthia. It also says, "To Leicester, Two Miles." The Hadrian milestone was discovered over a century ago beside the ancient Fosse way and narrowly escaped being converted into a lawn roller by the unromantic and practical finder.

The Meanest Man.

A mean man on the south side agreed early in the week to meet a girl at luncheon down town last Saturday, and after luncheon they were going to the matinee. The girl kept her part of the contract. She wore a new silk waist and a new bonnet, and was in the luncheon as the clock struck 1. After she had waited about five minutes there came a note from the mean man. It said:

"The inclosed cards will show you why I can't keep my engagement."

The "inclosed cards" announced that he had been married to a chum of hers that morning.

An Awkward Mistake.

"Briggs is dreadfully nearsighted. You know that hat his wife wears with all those black plumes in it?"

"Yes, I've seen it."

"Well, Briggs thought it was the head of a feather duster, and he tied it to his cane and brushed a lot of spider webs from the porch ceiling before his wife caught him at it."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Children Cry for

CASTORIA.

MISS CAPRICE.

BY ST. GEORGE RATHBONE

Author of "Doctor Jack," "Doctor Jack's Wife," "Captain Tom," "Miss Pauline of New York," Etc.

"We must move," whispers Mustapha.

"Why?" asks John, desiring enlightenment.

"So as to be ready to take a hand in the grand affair," is the reply.

Up to this moment it has not occurred to the young man from Chicago that he may be in a position to profit by this peculiar situation.

He smiles with the idea.

"Mustapha, I leave all in your hands. Do with me as you please."

"Then come."

They quit the cleft, using great caution to prevent discovery. The plans of the Arabian guide are soon made manifest, for he signifies his intension of securing a sentry who paces up and down outside the old mine.

If he were a baby he could not have made less resistance. John would have been amazed, only that he has been forewarned. It is not the guard's policy to attempt an outcry—undoubtedly he has had his orders.

"Well?" says Mustapha, after the fellow has been tied up, and prevented from making an outcry.

"I believe we can capture the whole outfit at that rate. I feel equal to twenty myself. They must have taken some drug; they have no more life than a mummy from the pyramids."

The Arab grins as though he enjoys the joke.

"It is coming, prepare to see the mighty Frank's wonderful work."

Even as he speaks, they hear loud shouts within the old mine—shouts that would indicate an upheaval—shouts from Arab lips, that echo from the Kabyle throats.

They seem to indicate astonishment—fear.

Above them rises the bellow of a Briton, rushing to the fray with the eagerness of an infuriated bull.

Oh, it is grand!—it is beautiful to see that one man hurl himself on half a dozen! Fear—he knows not the meaning of the word it seems—his opponents monopolise that.

John, looking in, is delighted with the spectacle, and laughs to himself as he sees how remarkably deadly are all Sir Lionel's shots. A man falls every time he pulls trigger; if he rushes at a fellow, so great is the fear his awful presence inspires that the wretched Arab sinks down and actually expires through fright.

The doctor has seen some wonderful stage fights, but the equal of this, never. He laughs, yet finds himself almost stupefied with amazement. Truly, the Victoria Cross would well become this remarkable hero.

One or two of the dead men do not seem to have had enough, or else are dissatisfied with the manner of their taking off. At any rate, they stagger to their feet, and have to be put to sleep again by energetic means.

Philander comes near making a mess of it all by his enthusiasm. It is a regular picnic to the small professor.

In the beginning, he aimed his gun at one of the brigands. The weapon is strange to him, being a long Arabian affair, with a peculiar stock, but Philander has some knowledge of weapons, shuts his eyes and pulls the trigger.

The report staggers him. When he opens his eyes, and sees the big, ragged Kabyle at whom he aimed lying on his back, with arms extended, the professor is horrified at first.

Then some of the warlike spirit that distinguished his ancestors at Lexington begins to flame up within him.

He gives a shrill war-cry that would doubtless please many a Greek scholar, and plunges headlong for the foe.

The way in which he swings that Arab gun is a sight to behold; in itself, the apparition of Professor Sharpe thus advancing to the fray is enough to strike terror to the human heart.

One poor devil is in a position to receive a tremendous whack on the back with the gun, now used as a cudgel, and there is positively no fraud about the manner of his sprawling around.

After that, the professor sweeps the air in vain with his weapon. Men who have met the terrors of the Algerian desert for years, fall down and expire before he can hasten their exit from this vale of tears.

Really, it is wonderful—he never before knew the tenets of the Mohammedan religion made its devotees so accommodating; they seem to court dissolution in the longing for paradise, where the prophet promises eternal happiness for all who die in battle.

It ends; even such obliging fellows as these do not need to be killed more than a couple of times. Lady Ruth had covered her eyes with her hands when the action began.

She is the daughter of a soldier race, and as brave as the majority of her sex; still she shudders to gaze upon the taking of human life.

Perhaps, too, she anticipates the death of the valorous Briton, who has hurled himself so impetuously into the breach, for under all ordinary conditions his chances would seem to be small.

When the dreadful racket is over, when the shouts, shrieks and report of firearms die away, Lady Ruth uncovers her eyes.

She fully expects to see a slaughter pen, with the valorous Sir Lionel and Philander among the slain. As to the latter, there are no lack of them, for they lie in every direction, and in every position the human mind can conceive.

And here is the hero warrior rushing up to her, a smoking revolver in one hand. His usual coolness and sang froid are gone—Sir Lionel is actually excited. It is not every day that even a veteran of the Cape wars is given a chance to thus immortalise himself after the manner of Samson.

"My dear Lady Ruth, the way is clear. We must fly before the rest of the rascals appear. Perhaps we may be fortunate enough to find horses outside, then a hot dash and the city will be gained. Permit me to assist you."

The girl springs up, ready to accept the chance a kind fate has thrown in her way, and with a startled, curious glance at the piles of slain that encumber the cavern, follows her friends.

CHAPTER XIX.

These strange events have occurred with great rapidity, and yet, of course, they have taken some little time.

It would seem as though the remainder of Bab Azoun's band, if anywhere in the vicinity, might by this time have arrived on the spot, but they do not show up, which fact is a fortunate one for them, though it takes away from the lustre of Sir Lionel's fame.

When the four fugitives come out of the old mine into the moonlight, the soldier looks about him quickly.

"If we could only find horses," he cries.

"What is this?" asks Philander.

A whinny sounds close by.

"This way, friends! Bless me! if this isn't the scene of good luck! Here are horses—three, four of them, just one apiece, by Jove!"

"Oh, how singular! I mean how fortunate!" exclaims Lady Ruth.

There are the animals, fastened to branches of the trees. Why they are separated from the remainder of the herd is not explained.

Sir Lionel never looks a gift of fortune in the face, but when his eyes fall upon the four miserable worn-out hacks which have thus fallen to their share, he grits his teeth, and Philander is puzzled to understand what he just catches:

"Dune take the bloody heathen! A hundred pounds and four such scarecrows!"

Perhaps he is thinking of the chances of their being overhauled by the men of Bab Azoun, mounted on the swift coursers, for there are none who ride better than these desert warriors, and none who own such steeds.

"Let us mount—seconds are precious. There, by throwing one stirrup over, it will make a fair lady's saddle. Allow me, Lady Ruth."

They are speedily mounted. Aunt Gwen seems quite at home on a horse, which she has ridden many times in the Blue Grass regions of Kentucky. As to Philander, the same does not apply. He acts as though in deadly fear of being pitched over the animal's head. The fates decree that the largest horse of all falls to his lot, a raw-boned, loose-jointed specimen of equine growth, and the little professor looks like a monkey perched aloft.

If the beast ever had any martial ardor, it has long ago died out, and yet to the excited fancy of the professor, he might as well be upon the back of a prancing, rearing, snorting war-horse. When the equine wonder shakes his long ears, Philander imagines he is about to perform some amazing trick, and, filled with a dread, he clasps his arms around the poor creature's neck, and calls out:

"Whoa! there's a good fellow—be quiet, now! I wouldn't hurt you, boy! Whoa! I say. Want to kill me, eh? No, you don't. Easy now, you rascal. Whoa, whoa!"

Fortunately for Philander, the horse follows the lead of the others, and the professor is not left behind.

All seems working well.

Sir Lionel, the undaunted veteran can afford to smile. Success is apparently assured, for they have gone some little distance, and only now do the clamorous sounds from their rear indicate a commotion.

Pursuit may be made, but it will be useless, as they are not many miles from the walls of Algiers, which will give them shelter.

It looks like a big success, and surely after the events of this night Lady Ruth cannot ignore the claims he presents. She must fall into the arms of the hero who has rescued her from the Arab host.

So probably he reasons.

But fate hits the span of valor a cruel blow, and that just when it seems as though he has success between his fingers.

It happens naturally enough. At the time a portion of Bab Azoun's skirmishing band chanced to be separated from the main body, and were under orders to join them at the Mestidja mines.

What the Bishop Thought.

Sometimes profanity is profane, and then there are deliverances of that sort that do not sound profane. It depends a good deal upon the lips whence the words flow. Not long ago a bishop of the Episcopal church from a northern state—a cleric with a well developed sense of humor—made a flying visit to Washington, stopping at the home here of a gentleman who used to be one of his parishioners. This gentleman is addicted to sulphuric speech. He has prayerfully resisted for many years his natural impulse to wither up the air upon the slightest occasion, but cuss he will, and he can't help it. One day, while the bishop was at his house, the host found that something had gone wrong in his stable, and he let out on the coachman in his customary lurid style. After he had singed the atmosphere in the neighborhood of the stable for five minutes he started back for the house, and he was somewhat chagrined to see the bishop standing in the yard, looking at some flower beds. The gentleman knew that the bishop had heard him.

"I know it isn't right," he explained to the bishop, "but you know me, and you know that I call a spade a spade."

"Do you?" inquired the bishop, with a quizzical smile. "Now, I should have thought that you'd call it a —— shovel."

A Modern Mrs. Malaprop.

An interesting volume, "With a Palette In Eastern Palaces," by E. M. Merrick, tells amusing stories of many climes. Of the western world was a modern Mrs. Malaprop, pretty, amiable and rich, who sat to the author for her portrait. "She told me," he says, "that her husband 'hobnobbed' with everybody and told such 'cotton wool' (cock and bull) stories; that a girl she knew was training to be an 'archdeacon' (deaconess); that she was obliged to part with her coachman because he was such a 'gay Othello;' that she had india rubber 'tiles' put on the wheels of her carriage; that a man she knew was a regular 'marmoset' (martinet) in his own house, and a certain title always descended from uncle to nephew, as they invariably died 'childish.'"

Among the numerous celebrities whom Miss Merrick met in India was Lord Roberts, whose antipathy to cats gave rise to a little story of metempsychosis. On one of his homeward voyages Lord Roberts "asked to have the cat removed when he came on board ship, and a stranger, not knowing who he was, said to Lady Roberts, 'Don't you think that little gentleman over there must have been a mouse in a former state?'"—Household Words.

In the Boarding House.

Gazing dreamily at the "God Bless Our Home" pastel on the wall, the boarder with the freckles on his nose continued, "Yes, it really gives me great pleasure to notice that the butter is convalescing!"

The man with the barb wire beard looked unhappy, and an expression of contempt, not unmixed, however, with curiosity, flitted across the face of the landlady.

"Convalescing!" she replied. "What do you mean?"

The man with the yellow whiskers smiled expectantly.

The man with the freckles on his nose nerved himself for the ordeal and replied, "Because it grows stronger every day!"

During the excitement that followed the man with the double chin helped himself to the last slice of bread on the table.

A woman can hold her head quite high, even though she hasn't a penny in her pocketbook, but a man without money is absolutely without courage.—Philadelphia Times.

Rev. Dr. Thompson Testifies

Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, North American Life Assurance Co., Toronto:

DEAR SIR,—Your official notice came duly to hand, apprising me of the results obtainable upon my 15-year Endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000, which matured on the 5th inst. Of the various options you have given me, viz.:

Cash Value.....$1 564 96
Paid-up policy, payable at my death..... 2,560.00
Yearly income for life of..... 166 20

I have decided upon the cash value; and it gives me pleasure to testify that, as I anticipated it would be when I took out the policy, it is very satisfactory. This returns me the full premium of the 15 years and over 4½ per cent compound interest, in addition to which you have carried the risk upon my life. In view of the lowering rates of interest which have been obtainable during the later portion of the period, it is difficult to see how this excellent result could have been surpassed.

THE OBSEQUIES.

Funeral of the Late Senator Sanford at Hamilton—Beautiful Floral Tributes —Service at Wesanford.

Hamilton, July 14.—The funeral of the late Senator Sanford yesterday afternoon was witnessed by an immense throng of people. Wesanford was thrown open to the public, to enable those who desired to take a last look at the face of the late Senator. The casket containing the remains stood in the drawing-room, near the deceased's favorite conservatories, and on and round it were the floral tributes from many friends. Among them was a standing cross from Mrs. W. D. Sanford.

Service at Wesanford.

A service was held at 2.30 at Wesanford, conducted by Rev. George F. Salton, pastor of Centenary Church, and Rev. Dr. Potts of Toronto, after which the cortege was formed and proceeded to the cemetery. The streets on the way were lined by thousands of persons, and the mourners who followed the remains included representatives of the various business interests of the city, Board of Trade, City Council and other bodies, and the employees of the company's factory.

The Pall Bearers.

The pall-bearers were:

Honorary—Sir Mackenzie Bowell, A. T. Wood, M.P., T. H. Macpherson, M.P., W. H. Brock of Toronto, E. Gurney of Toronto, Mayor Teetzel, R. T. Riley of Winnipeg, Adam Brown, William Hendrie, Samuel Barker, George Roach, S. F. Lazier, Q.C., W. A. Robinson, W. W. Robinson, Thomas W. Watkins, A. Turner.

Active—J. H. Somerville, John Hooper, George E. Hamilton, Ross Wilson, Harry Kite, Thomas Bale, E. McHaffie, R. Pirie, George Moyer and J. Dresher.

At the Cemetery.

On the arrival at the cemetery the casket was placed in the chapel, which had been beautified by means of flowers. A short service was held here and the remains were left in the chapel until the arrival of Mrs. Sanford next week, when a private service will be held and the remains placed in the handsome mausoleum, now almost completed.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell, who was one of the deceased's most intimate friends, arrived in the city in the morning and left again at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Cablegram From the Widow.

At the service at Wesanford, Rev. Dr. Potts read a cablegram from Mrs. Sanford, containing an appropriate verse of scripture.

TWO OR THREE MAY DIE.

Terrible Accident at the Raising of a Barn Near Markdale.

Markdale, Ont., July 14.—One of the worst accidents that has ever occurred in this part of the country happened yesterday afternoon at William Douglas' barn raising. His farm adjoins this village. The first bent had been raised, but owing to insufficient propping the heavy timber came crashing down, carrying everything before it and crushing four men, probably two or three fatally.

Dan Rae and Sproule were hastily summoned and found Duncan McIntyre unconscious and suffering from broken collar bone, shoulder bruised and chest hurt internally. When found almost the entire weight of the bent was resting on McIntyre's chest.

Henry McLaughry had ribs broken, hip injured and severe internal injuries.

Fred. Brown received a severe blow on the head, with probable injury to the brain, which may prove fatal.

Another man named Pelletier received a severe cut on the side of the head.

The great wonder is that a number were not instantly killed, for there were 100 men at the raising.

WON'T HAVE ARBITRATION

Limited Such as London Car Company Proposed in Their Offer.

London, Ont., July 14.—Yesterday the street railway strikers refused the company's proposal for limited arbitration. They want a full arbitration of all the points in their statement of grievances.

The civic committee is now holding conferences with the men and the company, in a final effort to arrive at a settlement. Failing in this, the committee have decided to set forth what it considers a fair basis of arbitration, and there let its labors rest.

Too Much Mixed Man.

They were telling political stories in a down town office the other day, and somebody recalled the tale of the Hon. Alfonso Hart, at one time Lieutenant governor of Ohio.

Hart was on the stump for Foraker and was putting in his best licks in the rural districts. One afternoon he tackled a lot of Medina county farmers and opened upon them in his usual way.

"Friends," he said, "I know you are a sensible, hard headed lot of honest fellers. You are not to be moved by sophistry or foolish deceptions. I have only to look around me to assure myself that you know a good thing when you see it. Now, let us suppose one of you farmers has a hired man. You may feel a little doubt of him at the outset, but you give him a fair trial. You like him so well that you keep him another year. And he serves you in a way that insures his re-engagement for still another year and then another. Isn't that a good business principle?"

Mr. Hart paused and smiled down at his listeners. Before he could resume, however, a shrill voice from the middle of the crowd interrupted him.

"Say," said the voice, "how is it when the hired man gets to thinkin he owns the hull darned farm?"

It took the wind all out of Mr. Hart, as he himself afterward admitted.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Why is it that nearly all aged persons are thin?

And yet, when you think of it, what could you expect?

Three score years of wear and tear are enough to make the digestion weak. Yet the body must be fed.

In Scott's Emulsion, the work is all done; that is, the oil in it is digested, all ready to be taken into the blood. The body rests, while the oil feeds and nourishes, and the hypophosphites makes the nerves steady and strong.

CLAIMANTS NUMEROUS

For the Rewards Offered for Pare and Holden With the Money Stolen.

All told now there are six claimants for the $2,500 reward offered by the Ontario Government for the capture of Pare and Holden. Every day seems to bring forth another man, who thinks he has a right to the money. Half of the applicants so far are considered to have no right to the money whatever. They include a couple of hotelkeepers.

For the $12,000 reward offered by the Dominion Bank for the information leading to the conviction of the parties and the return of the money there are fifteen people who believe themselves entitled to the money. Chief Accountant Hargreave, of the Eastern Townships Bank, who discovered the first clue after the robbery, thinks his share should be $10,000, and has instructed his lawyers to get that amount. The police at Manchester, N.H., including Chief Healy, expect some of the money, because they arrested Pare, got his confession and money. Holden was arrested in Boston, and the chief and other officers ask for some of the reward. Then the Montreal and Boston officers, who managed to take Roach into custody, seek a share of the money offered. The claims will all be looked into by the bank's legal representatives.

GOVERNMENT EXPERIMENTING

As to What is the Best Food to Make Good Pork.

The agricultural Department is experimenting as to what is the best and cheapest food upon which to fatten hogs. Pork packers have been complaining about soft hogs a great deal of late, and say that one-half of the hogs are unfit for curing. These dealers claim that corn makes soft pork, while other judges differ.

To satisfy themselves the Government is experimenting, but it will be late in the fall before they conclude these experiments and satisfy themselves as to which is the best feed.

Nature Cure for the Tweed News.

Tweed News: One would have to look long to find a town where the people or, more properly speaking, a section of the people, make a greater pretense at being good—some of them painfully good—than they do in Tweed. Here if a person of standing and respectability indulges in an occasional game of cards with a euchre deck, or an occasional dance, or a quiet ride between the hours of the Sabbath services, some of the people hold up their hands in perfect horror and some will even go so far as to denounce him as a questionable member of society, notwithstanding the fact that he conducts himself according to the rules laid down in the ten commandments. Yet some of these exceedingly good people will raise neither a hand or a voice to denounce and stamp out evils of the vilest kind that exist in the community; and some of them will even go so far as to publicly denounce the newspaper that attempts to bring about a better state of affairs. These people evidently prefer to cover up the evils in order to give the outside world the impression that everything is clean and orderly within. To such a scheme this paper will never be a party, but on every occasion will give publicity to such disgraceful occurrences as those referred to in our last week's issue.

MUSICAL ENTERPRISE.

Success of the Pupils of Mr. A. Davies, of Town, at the Toronto Conservatory of Music.

Some time ago the Toronto Conservatory of music appointed Mr. A. Davies, of 217 London-st., organist of St. Luke's church, to be their representative in Peterborough and the surrounding country. The examinations for this year have just been held, and it is gratifying to note that Mr. Davies' class has been highly successful. The examiners report that his pupils stand at the head of the list of the examinations conducted at the local centres outside of Toronto. The examination falls into two divisions, the first on the theory of music and the second in pianoforte playing. The following is the list and standing of the candidates:—

Primary Theory—Miss Lizzie Scott, 1st class honors; Mr W A Staples, 1st class honors; Miss Helen Davies, 1st class honors; Miss E G Sherry (Norwood), 2nd class honors; Miss E M B Sherry (Norwood), 2nd class honors.

Junior Pianoforte (tried at Lindsay)—Mr W A Staples, 1st class honors; Miss Helen Davies, 1st class honors; Miss Lizzie Scott, pass.

The Conservatory of Music, it is well known, has done wonders in the way of promoting the love of music and in raising the standard in Toronto, and their efforts to bring the advantages of definite instruction with examinations in theory and practice within the reach of the towns of Ontario deserve the support of all lovers of music. We heartily congratulate Mr. Davies upon the excellent results of his first examinations.

FOUND STRYCHNINE.

Yet a Marmora Girl's Sudden Death was Not Investigated Until After Buried.

Marmora, Ont., July 13.—May McCoy, 16 years of age, while working in the garden at her home on Thursday morning last, July 6, died suddenly. The girl had arisen at her usual hour, had harnessed the horses and got the breakfast, and then after doing some other work had gone out into the garden to hoe. At 10.30 she fell in a fit and died. The coroner was called, and on making investigation found a bottle of strychnine in the house. Notwithstanding no action was taken and the body was allowed to be buried. Yesterday, however, the body was exhumed and a post mortem examination was held. A coroner's jury was empanelled, which met last night. After taking some evidence an adjournment was made to allow of farther investigation to be made.

SOLDIERS EN ROUTE.

A Detachment of Canadian Regulars Passes Through Town.

The 11.27 east-bound C. P. R. express this morning had a couple of extra coaches attached conveying No. 2 Company of the Royal Regiment of Canadian Infantry, of C. School, Toronto, to Ottawa, where they go into camp for a few weeks. The company was 56 men strong and was in command of Capt. Macdonald. While the train was at the station for a few minutes the redcoats swarmed out on the platform and took glimpses of the town. A number of former Peterborough men were in the party. Lt.-Col. Otter was also on the train.

A Big Circular on Ontario's Gold Mining.

The circular, a pamphlet of about 50 pages, issued by the Mines Contract and Investigation Co., of Toronto, on the Gold Fields of Ontario and the Mining of the Province, marks, emphatically, great progress in the interest now taken in the development of the mineral resources of this province. The pamphlet is certainly the most comprehensive yet issued by a private mining firm in Canada; perhaps also the largest ever issued, except under government auspices, in America. It shows fully, and yet without exaggeration, the immense resources of Ontario metalliferous regions, and the advantage they enjoy over gold regions elsewhere; deals with metal mining generally, the organization of companies and the wise handling of stocks, and gives a list and description of the leading gold mines and prospects of the Rainy River District, a long list of Ontario's mining companies formed since 1895, and a good synopsis of the mining laws of Ontario. The copper-plate map of northwestern Ontario is a remarkably beautiful piece of workmanship. The pamphlet is a credit to its publishers and printers, and can scarcely fail to attract capital from Europe and America to the vast gold fields of Ontario.

NORTH MONAGHAN COUNCIL.

The Estimates Presented and Rate Struck—A Question That Caused Discussion.

Correspondence of the Review.

The North Monaghan Council met in the town hall on Monday, July 10, at 3 o'clock p.m. All the members were present, the Reeve, Mr T M Hunter, presiding. The minutes of the adjourned Court of Revision were read and approved. The minutes of the last Council meeting were also read and confirmed. The following accounts were presented:—Peterborough Hardware Co., material, shovels, etc., $8.17; Warde & Hall, shovels, $7.25; J J Bennett, commissioner south division, accounts for two culverts built by Sanderson and McIntosh, $14.37. A report was presented and read by Mr Bradburn from the committee appointed to confer with a committee of the Council of Smith and arrange a division of the boundary between the township of North Monaghan and Smith for the purposes of maintenance thereof. The report recommended the following divisions:—North Monaghan to have that portion of the road adjacent to lots 1, 2, 3, 7, 8 and 9 of the 13th concession of North Monaghan, Smith to have that portion of the road adjacent to lots 4, 5, 6, 10, 11 and 12. A requisition from the county clerk of Peterborough County was received requiring the sum of $1,224.34 for county purposes for 1899.—Received. Moved by Mr Madill, seconded by Mr Hall, that the accounts of the Peterborough Hardware Co., Warde & Hall and J J Bennett be passed and paid.—Carried. Moved by Messrs Hall and Brown that Mr Madill be a committee to meet a committee of South Monaghan with power to build a culvert and repair the boundary between North and South Monaghan and to report to this Council when completed.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Bradburn and Madill that the report of the committee appointed to divide the boundary with the township of Smith be received and adopted, and that the necessary agreement and by-law be prepared for execution and passing confirming the same.—Carried.

The finance report for 1899, showing the estimates, was presented by Mr. Bradburn as follows:—

Estimated Receipts.
Commutation of statute labor...	$217 50
Dog Tax	120 00
License fund	45 00
Total	$382 50
Estimated Expenditure.
Salaries	$283 00
Printing and stationery	30 00
Charity	15 00
Roads and bridges	800 00
Discounts	50 00
Board of Health	10 00
Gravelling and grading	617 50
Miscellaneous	100 00
Total	$1,905 50

Amount to be raised for township purposes, $812. On a total assessment of $529,750, a rate of 1 3-5 mills on dollar will give $839.65. On motion of Messrs. Bradburn and Hall this report was received and adopted, and the rate of 1 2-5 mills on the dollar was authorized for township rate for 1899.

Moved by Messrs. Hall and Brown that the clerk is hereby instructed to write the clerk of the town of Peterborough asking the town to repair that portion of the boundary now under their jurisdiction as per agreement, and to also request the town to put the south end of the park in a fit state for public traffic as it is one of the leading thoroughfares approaching the town.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Hall and Brown, that the sum of $100 be expended in the swamp between lots 4 and 5, on con. 7, and that the contract for same be let by auction, tender to the lowest bidder provided such is satisfactory and that the work be done according to specifications agreed upon by the council.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Hall and Brown that the commissioner of the south road district be granted the sum of $100 in addition to the commutation tax for roads.

After a lengthy discussion of the resolutions the mover and seconder demanded a division upon it. The Reeve refused to put the motion to a vote. Mr. Brown then left the Council chamber, when on motion of Messrs. Hall and Madill the Council adjourned to meet on the 7th day of August, 1899, at 2 o'clock p.m. in the town hall.

The Irish Language.

It sounds profane to ask whether our ancient tongue is worth preserving. Yes, it is, even as a spoken language, and so well worth preserving that if the effort be not made, and, with God's blessing, made successfully, we should be held accountable for casting from us what is, in the natural order, apart from the national spirit, the noblest inheritance of our race.

It is the misfortune of many good Irishmen to know nothing of the Irish language, however anxious about it, and, through an untoward history, it is the way with many others to care but little for its fate, because the invader has branded it as an inferior tongue. But it never happened that any one competent to form an opinion who knew Irish did not esteem it as a noble vehicle of human thought and feeling.—Gael.

A Thousand Tongues

Could not express the rapture of Annie E. Springer, of 1126 Howard-st., Philadelphia, Pa., when she found that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption had completely cured her of a hacking cough that for many years had made life a burden. All other remedies and doctors could give her no help, but she says of this Royal Cure—"It soon removed the pain in my chest and I can now sleep soundly, something I can scarcely remember doing before. I feel like sounding its praises throughout the universe." So will everyone who tries Dr. King's New Discovery for any trouble of the Throat, Chest or Lungs. Price 50 cents and $1.00. For sale by James Lynch, druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough; every bottle guaranteed.

Dished Up for Americans Alleged to Have Come From Kingston, Ja.

Kingston, Jamaica, July 15.—While the returned Jamaican delegates to Washington maintain reserve regarding the terms of the reciprocity treaty, during an interview one of them inadvertently intimated that coffee would experience a material reduction, if not obtain a preferential duty over Brazilian coffee. They all agree that the treaty will be highly satisfactory, and the pro-American public sentiment is consequently intensifying.

A Combination of Strength That Russia Cannot Break.

Engineer Parsons Calls on Secretary Hay—He Asks the Assistance of the United States Government to Nullify Foreign Influences in Procuring Certain Chinese Railway Concessions—President McKinley to Look Into It—How Will It End?

Washington, July 15.—Secretary Hay received a call yesterday morning from W. Barclay Parsons, the engineer representing the American railway concessionaries controlling the projected railroad from Canton to Hankow, China. Mr. Parsons explained at some length to the Secretary the obstacles that have been encountered by his company in carrying out its concessions. The Chinese Government is ostensibly held to be obstructing the concessionaries, but behind that Government and urging it unwillingly on its course, are foreign influences, according to Mr. Parsons, which are striving to secure for themselves this concession.

To Fight Foreign Influences.

Mr. Parsons represented that an English company, holding the concession for a line from Canton to Kowloon, was prepared to unite interests with the American corporation and effect a combination to maintain themselves against these foreign influences. The British Government would naturally look after the interests of its subjects, and the American corporation asks Secretary Hay to take similar action to require the Chinese Government to permit of the execution of the concession.

How Will It End?

Secretary Hay promised to lay the matter before the President. The first step to be taken is to secure from United States minister Conger at Pekin an exact statement of the facts upon which to proceed. The Chinese Government has already been distracted by the rival claims of England and Russia to railroad concessions in Northern China, and the present conflict in the south promises to be quite as difficult of adjustment.

The English Syndicate.

The English syndicate includes Adolf von Andre, the Arbuthnot Brothers, Baring Brothers, Sir John Barry, royal engineer; the Hongkong-Shanghai Bank, Jardine, Matheson & Co., Ernest Cassel, the China & Japan Bank, Sir Auckland Colvin, Gibbs Brothers, Sir Edwyn Sandys Dawes, Hambro & Sons, the London & New Zealand Exploration Company, the Mercantile Investment Trust, Charles Morrison, Henry Oppenheim, H. Osborne O'Hagan, the Railway Share Trust, Lord Rothschild, Sir Thomas Sutherland, Henry Parmure Gordon, S. S. Gladstone, Sir Marcus Samuel, the Sassoons, John Walter, the Lord Mayor of London and other well known people.

The Capital Involved.

The capital of the British and Chinese Corporation is £1,000,000, with power to increase it. This will probably be done to the extent of £5,000,000. The capital of the American China Development Company is $1,000,000, with similar power of increase, which may be availed to the extent of $35,000,000 or $40,000,000.

It has contracted to build the 750 miles of road for the Chinese Government. Imperial Chinese bonds to the amount of $30,000,000 will be issued and given to the contractors at 90c on the dollar, in payment for their services. These bonds bear 5 per cent. interest. After a term of years the Government can redeem these bonds, and then the road will belong wholly to China. In the meantime the contractors will operate it for 20 per cent. of the profits. The district through which it runs is estimated to contain 100,000,000 inhabitants, and the passenger and freight traffic will be immense as soon as the rails are laid.

Coal fields of great extent lie tributary and adjacent to the road, and the company's electric light and power concessions are expected to return large profits in many Chinese cities.

BIG DAY AT THE INDUSTRIAL.

40,000 People Visit Winnipeg's Show in Two Days.

From Northern Pacific points fully 8,500 visitors arrived in four trains, covering the country between Grand Forks and Winnipeg. The attendance at the Industrial Thursday and yesterday will aggregate 40,000.

A HOT BLAZE AT HAMILTON.

Burrow, Stewart & Milne's Great Works Damaged by Fire.

The Direct Loss Will Be in the Neighborhood of $40,000, But the Indirect Loss for Time Idle Will Also Be Considerable—About 240 Hands Will Be Thrown Out of Employment for a Short Time.

Hamilton, July 15.—There was a fierce fire at the Burrow, Stewart & Milne stove foundry and scale and malleable iron works, Cannon street, last evening, and about $40,000 damage was done to buildings, stock and machinery and tools. The fire department made one of the best stops on record, confining the blaze almost entirely to the westerly half of the immense building, which extends from Hughson to John streets. The fire started about 6.30 o'clock and burned fiercely till after 9. Some of the companies were at work till midnight, however.

Started in the Roof.

It started in the roof of the machine shop in the middle of the block. A high east wind fanned the flames, which burned with great rapidity and enveloped the tower at the southwest corner. The fire crept under the roof to the John street extension. All the fire companies in the city battled with the flames, and the fire at the east side was soon extinguished.

Where Damage Was Done.

On the west, however, great damage was done, although the fire was confined to the two upper flats of the building. The tower fell in about 7.30, and immense tongues of flame shot up a hundred feet in the air when the tons of brick fell through the roof. About 8.30 a wall in the rear of the building fell in and eight firemen, who were on a lumber pile, had a close call for their lives.

The Damage.

The damage to the building is estimated at $10,000, and the loss to the stock and machinery $26,000 to $30,000. There is about $100,000 insurance on the building and stock.

About 240 hands will be thrown out of employment for a short time.

Preparing for Fall Trade.

The firm was very busy preparing for the fall trade, and the fire means a big loss to them other than that sustained directly by fire. This is the third time in 20 years that this firm has suffered by the fire fiend. The water pressure was poor, the only strong streams being from the steam engine.

WHERE IS REV. WM. HAY?

Has Not Been Heard of Since He Went to Get $6,000 at Paisley, Ont., a Month Ago.

Buffalo, N.Y., July 15.—Rev. William Hay, a resident of Bethany, near Leroy, N.Y., is missing, and foul play is suspected. Mr. Hay left Leroy just a month ago and came to Buffalo en route to Paisley, Ont., where he resided, to settle his father's estate and to receive $6,000. When it was time for Mr. Hay to return home, his wife became alarmed. She wrote to Paisley, asking why she had heard nothing of her husband. To her surprise, she learned that he had not been there, nor had his brother, who resides at the homestead, heard anything of him. The matter was kept quiet until yesterday, when the brother arrived in Bethany and took the wife of the preacher and her 14-year-old son home with him.

The missing minister was about 50 years old. He studied medicine in Canada, and was admitted to the profession, practising for a short time. He afterward entered the ministry, and was ordained as a Presbyterian preacher Oct. 28, 1896, at Bethany. His salary was $600 per year, and he always had more than enough money to meet his wants.

SATURDAY, JULY 15, 1899.

HOW THE FARMERS' INTERESTS WERE SACRIFICED.

THE farmers will appreciate—probably in a manner the Laurier Government will not relish—the manner in which their interests have been looked after in the matter of binder twine. When the Conservatives were in power the farmer was told that the duty made him pay more for his binder twine than he should in common justice be asked to pay. But the Liberals came into office, and the result of their binder twine tariff was a jump in the price of this article, or at all events the price went up. The farmer was told that the increase in price was due to the war in the Philippines, which made the raw material scarce. But, as a matter of fact, the manufacturers had their raw material purchased before the outbreak of the war and therefore the excuse was punctured.

But Mr. Taylor, the Conservative whip, brought up this question of binder twine and made a statement which exposes the matter in a light which is not very creditable to the Government. The Government has the binder twine output of the Kingston penitentiary under its management, but Mr. Taylor pointed out that this binder twine was allowed to go into the hands of the ring and the increased prices to the farmers followed. He said that the Government sold last year's output to Bate & Son, of Ottawa (a firm friendly to the Government) at 4½, and this firm turned it over to the ring, and the farmers had to pay 13½ cents on the average for their twine. Mr. Taylor in discussing the matter said:—

"Some time ago the Prime Minister informed the House that in selling binder twine the Government called for tenders by circulars addressed to the binding dealers throughout the Dominion. Now, Bate & Son were quoted in the public press as saying that tenders were called for by public advertisement. Clearly, one of them must be wrong. The fact appears to be that the Government circular was sent to the firms in the ring and to good Grits, including Wood, Vallance & Co., of Hamilton; The Hobbs Hardware Co., of London; John Hallam, of Toronto; J H Ashdown & Co., of Winnipeg; Rice Lewis, of Toronto; Coll Bros, of St. John; The Farmers' Binder Twine & Agricultural Manufacturing Co., of Brantford; and H N Bate & Son, of Ottawa. No circular was sent to Halifax, or Montreal, or Quebec, or Victoria. No circular was sent to the Massey-Harris Manufacturing Co., the largest binder twine handlers in the Dominion. In fact, it was perfectly obvious that no reasonable attempt was made to secure competition."

Mr. Taylor went on to point out that the correspondence showed that the Government binder twine had been handed over to Bate & Son without tender or any deposit cheque being required. He said he had attempted to get the price this year's binder twine output had been sold at, but had been refused the information, being told that it was confidential.

There is every evidence that the Government has mismanaged the sale of the binder twine controlled by it to the advantage of friends but to the disadvantage of the farmers. Their course was condemned by several Conservative members, who will be supported in the stand they have taken against the favored "ring" by the farmers who are made to "pay the piper."

SELKIRK WOULD HAVE BEEN BETTER.

INSTEAD of landing Hon. Mr. Blair and Mr. Bertram for "standing up" for the Trent canal and having an "intelligent grasp" of the importance of the undertaking the Examiner should endeavor to enlighten them or have them say nothing. It would have been better for the canal, so far as impressing Montreal and other outside business men is concerned, if Mr Blair and Mr Bertram had not spoken at all. To have men say that they would never have recommended the commencement of such a work and that its undertaking was a "grave blunder," is not calculated to do a canal project any good among outside business men. Those two speeches will go a long way to undo the good effect of the Association's efforts to boom the project, and yet the Examiner lauds them.

NOTWITHSTANDING the war and all the other drawbacks, binder twine can be made in Kingston penitentiary for 4½c, the price for which the Government sold it to Bates & Son, the firm that received the $30,000 contract for military clothing without tenders being asked for. But the binder twine when sold to the farmer was worth from 10 to 13 cents, a fair profit for the friends of the Government who got control of it.

The Sting Within

It is said there is a rankling thorn in every heart, and yet that none would exchange their own for that of another. Be that as it may, the sting arising from the heart of a corn is real enough, and in this land of tight boots a very common complaint also. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor is a never failing remedy for this kind of heartache, as you can easily prove if afflicted. Cheap, sure, painless. Try the genuine and use no other.

—The farmers are in the midst of their haying. The prospects are that there will be an average crop. Grain crops promise to be heavy.

PARLIAMENT.

Both Branches of the National Legislature Are Now Being Business in Business-Like Style.

Ottawa, July 15.—The proceedings in both the Senate and Commons yesterday were of a nature to encourage the hope that prorogation is not very far distant. In the Senate, both the Drummond County and Grand Trunk lease bills have passed through committee, been reported, and stand for third reading.

The G.T.R. Bill Amended.

In the committee, the Grand Trunk lease bill was amended by striking out the 40th clause, which governed the traffic agreement, and substituting new clauses, which authorize the Minister of Railways to make new traffic arrangements, which will be terminable at any time on six months' notice.

Both the Grand Trunk and the Government are understood to be satisfied. So, the Senate has once more proved its usefulness by improving an important Government measure.

Excellent Progress in Supply.

The progress in supply yesterday was excellent. Mr. Blair finished his estimates and Mr. Sifton got through his in double-quick time.

On the opening of the House the bill to incorporate the British American Pulp & Paper Company was read a first time.

In answer to a question by Sir Charles Tupper, Mr. Fielding said that he hoped to bring down the supplementary estimates on Monday, and the Premier announced that notice of the Senate resolution would be given on Monday.

F. C. Wade's Job.

Mr. Sifton, in answer to a question asked some days ago, said that the appointment of F. C. Wade was that of Crown prosecutor, representing the Minister of Justice in the Yukon districts. The office carries with it the performance of the functions usually in charge of the Crown attorney of one of the counties of Ontario. So far as the pay was concerned, Mr. Wade simply makes out his bill for fees and sends it to the Department of Justice to be taxed in the usual way.

The House then went into committee of supply, taking up the canal items.

The Soulanges Canal.

Mr. Blair explained that owing to unforeseen circumstances the Soulanges Canal would not be opened before the first week in September and it would be the end of the season before it was completed. The Galops Canal would not be completed this season, but the contractor would supply tugs to tow vessels up and down the channel. The estimate cost of the Galops Canal was $4,800,000, of which $3,200,000 had been spent to date. The cost of the Soulanges Canal would be $5,800,000, of which $4,840,000 had been spent to April 30.

A Useless Expenditure.

Mr. Haggart said the Galops Canal was a useless expenditure. It was not required for steamers of 14 feet draft, because they could use the river, while barges drawing 14 feet could never use the route, inasmuch as they could not be towed safely through the channel in Lake St. Louis, which was only 200 feet wide.

After Mr. Blair's items were disposed of Mr. Sifton took up the votes for Geological Survey, Interior and Indian Department.

After recess the bill to incorporate the Belleville Prince Edward Bridge Company was read a third time and passed.

The Senate amendments to the Atlas Loan Company bill was concurred in, and the bill read a third time and passed.

The House then again went into supply, and made good progress, finishing up the Interior, Indian and Finance votes.

The House adjourned at midnight.

A MAN OF COMMISSIONS.

Hon. Clifford Sifton Will Have Farmers' Complaints re Elevators Investigated.

Ottawa, July 15.—Hon. Clifford Sifton, Minister of the Interior, has decided to recommend the appointment of a commission to investigate the complaints of farmers in the west against the owners of elevators.

The commission will be composed of independent men, who will go into the question thoroughly, and report all the facts, so that legislation dealing with the subject and remedying whatever evils may exist may be introduced at the next session of Parliament.

The statements made at the committee which had the matter before it this session were of a conflicting character. The commission will go into work during recess.

There have been more than a score of deaths from lockjaw within a week in the immediate vicinity of New York.

GOT THE CARTRIDGES MIXED.

Three Persons in the Audience Shot at a "Wild West" Show.

Rochester, N.Y., July 15.—During the performance at Summerville on Lake Ontario last night the Tuscarora Indians, who have been giving a "Wild West" entertainment there during the week, fired into the crowd that had assembled to watch their antics and wounded three people. The injured are: Joseph E. Marcill, seven shot wounds in right leg and two in left; Raymond Bretsch, 9 years old, several shot wounds in right thigh; Miss Helen Williamson, wounded in the body and limbs.

That part of the program during which the Indians fire on a log cabin and are fired on by the occupants was carried out without a hitch, but when the cabin was fired and the whites were obliged to fight the attacking party in the open the trouble began. Suddenly Miss Williamson uttered a scream and fell to the ground. Marcill went down before another charge from a gun in the hands of the Indians, then young Bretsch toppled over. Much excitement prevailed for the space of a few minutes. None of the injured were seriously hurt, but the wounds are extremely painful. The shooting was entirely accidental, the loaded cartridges becoming mixed by mistake with the regular blanks used at the performance. No arrests were made.

THE CAPE PARLIAMENT.

A large crowd of people assembled outside the Parliament buildings and hailed the arrival of Sir Alfred Milner, the British high commissioner and Governor of Cape Colony, with deafening cheers, after which "God Save the Queen" was twice sung by the people.

The speech of the Governor did not refer to the political situation, excepting that he said the relations between Cape Colony and the states, colonies and territories of South Africa were friendly.

They Blame Great Britain.

Pretoria, July 15.—The Volksraad yesterday adopted the first two sections of the franchise bill. During the course of the debate it was declared that Great Britain had caused the present trouble, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, the Secretary of State for the Colonies, being the prime mover. It was added that the new law was lenient and could not be altered.

MARCHAND WAS THE HERO.

Review of French Troops on the National Fete Day by the President.

Paris, July 15.—Magnificent weather yesterday favored the national fete day. The public and many private buildings were decorated with flags. President Loubet left the Elysee Palace at 2.30 p.m. in a carriage drawn by four horses. After receiving the congratulations of the officials the President turned towards the crowds and bowed repeatedly. General Kermartin handed over the command of the troops to General Brugere, the Military Governor of Paris, and the review began forthwith. As each regiment passed the Presidential stand its flag was dipped and the President rose and saluted the colors. Each time he was greeted with cheering for the army.

Marchand Looms Up.

Suddenly a roar of applause ascended from the distant masses of spectators and increased in volume as Major Marchand, the African explorer, and principal figure on the French side in the Fashoda incident, mounted on a superb black charger and surrounded by the Soudanese soldiers who had accompanied him across the African continent, appeared in view and, amidst increasing excitement, defiled in front of the President as the air rang with deafening cries of "Vive Marchand!" and "Vive l'Armee!" and hats and handkerchiefs were thrown upwards on all sides. The review was concluded at 4.30 p.m.

Big Fight at Cherbourg.

Hon. C. A. Geoffrion Dying.

Montreal, July 15.—The many friends of Hon. C. A. Geoffrion, M.P. for Verchores, and member of the Laurier Cabinet without portfolio, will regret to learn that his life is now despaired of. Mr. Geoffrion's friends supposed that country air and complete rest would restore the great lawyer to health, but the latest reports are gloomy in the extreme, as the doctors now declare that his death may take place any moment.

A CHARTERED LIFE.

In a railroad accident the other day a man sustained ten complete fractures of the bones of the limbs, three fractures of the pelvis, and a score of bruises, gashes and sprains, and yet he is recovering. Men and women sometimes withstand great physical violence, but succumb to the invisible germs of consumption—so small that they can be seen only under a powerful microscope. The starting point of consumption is in the stomach, which, when deranged, makes bad blood because digestion is not perfect, and in bad blood the microbes multiply and flourish. Sooner or later the lungs are attacked, and in the weak spots the germs begin their deadly work of tearing down the tissues. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery stops the encroachments of consumption microbes. It builds up and fortifies the whole system by aiding the stomach in its many functions. It assists in the proper assimilation of food. This scientific remedy cures lingering coughs, bronchitis, bleeding at the lungs, and every other symptom that eventually leads to consumption. Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., who makes this wonderful medicine, gives free, fatherly advice to all who write him.

"Last spring I was taken with severe pains in my chest, and was so weak I could hardly walk about the house," says Mrs. G. H. Kerr, of Fort Dodge, Webster Co., Iowa. "I tried several physicians and they told me I had consumption, but that I might 'brush it over' and perhaps live a good many years. I heard of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and I thought I would try some of it. Before I had taken the first bottle I was very much better; I took five bottles of it and have not yet had any return of the trouble. I have also taken Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Pleasant Pellets' with good results."

When the bowels are obstinate, take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They don't gripe.

FROM KINGSTON.

Evidence Duplicated again in Regard to Cures by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

W. C. Bennett, Foreman of the R. M. Horsey Tin Shop, Kingston, replies to a letter asking about his cure by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Kingston, July 14.—Barriefield is just outside Kingston, and may be an important part of that city some day. In Barriefield lives Mr. W. C. Bennett, who was cured of Kidney Complaint by Dodds' Kidney Pills. His cure was published not so long ago, and Mr. Bennett has lately received enquiries from a Toronto gentleman who is anxious to know if the case was as stated.

Dodd's Kidney Pills have cured Kidney Disease in Kingston in all its forms. Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Rheumatism, Heart Disease, Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Urinary and Bladder Complaints, have all been cured in the Limestone City by that wonderful medicine, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mr. Bennett desires to tell the public through this paper that he has found in Dodd's Kidney Pills a permanent cure for Kidney Troubles and Backache,—the most common symptom of Kidney Disease—and further, he is willing to answer any letters addressed to him asking for particulars.

Here is a copy of the letter Mr. Bennett wrote to the Toronto enquirer:—

Kingston, May 28th, 1899.

Dear Sir,—Yours referring to Dodd's Kidney Pills received. I have used them to great advantage, and I am sure that they are all that you claim for them. I got a box first from Henry Skinner, druggist, to give them a chance to cure me of Kidney Complaint, which had become so bad I could scarcely endure it. After using several other medicines and so called Kidney Pills without receiving any benefit, I am all the greater pleased to testify to the great benefit received from Dodd's Kidney Pills. The change in my condition is so great that I cannot refrain from recommending them to any person troubled with Kidney Disorder.

If any one is in doubt, a card to my address, General Post Office, Kingston, shall receive a prompt reply, stating what good Dodd's Kidney Pills did for me.

Making Steel Pens.

Briefly described, steel pens are made as follows: First the steel is rolled into big sheets and then cut into strips about three inches in width. The strips are heated to a bright red and are then allowed to cool gradually, which tempers them. They are next rolled to the necessary thinness and are cut into blank flat pens, and the pens, while flat, are usually stamped with the brand or the name of the manufacturer. To shape the pens is the next process. The rounding makes them hold the ink and distribute it more evenly than could be done if they were flat. To harden them they are heated to a cherry red and then suddenly cooled. This not only hardens them, but makes them elastic. The polishing, pointing and finishing come next, and then they are ready for use. The little holes in the pens at the end of the slits serve to make them more elastic and to facilitate the flow of the ink.

It is said that more steel is now used in the manufacture of pens than in that of swords. It is even claimed that the metal annually used in their manufacture weighs more than all the metal used in the manufacture of war implements.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver, of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters'; and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50cts. a bottle, every bottle guaranteed. A TRIP TO THE ETERNAL CITY studying their Baedekers as they wal among the ruins of the proud palaces and temples of bygone days.

As early as the latter half of the sixth century began the war of extermination waged by the Middle Ages against paganism. Ancient temples were transformed into churches. These were afterwards frequently altered and restored, whilst others of the same class have entirely disappeared. Throughout a thousand years the edifices of Rome were employed as quarries, from which churches and secular buildings alike derived their columns their blocks of solid stone, and, owing to a still more destructive proceeding, their supplies of lime from the burning of marble.

The systematic destruction of the Forum was followed by its systematic burial in rubbish heaps, so that the ancient pavement is at places 40 feet below the present level of the ground. It was not until the modern spirit of investigation revived the plan of restoring the ancient city that excavations on any large scale were made.

Taking a survey of the Forum from the end next the Capitol we see to the left the temple of Saturn, to which the eight unfluted columns belong, the three columns of the temple of Vespasian and the arch of Septimius Severus. Behind partly hidden by the columns of the temple of Saturn are the column of Phocas, the Basilica Julias, the three columns of the temple of Castor, and the substructures of the round temples of Vesta and of the temple of Cæsar,

Passing through the Forum the Via Sacra, a short street of half a mile, leads one to the Coliseum. Up this street on their way to the Capitol went the triumphal processions of the conquering generals. No military review of modern times equalled those gorgeous triumphs. The sun has never shone upon any human assemblage so magnificent and so grand, so imposing and yet so guilty. Not only were displayed the spoils of conquered kingdoms, and the triumphal cars of generals, but the whole military strength of the capital. An army of 100,000 men, flushed with victory, follows the gorgeous procession of nobles and princes. I tried to picture to myself, as I looked down the Via Sacra, the triumph of Aurelian. Ancient writers tell us that the pomp was opened by 20 elephants, four royal tigers and 200 of the most curious animals from every climate north, south, east and west. These were followed by 1200 gladiators, devoted to the cruel amusement of the amphitheatre. Then were displayed the arms and ensigns of conquered nations, the plate and wardrobe of the Syrian queen. Then ambassadors from all parts of the earth —all remarkable in their rich dresses, with their crowns and offerings. Then the captives taken in the various wars, Goths, Vandals, Samaritans, Alemanni, Franks, Gauls, Syrians, and Egyptians, each marked by their national costume. Then the Queen of the East, the beautiful Zenobia, confined by fetters of gold, and fainting under the weight of jewels, preceding the beautiful chariot in which she had hoped to enter the gates of Rome. Then the chariot of the Persian king. Then the triumphal car of Aurelian himself, drawn by elephants. Finally the most illustrious of the Senate, the people, and the army closed the solemn procession, amid the acclamation of the people, and the sound of musical instruments. It took from dawn of day until the 9th hour for the procession to pass to the Capitol, and the festival was protracted by theatrical representations, the games of the circus, the hunting of wild beasts, combats of gladiators, and naval engagements. Liberal donations were presented to the army, and a portion of the spoils dedicated to the gods. All the temples glittered with the offerings of ostentatious piety, and the temple of the Sun received 15,000 pounds of gold. The soldiers and the citizens were then surfeited with meat and wine. The disbanded soldiery thronged the amphitheatre, and yelled their fiendish applause at the infernal games, —"the gorged robbers of the world, drank in a festival of hell,"—a representation of war as terrible as war itself, compensating to the Roman people the massacres which they could not see.

Such was one of the hundreds of triumphal processions which have passed up the Via Sacra. That half-mile of road has indeed a history.

Spanning the Via Sacra is one of the most interesting monuments of ancient Rome—the Triumphal Arch of Titus, commemorating the defeat of the Jews, A.D. 70, and dedicated to him under his successor, Domitian, in 81. On the crumbling frieze is carved a relief of the triumphal procession bearing the spoils of the Temple, with the table of shewbread, the seven-branched candle-stick, and a group of captive Jews. To this day, it is said, the Jews of Rome refuse to pass under the monument of their national degradation.

Not far from the Arch of Titus, at the end of the Via Sacra, rise the cliff-like walls of the Colosseum or Coliseum as Byron writes it.

"A ruin—yet what ruin! From its mass
Walls, palaces, half-cities, have been reared;
Yet oft the enormous skeleton we pass,
And marvel where the spoil could have appeared
Hath it indeed been plundered or but cleared."

The Colosseum, originally called the Flavian amphitheatre, was one of the most imposing structures in the world. It was completed by Titus in A.D. 80, who employed 10,000 Jewish captives in its construction. The building has been known since the 8th century under its present name, derived probably from the colossal statue of Nero which stood near. It is built in the space occupied by an artificial lake in the gardens of Nero, near by that monarch's Golden Palace, which was demolished by Vespasian as being a monument of insane extravagance.

For magnitude it can only be compared to the pyramids of Egypt, and its remains are the most striking monument we have of the material greatness of the Romans. It was here that emperors, senators, generals, knights, and people met together to witness the most exciting and sanguinary amusements ever seen in the world. It was built with a perfect recklessness of expense, and could accommodate 87,000 spectators, round an arena large enough for the combats of several hundred animals at a time. According to the most trustworthy statistics the external circumference of the elliptical structure measures 573 yards or nearly one-third of a mile, the long diameter 205 yards, the shorter 170 yards, and the height 157 feet, enclosing six acres. It was built of travertine, faced with marble and decorated with statues. The eighty arches of the lower story formed entrances for the spectators. The seats were of marble covered with cushions. The spectators were protected from the sun and rain by ample canopies, while the air was refreshed by scented fountains. The nets designed as a protection from the wild beasts were made of golden wire. The porticoes were gilded; the circle which divided the several ranks of spectators was studded with a precious mosaic of beautiful stones. The arena was strewed with the finest sand, and assumed, at different times, the most different forms. Underneath the arena is a solid pavement, so closely cemented that it can be turned into an artificial lake on which naval battles are fought. The furniture of the amphitheatre consisted of gold, silver and amber. The passages of ingress and egress are so numerous that the spectators could go in and out without confusion.

Although two-thirds of this gigantic structure have disappeared, the ruins are still stupendously impressive. The fall of the western half gave rise to a hill of travertine and tufa, which it took five centuries and fifteen generations of stone cutters and lime-burners to exhaust. The flora of the colosseum included four hundred and twenty distinct species, whose mantling grace and beauty has all been scraped away, leaving the cliff-like walls bare and desolate.

It reveals a wonderful skill in masonry, and great architectural strength; it shows the wealth and resources of rulers who must have had the treasures of the world at their command; it shows the restless passion of the people for excitement, and the necessity on the part of the government of yielding to this taste.

What leisure and indolence marked a city which could afford to give up so much time to the demoralising sports! What facilities for transportation were afforded, when so many wild beasts could be brought from the central parts of Africa to the capital without calling out unusual comment! How imperious a populace that compels the government to provide such expensive pleasures!

The games of Titus on its dedication, last one hundred days, and 5,000 wild beasts are slaughtered in the arena. The number of gladiators who fought surpasses belief. At the triumph of Trajan over the Dacians 10,000 gladiators were exhibited, and the emperor himself presided under a gilded canopy, surrounded by thousands of his lords. The conflict of the gladiators deeply stimulates the passions of the people. The benches are crowded with eager spectators and the voices of nearly 100,000 are raised in triumph or in rage as the miserable victims sink exhausted in the bloody sport, "butchered to make a Roman holiday."

The arena was 93 yards long by 56 wide. The New York baseball team which took a tour around the world about ten years ago played America's national game within the Colosseum. What a difference between such and the gladiatorial combats! Truly Tempora mutantur, nos at mutamur in illis.

Beneath the areas and adjacent to the foundations of the inner wall we saw the chambers and dens for the wild beasts.

The Colosseum has ever been made a symbol of the greatness of Rome, and gave rise in the 8th century to a prophetic saying of the pilgrims:

"While stands the Coliseum, Rome shall stand;
When falls the Coliseum, Rome shall fall;
And when Rome falls—the World."

Near to the Colosseum, spanning the Via Triumphalis which here joined the Via Sacra is the Triumphal Arch of Constantine, the best-preserved structure of the kind in Rome, erected in 312. The greater part of the ornamentation and the admirable sculptures were brought from a building of Trajan which stood at the entrance to Trajan's Forum.

At the north corner of the Forum lies a small church built over the Carcer Mamertinus or the Mamertine Prison. I was especially anxious to see this as I had just been reading Sallust's account of the Tullianum robur which is a part of the prison where the prisoners were strangled. In this dismal dungeon Jugurtha the Numidian King, Vercingetorix the Gallic Chief, and the confederates of Catiline were put to death. Sallust describes it almost exactly as it now exists. "The Tullianum is about twelve feet below the surface of the ground. This is surrounded by walls and covered by a vaulted stone roof; but its appearance is repulsive and terrible on account of the neglect, darkness and smell." Here also tradition affirms St. Peter was imprisoned. It contains a spring which, according to the legend, St. Peter miraculously caused to flow in order to baptize his jailors. This is one of the most ancient structures in Rome.

I wasted about an hour trying to find the Tarpeian rock, over which traitors used to be thrown, but gave up the search in despair.

One of the most impressive churches in Rome is the church of S. Maria Rotonda, best known by its pagan name of "The Pantheon."

"Simple, erect, severe, austere, sublime—
Shrine of all saints and temple of all gods,
From Jove to Jesus—spared and blest by time;
Looking tranquility, while falls or nods
Arch, empire, each thing round thee, and man plods
His way through thorns to ashes—glorious dome!
Shalt thou not last?—Time's scythe and tyrants' rods
Shiver upon thee—sanctuary and home
Of art and piety—Pantheon!—pride of Rome!"

This is the only ancient edifice at Rome which is still in perfect preservation, i.e., the only one the walls and the vaulting of which still stand. It is almost as perfect to-day as when it was erected over 1900 years ago. The Pantheon was built by Agrippa, the son-in-law of Augustus, in 27 B.C. The interior lighted by a single aperture thirty feet in diameter in the centre of the wondrous dome produces a beautiful effect. The height and diameter of the dome are equal, being each 149 feet. Here where the incense arose of old at the altars of the pagan gods, it still ascends at the shrines of the papal saints, amid surroundings of gorgeous pageantry surpassing even that of the priests and augurs of ancient Rome.

To the right of the high-altar is the tomb of King Victor Emmanuel II., who died in 1878. We found the tomb covered with numerous wreaths. By the third altar to the left is Raphael's tomb with a bronze bust erected in 1883, and the graceful epigram:—

Ille hic est Raphael, timuib quo sospite vinci
Rerum magna parens, et moriente mori.

Pope has translated this as follows:—

"Living, great Nature feared he might outvie
Her works; and, dying, fears herself to die."

The Pantheon is also the last resting place of many other celebrated artists. (Ed. Note.—Next week's letter will be "Rome Continued.")

'TWAS ONLY A DREAM.

"I had a dickens of a nasty dream last night," said Mr. Jones to his friend and neighbor, Mr. Higgins, on the way down to the office.

Both Jones and Higgins always walk down town in the morning because they find the exercise beneficial.

"Yes," said Higgins; "what was it?"

"I dreamt first of all that I was tied down on my back and someone was sitting on my chest. I couldn't move a finger. Then I started to fall and then when all my nerves were on the strain waiting for the shock I suddenly brought up where I started."

"Must have been pleasant," said Higgins.

"It was horribly unpleasant," said Jones. "I got on to the fact that I could fall any distance without a shock at the bottom, after a while, but it didn't make any difference—my nerves would string up tight just the same."

"What had you been eating," said Higgins, "I always find that is the question which gets at the root of these things."

"I had half a lobster about eleven o'clock," said Jones.

"Is that all?"

"A glass of ice water and some rolls," said Jones.

"It's a wonder you're alive to tell the tale," said Higgins. "A dose like that is enough to kill a horse. Now if you had taken a Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablet after that supper you would have slept like a top. The Tablet would have helped your stomach out and you would never have known there was anything unusual going on down there."

"Where do you get them?" asked Jones.

"All druggists sell Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets," said Higgins. "Fifty cents a box."

Dig Up the Dust.

A Mississippi editor makes this appeal to delinquent subscribers: "Fish down into your pocket and dig up dust. The editor is hungry and the paper 'bout to bust. We've trusted you for several months and done it with a smile, so just return the compliment and trust us for awhile. Our wife she needs some stockings, and baby needs a dress, Jimmy needs some breeches, and so do Kate and Bess. Paul is on the hog train and Peggy sick with grief, and, good gosh almighty, can't you give a man relief? Shell out those nickels and turn loose the dimes, turn 'em loose and whistle, and we'll have better times. There will be fewer patches on the bosom of our pants, and we'll make the paper better if we have half a chance. Don't give us that old story, long gone to seed, 'bout taking more family papers than the family want to read, but help to feed the printer, and he'll help our town to grow, and thus escape the sulphur in the regions down below."

HIGH CHIEF RANGER AND WHAT HE SAID

THE HEAD OF THE CANADIAN FORESTERS IN TOWN.

He Meets a Gathering From the Local Courts and Gives an Address—Tells Something of the Work and Progress of the Order.

The local courts of the Canadian Order of Foresters, Courts Peterborough, Littlejohn and Langton, held a joint reception meeting in the Court Littlejohn's rooms last evening to meet their High Chief Ranger Bro. Robt. Elliott, of Ingersoll.

The H.C.R. arrived by C.P.R. express at 8.07 and was met at the station by Bro. F. J. Jamieson, member of executive committee, and Bro. W. S. Robinson, D.D. H.C.R.

By nine o'clock a large gathering of brethren were waiting for the H.C.R., and he was received with grand honors. After being introduced to the brethren present by Bro. E. A. Kemp, he at once proceeded on an instructive and interesting address.

The H.C.R. said it always afforded him much pleasure to come to Peterborough for several reasons. The first was for personal reasons, for it was at Peterborough that the brethren had elected him to the great and honorable position of High Chief Ranger on two occasions, in 1895 and in 1898. Another reason was that they could always look back to the meeting in Peterborough in 1885 as the starting point of a very successful period and he really believed that the great success of their noble Order had been caused by legislation enacted during that meeting. One great feature of their Order was its gradual growth. In 1885 they had less than 5,000 members, and to-day they had 32,000. This increase has not been the result of any boom or any one year's extraordinary increase, but a steady forward movement each year a mark forward was set and efforts were made to reach that point. Last year 5,686 members were initiated at an average age of 28 years, and the present average age of all the 32,000 members was only a trifle over 33 years—a grand showing made. It was that fact alone that kept our death rate at that low point where it had been for the last few years. Last year it was only 4.56 in the 1000. He also wished to say a good word for the medical department, both High Court and the local physicians. He thought that it was by their constant watchfulness and care that the Order was in such a healthy condition. At the present time they had over 700 Courts spread over Canada from Cape Breton to Vancouver, and after a great deal of trouble they had now really secured a footing in the Maritime Provinces, having now 61 courts there, when last year they had less than 20. The surplus was $763,000, and was increasing by $10,000 every month. The money was so splendidly invested that they could if it were necessary realize on every dollar of it without any loss within one week. He closed with thanks to the brethren for their close attention.

After the address the brethren showed by the numerous questions, how interested they all are in the work of the Order.

Bro. Elliott was invited to stay over and take a trip around the back lakes, but business would not allow him even one holiday.

THE BOAT UPSET IN THE RAPIDS

AND THREE BOYS AND A GIRL WERE THROWN INTO THE WATER.

The Youngest Lad Was Drowned and the Others Rescued Just In Time—A Drowning Accident at Buckhorn Lake.

A little lad named Nott, from the Chemong Indian village, was drowned on Wednesday, the 12th, in Mamasaga creek, near the entrance to Buckhorn lake. It appears the little fellow, who was only five years old, with his brothers, aged eight and ten respectively, and a sister, about fourteen, were up the stream picking berries, and on returning attempted to shoot the rapids, with the result that the boat upset and all were thrown into the water in the midst of the rapids. The little fellow was drowned before help could come, and it was with difficulty the others were rescued. Indeed another lad was sinking for the third time, when a neighbor paddled swiftly up and succeeded in saving him.

NORWOOD WEDDING.

Nuptials of Miss Mary Sheridan, of Havelock, and Mr J Lynch, of Campbellford.

A very pretty wedding took place at the R.C. church, Norwood, on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock, when Rev. Father Conway officiated at the nuptials of Miss Mary Sheridan, of Havelock, and Mr. John Lynch, of Campbellford.

The bride looked charming in a beautiful gown of blue dress goods, trimmed with ribbon and chiffon, and carried a bouquet of flowers. Miss Lizzie Sheridan, sister of the bride, assisted her, and she was also prettily dressed in a lovely fawn material, trimmed with lace and silk. The groom was supported by Mr. O. A. Sullivan, of Campbellford.

The bridal party were accompanied to Norwood by a number of intimate friends, and on their return were joined at the residence of the bride's parents, by the wedding guests, when all partook of an elaborate dejuner.

The young couple left on the afternoon express for a tour westward, and were literally showered at the station with rice and flowers. The bride's going away gown was a handsome brown cashmere. The large number of beautiful and costly presents received by the bride testified to the high esteem in which she was held.

HON. W. B. IVES PASSES AWAY

SUCCUMBS AT OTTAWA AFTER AN ILLNESS OF THREE DAYS.

Death Took Place Shortly Before Noon—One of Canada's Able and Prominent Men.

Special to the Review.

Ottawa, July 15.—Hon. W. B. Ives died at St. Luke's hospital at 11.40, this morning.

Hon. Mr. Ives was stricken down by paralysis on Thursday morning last while en route from Winnipeg to Ottawa, and has since been gradually sinking. He lost power considerably last night and anxious friends waited at the bedside for his end. Mrs. Ives, Mrs. Rufus Pope, sister of Mrs. Ives, Mr. T. H. Ives, brother of the stricken man, and Mr. Rufus Pope, were in constant attendance at the hospital, where rooms had been assigned them. Sir Charles Tupper and the other Conservative leaders were also untiring in their attendance upon the dying man.

By the death of Hon. Mr. Ives Canada loses one of her most progressive public men and the Conservative party one of its staunchest and ablest members. Mr. Ives was chosen for the office of President of the Privy Council in December, 1892, and filled the position with credit. He had the interests of his party as well as of his country sincerely at heart, and his death, following so soon upon that of a former colleague, Hon. J. F. Wood, of Brockville, is a heavy loss. Hon. Mr. Ives took an active part in the commercial and industrial development of Canada. He represented Sherbrooke, Que., in the Commons.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING

Body of a Haliburton Young Man Found in a Fence Corner.

Minden Echo:—Word reached here a few days ago that Donald McGillivray, of Cardiff, who resides with his parents near Wood P.O., was killed by lightning on Tuesday evening, the 4th inst.

The young man, who was about 20 years of age, had been out driving with his father's team and had just got home and put his team away, after which he went into the house, and a storm prevailing at the time, he went out to look after the sheep. Not returning as soon as expected search was made, and his dead body found lying in a fence corner beside the sheep, having been killed by the lightning.

Some Fiend With a Knife Continues to do Damage.

The work of destruction on the climbing vines that adorn many of the residences of the town continues but the perpetrator has chosen the north ward for his latest work. Last night the Virginia creeper at the residence of Mr. Jas. Kendry, M.P., George-st., was destroyed by being cut off close to the ground. The clematis on the residence of Mrs. Payne, a few doors north, was also similarly cut. Who the reckless vandal is is a mystery and his contemptible actions cannot be accounted for by any motive.

Last night Mr. F. Wise, George-st. north, put his bicycle in his shed and left it without locking the door. This morning he found the tires all cut, apparently with a knife.

By advertisement in another column it will be seen that a reward of $50 is offered for information as to the perpetrator of these despicable acts.

SUMMER SCHOOL AT PORT HOPE

ADDRESS BY MR R.A. WOOD, OF BOSTON.

An Interesting Talk on University Settlements in Large Cities—Some Information Regarding the Movement.

Port Hope, July14.

On Thursday evening a lecture on the subject of the work of university settlements in large cities was delivered by Mr. A. Woods, of the Cambridge Episcopal Divinity School, Boston, in connection with the summer school for clergy now in session at Trinity College school, Port Hope. Mr. Woods stated the objects of such settlements to be the bringing together of the separated social classes. The origin of this movement may be traced to Rev. F. D. Maurice, who founded the Workingmen's College in London, England. Among those who devoted their lives to work of this character are the names of John R. Green, Edward Denison, and Arnold Toynbee. Toynbee at the beginning of his work in London was an undergraduate of Oxford. He devoted his summer vacations to an endeavor to raise the submerged masses of the great city of London. He was a disciple of Ruskin. He was soon able to gather about him university men. At first they ventured holding meetings of working men in a public hall when University Extension lectures were delivered. In 1885 Toynbee Hall opened its doors. Here lectures are given to working men, entertainments provided, and a reading library is provided for their use. In the same year the Oxford House was opened and now some twenty or twenty-five of these houses are scattered throughout London. As an illustration of the need of such work that the more educated classes might know more of the way those of less opportunity live, an excursion was arranged of those living in Bethnal Green to the city of Oxford. Here Oxford graduates and under-graduates were invited to meet those from Bethnal Green. An undergraduate and a Bethnal Greenite sat side by side, conversation lagged. It being the time of year when the wealthier classes of London went out of the town the Oxford man said to the Londoner, "I suppose there are not many people in town now." "Oh," said the Londoner, "about 5,000,000." In 1887 the University Settlement came to the United States. There are now settlements scattered through all the great cities from Boston to SanFrancisco. The lecturer pointed out the great necessity of work of the kind done by the Settlements. Purely religious work was not enough. No one religious body could undertake the work of so general a character. In the district of the University Settlement in Boston there are many Roman Catholics and Jews. The Roman Catholics are doing earnest work, but cannot do a large amount of educational social work. This work must be undertaken by the University Settlement. The Boston Settlement has classes of all descriptions, from the kindergarten classes up to clubs for men or women, an effort being made by entertainments, art exhibitions and so on to bring brightness into the life of the miserable. As was said by Walter Besant, of East London, "The great need of East End of London is joy." For this purpose those who are owners of oil paintings gladly lend them for the purpose of free exhibition. High grade concerts have been held, the effort being to get into personal contact with men of social unrest. An effort is also made in the way of humanising municipal politics. Through the efforts of the Settlement public baths have been opened in Boston. About 2,000 people came each Saturday. One cent is charged for bath towel and one cent for soap. In this way $70 or $80 per week is received. A municipal gymnasium also has been established. It is hoped to establish a district public library and open a great hall with organ. Through the Settlement system the scientific study of social conditions is promoted. The first study undertaken is the review of the history of the district, both of the well to do and poorer classes, the study of the different nationalities, of the trades of these nationalities, the conditions under which they live, the conditions of labor, the political life of the district, the criminal life of the district, their amusements, their religious life, and the church work of the district.

The great thing in Settlement work is to exemplify some neglected Christian principle. It suggests that every Christian home should be made a Settlement house, it is the effort of the members of the Settlement to extend the spirit of the Settlement. To illustrate this Mr. Woods told the following story :—

At the time when war threatened between England and the United States some three years ago the people of Boston anxiously discussed what would be the consequences to Boston if a detachment of British navy appeared off Boston harbour. One evening the defences of the Boston harbour were being discussed at a social gathering, until at last one person present said: "What will happen to Boston? Nothing. Boston is not a locality. Boston is a state of mind."

The Settlement system is based on the theory that it is the duty of those who have had opportunities granted them to give of those opportunities to those who had not had them.

In answer to a question Mr. Woods said that about 300 people in Boston interested in the work contributed towards the expenses.

In answer to another question, he also said, the residents consist of graduates who give up their time for two years or more to this work alone. Others just entering professions devote their spare time to Settlement work, while others again devote themselves entirely to the work.

New Hotel at Sturgeon Point.

—Lindsay Post: There is a good deal of talk about a new hotel at Sturgeon Point. There have been many enquiries to Mr. Simpson and others for accommodation, and a large first-class hotel, would, it is generally believed, be a good investment. So far nothing has been done. The Hotel Kawartha would sound well; so would the "Esturion Inn." We might select a name, anyway—it would be so much accomplished.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

FRIEND AND ADVISER.

Britain's Premier Owes Much to His Good Wife's Devotion—Their Early Life.

The face of the Marquis of Salisbury is familiar, but that of his wife is not, and more than ordinary interest attaches to her because this man, the head of the noble house of Cecil and England's Premier, braved parental displeasure and toiled for some years in comparative poverty in order to marry her.

Lady Salisbury unites the higher qualities of mind with the love of domesticity and has been her noted husband's helper and trusty confidante throughout his career. If she had neither wealth nor social standing to bring him

MARCHIONESS OF SALISBURY.

The Devoted Wife of Great Britain's Premier.

she had inheritance of goodness and culture. Her father was Hon. Sir Edward Hall Anderson, Baron of the Court of Exchequer, noted as a scholar and wit. She was one of a large family of brothers and sisters and her father's companion. The society she went in comprised the elite of the legal and literary worlds. In her youth Lady Salisbury, without being a beauty, was a fine and striking girl, tall, fair and of commanding carriage. She charmed Lord Robert, the second son of the then Marquis of Salisbury, but his father would not hear of the match. His son insisted on marrying his sweetheart and the father cut him off with no allowance. For some years Lord Robert Cecil and the young wife lived in lodgings off the Strand and supported themselves out of the husband's literary earnings. The death of his elder brother and his father gave Lord Robert the marquisate and from then on Lady Salisbury has reigned at Hatfield House, the wife of a distinguished peer, who has four times been England's Foreign Minister and is the leader of the Tory party.

The last year Lady Salisbury's health began to give way and she has spent all her time at Hatfield House, where Lord Salisbury is frequently seen walking beside her pony cart. Their married life has been unruffled and serene.

The Method.

MISS CAPRICE.

BY ST. GEORGE RATHBONE

Author of "Doctor Jack," "Doctor Jack's Wife," "Captain Tom," "Miss Pauline of New York," Etc.

Coming up the slope they are amazed to see a little band of pilgrims advancing, lashing their plugs of horses desperately, in the hope of making good time.

The fatal moolight betrays the fact that this little party is made up of the hated Franks, and hearing the tremendous commotion that has now arisen in the direction of the cavern, it is easy to line up the case, and conclude that the party has escaped.

Hence it is that all if a sudden Sir Lionel finds himself in the midst of half a dozen Arab riders, who bar further progress.

It is the unexpected that happens.

He attempts the same system of tactics that were so successful in the previous difficulty, but they do not pass current with these fierce men.

Immediately the two Franks are set upon by the desert tigers. Two seize Sir Lionel and drag him from his steed, he resisting desperately. What a great pity he exhausted his resources so thoroughly in the first round. Ten men could not overcome him then, while two manage to hold him quiet now.

Philander, emboldened by his former success, thinks he can show them a trick or two that will count; but a blow chances to fall upon his bony steed's haunches, starting the animal off, and the professor, throwing valor to the four winds, proceeds to clasp his arms tightly around the horse's neck, shouting out an entreaty for some one, in the name of, Julius Caesar, Mohammed or Tom Jones, to stop the wicked beast before he makes mince-meat of his master.

One of the desert riders gallops alongside, and, clutching the bridle, turns the runaway around.

By this time the commotion above has increased, and it even sounds as though the men of Bab Asoun might be starting out in quest of the fugitives who have given them the slip.

What are these sounds closer by—the thunder of many hoofs, the wild neighing of steeds? It is as though a squad of French cavalry might be rushing down upon them.

The leader of the small Arab force gives quick orders, and his men immediately fall into line of battle, ready to meet the foe, if perchance such proves to be the character of the cavalcade.

Now they burst out of the aloe thicket—they come dashing straight on toward the spot where the little company is gathered.

The moolight falls upon them. Most of the horses are seen to be riderless, yet they are the pet steeds of the outlaws, animals upon the backs of which they have committed depredations on the desert, and laughed pursuit to scorn.

Upon two of the foremost chargers human figures may be seen, and one glance tells them who these worthies are.

Lady Ruth is the first to exclaim

"Why, it is John Craig."

"He will be killed, see these fellows getting ready to fire. John, take care!" and Aunt Gwen, in her eager desire to warn the doctor, waves her hands in the air, one of them grasping a fluttering white kerchief.

They hear the cry, they see the signal, and their eyes take in the line of dusky warriors that awaits their coming.

"Down, monsieur!" exclaims Mustapha.

Not a second too soon do they drop upon the necks of their horses, for a blinding flash comes from the men of Bab Asoun, a flash that is accompanied by a roar, and a hail-storm of lead sweeps through the space occupied by the forms of John Craig and his guide just a brief interval before.

"Charge!" cries Craig, rising to his seat, his face white with the strange battle spirit, his right hand clutching a weapon.

Then comes a scene of action that is totally unlike the one preceding it, for now both sides are in deadly earnest, and the battle is a royal one, indeed.

When Craig fires, he aims to diminish the number of his foes. Sometimes a rearing horse gets the benefit of the flying lead.

For the space of a minute or so the utmost confusion reigns, at first the string of horses that the bold Craig and his guide are running away with, becomes a feature in the scene, prancing and shrilly neighing. Then they break and scatter in many directions.

There were six Arabs originally in the party, but Philander knocked one hors de combat with the tremndous whack of a gun he snached from its keeper.

Another drops from his horse before the fire of Doctor Chicago, and Mustapha, who handles a yataghan with marvellous dexterity actually cleaves a third to the chin with the keen blade.

There is a brief but exceedingly lively engagement between the survivors and the Franks; but the tide of battle is with the strangers in Algiers.

Wounded and fairly beaten, the three riders at last whirl their horses and dash madly away. Perhaps they are wise. It sometimes takes Sir Lionel a little while to get in motion, but that great fire-eater is about ready to enter the engagement at the time they fly, thus showing rare wisdom.

The field is won.

John hears the shouts of the pursuers close by, while sharp whistles sound signals which are meant for the stray horses, loose from the kraal, which they are bound to obey.

"We must make use of every second. They will be after us," he says, hastily.

Lady Ruth shudders when she sees one of the Arabs endeavoring to stanch a wound in his shoulder. There is no mimic war here, it is evident.

When they start in a little squad, it is with a faint hope of making such progress that the enemy must give up the pursuit; but almost immediately John discovers something that gives him uneasiness.

His horse staggers. It is evident that the beast has been struck with a flying piece of lead, and is about to fall under him.

The doctor says nothing, and hopes his absence may not be noticed by the flying column, but, as it happens, when the catastrophe does occurr, all of them see it.

Fortunately John clears himself just in time, and reaches the ground in safety. Lady Ruth pulls in her horse.

"You must not stop!" cries John; "urge your horses on—fly while you have time. I hear them coming."

He tries to start Lady Ruth's nag, but she pulls on the lines.

"I decline to run and leave you here, Doctor Chicago," she says, resolutely.

"But you must go," he declares.

"Nonsense!" breaks in Philander. "Here's room for you, John. Jump up."

The young man sees that the quickest way to get them started is to obey, so he manages to reach the saddle in front of the professor, who clasps his arms about him and holds on.

This done, they clatter on again.

It soon becomes evident that their pursuers gain upon them rapidly, despite their efforts. There can be but one end to the race, and this is in plain view.

John keeps his wits about him. If caught upon the open by the rushing column of fierce desert warriors, a desperate engagement must ensue, which will doubtless end in their complete annihilation, for it can hardly be expected that Sir Lionel will be able to play his great game twice on the same night.

The Englishman has maintained a stolid silence all this while. Perhaps he is out of humor at the change in the arrangements, and fears lest, after all his hard work, the young Chicagoan may carry off the palm.

Past experience has been of that order.

Hence he moves without much animation. There seems to be a fatality about the sudden appearance of Doctor Chicago on the scene.

Meanwhile John Craig is not bothering his head about the small side-issues connected with the matter, which will work out their own final adjustment. He is more concerned regarding their escape from the threatening doom that seems ready to ingulf them.

Something must be done, that is certain, beyond all peradventure, and John quickly grasps the situation. There is no disease that does not have its remedy, and he finds a loop-hole of escape here.

As they gallop along they come to structures built upon the road-side—a singular affair it was once upon a time, being made of stone. John recognizes features that tell him this deserted place was once a holy spot, the tomb of a marabout, or saint, built in a manner to suit the taste of the departed.

It has long been deserted, as too public, and the holy relics moved to some more secluded tomb within the walls of the cemetery on the high hill of Bouzareah.

This is their chance.

To continue the race means positive overhauling and doubtless death, while by accepting the chance that fortune has thrown in their way they may keep their enemies at bay until aid comes, for John has not forgotten the mission of Monsieur Constans.

He calls a halt, and briefly explains his plans. All of them see that the horses they ride are not in the race when compared with the magnificent steeds of their pursuers, and recognizing the fact that what John suggests is probably the best thing to be done under the existing circumstances, they quickly dismount.

The horses are then started along the road in the hope that they will lure the pursuers on while the little party pass through the opening and enter the quaint building, once the resting-place of a holy Mohammedan's bones.

CHAPTER XX.

Perhaps Mustapha Cadi, as a true Mohammedan, may have a certain amount of respect for this odd tomb of a marabout, but, as the saint's bones have been removed, he has no hesitation about making a fort out of the rocky recess.

When all have entered, he closes the opening. The door is broken, but there are many loose stones around that can be made to serve.

There is no time just now to use them, for the rush of horses' hoofs is heard up the road, as the men of Bab Asoun come racing along, intent upon overhauling the fugitives.

They sweep past the rocky tomb like a young cyclone; it is a spectacle none of those who gaze upon it will ever forget. The moonlight renders it perfectly plain, and they can even see the savage expression of each Arab face as the riders dash by.

Now they are gone, and Mustapha begins to pile up the rocks against the door.

The others see what he is about, and immediately assist him, so that when a couple of minutes have elapsed they have made use of every available stone, and can regard their work with considerable satisfaction.

The roof of the tomb is the worst part, and, being made of wood, it shows signs of decay. They locate themselves as best the circumstances will allow and await the sequel.

It is too much to hope that their enemies will long be deceived by the trick that has been played. When they overtake, or sight, the riderless horses, they must grasp the situation, and, whirling about, look for the fugitives upon the back trail. No doubt their shrewdness will at once tell them just where those they seek may be found.

Even as they finish their labor and take their positions, those in the tomb discover that a change has come; the shouts of the robbers are growing louder, showing that they no longer race away. Their tenor has changed, too, and they sound vindictive in their anticipated triumph.

"Ready! they come!" remarks the sententious guide, who takes matters in a cool manner, showing no sign of emotion.

There can be no mistaking the fact, for in another minute the angry band is in front of the old tomb.

Then begins a scene that savors of horrid war. The clamor of battle is in the air, loud shouts ring out, men charge, shots are fired, and with serious result.

Those who defend the fort know their lives are at stake, and they endeavor to make each shot tell. Even Sir Lionel has managed to re-load his revolver, and this time makes sure that it contains lead.

The professor is bound not to be left, and as he has secured the long gun which was fastened to the saddle of the bony steed he rode, he sends its contents among the assailants, even as they make their rush.

The result is disastrous to Philander, since it knocks him off his perch; but, scrambling to his feet again, he looks out in time to see that his shot has played havoc among the animals of the attacking force. They are down, and their riders crawl from underneath, doubtless pretty well scared, if not seriously injured.

The first assault is over—the result is disastrous to the Arabs, who have received severe wounds among them.

They will probably reason the thing over now, and proceed upon new lines, which will possibly bring them nearer success than they have been thus far.

Our friends are not over-confident, even though they have won the first round. They know the tenacious character of the foe against whom they are pitted, and feel sure this is only the beginning. What the end may be only Heaven knows.

The breathing spell is occupied by them in reloading. Lady Ruth and Aunt Gwen arise to the occasion, and beg to be allowed to do anything that falls in their line. If there was only a spare weapon, the English girl declares she could easily load it, but it happens they have none.

Rev. Dr. Thompson Testifies

Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, North American Life Assurance Co., Toronto:

DEAR SIR,—Your official notice came duly to hand, apprising me of the results obtainable upon my 15-year Endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000, which matured on the 5th inst. Of the various options you have given me, viz.:

Cash Value.....$1 564 06
Paid-up policy, payable at my death.....2,560.00
Yearly income for life of.....166 20

I have decided upon the cash value; and it gives me pleasure to testify that, as I anticipated it would be when I took out the policy, it is very satisfactory. This returns me the full premium of the 15 years and over 4½ per cent compound interest, in addition to which you have carried the risk upon my life. In view of the lowering rates of interest which have been obtainable during the later portion of the period, it is difficult to see how this excellent result could have been surpassed.

Yours sincerely,

CANADIANS JUST MISSED IT.

Mother Country Wins the Much-Coveted Kolapore Cup at Bisley.

Bisley Camp, July 15.—The Mother Country wins the Kolapore Cup, but her greatest colony, Canada, only stood eight points behind when the aggregate score was announced, the score of the victorious team being 768, while the eight which represented the Dominion has 760. At 500 yards the Canadians ran the Mother Country a very close race, being only one point behind.

Though the Canadian team loses the much-coveted honor of capturing the Kolapore Cup, the Colonial Prize of £80 goes to them, the prize being awarded to the team that makes the highest aggregate score in the Kolapore competition, exclusive of the Mother Country.

The scores made by the five teams competing were as follows:

Kolapore Cup.

	200	500	600	Total
Mother Country	243	285	240	768
Canada	240	284	236	760

Earthquakes in Westphalia.

Berlin, July 15.—A slight earthquake yesterday caused the collapse of a gallery in the Recklinghausen Mine, near Herne, Westphalia, entombing 60 miners. Several have been rescued badly injured. The fate of the others is not yet known. The shock destroyed walls and broke windows in Herne and was felt as far as Munster. It was also noticeable at Laibach, Austria.

Body Drifted Ashore.

Colchester, Ont., July 15.—The body of a man was found on the beach three miles west of Colchester Point yesterday, having drifted in. It is badly decomposed and beyond recognition. On the body was found a card, No. 26, bearing the name of Thomas O'Dea, 88, Chicago, showing him to be a member of the Buffalo Grain Shovellers' Association, International 'Longshoremen's Association.

Trouble in Peruvian Politics.

Lima, Peru, July 15.—There was a stormy session of the Chamber of Deputies yesterday, caused by the declaration of the president of the Chamber, Senor Carlos Pierola, that he had incorporated several new deputies, against whose elections protests were pending, and by his refusal to entertain a motion on the subject.

Young People's Baptist Union.

Richmond, Va., July 15.—The delegates to the Young People's Baptist Union of America elected officers yesterday as follows for the ensuing year: President, John H. Chapman, Chicago; vice-presidents, L. J. P. Bishop, New York; W. W. Garner, Atlanta, Ga.; L. McNeil, Paisley, Ont.; recording secretary, Rev. W. Read, Wisconsin; treasurer, Frank Moody.

There May Be a Collision Yet.

St. John's, Nfld., July 15.—The French warships continue to persecute the sealers along the treaty coast. Ten colonial vessels have been driven out of Port-au-Port Harbor by them this week. The Colonial Government will urge Admiral Bedford, on his arrival here on Sunday with the British fleet, to take steps to prevent the repetition of these outrages.

A Little Misty.

"The boy is taking quite an interest in music," remarked the young man's mother. "He has joined a musical society in his college."

"What does he do?"

"I can't quite make out exactly. By some reports I should judge that he is singing second tenor and by others that he is playing third base."—Washington Star.

Judge Irwin Gives Satisfaction.

Port Townsend, Wash., July 15.—Some passengers direct from Atlin report that claims in that district are being worked. They say that Judge Irwin, who was sent to Atlin to straighten out mining properties, is giving great satisfaction; and, in awarding all claims to original locators, they are permitted to commence work. He makes no distinction between Americans and Canadians, and holds that Americans who have taken out miners' licenses in accordance with the laws of British Columbia and prior to the passage of the alien exclusive law, and located claims, are entitled to the same privileges as Canadians.

To Investigate Portia's Loss.

Halifax, July 15.—The Canadian Government has ordered that an official inquiry be held to determine the cause of the loss of the Red Cross Line steamer Portia, wrecked off Sambro on Monday night. Captain Farrell, who left for New York by rail yesterday morning, has been recalled by telegraph, and will return to Halifax.

The Danger of PILES

Too frequently overlooked, Dr. Chase's Ointment a Prompt and Positive Cure.

The suffering caused by the intense itching and burning sensations of piles is only one of the horrors of this disease, for there is always great danger of piles developing into fistula, one of the most disgusting diseases imaginable.

Even the great danger and expense of an operation are preferable to running the risk of contracting this most loathsome of diseases.

But there is no necessity for a surgical operation for piles. Dr. Chase's Ointment is guaranteed to cure any case of piles, no matter of how long standing, or how aggravated the case may be, so long as piles have not become fistula.

It is only by rare chance that internal treatment will cure piles. But it matters not from what cause they arise, Dr. Chase's Ointment will at once stop the itching and burning, and soon effect a perfect cure.

You can use Dr. Chase's Ointment with fullest assurance that what has cured scores of thousands of cases of piles will cure you. For sale by all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

ABOUT THE RIDERS

Correspondents Find Fault With the Wheelmen From the Electric Works.

A couple of communications were received this morning regarding the nuisance of wheelmen scorching. One finds particular fault with those from the electric works who ride up Bethune-st. between twelve and one o'clock and also at six. Yesterday one of these ran into a pedestrian at the corner of King and Bethune-sts and cursed him because he happened to be in the way. Last night at six o'clock a wheelman going west was knocked down on Hunter-st. near George by one of those going east on the left hand side of the street and had his bicycle smashed. All riding east on Hunter-st. should ride on the south side of the street and similarly all coming south on George-st. should ride on the west side. If this rule were followed for but a few days excellent paths could be made and by using these no riders would be put to any trouble.

DON'T TEAR DOWN—BUILD UP.

The old-fashioned theory of tearing down disease was entirely changed by the advent of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food, which cures by creating new rich blood and nerve tissue. Through the medium of the circulation and the nervous system they strengthen and invigorate every organ in the human body.

Mr. Scott After the Kickers.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I noticed an item in your paper about the Chemong road being blocked last Sunday, that the men who were repairing the road had left their machinery in the middle of the road. I wish to state that I was responsible for that. In moving the stone crusher I broke my engine, and as the two machines weighed 12 tons I was unable move it until the repairs came. They did did not arrive until Monday morning. It seems strange that drivers with light rigs had so much trouble passing, when a man with a load of cheese boxes got safely by. If some of these kickers were only as strong with their arms as they are with their tongues they could easily have pushed it aside. As regards scientific road making, it is an old saying that children and fools should not see a job half done.

Yours,
R. M. SCOTT.

A TRIP TO THE ETERNAL CITY

(Written for the "Review.")

LETTER NO. TWELVE.

ROME.

FLORENCE TO ROME, THE FORUM, THE COLOSSEUM, THE PANTHEON.

After our short but pleasant stay in Florence we left for Rome. The distance between the two cities by the shortest route is 196 miles. The express makes this run in about seven hours, and, as there are so many places of great historical interest en route, the journey should be taken by day.

We passed through Arezzo, the ancient Arretium, situated on the slope of a hill, in a beautiful and fertile district. It abounds in historical reminiscences. Arretium was one of the most powerful of the twelve confederate cities of Etruria, and became an ally of Rome in 310. In 187 the Via Flaminia was constructed from Arretium to Bononia (Bologna), of which traces are still distinguishable. Arezzo is the birthplace of many distinguished men of whom may be mentioned: Mecenas, the friend of Augustus and patron of Virgil and Horace; and Petrarch, the greatest lyric poet of Italy.

Of tragic interest is Lake Trasimene, the ancient Lacus Trasimenus, surrounded by wooded and olive-clad slopes, which, as they recede, rise to a considerable height. The reminiscence of the sanguinary victory which Hannibal gained here over the Roman Consul, B.C. 217, imparts a tinge of sadness to this lovely landscape. It is not difficult to reconcile the descriptions of Polybius in his third book, and Livy in his 22nd with the present appearance of the lake. It was very suitable for the plan of the wily Hannibal. The rash Roman consul entered the fatal defile and in three hours 15,000 of his men were either cut to pieces or driven into the lake. Two small streams fall into the lake. One of these has been named Sanguinetto in reminiscence of the streams of blood with which it was once discolored.

Byron after devoting three fine stanzas to a description of the battle, says: "Far other scene is Trasimene now;
Her lake a sheet of silver, and her plain
Rent by no savage save the gentle plough;
Her aged trees rise thick as once the slain
Lay where their roots are; but a brook hath ta'en—
A little rill of scanty stream and bed—
A name of blood from that day's sanguine rain;
And Sanguinetto tells ye where the dead
Made the earth wet and turned the unwilling waters red."

The next place of importance was Chrusi, the ancient Clusium, frequently mentioned in the wars against Rome. It was the headquarters of Porsenna, the great Tuscan warrior.

We come next to Orvisto, which occupies the site of Volsinii, one of the twelve capitals of the Etruscan League. The railway now traverses the wooded valley of the Tiber, the broad, stony bed of which bears traces of numerous inundations.

We skirt the shores of Lake Bassano, formerly Lacus Vadimonis, famous in ancient history as the scene of the great victories of the Romans over the Etruscans in B.C. 309 and 283. Pliny the younger in the eighth book of his Epistles has described this lake with its "floating islands."

At Orte the lofty and indented ridges of Mount Soracte come in sight. Those who have not forgotten their Horace will remember the line in the first book of the Odes: Vides ut alta stet nive candidum Soracte.

About ten miles from Rome we catch our first glimpse of the dome of St. Peter's, but it vanishes again. There was one other passenger in our compartment who at this time happened to be snoozing. We awakened him to see the sight and he immediately dropped to his knees, and the beads fairly flew. He seemed ashamed at having been caught napping at such an important time in a pilgrim's journey to Rome.

ROME.

"The niobe of nations! there she stands
Childless and crownless in her voiceless woe;
An empty urn within her withered hands,
Whose empty dust was scattered long ago.

The Goth, the Christian, Time, War, Flood, and Fire,
Have dealt upon the seven-hilled city's pride;
She saw her glories star by star expire,
And up the steep barbarian monarch's ride,
Where the car climbed the Capitol; far and wide
Temple and tower went down, nor left a site.
—Byron.

Rome is well apostrophized by the author of Childe Harold as "the city of the soul," "the Mecca of the mind," "the lone mother of dead empires." She is indeed the goal of a thousand hopes, this city of the Cæsars and the Popes.

Rome, London and Jerusalem are without doubt the most interesting cities in the world. But Rome surpasses them all in its manifold claims upon our sympathy. As the city of the Cæsars and the saints, of imperial triumph and cruel persecution, as the spiritual head of a great church extending throughout all lands for a thousand years, as the scene of the stormy conflicts of the Middle Ages and the revived art and the learning of the Renaissance, and as the capital of United Italy, it has a perennial interest.

No other city embodies so much of the world's history as Rome. Its massive ruins, shattered, gray, gnawed by the slow tooth of time, have in their decay a gloomy majesty and nobility such as no brand-new creations of to-day—no Washington monument, no Eiffel Tower, no just finished cathedral can hope to rival. There still clings about those ponderous masses of honest brickwork and squared stone something of the indomitable will, the proud self-sufficiency, the calm endurance of their builders of twenty centuries ago.

The very dust of Rome's streets, the soil of her suburbs has for the reflective mind a solemn interest. That dust once lived, jested and hated, toiled and battled. Some atoms of that soil made Cicero's lips of eloquence and Cæsar's brain of power; all shrivelled and withered now into a few handfuls of wind-driven dust.

It was rather a disenchantment of my dream of romance to enter the city by rail, to behold a splendid railway station, to be hailed by a mob of vociferous cabmen, and driven through well paved streets to my stopping place. This was not the Rome of which I had read from boyhood and which I fondly hoped one day to see. But when after dinner I wandered down into the forum, which is now a half buried chaos of broken arch and column, the wondrous spell of the ancient city soon reasserted itself and I sat down and tried to call up a picture of the forum as it was in the days of the Republic and the Empire.

We learn from ancient writers that the forum Romanum was the centre of architectural splendor as well as of life and business. Although it was only seven hundred feet by four hundred and seventy, yet it was surrounded by and connected with basilicas, halls, portipoes, temples and shops. It was a great public resort for all classes of people—a scene of life and splendor rarely if ever equalled, and having some resemblance to the crowded square of St. Marks at Venice. Originally it was a market place, busy and lively, a great resort where, as Plautus in one of his comedies says, might be seen "Good men walking quietly by themselves," "flash men strutting about without a denarius in their purses," "Gentlemen clubbing for a dinner," "scandal mongers living in glass houses," "perjured witnesses, liars, braggarts, rich and erring husbands," and all the various classes which now appear in the crowded places of London and Paris. In this open space the people were assembled on great public occasions, and here they were addressed by orators and tribunes.

I stood on a slab which marked the site of the rostrum and I thought of Mark Antony's speech to the Roman citizens beginning: "Romani cives, amici, audite et silete utaudiatis," or as Shakespeare has it, "Romans, countrymen and lovers lend me your ears and be silent that you may hear." This was the spot where Cicero thundered forth his speeches against Catiline and where 100 after his death, his eloquent tongue was pierced through and through by the bodkin of a revengeful woman, the wife of Clodius. From the rostrum, too, the Gracchi enlightened the people on their political rights, and Cato calmed the passions of the mob and Hortensius delivered his magnificent harangues.

In the forum the Roman father slew his child Virginia to save her from dishonor. Here, "at the base of Pompey's statue," the well-beloved Brutus stabbed the foremost man of all the world—"not that I loved Cæsar less but that I loved Rome more." Here may be seen the spot where the mob roused to frenzy by the speech of Mark Antony erected a funeral pile and the illustrious deceased was accorded the unparalleled honor of being burned in view of the most sacred shrines of the city. A column with the inscription "parenti patriæ," was afterwards erected here to commemorate the event.

At the present time the Forum is a scene of appalling desolation. Where once all was life and movement, there now is to be seen only a few tourists

THE SLATER SHOE

Business Moods.

When a good man swears on a wet day it's more than likely the profanity comes from his feet.

The shoe that pinches spoils the temper, irritates the nerves, impairs digestion, and obscures the merry sunshine of life.

Success or failure in life oft hinges upon a man's mood at critical moments, and the way his feet feel sometimes sways destiny.

It had to fit the shoe.

A pair of "Slater Shoes" may unconsciously save a fortune, but can't cost more than $5.00.

It's cheaper to throw away a shoe that hurts than to keep it, and mark this—new "Slater Shoes" need no breaking in.

A tag on each pair tells just what leather it is made of—how it will affect the feet—and the wear it will, or will not give, according to use.

The makers name and price stamped on the sole protects against imitations of Goodyear Welt, and ensures value every time to the wearer. $3.50 and $5.00.

GRAND DEMONSTRATION.

Orangemen of East Peterborough Celebrate the Glorious 12th at Warsaw.

The Orangemen of East Peterborough district met to celebrate the 12th of July in Warsaw this year. At an early hour people of the surrounding country began to collect in the village. By noon over 1,000 people had assembled. Each visiting lodge was met by the Warsaw L. O. L. No. 284, and True Blues and the Norwood band, whose services had been secured for the day. The following lodges were present:—Warsaw lodges Orangemen and True Blues, South Dummer, Norwood, Belmont and Havelock. Shortly after 1.30 p. m. a procession was formed, headed by the band, in which all the lodges took part and marched through the streets of the village and then proceeded to Tucker's grove, where the addresses were delivered. Addresses were given by Rev. Messrs. Fuzee, Archibold and Hyde. The chairman was the County Master, Bro. Burgess. Selections were played between the speeches by the Norwood band. Able addresses were delivered, the chief one of the day being given by Rev Mr Archibold, the Anglican missionary of Warsaw, who for so young a man shows no mean signs of a talented orator. The day passed off well, and a better conducted and more gentlemanly Orange demonstration would be hard to find. Everybody was delighted with the day's proceedings. Mr John Morgan, of the Morgan House, furnished most of the decorations for the village, which was prettily adorned for the occasion.

Does Your Head Ache?

Are your nerves weak? Can't you sleep well? Pain in your back? Lack energy? Appetite poor? Digestion bad? Boils or pimples? These are sure signs of poisoning.

From what poisons?

From poisons that are always found in constipated bowels.

If the contents of the bowels are not removed from the body each day, as nature intended, these poisonous substances are sure to be absorbed into the blood, always causing suffering and frequently causing severe disease.

There is a common sense cure.

AYER'S PILLS

They daily insure an easy and natural movement of the bowels.

You will find that the use of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

with the pills will hasten recovery. It cleanses the blood from all impurities and is a great tonic to the nerves.

THEY DEMAND EXTRA PAY.

Session May Be Brought to a Close Sooner Than Anticipated.

Ottawa, July 17.— A rumor was current last night that the session may be brought to a more sudden termination than has been expected. The story goes that a few days ago the Liberal members presented a round robin to the Premier, demanding an extra indemnity if the session was protracted beyond the end of this month. This demand was met by a peremptory refusal, but so many members threaten to go home, pairs or no pairs, that the Government had to give way to the extent of promising to rush business next week, and get through as quickly as possible.

SHOT HER MOTHER DEAD.

Then Wounded Her Husband and Wound Up by Killing Herself.

The quarrel was precipitated yesterday afternoon by long-standing family troubles. Mrs. Treider leaves two children. She was 38 and her mother 80 years old.

THE DEATH OF HON. W. B. IVES

Ex-President of Privy Council Did Not Regain Consciousness.

Life and Intimate Friends at His Bedside—Funeral Services at the Ottawa Hospital—The Deceased Was a Prominent Man in the Eastern Townships and President of Many Concerns—The Funeral at Sherbrooke.

Ottawa, July 17.—Hon. W. B. Ives breathed his last at 11.45 o'clock on Saturday morning in St. Luke's Hospital, where he has lain unconscious since taken there last Wednesday after having been stricken by paralysis, on the train.

Mrs. Ives, Mr. Rufus Pope, M.P., Mrs. Pope and Mr. W. Ives of Montreal were at his bedside when he expired.

A funeral service was held at the hospital, which was attended by Sir Charles Tupper and nearly all the members of

THE LATE HON. W. B. IVES.

Parliament in town, but owing to its being Saturday and the notice being short, the number was not as large as it otherwise would have been.

The body was then taken to the C.P.R. station and conveyed to Sherbrooke, where the interment takes place to-day.

Short Sketch of His Career.

Hon. William Bullock Ives was a son of Eli Ives; was born in Compton, Que., Nov. 17, 1841. He was educated at Compton Academy, being called to the bar in 1857. He was made a Q.C. in 1880. He was also interested in railway building, manufacturing and latterly in mining, being a large stockholder in leading gold properties in British Columbia. He was president of the Hereford Railway Company, of the Royal Pulp & Paper Company, of the Salmon River Pulp Company, of the Scotstown Lumber Company, and one of the chief proprietors of the Cookshire Mill Company

After having been mayor of Sherbrooke, he was returned to the House of Commons for Richmond and Wolfe in the general election of 1878. He continued to hold this seat till 1891, when he was elected member for Sherbrooke. This constituency he represented at the time of his death.

The late Mr. Ives was called to the Privy Council on Dec. 5, 1892, and was made president of that body. In 1894 he became Minister of Trade and Commerce, and occupied that portfolio till the fall of the Conservative Government in 1897.

He was a son-in-law of the late John Henry Pope, for many years Minister of Railways in the Government of the late Sir John Macdonald.

Funeral at Sherbrooke.

Montreal, July 17.—The body of the late Hon. W. B. Ives passed through here on Saturday evening, and arrived at Sherbrooke on Sunday. Mr. R. H. Pope, M.P. for Compton, and his sister, Mrs. Ives, accompanied the remains. The funeral will take place at Sherbrooke this afternoon at half-past 2 o'clock.

TIN PLATE IS UP.

An Advance on Saturday From $3.87 to $4.37 a Box.

Pittsburg, July 17.—The heaviest advance in the price of tin plate in one day in the history of the industry in America was made Saturday by the American Tin Plate Company The advance is from $3.87 to $4.87 a box of 100 pounds. Prices in America are still below the figures at which Welsh tin plate could be imported and sold at a profit. The Welsh product is now set down at the seaboard at $3.75 a box. The duty is $1.15, which raises the price above that quoted by the American company, not including the cost of ocean freight.

REFORMS MUST BE GRANTED

British Government Will Insist Upon Justice Being Done.

The Work Will Be Peaceful if Possible, But if Kruger Still Remains Obstinate There Will Be a Resort to Force—Despatch to The Diggers' News a Mere Evasion to Gain Time—Awaiting New Grouping of the Powers.

London, July 17.—Another week of bickering, of heated invective and vituperation, accusations of tyranny on one hand and treason on the other, of increasing distress among the Uitlanders of the Rand, owing to the dislocation of business, of military preparation, and throughout all, the apparent maintenance by the Boers of their stolid attitude of indifference. All the representations made have only served to add to the perils of the Transvaal situation, and everything tends to confirm the opinion that the Imperial Government means to obtain reforms. The Ministers have practically pledged themselves to enforce them, peacefully if possible, otherwise forcefully. The empire appears absolutely united on this subject. On top of Queensland's offer of troops to serve in South Africa should an emergency arrive, the reports of the debate in the Canadian Parliament and the tone of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's and Sir Charles Tupper's remarks have caused the greatest satisfaction here.

That Report Was a Trick.

The startling telegram published by the Boer organ here, The Diggers' News, on Friday, showing apparently that the Transvaal was giving in, and that cordial relations had been resumed, which was promptly denied by the Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, though evidently tinged to suit the susceptibilities of the Doppers, was so circumstantial and apparently authoritative that hope was aroused that the end of the quarrel was in sight, but the only foundation for the despatch was found in the fact that Mr. Chamberlain on Wednesday, before the new franchise bill was introduced in the Volksraad, requested that the text be communicated to him, and suggested that the debate be postponed, pending such friendly representations in regard to alterations therein as the Imperial Government might desire to make in the interests of peace.

A Fresh Affront.

The refusal of President Kruger to accede to the request is regarded here as a fresh affront and only served to clinch the belief that the President is still dominated by Dr. Leyds, the European representative of the Transvaal, who has heretofore proved the evil genius of the Transvaal and continues to delude the Transvaalers with the dangerous theory that if they can only gain time by stimulated concessions no real reform will be necessary, as a new grouping of the powers will shortly occur, whereby Great Britain will no longer have a free hand in South Africa.

British Forces Being Increased.

In the meantime the British forces in South Africa are being increased by every steamer and the avoidance of harsh measures, the end of which is difficult to see, and which threaten to spread far beyond the confines of the country giving rise to them, is becoming daily more difficult.

Rounding Up the Brigands.

Rome, July 17.—The campaign against brigandage in Sardinia, which was ordered by King Humbert after his last visit to the Island, continues merrily. Since it was started in earnest, two months ago, 89 brigands have been killed or captured, and 300 or 400 men thrown into prison for complicity. If affairs continue to proceed at this rate Sardinia will soon be a safe place in which to travel.

Sir Robert Peel's Heirlooms.

London, July 17.—Judgment was given on Saturday in the long-pending application of Sir Robert Peel to sell his family heirlooms for the support of himself and family. The court directed the sale of plate valued at $100,000, but refused to denude Drayton Manor of historical heirlooms, valued at $500,000.

MISREPRESENTATION.

It will now be in order for the Tory obstructionists to cavil at the selection of the judges to make the divisions under the new redistribution Act. Sir G. Burton, Sir J. A. Boyd and Justice Falconbridge are men whose integrity and judicial temperament fit them admirably for the position. In the face of such a selection it is difficult to understand what further objection the Tories can have, but then an angel from heaven would not satisfy that disorderly herd.—Ottawa Free Press.

Needless to inform the reader that the Free Press is the Grit organ at the capital, and it is adopting the expected plan of misrepresentation in its attempt to defend or excuse the Grit gerrymander. As to any insinuation there may be in the above and other references of the Free Press that the Tories have impugned the fairness or impartiality of the judges, the only answer necessary is to say that the Conservatives have cast no reflection on the judges or their fairness. They have the utmost confidence in the bench. In fact the only reference to the bench that called forth an apology was that of one of Mr. Hardy's prominent followers, the Premier making the apology. West Peterborough's member can give further particulars.

But in regard to the Free Press' misrepresentations. The judges will undoubtedly do the work assigned them impartially and fairly, but the dice will be loaded by the Grit Government before they will be handed to the judges. The gerrymander will be made effective by the Government laying out the work of the judges so that they cannot do otherwise than divide the constituencies they will deal with to the Liberal advantage. The Conservatives are not afraid of the judges doing the unfair or partisan act, but they do object to the Government doing the partisan and unfair work and using the judges as a cloak under which to hide their own dishonest and partisan gerrymander. The dice are loaded in the Government's interest and then handed to the judges to throw. The throw must be in the Government's favor.

THE SESSION RECORD.

The present session of the Dominion Parliament has not been creditable to the Government. The failure of the Ministers to have business ready for Parliament to deal with caused a great loss of time, and then when matters which should receive a thorough investigation came up haste to rush things was shown and information that members were entitled to refused. Referring to the session the Montreal Gazette says "Parliament has been sitting nearly four months and the estimates are not passed. Some of them are not down. The case would not be so bad if anything else had been done, but nothing has been done. The Government's redistribution bill, a purely partisan measure, was resisted and its evil purposes exposed; but the time taken in discussing it was short—so short that Government papers even expressed their surprise. Neither did the Drummond deal take up much time, and it would have taken less had the Ministers been ready with the information legitimately asked for. The debate on the budget address could not be called long. The time has been consumed, not in discussing public business, but in doing nothing in particular, and that not very well. Now the brute force of the Government majority is sought to be used to jam through such items as the Bate bill for $30,000 of goods sold to the Department of Militia without public tenders being asked, some of the charges being declared by the Minister himself to have been allowed without his knowledge, and contrary to his understanding. An Opposition that would permit such tactics to succeed without protest would be as weak morally as the Government is. The Opposition is only doing its duty to the country by the course it has followed, sometimes for the purpose of compelling the Government to give information bearing on public business, sometimes to compel it to furnish details necessary to the understanding of the public accounts. It is fortunate for the Government that interest in the proceedings of Parliament is very slight. Otherwise the tide of public opinion, which is running against it, would be greatly accellerated. Anyone who even cursorily follows the accounts of Parliament's doings cannot but feel that if the result of the election of 1896 was good for the Conservative party, it was, when it called into being the Laurier Government, bad for the country. The Liberal Government is a parliamentary failure."

Not a Faith Cure.

Faith never worked a miracle in the case of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure. It is the wonderful curative properties of the remedy that does the work. Mr. S. O. Taylor, Charlecote, Ont., suffered with rheumatism in the back (Lumbago) for four years. Five bottles of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure completely cured him. He has been free from pain since. This preparation is used internally. One bottle contains ten days' treatment, 50 cents a bottle. For sale at all drug stores.

A WATER FAMINE.

London Threatened With Short Rations, and the Scare Is Causing No End of Anxiety.

London, July 17.—London is threatened with a water famine, and it is causing no end of anxiety. Last summer it was bad enough in the east end, but this year the whole of London and its suburbs are threatened. The flow of the Thames is much lower than it has been for many years, and the water companies are taking more than ever from it. Last year the Government declared that all that was required was to pass a bill facilitating intercommunication between the water companies in case of want, but the bill is useless when no company has a surplus, and that is the position now. Just now the companies are supposed to draw away half the flow of the Thames, or 180,000,000 gallons daily; but last month they made away with 140,000,000 per day. Now they are taking more and increasing every day.

Another Cause of Anxiety.

But there is something more than lack of water causing grave anxiety. Though London was never healthier than at present, judging from the mortality rate, there is much danger in the present situation. When the flow of the Thames decreases the proportion of polluted water which it contains naturally increases, because a million and a half people live about the intakes of the water companies, and there is not enough water left to scour the river. People are crying for rain, but the opinion of experts is that no amount of rain during the remainder of July, August and September, would counteract the effects of the last two months' drought. One expert says that the crowded state of the hotels has something to do with the scarcity of water, one pint a day more than last year being consumed per person, which is a heavy extra drain, considering the millions of people.

BRITISH LAWYERS COMING.

Prominent Men Who Will Attend the Annual Session of the A. B. A.

London, July 17.—Many prominent jurists and barristers from England and the Continent will attend the session of the American Bar Association and International Law Association at Buffalo, sailing on Aug. 17 from Liverpool by the Dominion Line. Among the English delegates who will read papers before the association are Sir William Kennedy, judge of the Supreme Court, and two eminent Queen's Counsel, Mr. Thomas Gilbert Carver, and Mr. Joseph Walton, all high authorities in commercial and maritime law. Judge Kennedy will preside over the conference of the International Law Association, and his two colleagues will take prominent part in the discussion. Mr. Carver will read a paper on the proposed international rules of marine insurance, by which American, English and Continental practice may be brought into accord. Judge Raikes of the County Court, Hull, and other delegates will accompany the party, which now promises to be a large one.

It is estimated that the theft of George M. Valentine, the defaulting cashier of the Middlesex County Bank at Perth Amboy, N.J., will amount to about $140,000 or more.

The Rhonania Silk Mills at College Point, L.I., shut down on Saturday for an indefinite period. More than 800 hands are thrown out of employment. The condition of the industry is deplorable.

Si Smith, a Hobersham County farmer, who killed W. Bell, a commercial traveller from Atlanta, several months ago, was shot to death in the jail at Gainsville, Ga., on Saturday morning by a mob of masked men.

Lieut.-Col. Kitson, commandant of the Royal Military School at Kingston, Ont.; and Lieut.-Col. A. R. Lee, military attache of the British embassy at Washington, are in the west investigating everything of a military and naval nature.

On Friday afternoon the 2-year-old son of George Hainer, who lives on Mr. R. W. Gregory's farm in Louth, fell into the well. His mother heard his screams, but could not get into the well, and by the time she got help the little fellow was dead.

Capt. Andrews Almost Dead.

Liverpool, July 17.—The British steamer Holbein, Captain Sherlock, New York, July 1, for Manchester, which arrived here yesterday, picked up Captain William A. Andrews, known as the "Lone Navigator," who left Atlantic City on June 18 in a little craft named "The Dores," barely 18 feet in length, to attempt to cross the Atlantic. Captain Andrews was found exhausted July 12, 700 miles from the Irish coast. His boat was left adrift.

Brakeman's Head Jammed.

St. Catharines, July 17.—G. Vanstickle, a brakeman on the Grand Trunk, was coupling cars at Welland on Saturday morning, when his head was caught between the bumpers and painfully lacerated.

Vanstickle, who belongs to Burlington, was here with an excursion from Galt. Blood flowed from his ears for some time, but it is hoped he will recover. He is in the hospital.

FRANCO-ITALIAN BAD BLOOD

Soldiers of the Two Nations Got Into a Fight in Crete.

One of Each Side Is Dying—The Italian Stabbed a Frenchman and Was Promptly Killed by a Mob in the Town of Aubegna, Near Marseilles—The French Republic Safe—The Dreyfus Affair.

Canea, Island of Crete, July 17.—An affray occurred here Friday evening between French and Italian soldiers, in which four of the combatants were injured. One Frenchman and one Italian are in a dying condition as the result of wounds sustained during the fighting. Other less serious affrays also took place.

Fatal Fracas Near Marseilles.

Paris, July 17.—A conflict between Frenchmen and Italians occurred at Aubegna, a town ten miles east of Marseilles on Thursday. In the fighting a Frenchman was stabbed by an Italian and the latter subsequently was killed by an infuriated mob. On Saturday, at the close of an Italian open-air concert, a young Frenchman was stabbed by an Italian. Gendarmes were summoned from Marseilles to assist in subduing the Italian population of the place.

FRENCH REPUBLIC IS SAFE.

Failure of a Black Conspiracy to Overthrow Justice.

Paris, July 17.—Friday's uneventful celebration of the national holiday seems to mark the disappearance of serious danger to the republic in connection with the Dreyfus affair. All those connected with the conspiracy have completely lost their courage, and now there is small reason to fear opposition to a re-establishment of justice in France. Public opinion has been sufficiently enlightened so that it is no longer possible for Merciers, Boisdeffres or Zurlindens to appeal successfully to the popular passions. They are now chiefly engaged in attempts to save what they can of their ruined reputations.

The Torture of Dreyfus.

A great deal has been printed during the week about the terrible tortures of which Dreyfus was a victim during his long imprisonment. The truth is bad enough, but there has undoubtedly been considerable exaggeration, its purpose being to increase the revulsion of national feeling, which is proceeding rapidly enough by natural means, now that the eyes of the people have been opened. In fact, these tactics overreach their object, and will probably not be persisted in by Dreyfus' friends. Their thirst for retribution is intense, but the Government holds a moderate opinion as to the extent to which they should be gratified. There is no genuine popular resentment against the mild but just measures which have been taken in the cases of Generals Zurlinden, Pellieux, Deniel and others.

A Foregone Conclusion.

The result of the trial is universally regarded as a foregone conclusion, and the drag-net inquiry which the Government has apparently decided to make in order to once more silence such malicious fools as M. Quesnay de Beaurepaire seems almost unnecessary. It is both hopeless and absurd to imagine that any genuine fresh evidence of guilt will be forthcoming after the vindictive conspirators have sought it in vain for five years. It seems inevitable, however, that the process of vindication will be drawn out through three long weeks before Dreyfus is legally proclaimed an innocent victim of the blackest conspiracy of the age.

A New Inquiry Ordered.

Paris, July 17.—The Minister of War, General the Marquis de Gallifet, has ordered a new inquiry into the connection of Gen. de Pellieux with the Dreyfus affair. It is expected that this will result in his dismissal from the post of Governor of the Military Department of Paris.

Big French Squadron.

Barcelona, July 17.—A French squadron, consisting of 20 ships, arrived here yesterday.

QUEEN RECEIVED YANKEES.

Unique Incident at the Conclusion of the Military Display at Windsor.

London, July 17.—The Queen on Saturday afternoon presented a new stand of colors to the Scots Guards at Windsor Home Park. At the conclusion of the ceremonies, Her Majesty intimated that she wished to receive publicly the two captains of the Seventh Regiment, New York, who were among the guests, whereupon Captain De Witte C. Falls and Captain Francis D. Langdon, wearing the uniform of their regiment, were presented to Her Majesty, who addressed to them a few kindly words.

Smaller States to Get a Show.

The Hague, July 17.—The sub-committee of the arbitration section of the peace conference at Saturday's meeting adopted a resolution that the permanent court of arbitration should consist of the ministers accredited to Holland, instead of ministers resident at The Hague. This will have the effect of bringing in the smaller states whose ministers are accredited to two or more countries simultaneously.

Rat Portage, Ont., July 17.—On Friday night about 9.15 Rev. Solomon Cleaver of Grace Church, Winnipeg, accompanied by his wife and Miss Roberts, upset in a canoe behind Coney Island. After many attempts Mr. Cleaver managed to get his wife a hold on the canoe. He found Miss Roberts coming up for the second time and caught her under the canoe and got her to hold on. This situation lasted over an hour. In the meantime they were drifting into Barrett's Bay, where their cries for help were heard and they were rescued.

SQUARED WITH THE GOVERNMENT.

$900,000 of the Scollen Estate Has Been Released as to Duties.

St. Thomas, July 17.—In the Surrogate's Court, before Judge Horne at Windsor on Friday, Attorneys J. H. Rodd for the Scotten estate and R. F. Sutherland for the Ontario Government reached an agreement by which the $900,000 belonging to the estate, which has been tied up in the Canadian banks for several months, will be released.

The estate admitted that $900,000 was on deposit in the banks at Windsor, London, Hamilton and Toronto, but claimed that the money had been placed there merely for safekeeping, not for the purposes of investment, and was not liable for the succession tax. The case has been pending for some months.

By the arrangement reached the estate agrees to deposit in a chartered bank in Toronto $50,000 to the joint credit of Provincial Treasurer Harcourt and Z. A. Lash, the Toronto solicitor for the estate, out of which the succession duties, estimated at $45,000, will be paid, if it is afterward determined that the money is liable for the tax. A further sum of $10,000 will also be deposited to the credit of the same parties to pay additional tax on the real and personal property of the estate, if it is found that they have been undervalued. The Government agrees to allow the papers of administration to be issued and the question of the liability of the $900,000 for succession duties will be submitted to the courts.

Carriage Crosses Victoria Bridge.

Montreal, July 17.—The Victoria bridge for the first time in its existence was crossed yesterday by horse and carriage. The premier party was composed of F. H. McGuigan, general superintendent; George B. Reeve, general traffic manager; John Herbert, superintendent eastern division; A. P. Dalton, superintendent of Montreal terminals, and Master F. H. McGuigan. The roadway will be formally opened in a short time.

Against Reciprocity.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 17.—The annual convention of the National Hardwood Lumber Association is being held here. At Saturday's session a resolution was passed which approves the action of the lumbermen of the United States in asking a reasonable protective tariff on their product, and commends the efforts now being made to prevent the removal of said tariff through the medium of a reciprocity treaty with Canada.

A Kick From the West.

Washington, July 17.—Gen. Harrison Gray Otis of California arrived here on Saturday to protest against certain features of the reciprocity treaty tentatively negotiated with Jamaica. The California citrus fruit growers believe that the free entry of oranges, lemons, etc., from Jamaica would injuriously affect their interests, and it is in their behalf that Gen. Otis saw the President and the Secretary of State.

Sir James Edgar's Health.

Ottawa, Ont., July 17.—Sir James Edgar, Speaker of the House of Commons, leaves for Toronto this morning and will not, it is said, return to Ottawa this session. Sir James' health has not been very good this session, and the long and arduous sittings during the very hot weather we have been experiencing here have broken him down so much that his physicians have imperative y ordered rest and change of air.

One Editor in Luck.

St. Louis, July 17.—Robert E. M. Cooper, formerly a prominent newspaper editor and politician, has fallen heir to $500,000. The estate was left to Cooper by John C. Crego, a miser hermit, who recently died at Cripple Creek, and whose life Cooper once saved many years ago.

HELD CAPTIVE.

The most terrible captivity a woman can experience is to feel herself completely incapacitated for all womanly duties, bound hand and foot, as it were, by some nerve-racking, life-draining disease or weakness. In such a condition she cannot be a happy wife or mother; she cannot be an efficient housekeeper; she cannot be a woman at all in any complete or satisfactory sense.

"I was afflicted for seventeen months," writes Mrs. Elizabeth J. Bullard, of Winnie, Bladen Co., N. C., in a significant letter to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. "I was confined to the house and yard all the time. I could not be on my feet but a very little. I could not lift the weight of a cup of coffee; and did not have strength to speak more than a few words at a time.

"We tried three doctors and a lot of patent medicine which cost over one hundred and twenty-five dollars; and I found no relief. I had lost all hope of ever getting any better when my friends advised me to take Dr. Pierce's medicine. My husband said we would try that next. He got me five bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and three of 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I commenced taking these medicines and soon found relief. When I had taken one bottle of each I walked half a mile to church.

"I commenced taking it the first of January 1897; the first of the following June I took my cooking in hand and have cooked for eleven in family all through the summer. It was Dr. Pierce's medicine that gave me all the relief I have received. I recommend it to all suffering females, for it is his medicine and the help of God that has restored me."

Every suffering woman in this land should write to Dr. Pierce and learn how certainly he can help her to health and strength. It costs nothing to write and receive entirely free the advice of one of the most experienced physicians in this country. His great thousand-page book the Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free for 21 one-cent stamps, the bare cost of customs and mailing.

POSITION OF UITLANDERS

Interesting at the Present Time When Kruger is Still in the Tree.

In the July number of the North American Review, Mr. Sydney Brooks, who lived among the Boers and studied the institutions of their country, gives a clear account of the events and the singular political arrangements in the Transvaal which have led to the friction between the little Dutch Republic and the British Empire. The position of the Uitlanders, as described by Mr. Brooks, is certainly an unenviable one:—

"In the Transvaal itself the situation is almost too fantastic for serious presentation. The Uitlanders, seven-eighths of whom belong to the English-speaking race, outnumber the Boers by more than two to one. They own half the land, and contribute nineteen-twentieths of the public revenue. It is through their brains and energy that the Transvaal has been raised from bankruptcy into its present prosperity. They are citizens of the most progressive countries in the world, accustomed to self-government and intolerant of any encroachments upon their liberty. . . . . The Uitlanders have an even greater share of the intelligence of the country than of its wealth. Nevertheless, they are kept in complete subjection to their bucolic taskmasters. They are not allowed to vote, except for a legislative chamber that cannot legislate; they have no voice in the spending of the money taken from their pockets; they see millions of dollars lavished on the secret service and fortifications at Pretoria, while Johannesburg remains a pesthole; their language is proscribed in the schools and law-courts of a city where not one man in a thousand speaks anything but English; a clipped and barren dialect, as much beneath pure Dutch as Czechish is beneath Russian, is enthroned in its place; and their children are forced to learn geography and history from Dutch text-books after passing the elementary standards—the President, with a directness that would have come home to the late Mr. Dingley, seeking to popularise his native taal by a tax of one hundred per cent. upon foreign books.

"It is grotesque to think of Englishmen and Americans being treated in this fashion, and it is quite beyond imagination that they should rest passive in such a house of bondage. The restrictions on franchise and education fall hardest, not on the capitalists and large mine owners, who are mostly absentees, but on the lawyers, doctors, business men and the working classes who have settled in the Rand district less as a speculation than to make it their home and earn a living and bring up their families. . . . . In other words, they have a country; and that country is the Transvaal; and as men who have taken up a permanent residence in it, they demand, not unreasonably, that it should be made politically and socially endurable."

A Stenographer's Feat.

Concerning the stenographic prowess of the late Thomas Allen Reed a correspondent sends a curious anecdote. The late shorthand writer was once on professional business in Liverpool and staid in the same hotel as Charles Mathews, the actor. The latter had appeared in "My Awful Dad," and after the performance he strolled into the smoking room. Having heard of Mr. Reed's expertness as a note taker, Mathews challenged the reporter to jot down certain passages from the character of Puff in Richard Brinsley Sheridan's "Critic."

Reed expressed his willingness to have a try. Mathews, who was one of the best "patter" speakers on the stage, began to gabble the lines with startling rapidity, and the other strained every nerve to follow him. When the test was finished, Reed, whose notes, despite the terrific speed at which he had been writing, were of neat and eligible outline, merely inserted a vowel mark or two and handed them to an assistant who was called into the room, and who transcribed the characters with but few mistakes, backward! "I should hardly have thought it possible, Mr. Reed!" was the astonished Charles Mathews' comment.—London Telegraph.

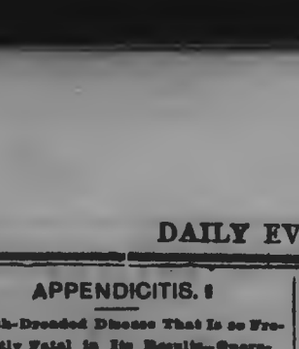
Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by James Lynch, druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough.

APPENDICITIS.

A Much-Dreaded Disease That Is so Frequently Fatal in Its Results—Operation Almost Always Necessary.

Appendicitis, a disease so much dreaded and so frequently fatal in its results, is causing so much discussion pro and con regarding operations during which the appendix is removed that the expressed opinion of all eminent physicians calls the attention of the public at large to the matter. Attacks come so suddenly, no one knows how soon he may be compelled to decide what course of treatment might be desirable in his own case. The peritoneum lining the abdominal cavity covers its contents, and in area equals the skin covering the whole body. It will absorb fluids amounting to ten per cent. of the body weight in 30 minutes. Colored material has been found in the body fluids five minutes after being placed in the peritoneal cavity. When the appendix is perforated, the intestinal contents, in which are always death-producing bacteria, deluge the system with poisonous alkaloids. In virulent cases, bacteria have been found teeming in blood taken from the heart. According to Gray, "the glands of the appendix are of the solitary variety similar to those found in the small intestine." The other digestive organs are profusely supplied with blood which keeps up their vitality and functional activity. The appendix has a small blood supply from one arterial branch. When this is by any means disturbed in its functions the destruction of the appendix is threatened through diminished resistance to disease germs.



LOCATION OF THE APPENDIX.

Appendicitis is caused by impure deposits from currents passing downward through the digestive apparatus, and sometimes pins or seeds gain entrance to this small organ. Pressure is then caused, often followed by ulceration, gangrene, perforation and septic peritonitis. The free end of the appendix is often found adherent after one or two attacks, resulting in distention, pain and a still smaller blood supply, and often leading to another attack. It is shown by written reports that from 14 to 20 of each 100 cases of appendicitis die unless operated upon. The disease is so sudden that suppuration, gangrene and perforation have occurred within 24 hours after the beginning of an attack, and as these inevitably produce peritoneal infection, operative results cannot always be satisfactory. Many are operated upon too late. In cases of recurrent attacks operation between the attacks is considered more desirable, as suppurative complications are thus avoided.

COL. PICQUART.

The Hero in the Dreyfus Case Who Has Just Been Set Free.

Lieut.-Col. Picquart, whose release from prison is one of the effects of the Dreyfus decision, is the descendant of an old family of Lutraine, which long ago settled in Alsace. He was born at Strasburg in 1864, and was educated at St. Cyr and at the general staff school. He served for a short time in Algeria with the Zouaves and then joined the foot. His captaincy came to him in 1890. In 1895 he was transferred to the staff of the War Office, and in 1885 he was sent to Tonkin, where he won a decoration. After his promotion to major he was made professor in the military academy. In 1895 he succeeded Colonel Sandherr as head of the secret service department, and only one year later was made a lieutenant-colonel. In 1897 Picquart was sent in disgrace to Tunis, to be recalled last winter and retired. It was Picquart who first unearthed the villainous plot to ruin Dreyfus, and he suffered no little indignity for the sake of right and truth.

COL. PICQUART.

"Much Attention Paid to Barmaids."

The following comical incident took place on one occasion when Bishop Temple (as he was then) was presiding over the annual council of the Church of England Temperance Society. The business in hand was the concoction of the "report" into which certain matter supplied by some lady workers had to be dovetailed. The ladies were, apparently, not gifted with a sense of humor, for their contribution took this form: "During the past year much attention has been paid to barmaids." This dubious way of putting it produced loud laughter from those present, who were, I may mention, all men. But the next sentence was worse still. "In many cases this has led to their being visited in their own homes!" This was too much for the audience, who literally roared. When the hilarity had subsided a gentleman arose—a layman—and blandly asked who it was who had paid attention to the barmaids—was it Dr. Temple? The bishop smiled grimly and said, "We will pass on to the next paragraph." But the picture of the austere prelate "paying attention to barmaids" was so droll that it was some time before the council could settle down to serious business.

He Got the Name.

As the manager of a large insurance company sat at his desk the representative of another company walked in. The caller was a man to be cultivated, but Mr. H. could not for the life of him think of his name, although he had met him before. But the Chicago man was one of many resources. "I beg your pardon," he said to his caller, after the first hasty greeting, "but if you will excuse me for an instant I will send a message I have just started. It is on a matter of much importance."

"Certainly," said the caller.

"It'll take just an instant," said Mr. H. as he turned to his desk and wrote hastily on a sheet of paper: "What is the name of the man I'm talking to? If you don't know name, find out and answer at once by boy. H." The business man addressed the message to his chief clerk in the outer office and handed it to his office boy, saying: "Hurry and deliver this note, Archie; it is most important."

Mr. H. busied himself with his papers, and in a few moments the boy returned with an answer. Hastily tearing open the envelope, Mr. H. read, "Jenkins, of the —— Insurance company." Throwing aside the note, the Chicago man turned blandly to his caller. "Ah, that bit of business is off my mind now! In what way can I be of service to you, Mr. Jenkins? It is a long time since we have been honored with a call from the —— Insurance company."—Chicago Journal.

How He Worked the Artist.

This account of how an intimate friend of the great artist Kyosai obtained one of the painter's drawings is from Mrs. Hugh Fraser's "Letters from Japan:"

Kyosai always refused if asked outright for a sketch. So his friend began the negotiation by offering the artist an excellent dinner. When Kyosai had drunk deeply and seemed in a mellow humor, his host would call for drawing materials, saying that he felt an artistic fancy taking possession of him. No one was surprised, as Japanese gentlemen often amuse themselves in this way after a feast. The servant then brought an enormous sheet of white paper and spread it on the floor with the brushes and Indian ink beside it.

The crafty host, without looking at his guest, sank on his knees and began to draw, apparently absorbed in his occupation, but intentionally producing few weak and incoherent lines. Kyosai watched the feeble effort in silence and growing irritation, and at last jumped up, dashed the tyro aside and tore the brush out of his hand, exclaiming "Out of the way, you wretched bungler! I will teach you how to draw!" And the result was a priceless sketch, which remained in the possession of the wily entertainer.

A Card Table Romance.

Speaking of the mania of some society women for gambling, a story is told of an interesting card playing romance which was recently enacted in London:

A very rich man sat playing ecarte with a pretty girl whom he intensely admired. She went on recklessly staking her money till ruin stared her in the face.

"Doubles or quits," said the tempter.

She assented, knowing that she could never pay. She lost.

"Yourself or quits," said her opponent.

Again the girl summoned all her wits and looked him straight in the face. "Are you proposing to marry me?" she asked.

He nodded.

He won the game, and the pair made one of the happiest unions known in England at the present day.—Paris Herald.

A Peculiar Plant.

There is a strange wild plant in Guadeloupe called the "life plant." If a leaf be broken off and pinned by the stem to the wall of a warm room, each of the angles between the curves of the leaf margin soon throws out a number of very white tentacles, or roots, and soon a tiny new plant begins to sprout, and in the course of a week or two attains a height of two or three inches. When the old leaf shrivels, the new plant is cut off and planted. When carefully cultivated, the life plant produces curious red and yellow blossoms. While the plant is native only in a warm country, there is no doubt that it could be successfully grown in any greenhouse, and as a plant freak it certainly is as interesting as the everlasting plant of Mexico.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Papers That Should Be Encouraged.

When you are convinced that a paper is dishonest and deceitful, stop it. When convinced that it is unclean, stop it. When it lacks enterprise and fails to give you the news, stop it. But don't stop a paper that you believe to be honest, courageous, enterprising and clean, simply because its editor has written his own sincere views, instead of yours or somebody else's, for if you do you are putting a premium on insincere journalism and serving notice on an editor that the way to success is to write what he thinks will best please his readers, instead of what he honestly believes to be the truth.—Connersville (Ind.) Times.

Ice Water Versus Hot Water.

The drinking of ice water is pronounced by scientists to amount to a real crime, and Dr. Brubaker has declared this question one of the utmost interest in typhoid fever. He says that if all water should be boiled and filtered there would never be a case of typhoid.

The temperature of the stomach at the moment the ice water enters it is about 105 degrees; the water is 32 degrees. The chilling of and contracting of blood vessels is therefore great, and to the ice water is ascribed the catarrhal condition of the stomach so often suffered from. Dr. Brubaker says water should not be taken with a meal to any great extent, but that hot water taken before breakfast prepares the stomach for action, stimulating the gastric juices and washing away the remains of the last meal. Another glass of hot water taken between breakfast and luncheon will be found beneficial and better than all drugs for curing indigestion, since in passing into the blood the food products are carried along with it. Exercise, too, is necessary to help on the action of the stomach.

A Correction.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—In the remarks appearing in Friday's issue of your valuable paper, referring to the recent local examinations of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, I notice a slight inaccuracy for the correction of which I shall feel greatly obliged.

The Conservatory do not appoint representatives in any of the local centres. Every teacher has an equal right to prepare pupils for examination from Peterborough centre. The mistake has probably arisen from the fact that I was formerly representative for Peterborough of the London (England) College of Music. In every other respect the report is perfectly correct.

Thanking you for the insertion of this, I am, Yours truly,
ALFRED DAVIES.

A WHEEL DEMOLISHED

But the Rider Saved Himself by Throwing Himself off the Wheel.

Mr. Wm. Roberts had a narrow escape from a serious accident on Friday night. He was riding west on Hunter-st. on his wheel, and when at Bethune-st. he was met by a horse and rig coming south on Bethune-st. The horse was coming at a good gait and the bicyclist, seeing that a collission could not be averted, threw himself from his wheel and thus saved himself from the serious results of the shock. He escaped, but the wheel was not so fortunate, as it went under the horse and buggy and came out very much battered and badly damaged. The gentleman who was driving the horse was ready to meet the bicyclist as regarded the expense of repairs.

Too much care cannot be exercised both by drivers of rigs or bicyclists in approaching the crossings at Bethune-st. No matter which way one is travelling he should go slow so as to prevent accident.

A Clifton Arrest.

Clifton, Ont., July 16.—Harry La Belle, who claims to be an actor, 20 years old, was arrested here Friday night by a detective from police headquarters on a warrant obtained by Edward Hager, of No. 36 Michigan-st. Hager, the complainant, alleges that LaBelle stayed with him temporarily about a month ago, and when he left took a brand new suit of clothes belonging to Hager.

A Jolly Boys' Camp.

The boys' camp at Savigny's Point, down the river, closed on Saturday. There were 21 boys in camp for a week, and it was a grand outing. Rev. O. C. Elliott was in charge of the party. This is the annual camp in connection with the Park-st. Baptist church, the object being to give boys who would otherwise not get such an outing a week's camp on the river. That the outing, while being thoroughly enjoyable and a great success, was economical is shown by the fact that the cost for the week's camp was only 85 cents per boy.

DIED SUDDENLY

Mrs. Richard Parsons Is Stricken Suddenly and Expires.

Mrs. Richard Parsons passed away at the residence of her son, Mr. J. E. Parsons, Rubidge-st., at 12.30 this morning. The deceased lady had not been in good health for almost a year, but was able to be up and about. Yesterday she was around as usual, in fact seemed rather better than of late, and she retired last night without making any complaint of feeling unwell. About midnight, she was suddenly stricken with heart trouble, and died at 12.30. The end coming so unexpectedly was a shock to her friends.

The deceased lady was born in Cornwall, England, and was 64 years of age. She was married in the Old Country to the late Richard Parsons, and came to Canada about nineteen years ago, settling in Hastings. She has resided there ever since, and was widely known and universally respected in the community. About a year ago she came to Peterborough to reside with her son, and while here made friends. She was a consistent member of the Methodist church, and an estimable lady whose sudden demise will be regretted by friends here and in Hastings. She leaves six children to mourn her loss, two girls, Mrs. Chas. Bearchell, of Tweed, and Mrs. Thos. Borland, of Selwyn, and four sons, Alfred, of British Columbia, Wm. and Louis, of Manitoba, and J. E., of town.

The remains will be taken to Hastings, where interment will take place.

FAREWELL MEETING

Capt. French and Adjt. Aikenhead, of the Salvation Army, Say Good-bye.

There was a fairly good attendance at the Salvation Army Barracks last night, when Adjutant Aikenhead and Captain French, who have been in charge of the corps here for the past year, said farewell before leaving to assume charge of a district to the far Northwest, with Dawson as headquarters. They do not leave town for a few days, and will be at other meetings this week but last night was the occasion of their official good-bye.

A number of soldiers spoke, testifying to the good influence of the officers, and among these soldiers was Alderman Sawers.

Captain French in bidding good-bye to those with whom she had so long been associated in work for God, said that although it was hard to part yet she knew she could always remember wherever she was that the soldiers here were doing God's will as she would be doing it, and that there would be a great meeting some day. Good-bye was not forever.

Adj. Aikenhead said that she had found it a great trial to leave home to enter Army work, but she had given herself up to God to do His will. That is her great determination still, and wherever He calls she will go. She has had a pleasant year in Peterborough. She had found the soldiers a great help to her. They have been faithful soldiers of Christ, and she trusted that her successors would find those with whom they will labor here as great a help as they have proven to her. She urged upon those present (who were not professing Christians) the great necessity of entering upon a life of service for God.

There is a banquet to be held at the barracks to-night, and on Wednesday night there will be an entertainment in which the children will take part.

Adj. Aikenhead and Captain French will be succeeded here by Staff-Capt. Burdett and wife.

THE SUMMER SCHOOL

Progress of the Summer School for Clergymen at Port Hope.

Port Hope Guide: The summer school continues on its peaceful way. The mornings are spent in lectures during which the members of the cloth become boys again and sat at the ink stained desks, taking notes for all they are worth, while the professor, for the time being, gives instruction from the desk. The afternoons are spent in much less scholastic fashion, or shall we say in equally scholastic fashion, for do not the aforesaid "boys" observe them in true school boy fashion, swimming, bicycling, fishing and other forms of recreation? Every evening there is a solemn services in the chapel where the hearty singing and responding of so many men is most inspiring. There is also a service in the morning before breakfast. After evening chapel lectures of a less formal sort are given and to most of these the public are admitted; then, till eleven o'clock the brethren amuse themselves with college songs in the reading room. After that the rule is, "Lights Out."

There can hardly be too opinions concerning the reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Barlow Cumberland Friday afternoon. It was the universal comment that nothing could have been more entirely delightful and successful. The charming residence and grounds were thrown open to those who were fortunate enough to be there and with an absolute generosity of entertainment, the reception became the occasion of unalloyed pleasure to all who were present. The many guests occupied themselves in wandering about among the well laid out flower garden and admiring the vegetables and fruits which in their part of the grounds could hardly have appeared more attractive. The whole estate is evidently managed in the most careful way, and with its many interests in the way of live stock must prove an ideal home to those who so kindly allowed their friends to share its pleasures yesterday. The centre of attraction was undoubtedly the cat house, where numbers of felines of all sizes and colors, blue, tabby, silver and black were disporting themselves. Mrs. Cumberland's love for Persian pussies is well known and she certainly seems most successful as a breeder of these interesting pets. The ladies were all in raptures over the pretty creatures and even the reverend divines attending the Summer School, in whose honor, by the way, the entertainment was given, were wondering if they could not surreptitiously annex some of the long haired beauties. The presence of so many black coats did not appear to make the gathering any less frivolous than such gatherings usually are. The number of pretty girls who were there, decked in all manner of becoming gowns, would in any case have prevented that, but truth compels us to confess that the good looking curates and even the grey haired brethren of more mature years appeared to enjoy themselves as much as any who were there.

AMONG THE CHURCHES.

Items of Interest Gathered From the Different Congregations

ST. LUKE'S.

Rev. H. Symonds thanked the congregation of St. Luke's yesterday morning for the united co-operation by which both the recent garden party and Sunday school picnic had been rendered successful.

Rev. John Bushell having removed to Norwood, Mr. Symonds now has charge of St. Mark's, Otonabee. The services at Allendale are for the present suspended.

Next Friday afternoon St. Luke's choir will make an excursion to Chemong. The church wardens have kindly provided conveyances, and the party will leave from the post office at 3 o'clock.

ST. PAUL'S.

The services at St. Pauls church yesterday were of a memorial character, due to the deaths during the week of Mr. Will Moore and Miss Roger. A deep feeling of regret pervaded the congregation as Rev. Dr. Torrance referred touchingly to the loss sustained by the church and expressed the grief of the congregation and the sympathy with the bereaved friends. The musical services were of an appropriate character.

GEORGE-ST.

Services at George-st. church yesterday were very interesting. Rev. Mr. Gordon, of Winnipeg, a former Peterborough pastor, preached in the morning and Rev. Mr. Shorey occupied the pulpit at the evening service. The morning anthem was "Praise Ye the Lord." The tenor parts were well taken. The anthem for the evening service was "To prayer, to prayer." It was sung with good expression. The congregation had the pleasure of listening to a couple of delightful solos at this service. Miss Etta James, of Bowmanville, gold medalist of Toronto Conservatory of Music, sang "Fear Not Ye, O Israel," from the "Elijah." The number was a treat. Miss James is the possessor of a sweet, pure and cultured soprano voice, and was appreciated very highly by the congregation. Miss James also favored the congregation with a solo at the morning service. Mr. Rollins, of Ingersoll, also sang a baritone solo, "Saviour breathe an evening blessing." It was rendered in good voice and the effect was excellent.

CHARLOTTE-ST.

At Charlotte-st. church last evening the choir rendered the anthem, "The Lord is My Shepherd," in good style, a duet being taken by Miss Pedlar and Mrs. Pearce.

The Ladies' Aid of Charlotte-st. church will hold a sweet pea social on Thursday, Sept. 8th.

POLICE COURT.

A Man Under Arrest Suspected of Cutting the Vines Around Town.

On Saturday afternoon a local man was taken in charge as a vagrant and sent up to gaol till Wednesday, when he will be brought before the Magistrate. It is believed that he is the man who has been cutting the vines around town. He has been in the asylum and has been in gaol before, and it is likely that he will be again committed as insane. The destruction of the vines looks very like the work of a crazy man. The man had been in the hospital for some time and was discharged from there last week.

An old man named Dunn, who asked to be sent up to gaol for keeping, was given six months as a vagrant on Saturday afternoon.

THE PROPHETS AND PROPHECY

REV H SYMONDS PREACHES ON AN INTERESTING SUBJECT.

The Second Sermon in a Special Course—Danger of Being Led Astray by Self-styled Prophets.

The second sermon of a course now being preached in St. Luke's church on "Prophets and Prophecy," by Rev. H. Symonds, was delivered last night.

Mr. Symonds strongly deprecated that interpretation of Prophecy which made it the equivalent of prediction. The Prophet beyond all doubt foretold the future, but this was not his sole function. Literally a prophet is one who speaks for another, one who bears a message from another. The prophet is the spokesman of Jehovah.

The identification of prophecy and prediction has had this unfortunate result, that only those to-day are called prophets who are interested in the date of the end of the world, and it it is supposed that this was the burden of the message of the Prophets of Israel. Hence if we are not interested in the end of the world, or the relation of the Sultan of Turkey to Antichrist, or similar questions, we have no interest in the propehts. There stand their books in the Bible but we do not read them, nor if we did should we understand them. Yet we profess to believe that they spoke for God, and God's words do not pass away. The truth is the prophets of Israel have a message for us, almost of equal force with that they delivered first of all to their own contemporaries.

It is not the object of the prophets to foretell the date of the end of the world. Those who profess to be able to tell us this are themselves the victims of delusion, and succeed in deluding others. They come before us with great claims. They tells us that they are great astronomers or mathematicians, and by means of these sciences thay can accurately tell the date of the end. It is a delusion. These prophets, falsely so-called, have existed throughout the nineteen centuries of Christianity, and they have always been wrong. There is not a single theologian of note, not a single professor of theology in any first class university in Great Britain, America or Germany, who holds that we can discover from Scripture, what our Lord Himself said no one could tell, viz., the date of the end of the dispensation.

The reason why, continued the speaker, I speak strongly on this subject is because excellent people are led astray by the large claims that self-styled prophets make of superior knowledge. Many people become so absorbed in this subject that their minds are distracted from their proper occupation. Sooner or later comes the inevitable awakening. The appointed day of the end goes by, nothing happens, and sometimes it falls out that in their disappointment the whole structure of their religious faith falls into ruins.

Miss Allie Whiten returns to-morrow after a week's visit with friends in Uxbridge.

Mrs. Ernest Kelsey, of Buffalo, N.Y., is visiting her aunt, Mrs. G. E. Whitten, 546 Aylmer-st.

The families of Messrs. Geo. Hutchinson and Geo. Fitzgerald are occupying their cottages at Chemong.

Mrs. W. Haney and son, and Miss Marie Soucie, of Toronto, are the guests of Mrs. F. J. Doris, Cedar-st.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Borland returned on Saturday from Stony lake, where they spent a couple of weeks rusticating.

Rev. O. C. Elliott preached in Port Hope yesterday, supplying for Rev. Mr. Dayfoot, who is on a holiday in Virginia.

Mr. Bert Dawson has left for a trip to British Columbia. He will visit Rossland and the other mining centres of the West.

Mr. J. W. Bennett returned home this morning after a two weeks' vacation. He enjoyed the river sail to Montreal and Quebec.

Miss Finlay, of the Public school staff, and Miss E. Finlay, nurse-in-training at the Nicholls hospital, are spending a vacation in Lindsay.

Rev. Mr. Shorey leaves in a few days to attend the fourth international convention of the Epworth League at Indianapolis, where he will deliver an address.

Miss Eva Gendron and Mr. A. Gendron, of Toronto, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. N. T. Leplante. They went up to Lovesick lake to-day.

Commodore Thorne, of Buffalo, passed through town this morning for Gananoque, where he will remain until the opening of the A.C.A. camp two weeks hence. Meanwhile he will sit up day and night planning enjoyment for the camping canoeists. McConkey, of Toronto, has been engaged as caterer for the camp.

Brevities.

—Mr. Geo. K. Martin rendered an excellent solo "Consider the Lilies," at the Murray-st. church last evening.

—The first Sunday service of the season at Chemong was held at the pavilion yesterday, Rev. J. C. Davidson conducting. There was a fair attendance.

—The steamer Stranger, of Port Perry, has been engaged to tow logs for the Rathbun Co. from Fenelon Falls to Lakefield.

The regular meeting of the W.C.T.U. will be held on Wednesday, July 19th, instead of Monday, at 3.30 p.m., at Mrs. Paton's, Brock-st. All are welcome.

—The Minden Echo notes that Mr. John Crawford, of Stanhope, killed a tremendously big black bear the other day. Its pelt was as large as an ox hide, and the carcass weighed 550 lbs.

—Messrs. Jas. Graham and Jas. Haggart, of town, have taken the contract for straightening the steeple on one of the churches at Lakefield, which at present somewhat resembles the leaning tower of Pisa.

—On Saturday afternoon Capt. Chas. Calcutt, of the Eclipse, took down a party of eight Montreal gentlemen to Rice lake. He held the steamer till the arrival of the 4.45 express from the east in order to accommodate the party.

—The work of altering and improving the organ at St. Paul's church was commenced this morning, three workmen from the Williams Co., Toronto, having arrived in town for the purpose.

—The Sons of England band will hold another moonlight excursion down the river on the evening of Tuesday, 25th inst. The City of Peterborough will be used and a barge will be taken along to accommodate the big crowd which is expected.

—Mr. Wm. Johnston, Weller-st., has a curiosity in the shape of a chicken, well grown, with five claws on each foot and attached to each claw is a round stone of about the size of a marble. The chicken was born with these attachments and has carried them around since. It is, so to speak, on a solid footing.

—Lindsay Post: Capt. Knowlson's trade excursion to-day from lower lake points was not the success looked for by some, but it must be remembered that farmers are extremely busy cutting hay just now, and coming so soon after the glorious Twelfth, was also unfortunate. Capt. Knowlson was assured of good patronage the occasion of the next excursion, some three weeks hence.

—Mr. Jas. Edgecombe, treasurer of the George-st. church choir, has received a letter from the secretary of the Official Board of the church, conveying to the choir a resolution, unanimously passed by the Board, thanking the choir for their very satisfactory services, and expressing the great pleasure of the trustees with the successful and satisfactory work done by the choir.

STRIKE RIOT IN BROOKLYN.

Wires Cut, Rails Torn Up and Non-Union Men Hooted and Stoned.

New York, July 17.—Nearly all the conductors and motormen of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company struck at 5 o'clock on Saturday morning. Those who had cars out left them on the track. The company endeavored to run cars with non-union men on all lines, and there was much disorder. Wires were cut, rails torn up, non-union men hooted and stoned and at the Mary avenue stables a crowd of 3,000 men resisted the police. Many arrests were made during the day. On some lines the company maintained a regular service and on the others they failed altogether. Cars were unable to run to the ocean beaches. The tie-up has not been nearly so complete as the labor leaders said it would be.

Throughout the afternoon boulders and large pieces of granite were taken from the nearby yard and placed on the tracks in the vicinity of Greenwood Cemetery, and as cars came along at intervals of 20 and 30 minutes their further progress was considerably delayed until these obstructions were removed.

Several arrests were made during the day among the ranks of the strikers and their sympathizers, but no disturbance of a very serious nature occurred) to 8 o'clock last night.

The Latest Reports.

New York, July 17.—All the roads with the exception of three—Green and Gates, Halsey and Putnam and the Fulton street lines—shut at 7 o'clock last night by order of President Rossiter. The three mentioned continued running until midnight, when they, too, were ordered to stop. President Rossiter said he would open up the lines again at 5 a.m. to-day and promises that the cars will run on schedule time. Chief of Police Devery and Police Commissioners Hess and Sexton spent several hours in Brooklyn last night completing the police arrangements for taking care of rioters.

BIG BOOST FOR JAPAN.

Now Recognized as the Equal of the World's Commercial Nations.

Washington, July 17.—A new treaty between the United States and Japan goes into effect to-day, at which time also new treaties between Japan and nearly all of the countries of Europe and some South American republics also go into effect. It is an event of farreaching importance in the relations beween Japan and the United States, as it does away with the treaty methods which have been in vogue for nearly 50 years, and substitutes an entirely new method of procedure. The same is true in the relations of Japan with other countries. Taken as a whole, the many new treaties which go into effect to day place Japan on an entirely new footing with the world at large, as she is recognized for the first time as an equal in every respect.

Good Reasons.

"What makes that new baby at your house cry so much, Tommy?"

Tommy (indignantly)—It don't cry so very much, and, anyway, if all yourteeth were out, and your hair off, and your legs so weak you couldn't stand on them, I fancy you'd feel like crying yourself.

MISS CAPRICE.

BY ST. GEORGE RATHBONE

Author of "Doctor Jack," "Doctor Jack's Wife," "Captain Tom," "Miss Pauline of New York," Etc.

Once more breaks out the noise of battle. Whatever may have been the original plans of Bab Azoun and his men, they have long since been forgotten. Revenge is the leading fact in their minds now, revenge for what has been done on this night.

An Arab is a good hater, especially if the object of his animosity be a Christian dog, an unbeliever. Nothing can be too cruel to inflict upon such a foe.

Those within the tomb have aroused the worst passions of the robbers, and can look for no mercy.

The engagement is bitter, indeed, for the Arabs have separated, and creep upon the place on all sides. They discover the weakness of the roof, and bend their energies toward crushing this in.

There is a hot scene, and more than one of the assailants feel the breath of flying lead, together with the sudden sting that tells of a burning wound.

It would be hard to say how the affair might have terminated were the original combatants allowed to carry it to a conclusion, for both sides are desperate, and one of them would have to win.

John has not been without hope. He believes the French zouaves from the Kasbah must long ere this have started on their secret march toward the old mines of Metidja, and he feels sure the noise of battle must direct them to the spot where the fierce engagement is in progress.

Men will fight like tigers when all they have in the world is at stake. John is nerved to greater deeds of valor by the fact that Lady Ruth is present. He shudders at the thought of her falling into the hands of these wild desert rovers.

Finding their efforts to beat in the door useless, the assailants turn their whole attention toward the roof. Great stones are hurled upon it, and the chances of its holding out are few indeed.

When an opening is made, a dark face appears at it, and the fellow attempts to push his gun in so that he may fire. Before he can succeed, Mustapha Cadi has leaped upward, and fastened his hand upon the man's throat, and by the weight of his body pulls the fellow through.

Philander snatches up the gun with a cry of delight. He seems to have a weakness for these Arab weapons, on this night, at least, three having passed through his hands. There is heard the sound of a desperate tussle, as the faithful guide battles with his victim.

Again the hole above is darkened, as a human figure attempts to push through, but the British soldier is ready this time. He has the gun Philander threw aside as useless, and, with all his power, he dashes this against the human wedge that fills the opening, sending the fellow whirling over to the ground, shrieking out Arabic imprecations, and calling upon Allah to give the unbelieving dogs into their hands.

More stones are served. They begin to drop through, and it looks serious, for those who crouch within. Certainly they cannot hold out much longer.

Heaven is kind; Heaven is merciful. The silent prayers of the two women who kneel within the old tomb are heard.

Just when the clamor of battle is at its height, when the climax is near at hand, they hear a sound that brings joy to the little band, struggling against unequal numbers—a sound that has many times been heard upon the great war-fields of the world—the clear notes of a bugle.

Then come fierce shouts, the cheers of charging zouaves. It is a thrilling period to those who have been almost at the last gasp. Louis Napoleon, struggling at Sedan, could not have heard the zouave battle-cry with more complete satisfaction than they do to-day.

The Arabs are caught in the very trap they have so long eluded, and it looks like a bad job for them. As to our friends, they are no longer in the affair, and proceed to remove the stones from the door, in order that they may look upon the last scene of the tragic drama.

When this has been done, they see a spectacle that is more pleasing to their eyes than any recently enacted—a scene made up of struggling Arabs and French zouaves, where the latter are five to one—where flashing bayonets meet the cruel yataghan, and the dark deeds of many past years are avenged by the brave soldiers of France.

It is quickly over.

Bab Azoun and his desperate followers expect no mercy, and the French give none. The few Arabs who are uninjured make a determined assault in one quarter, and literally hew their way through, leaving half of their number on the field.

Few indeed are they who escape, but the victory is shorn of its principle feature when the fact is disclosed that the dread terror of the desert, the notorious rebel, Bab Azoun, is not among the slain.

He was seen to fall, and yet they cannot find his body, search as they may.

Not being mounted, the French soldiers are unable to give pursuit to the little band that hewed a way out. Besides, they have plenty to do attending to the wounded.

Up to the now open door of the marabout's tomb rushes a figure that has leaped from a horse.

"Mon Dieu! tell me, are you safe, ze ladies also," gasps this party.

It is Monsieur Constans. He has faithfully carried out his part of the contract, and is warmly greeted by those whom the coming of the zouaves has saved.

Lady Ruth is pale—she has looked upon sights such as are not usually seen by her sex—sights that make strong men shudder until they become battle-hardened, for war is always cruel and bloody.

"Let us go to the hotel as soon as possible," she says to Aunt Gwen.

"My goodness, are you going to faint?" exclaims that good soul.

"Oh, no, I don't think so, but the sooner I am at the hotel the better," replies the girl.

"There comes John Craig. He has been talking with the officer in command of the soldiers, and I guess has made some sort of arrangements for us."

What Aunt Gwen says is true enough, for John leads them to captured horses, and ere long they are moving in the direction of Algiers, escorted by a detachment of the zouaves on foot.

Their trials for the night are over, but they will never forget what they have seen and endured. John is secretly fuming, as he ponders over the facts. If he could only prove that Sir Lionel is the direct cause of all this trouble, he would demand satisfaction from the Briton in some shape. That is where the trouble lies, in proving it. What he has learned thus far can be put down as only suspicions or hints, though they look bad for the Briton.

If Lady Ruth has observed enough to open her eyes with regard to the veteran soldier, John will call it quits.

A thought occurs to him, even as he rides toward Algiers, that causes a grim smile to break out upon his face. It is a thought worthy of a Richelieu—an idea brilliant with possibilities.

"Here are Sir Lionel and Pauline—two despairing people who long for the unattainable. Why should they not be mated? It is perhaps possible, and would be a master stroke of genius on my part. Jove! I'll see what I can do! Great pity to have all the plotting on one side of the house."

From that hour John Craig devotes his whole mind to the accomplishment of this purpose, for he sees the benefit of diplomacy.

This is the great idea that is struggling in his mind as he rides along.

CHAPTER XXI.

When the news of the battle is known in Algiers, great excitement abounds. There are many sympathizers of Bab Azoun among the native population, and in some quarters their ugly teeth are shown; but France has too secure a hold of Algeria not to ready for such an emergency, and her troops parade the streets, armed for battle.

Consquently no demonstration on the part of the natives is attempted. Among the foreigners, and in the better circles of merchants and traders, there is great rejoicing over the victory, for it has long been dangerous to travel in the region of the coast because of the bold forays of the same Bab Azoun. They hope this power will now be broken, and that perhaps the outlaw himself may be dead.

In the morning our friends gather for breakfast. John alone is absent, nor do they know what has become of him, for the clerk of the hotel informs them that the Chicagoan was early astir.

He comes in before they are done eating, but volunteers no information concerning his wanderings, so that they of course conclude he has only been for a walk.

Sir Lionel seems rather shy. Most men upon making such a dismal failure on two separate occasions, would probably be willing to give up the game, but there is something of the bull-dog about Sir Lionel. He will hold out until the end.

He fears John Craig has penetrated his schemes, and this makes him assume a dogged air. Evidently he still clings to hope of ultimate success.

As for Craig, he is undecided whether to call Sir Lionel a fool or a knave, and is rapidly drifting to a belief that the Briton may be a composite of both.

They have much to see in Algiers. Mosques, bazaars and the remarkable features that cluster about this famous resort. A thousand and one things unite to charm a traveller who strikes Algiers in the winter time, and they usually go hence with many regrets, and memories that will never fade.

Economic Charity.

I had just seated myself at the table in the tearoom of a down town dry goods store the other day when a well dressed men came in with three little children, two girls and a boy. Noticing carelessly that the children were not dressed quite so well as the man who had charge of them, I wondered a little. I observed they took places near the table where I was seated.

"Now be sure you all behave properly and eat enough," the man said, "and don't talk."

Then he ordered all sorts of things for them, and very hungry they seemed, too, eating a most elaborate luncheon, while the men tasted nothing. Along about ice cream time I heard him say, "Sit quiet a minute, and I will come back." Then he slipped out in the crowd near the railing and went down the elevator. In a short time the head waiter came up to the table and asked anxiously of the happy trio:

"When is your papa coming back?"

"Oh, he isn't our papa," chorused the joyous three. "We don't know who he is. He just asked us when we were looking in the windows if we wanted a good dinner, and we said yes, and he said, 'Come along, then,' and brought us up here." Then the children went down the elevator and the house charged something to the off side of the accounts.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Her Great Need.

"Tell him to wait."

Mrs. Golddecker waved aside the maid, and, rising anxiously, looked out on upper Fifth avenue from the window of her just completed nineteenth century palace. She was wondering whether his man, for whom she had sent, possessed at last the one secret that could make her happy. She paused for a moment, nerving herself inwardly to encounter disappointment in case it should come, and then, in full control of herself, she prepared to descend. Leaving her boudoir, with its $100,000 bedstead, she passed the diamond and sapphire inlaid bathroom, with its gold faucets glittering in the electric light, and, stepping into the cut glass elevator, was whirled rapidly downward to the first floor. Stepping lightly over the $1,000,000 rug in the reception hall and brushing abstractedly against the $2,000,000 tapestries in the drawing room, she passed through a long passage into the waiting room in the rear of the house, where a tall, dignified foreigner stood up and bowed respectfully as she entered.

"Can you make good bread?" she asked.—Criterion.

What He Did Object To.

The author of "Kings of the Hunting Field" says that at a certain English church many years ago, while the clergyman was reading prayers, a man walked in, shouted "I've got 'un!" and immediately withdrew. He had sounded a well known call. Every farmer and laborer who possessed a gun soon followed him and in an hour or two brought to the village inn the fox they had shot.

Spirituality was in those days at a very low ebb, and some clergymen cared more for sport than for the example they set to their flocks. Bishops tried to discountenance hunting as a clerical pastime, but the law did not enable them to remove the offenders from their livings. Dr. Phillpotts, bishop of Exeter, who called to account several sporting clergymen in his diocese, met one of them at a friend's house.

"I am told, my lord, that you object to my hunting," said the clergyman.

"Dear me, who could have told you so?" answered the bishop. "What I object to is that you should ever do anything else."

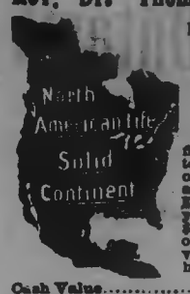
ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

Rev. Dr. Thompson Testifies



Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, North American Life Assurance Co., Toronto:

DEAR SIR,—Your official notice came duly to hand, apprising me of the results obtainable upon my 15-year Endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000, which matured on the 5th inst. Of the various options you have given me, viz.:

Cash Value	$1 564 96
Paid-up policy, payable at my death	2,560.00
Yearly income for life of	166 20

I have decided upon the cash value; and it gives me pleasure to testify that, as I anticipated it would be when I took out the policy, it is very satisfactory. This returns me the full premium of the 15 years and over 4½ per cent compound interest, in addition to which you have carried the risk upon my life. In view of the lowering rates of interest which have been obtainable during the later portion of the period, it is difficult to see how this excellent result could have been surpassed.

Yours sincerely,

THE "HIGHBINDERS."

A MENACE TO SAN FRANCISCO AND OTHER LARGE U. S. CITIES.

A Society Whose Members Are Bound Together by Terrible Oaths.—The Chee Kung "Tong"—a Relic of the Taeping Rebellion of a Generation Ago.

A few weeks ago the news was telegraphed to Canada that the "highbinders" of San Francisco had placed a price upon the heads of three Chinamen who had "peached," and that a riot was the consequence. The cause of the Chinese riots in California, and in San Francisco particularly, are little understood by the general public, and fewer still realise the far-reaching power of the "tongs," or societies. They are a disturbing element which neither the police nor the courts can suppress, and may in time call out a vigilance committee in San Francisco, so complete is their power over the Chinese in the United States, and it has recently been feared in the Pacific coast cities of Canada. It is known in a vague way that the Chinese have a government of their own in the United States, with headquarters at San Francisco, but it is not known that it is also a political institution, favorable to the restoration of the Tartar dynasty. The Chee Kung "tong," or society, of the United States is known in the eastern cities as the Yee Hing Hway Society. The generic meaning is the "Society of Righteous Brotherhood," or "Chamber of High Justice." The police of San Francisco call them "highbinders," a local epithet which has no special meaning. The word "highbinders" is applied to all of the unlawful Chinese societies, of which there are about 20 in San Francisco. These rival societies keep the police and courts busy, pile up taxes, enrich lawyers and terrorize the Chinese quarter in every town on the Pacific coast. They do not fear the courts, for evidence is difficult to obtain, and the societies spend money liberally in defense of their hired assassins.

The Chee Kung Tong was instituted in San Francisco by some of the escaped leaders of the Taeping rebellion of a generation ago. They fled to California and brought with them their hatred to the government and organised what they termed a "benevolent association," having the same ritual. From these are descended the "highbinders" of to-day. Though it professes to be a benevolent association, the utmost secrecy is maintained as to its proceedings, and a betrayal of its secrets means death to the apostate at the hands of some one of the members. This is generally accomplished by the payment of a reward for his assassination.

Missionaries in San Francisco have elicited from converted Chinese the secrets of these murderous organizations, which are practically a menace and defiance to the Government. This powerful organization levies tribute upon Chinese merchants, gamblers and depraved women, and enforces its decrees through its hired assassins. The members are unknown, except to each other, hence the blow often comes from a unknown source. Converted Chinese have stated to the mission teachers that this powerful organization has a chief who is called Ah Tai. There is a secretary, and an "introducer," and eight swordsmen, besides other officials. The candidate for membership is "introduced" in the room by an official carrying a spear as an emblem of authority. The room is tinseled and gilded with red, and there are images of the "god of war," rebels in arms, and other carvings of demons and gods calculated to inspire the candidate with terror. The chief sits on a throne draped in red, in front of which is an altar, on which lies the ritual of the "tong." The officials wear red robes, with a red turban around the head. The candidate is "introduced" at the altar by the man with the spear, and is required to unplait his queue, in token of his renunciation of his allegiance to the reigning Chinese dynasty. The queue is an outward sign of loyalty more than a protestation of religion, and for these reasons the Chinaman will hold on to his queue to the death. The candidate then puts on a five-colored robe, with five white girdles, and places upon his head a red turban. This is a badge of the Taepings, who were known as the "red-headed rebels." He is then required to kneel under an arch of eight swords, and as he kneels before the chief the swordsmen place the blades upon his neck, as an indication of his submission and probable fate, if he should prove unfaithful. His finger is pierced with a silver needle, and the blood trickles into a glass of wine held by the man who stands sponsor for him. Both the sponsor and the candidate drink from this glass, and when the novitiate has drunk the last drop he is thereby admitted to "blood relationship" in the tong. The signs and passwords are then given to him by the swordsmen, and the oaths are administered by the chief.

There are 25 or 30 oaths—more than any frightened candidate can remember. The most important to him is that forfeiting his life to the society in case of betrayal. But the most significant and dangerous is that affecting the Government. While the oaths are being administered the candidate is kneeling under an arch of swords. A chicken cock's head is cut off in front of him, and the bleeding fowl placed in a bowl, as he repeats these words: "If ever I prove to be a traitor may my head be thus severed from my body." This form of oath is the most binding with the Chinese, and it is very doubtful whether they regard any oath otherwise administered. He further swears that he will obey the laws of the society, the orders of its officers, submit willingly to the decisions of the society, and never recognise the jurisdiction of any "other courts," and to never give testimony in "any other court" without first having obtained permission from the officers of "this society." He also renounces allegiance to the Chinese Government, disowns every family tie, declaring that his parents are dead to him—that he has neither home nor family, but that he has been "born again!" He has thus become an outlaw, a hired assassin and a natural enemy to the Government of the country he happens to be in. Thenceforth he is always heavily armed and wears a coat-of-mail.

Russia is determined to build that Peking railway, and there seems to be nothing for the Chinese government to do but to take away Li Hung Chang's peacock feather again.—Philadelphia Ledger.

What is Scott's Emulsion?

It is the best cod-liver oil, partly digested, and combined with the hypophosphites and glycerine. What will it do? It will make the poor blood of the anæmic rich and red.

It will give nervous energy to the overworked brain and nerves. It will add flesh to the thin form of a child, wasted from fat-starvation.

It is everywhere acknowledged as The Standard of the World.

A STEAM THAWER.

Another Thawer for the Klondike Shipped From Town.

Mr. James H. Metheral to-day shipped a steam thawer to Dawson City via C. P. R., Vancouver and White Pass. It was made to the order of W. B. Baptist, of Dawson, and will be used in mining operations near there. By means of steam forced through pipes to the ground the earth is thawed and is ready for immediate working. All the work can thus be carried on in the winter season. A foot's depth of earth can be thawed out in three minutes and the work can be carried down to a depth of sixty feet. The machinery is neat and compact and weighs only 900 pounds. This is the second of these thawers sent from town to the Klondike.

Remarkable Record.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement, that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. For sale by James Lynch, druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough, large bottles 50 cents and $1.00.

The Sunday service at the pavilion at Stony lake yesterday was conducted by Mr. Colville a former secretary of the Peterborough Y. M. C. A. There was a large crowd present and the service was a very interesting one. Mr. Colville spoke from the words "Come unto Me all ye that are weary and heavy laden and I will give you rest." The sermon was a strong and sincere appeal and produced a good effect. Next Sunday the service will be taken by Rev. Dr. Lindsay, of Pittsburg.

AN ACTIVE LIFE.

Mr. Chas. Jonathan Pusey, well known Through all this District, Passes away.

At the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. B. J. Kingan, 417 Stewart-st., there occurred last night about 9.20 o'clock the death of Charles Jonathan Pusey, President and general manager of the Irondale and Bancroft railway. Mr. Pusey has been suffering for about six months with heart trouble and this was the cause of his death. He had been at the residence of Mr. Kingan for about five weeks past.

The demise puts an end to a remarkable life. Mr. Pusey was known in all parts of Ontario. He was born in Chester, Penn., sixty-three years ago. While a young man he engaged in the iron business in the United States and was also interested in the flour trade. He then took up the railroad commission business and became prominent in railway circles in New York city, also making frequent trips to London, Eng. He became president of the Sodis Point railway, on the American side, about opposite Kingston, and afterwards turned his attention to developing the iron resources of Ontario. He was one of those to begin the development of the iron and gold mines around Madoc, and later he became interested in the iron districts of North Hastings, and as an aid to the development of the resources there he planned and began the construction of the Irondale and Bancroft railway, with which his name is inseparably associated. This was begun about twelve years ago and was part of an extensive project for the opening of the mines and the establishment of blast furnaces. The obstacles in the way were seemingly insurmountable, and Mr. Pusey received little or no outside encouragement, but Mr. Pusey was undaunted and stuck to his mighty task with determined courage and unwearying energy until death carried him off.

In the character of Charles Jonathan Pusey the elements of determination, energy and courage were manifested and developed to a remarkable degree. He was indomitable in all his undertakings and his wonderful work in connection with the Irondale and Bancroft railway has made him famous all over Ontario. He was in many respects a genius. He was a man of broad mind and in his business career showed also a great mastery over details. He had the development of northern and eastern Ontario sincerely at heart.

His wife preceded him to the grave about eight years ago, dying in Peterborough. Four daughters survive. They are Mrs F C Jones, Toronto; Mrs L B Howland, Toronto; Mrs R G Kingan, Peterborough, and Miss Pusey.

Interment will take place in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn.

Demonstrated.

Sometimes it costs hundreds of dollars to convince a man; very often less is required, but in the case of Polson's Nerviline, that sovereign remedy for pain, 10 cents foots the bill, and supplies enough Nerviline to convince every purchaser that it is the best, most prompt and certain pain remedy in the world. Nerviline is good for all kinds of pain, pleasant to take and sure to cure cramps and all internal pains. It is also nice to rub outside, for it has an agreeable smell, quite unlike so many other preparations, which are positively disagreeable to use. Try it now. Go to a drug store and buy a 10 cent or 25 cent bottle. Polson's Nerviline. Take no other.

The receipts at the tables, included in the above, were as follows:—Otonabee $127.83, Ashburnham $186.77, Ward 1 $117.98, Ward 2 $106.80, Wards 3 and 4 $155.27.

Do You Play the Clarinet?

Thousands of people are learning to play the piano. There is no demand for piano players; indeed, in some places they are prohibited. But there is a demand for clarinet players. A good clarinet player is always in demand and makes good wages. Why don't some of the foolish people take clarinet lessons?—Atchison Globe.

A Young Diplomat.

"What are you laughing at?" exclaimed the schoolmaster.

"Please, sir," said the boy, "I'm laughing at how funny it would be if one of the boys put a bent pin on your chair and you discovered it before—before—in time, sir, and then whipped him."—Philadelphia North American.

In East Indian schools mental arithmetic is a vastly more serious matter than it is in the schools of this country. Catch questions are numerous, and pupils of 16 years are taught to carry the multiplication table up to 40 times 40.

FIELD OF GENERAL SPORT

Lacrosse

Toronto and Cornwall played a senior league match at Cornwall Saturday, the home team winning by 7 goals to 4. The Toronto boys claim to have been very hardly used. The attendance totalled 2000.

Markham II. beat Stouffville in Markham on Saturday by 7 straights.

Baseball.

A grand baseball match will be played at the P.A.A.A. grounds on Wednesday afternoon, 19th inst., when Port Hope plays the Peterboroughs. The two nines played a close and exciting game at Millbrook on July 12th, and a repetition may be expected on Wednesday. A rattling good match should result from the rivalry. Game starts at 3 o'clock. There should be a good attendance.

The Atlin Mining Company of Ontario

LIMITED.

OFFICERS:

JOHN TORRANCE, Jr., Montreal, President. W. W. MEACHAM, M.D., Kingston, Ont., 2nd Vice-President.
WILLIAM MOORE, London, Eng., 1st Vice-President. J. B. CLARKSON, Montreal, Treasurer.
BANNELL SAWYER, B.C.L., Secretary.

CAPITAL: $600,000, divided into 1,600,000 shares of a par value of 25c. each.

INCORPORATION: Working under the Ontario Company's Act, non-personal liability.

TREASURY: Fund 600,000 shares from the sale of which development funds will be received and expended in placing the mine on a dividend paying basis.

MINE: The mining location which it is the special province of this Company to develop, is known as the "Sirdar of the Manitou." It is technically known as the H P 250 location, and lies in the Rainy Lake Mining District of Ontario.

THE VEIN: Is 4 feet wide at the surface or wider and the width increases as the shaft is sunk, until at a depth of 45 feet it is about 7 feet across.

WORK: In addition to surface prospecting and tracing the vein over the property, a shaft has been sunk to a depth of 45 feet, and a contract has been given to sink 30 feet farther and to drift for 60 feet on the vein. When this is completed, further and permanent development will be arranged for.

MILL TEST: Eighteen tons of ore from the dump were milled and the gold retorted at the "Keewatan Reduction Works," which went $9.60 to the ton. Five hundred pounds from the pay-streak was put through, which went so heavy in gold that extra quick silver had to be put on the plates to catch it all.

CONCENTRATES: These were only partially saved, but we have one thousand pounds on hand which we sampled and had assayed by Professor Donald which showed $153.09 to the ton. If all the Concentrates are as rich as this, the whole cost of operating the mine can be paid from them alone, leaving the free milling gold for dividends.

Assays: By Milton Hersey, Esq., B.A., Sc., Consulting Chemist of the C.P.R., of Montreal, average sample of the dump (not knowingly putting in any of the pay streak, which was carefully sacked, as it was extracted from the shaft) went $54.19; also samples from the bottom and sides of the shaft went $72.00 to the ton.

By Professor Donald, M.A., Professor of Chemistry, Bishop's College, sample taken from the pay streak, went $1,585.50.

By various persons, the following results were obtained: $14, $39.60, $615.

PLAN OF OPERATION: As soon as the work now under contract has been completed, our plan is to erect a two stamp mill in such a way that eight more stamps can be added later on, when the mine is sufficiently developed to supply ore rapidly enough to keep that number of stamps going night and day.

OUTPUT: Would be more than enough to keep the two stamps going, when we would be able to see and prove the value of our mine and we would also receive money steadily from the ore to help pay for the development, thus rendering it unnecessary to sell many Treasury Shares and enabling us to command a better price for them when offered.

PROFITS: The total cost of mining this ore need not exceed $2.50 per ton, and estimating it at $20.00 there would be a yield of $16,000 per month, crushing 30 tons a day.

GOLD BRICKS: We expect to have our first gold brick in Montreal within 6 months from the 1st of June.

SHARES: We are offering 100,000 shares at 15c., payable 1-3 cash, 1-3 in 60 days, and 1-3 in 90 days. Those who wish to pay in full at time of purchase may do so and receive their scrip at once.

CONCLUSION: From the results already obtained, we think we are safe in saying that this is one of the best and most promising investments in sight, and we believe that large profits will be made from such investment in a very short while.

ENGINEER'S REPORT.

Wabigoon, Ont., 28 Dec., 1898.

Made by Mr. Hugh D. Alston, of the Neepawa Mine, Ontario, late of London, England.

BANNEL SAWYER, Esq., Montreal, Que.

Sir:—In accordance with your request by telegram dated Nepigon, 22nd Dec., I now beg to hand you report on "Sirdar" Mine, better known as "Swede Boys."

LOCATIONS AND MEANS OF COMMUNICATION. The property contains 67 acres, more or less, situated on the upper Manitou Lake, in the Rainy River District of Ontario, it is distant about seven miles from Denmark at the head of the lake, and about thirty-three miles from the town of Wabigoon, a station on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway. At both points there are stores where nearly all necessary supplies can be obtained at reasonable cost. Communication is carried on during the winter by horses and sleighs, and in summer by steamboats, with the exception of seven miles over a Government road.

SHAFT AND LODE: The shaft is down 45 feet and timbered for about 10 feet and from there down it is about 6 x 8 on a slight incline partly following the hanging wall.

The vein is exceptionally well-defined and regular, and it is a "fissure" vein of a "banded" structure, it shows the full width of the shaft—this would make the vein over 7 feet wide.

MILL SITES, TIMBER, &c. There is a very favorable mill site East of the shaft, on the Lake shore, and, as the ground rises toward the shaft, ore could be supplied to the mill by gravity tramway at small cost.

There is a large quantity of dry timber on the property sufficient for fuel requirements for some time to come; building logs and mill timbers can be obtained adjacent to the lake.

RECOMMENDATION. Considering that this location is so favorably situated for mining and milling, and, judging from the character of the vein and quality of ore exposed in the shaft, I am of the opinion that this location will develop into a very valuable mine on a comparatively small outlay, and have no hesitation in recommending it as a sound investment.

Yours faithfully,
HUGH D. ALSTON.

ALEX. REDER'S DEATH.

Brought to Toronto by False Pretences by the T. Eaton Company, He Committed Suicide Through Despondency.

Toronto, July 18.—Last night Coroner Greig and a jury held an inquest touching the death of Alex. Reder, the man who committed suicide by jumping into the bay after filling his pockets with stones. After hearing the facts, as told in lengthy evidence, and deliberating for a few minutes, the jury returned the following verdict:

"That Alex. Reder did on July 14 deliberately commit suicide by jumping into Toronto Bay. The cause of this act was despondency, the result of being brought to Toronto under false pretences by S. Lubelski, acting for the T. Eaton Company."

Shamrock and Britannia.

Cowes, July 18.—The Shamrock, with Sir Thomas Lipton and Mr. Fife, her designer, on board, took another spin yesterday afternoon. The challenger showed herself extremely quick in stays. The Britannia was also out, but the boats were cruising in different waters. The Prince of Wales will witness to-day's trial of the Shamrock from the Admiralty yacht Fire Queen.

Some Guns May Be Fired.

St. John's, Nfld., July 18.—The British squadron, under Rear-Admiral Sir Frederick George Denham Bedford, assembled here yesterday. The French fleet has not yet arrived. Admiral Bedford's conference with the Colonial Ministry will take place to-day. It is assumed that he will outline a plan for dealing with the French encroachments on the treaty coast.

Fearful Storms in Germany.

Berlin, July 17.—A heavy thunderstorm prevailed throughout the country yesterday afternoon. The storm was accompanied by a fall of hailstones, some of which were as large as walnuts. Immense damage was done. Five horses were injured by lightning near Berlin and one was killed.

Triple Murder in Japan.

Yokohama, July 18.—A triple murder of an American named Ward and his two Japanese women, the supposed cause being jealousy, brings an American sailor named Miller under the Japanese law as the suspected murderer. This is the first case under the new treaties which came into force yesterday.

Bishop of Limerick Dead.

Limerick, July 18.—The Rev. Charles Graves, D.D., D.C.L., Bishop of Limerick, died yesterday in his 87th year.

THE STREET CAR STRIKES.

In London, Ont., Unionists Marched and Parodied the Military.

The Strike in Brooklyn—Employes of Rapid Transit Street Car Lines Are More Determined Than Ever—The Company Is Obdurate—Legend Strike at the Consolidated Railway Company at Cleveland Begun.

London, Ont., July 18.—The union labor organizations of the city held a monster street demonstration last night to show their sympathy with the striking Street Car Company's employes. The streets were blocked with people. As all were in very good humor, no attempt was made to molest the street cars which were running. A feature of the demonstration which created much laughter was the parodying of the militia route marches in connection with the recent declaration of martial law. Following a banner inscribed, "To Defend Our City," was a company of unionists, wearing red and green cockades, carrying wooden swords and trailing behind them a large cotton-built field gun. The authorities did not deem it necessary to make a display of force, or to take any extra precautions against trouble, nor were the street cars put under extra police protection.

Street Railway Strike in Cleveland.

Cleveland, July 18.—The conductors and motormen of the big consolidated street railway system, who were on strike last month, went out again at 4.15 o'clock yesterday morning. Eight hundred men are affected. They claim the company has not lived up to the agreement which ended the former strike.

The Strike in Brooklyn.

New York, July 18.—The strike situation in Brooklyn remains unchanged. The striking employes are even more determined than they were yesterday, and the management of the Rapid Transit Line is obdurate and unflinching. Cars were run on most of the lines governed by the Traction Company from early morning until 7 o'clock last evening, but after sundown there was a considerable falling off in the service, and by 9 o'clock not a car was moving on any of the lines affected by the striking motormen and conductors. The roads comprising the Nassau system were more effectively crippled. None of the striking employes returned to work, and most of them were busy during the day influencing union and non-union men on the other lines to quit work. In this respect the strikers were partially successful.

Shut All Traction Co.'s Lines Down.

At 7 o'clock last evening President Rossiter issued instructions to shut down all the Traction Company's lines, and from that hour until long after midnight not a car was run, with the exception of a couple, which were placed at the service of the city authorities to transport policemen to the outlying districts.

Metropolitans Will Strike.

General Master Workman John M. Parsons was in conference for several hours last night with the executive committee of the employes of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, Borough of Manhattan. After the conference Mr. Parsons practically announced that a strike of the Metropolitan employes is now inevitable unless President Vreeland recedes from the position he has taken.

Strikes at Chicago.

Chicago, July 18.—Sixteen hundred members of the Boilermakers and Iron Shipbuilders' Union struck here yesterday. They ask for an eight-hour day, 30 cents per hour and a half-holiday on Saturdays during the summer months. Two hundred and fifty men employed by the Chicago Furnace Company as ore shovellers also struck for more pay.

TARTAR'S CREW STRUCK.

Demanded Double Pay When They Thought They Could Enforce It.

San Francisco, July 18.—Sixty-seven members of the Chinese crew of the transport Tartar have been on a strike for several days, having demanded double pay for the voyage from Manila. The vessel was acquired by the Government from the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, and the action of the men rendered them liable to six months' imprisonment when the vessel reached a British port. Through the intervention of the Chinese consul-general here and the British consul the matter has been adjusted. When the seriousness of their offence had been impressed upon the mutineers they gave in, rescinded their demands and in return they received assurances that they would not be prosecuted.

The Last Survivor.

Stirling, July 18.—Mr. Henry Gauen, presumably the last survivor of the McClure Arctic expedition, which discovered the northwest passage and the first definite trace of Sir John Franklin, died at his home in West Huntingdon on Friday evening, at the age of 76.

Drowned in a Well.

Russell, July 18.—John Stevenson, a prominent farmer and Forester, was accidentally drowned in a well here yesterday morning. He was raking up a can of milk, and, it is supposed, slipped in head first.

THE FACTS SUPPRESSED.

Freest Country Under the Sun Will Not Let Truth Shine.

The Manila Correspondents Are Kicking—Their Strong Bill of Particulars Formulated to Gen. Otis—Hospital Reports Are Prohibited and the Strength of the Filipinos Is Not Told—Much Reinforcement Needed in Philippines.

Manila, July 11, via Hongkong, July 18.—The constantly-increasing strictures of the censorship of press despatches from Manila, which has prevented the cabling to the United States of anything that did not reflect official views of important events and conditions, resulted in a united effort on the part of correspondents here to secure an abatement of the rigor of the censorship. The correspondents had two long interviews with General Otis, in the course of which they complained that the evident purpose of the censorship was, not to keep information from the enemy, but to keep from the public a knowledge of the real condition of affairs here. It was also asserted by the correspondents that newspapers printed in Manila, which reach the enemy quickly, are permitted to publish statements similar to those which correspondents are forbidden to cable. General Otis finally promised greater liberality, agreeing to pass all matters that he might consider not detrimental to the interests of the United States. General Otis appointed Captain Green of his staff censor.

Correspondents' Statements.

The statement of the correspondents is as follows: The undersigned, being all staff correspondents of American newspapers stationed in Manila, united in the following statement: "We believe that, owing to official despatches from Manila, made public in Washington, the people of the United States have not received a correct impression of the situation in the Philippines, but that these despatches have presented an ultra-optimistic view that is not shared by the general officers in the field.

"We believe the despatches incorrectly represent the existing conditions among the Filipinos in respect to internal dissension and demoralization resulting from the American campaign and to the brigand character of their army.

"We believe the despatches err in the declaration that 'the situation is well in hand' and in the assumption that the insurrection can be speedily ended without a greatly increased force.

"We think the tenacity of the Filipino purpose has been underestimated and that the statements are unfounded that volunteers are willing to engage in further service."

Gen. Otis' Excuse.

The censorship has compelled us to participate in this misrepresentation by excising or altering uncontroverted statements of facts on the pleas, as General Otis stated, that "they would alarm the people at home" or "have the people of the United States by the ears."

Specifications—Prohibition of hospital reports, suppression of full reports of field operations in the event of failure, numbers of heat prostrations in the field, systematic minimization of naval operations, and suppression of complete reports of the situation.

Created a Sensation at Washington.

Washington, July 18.—The publication of the war correspondents' indictment of General Otis' management of the Philippine campaign caused a sensation in the departments here. Secretary Hay had received advices as late as yesterday from civil as well as military sources in the Philippines which led him to declare the situation there was certainly improved materially, and that the prospects for the future had been brightened very much. With these advices, the Secretary said, Gen. Otis had nothing to do, and they

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

The Daily Review.

TUESDAY, JULY 18, 1899.

NOT SO ENTHUSIASTIC.

THE Examiner in making another reference to the Trent Valley canal appropriation does not evince as much enthusiasm over the stand taken by the Minister of Railways and Canals and the "intelligent grasp" he showed of the importance of the work as it did on the first occasion. Second thought evidently was better than the first. The Examiner need not worry about the Conservative members of this district. They have always been strong supporters of the canal both in and out of the House, and will not be found wanting at any time. Our contemporary should not overlook or belittle the work these members have done in any desire to make party capital. The records will not allow such action to be successful, and the attempt will not assist in having the completion of the work hastened in the prompt manner desired.

AN APPEAL FOR A WORTHY OBJECT.

IN another column appears a letter from Mrs. Macfarlane Wilson, which will be read with interest by those in Peterborough who remember the subject of the sketch and, in fact, by all who can appreciate such services as Miss Crawford rendered mankind. An appeal is made for contributions to enable friends to raise a "simple shaft" to mark her resting place. It is not necessary to emphasize what Mrs. Wilson has said regarding Miss Crawford and her work, but the fact that her grave lies in Little Lake cemetery should cause Peterborough residents to take a peculiar interest in this effort to have her name recorded on a marble tablet that will allow the present and future generations to know where her remains rest and to recognize that her life work was appreciated to some small extent. It is to be hoped that the response made to Mrs. Wilson's appeal will be sufficient to allow the memorial shaft to be erected. Contributions may be sent to Col. H. C. Rogers, President of the Historical Society.

THE Government that holds office by virtue of "the machine" has not resigned yet, although Ontario has been disgraced by its election methods.

No objection is now offered when the term "discredited" is applied to the Hardy combination at Toronto. The proof has been given to the public.

THE province is waiting for the Attorney-General to set in motion the proceedings that will result in the punishment of the guilty ones in the West Elgin disgrace. The province may continue waiting until election day, but that will be a sorry day for the discredited combination if they do.

THE Conservative party has lost two of its prominent members during the last few days, both being taken away suddenly—Senator Sanford by drowning and Hon. Mr. Ives, who was stricken while en route to Ottawa to continue his duties in Parliament. One had been prominent in the party in Ontario, and the other was a leader in Quebec. The loss of such men is mourned, however, all over the Dominion, and it is at such a time that party lines are forgotten and all unite in paying a tribute to the departed.

They Don't Weigh the Lead With Tea.

To the Editor:—

Dear Sir,—A recent case that appeared before the court and which has attracted much attention, has been one that affects the public in regard to the weight of articles purchased. It has been stated in open court by some witnesses that it was a common practice for grocers and others to weigh in the papers, or other wrapping material, with the article sold. Now we would like to emphatically contradict this, and we state that it is not the practice of the trade to do so. There are individual cases in which it is done, as was proved against the accused in court, but our goods have been before the public for many years, and we can say most decidedly that every package of tea sold under the brand of "SALADA" contains full weight inside the lead of each package. We will thank you very much if you will acquaint your readers of this fact.

Yours truly,

The "SALADA" Tea Co.

A BRAVE RAILWAY LABORER.

Watchman Swam a Stream Twice and Flagged Trains in Danger.

Vancouver, B.C., July 18.—Late Saturday night a spark from a freight train set fire to and completely destroyed the railway bridge 18 miles west of Kamloops, and just east of Cherry Creek. The bridge spanned the arm of Kamloops Lake and was a Howe truss structure 135 feet in length. The incident was attended by an exhibition of pluck on the part of a railway laborer that is much oftener seen in melodrama than in real life. But for him the west going express would probably have been precipitated into the water. This C.P.R. watchman discovered the fire just in time for him to flag the two trains that were east and west bound, respectively. It was late at night, and in order to make sure of stopping the eastbound train the watchman heroically swam across the stream at this junction with the lake and flagged the train. He made the trip back and flagged the westbound train. The passengers on both are warm in praise of his action.

A TRAMP KILLED.

A Grim Ending of a Sunday Morning Theft in Quebec.

Bay St. Paul, Que., July 18.—Coroner Guillemate was asked yesterday morning to hold an inquest on the body of a tramp, killed at Petite Riviere, St. Francois, after a theft at the Presbytery during the holy mass on Sunday. The servant perceived the presence of a thief in the house. She gave the alarm and four parishioners started after him, and they met him in the woods. One of the men shot and killed him. It is said he shot too hastily, but it is also reported he was self-defending, the thief having shown a revolver and poignard. Fifteen dollars and a watch stolen were found on the body.

END OF THE HOUSE IS NEAR.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Gives Notice of Rush Session.

The Senate Reform Fad Will Also Be Introduced on Wednesday — Many Words of Deep Sympathy by the Leaders of the House With the Sudden Deaths of Mr. Ives and Senator Sanford.

Ottawa, July 18.—The attendance at the opening of the House yesterday was unusually slim, even for Monday, there being so many members attending the funeral of Hon. W. B. Ives, and others who were absent on account of the illness of Hon. C. A. Geoffrion. There was also an air of sadness pervading the House, and those present were reminded of the loss which the House had sustained on Saturday by the desk which Mr. Ives had occupied being covered with a small black velvet pall, on which rested a magnificent wreath composed of Japanese snored lilies, sweet peas, maidenhair fern and long trailers of smilax. The wreath was one of the most beautiful ever seen in the House.

The Death of Mr. Ives.

On the orders of the day being called, Sir Charles Tupper said it was again his sad duty to call attention to the death of a member of the House. He need not say to the House, of which the late Mr. Ives has been so long a member, that no gentleman could be removed from this House whose absence would perhaps create a greater void. As an able lawyer, as a man of great business enterprise and capacity, as a man of the Legislature for many years, and as an administrator of an important public department, Mr. Ives has filled an honorable place in this country and has well and faithfully discharged the various duties devolving upon him. He spoke with great feeling of the loss which Mr. Ives would be to the House, to the Conservative party and to the country. Continuing, he said that the hand of death had been laid heavily on this Parliament. Not only had the House lost some of its members, but in the Senate there had also been several deaths, one of which, that of Senator Sanford, had been peculiarly shocking by its suddenness. In conclusion, Sir Charles said: "It only reminds us how frail, how slight is the tenure by which we hold our positions here. I am quite sure that every man of this House will join in tendering his heartfelt sympathy not only to the family of my late lamented colleague, Mr. Ives, but also to the family of the late Senator Sanford, who have been bereaved in both instances in such a remarkably sudden manner of the heads of those families."

Sir Wilfrid's Sympathy.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said he joined most heartily in the expressions of regret which had fallen from the lips of the leader of the Opposition. "Mr. Ives," he said, "was one of the most influential, important and useful members of this House. Hon. gentlemen who came into this Parliament at the last election were unable to appreciate him fully, because, being much engaged in commercial and business pursuits, he had not of late taken the same active part he did in former years in the proceedings of this House, but those who have sat in the House with him for the last 20 year can testify that he always imparted much useful information to the discussion of every subject he chose to speak upon. On some questions, indeed, it is not too much to say that he was an authority. In everything that pertained to finance, business, commerce, agriculture, lumbering and mining, he had a vast amount of knowledge and a great deal of experience, which enabled him to speak on all these questions as a master, and his loss amongst us will be all the more felt when we have to deal with such questions as these." He referred to his personal association with Mr. Ives in early life, and, in conclusion, said that he thoroughly joined in the expression of sympathy for the family of Senator Sanford, the circumstances of whose death were peculiarly sad.

House in Supply.

The House then went into supply, taking up the Public Works votes. On the item of $254,000 for St. Lawrence ship channel a long discussion took place, the Opposition quoting from the Auditor-General's report to show how large a proportion of this work was being done under contracts without tenders being called for, in face of the law, which required that all works of $5,000 or over should be let by tender.

Notices of Motion.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier gives notice of the following resolution for Wednesday:

"That on Thursday next and for the remainder of the session the House shall meet at 11 o'clock in the morning; that, in addition to the usual intermission at 6 o'clock, there shall also be an intermission on each day from 1 to 2 o'clock p.m.; that the House shall also meet on Saturday at the same hour of 11, and Government orders shall have precedence at such sittings."

The Senate Resolution.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier gives notice that he will move on Wednesday next as follows:

"That an humble address be presented to Her Majesty the Queen, setting forth that the provisions of the British North America Act, 1867, respecting the powers of the Senate of Canada in the making of laws are unsatisfactory and should be brought more into harmony with the principle of popular government, and praying that Her Majesty may be pleased to recommend to the Imperial Parliament a measure for the amendment of the said act in such terms as will effectually make provision as follows:

"If the House of Commons passes any bill which the Senate rejects or fails to pass, or amends in a way not accepted by the House of Commons at the next following session, again passes such bill, and the Senate again rejects or fails to pass or amends the same in a way not accepted by the Commons, the Governor-General may by proclamation convene one or more joint sittings of the members of the two Houses for the further consideration of such bill or amendments, and the question whether such bill or amendment shall pass shall be decided by a majority of the members of the two Houses present and voting, and the vote of any such joint sitting shall, as respects such bill or amendments, have the same force and effect as a vote of the Senate under the existing constitution."

Will Act as Speaker.

Mr. Brodeur, Deputy Speaker, will act as Speaker during the remainder of the session, calling on some member of the House to take his place as chairman of committee.

SICK MEMBERS.

Sir James Edgar Ordered to Take a Complete Rest—Hon. C. A. Geoffrion Dying—Mr. Ledue Very Ill.

Ottawa, July 18.—Drs. Powell and Ruddick have advised Sir James Edgar, Speaker of the House of Commons, that it is necessary for him to take a rest, the arduous work of the session having produced splenetic anaemia. No serious results are anticipated, but it is considered advisable for his honor to rest for a couple of months. Sir James Edgar and Lady Edgar left for Toronto last night and during the week will go to Sir James' country house at Roach's Point, where the remainder of the summer will be passed.

Hon. C. A. Geoffrion Dying.

The Premier left here at 8 o'clock yesterday morning and proceeded to Vaudreuil. On arriving there he walked to the residence of Hon. C. A. Geoffrion, whose death is momentarily expected, the last rites of the church having been administered. Sir Wilfrid will return to Ottawa by a special train.

Mr. Ledue May Not Recover.

Word was received yesterday morning that Mr. Ledue, M.P. for Nicolet, was dangerously ill at his home at St. Leonard D'Aston, and that but little hopes are entertained of his recovery.

GERRYMANDER OF MANITOBA.

The Particulars of the Redistribution Bill of Hon. Mr. Greenway.

Winnipeg, July 18.—It is expected that the business of the House will be wound up this week. The redistribution bill was distributed in the House last evening. Only a few constituencies are affected. Six townships are taken off Mountain, Greenway's constituency, and added to Morden. Six townships on the east side of Beautiful Plains have been added to Westbourne, while the same number have been added to Beautiful Plains on the north and a slice taken off the east side of Rockwood and added to St. Andrew's and Kildonan, and the north end of St. Andrew's is combined with Kildonan. The regions lying between Lakes Winnipeg and Manitoba and North Woodlands and Rockwood have been erected into a new constituency, which will be known as Gimli. The region lying west of Lake Winnipeg and Lake Winnipegosis, and north of Westbourne and Beautiful Plains, and east of Russell, will be known as Dauphin, and will embrace the new settlement of Swan River. Russell has not been changed.

In Memory of Carnegie.

East Liverpool, O., July 17.—Andrew Carnegie, who lived here a number of years in his youth, on Saturday offered the city $50,000 for a memorial library, provided the city would furnish a free site. The offer will be accepted.

FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION

Makes Weak Women Strong, And Sick Women Well

For over thirty years this celebrated remedy has been making women's lives happier—healthier—safer.

Many thousands of women have testified to its wonderful effect.

It is the one medicine that can be depended upon when there is any derangement of the distinctly feminine organism.

It purifies, heals, soothes, builds up. It is needed when backaches make life miserable—when a sickening, dragging, bearing-down feeling makes work a weary agony and play impossible—when disagreeable drains give proof of burning inflammation—when sick headache, nervous irritability, loss of energy and appetite are the reminder of unhealthful irregularity or painful periods.

"I had female trouble for eight years," writes Mrs. L. J. Dennis, of 328 East College Street, Jacksonville, Ill. "I was so bad I would lie from day to day and long for death to come and relieve my suffering. I had internal inflammation, a disagreeable drain, bearing-down pains in the lower part of my bowels, and such distress every month, but now I never have a pain—do all my own work and am a strong and healthy woman. Thanks to your medicine. I never forget to recommend it to all suffering women. I consider myself a living testimonial of the benefits of your 'Favorite Prescription.'"

Paine's Celery Compound

The Only Medicine That Bestows the Blessings of True Health.

Interesting Testimony from a Cured Man.

If you have entered into the oppressive heat of midsummer and find yourself suffering from dyspepsia, liver and kidney troubles, pain in back and side, headache, insomnia and stomach disorders, let us urge you to give Paine's Celery Compound a fair and honest trial if you would be healthy, strong and happy. We fully realize the seriousness of your condition, and with a desire for your physical welfare we recommend Paine's Celery Compound, the medicine that is now doing such a marvellous work for thousands of sufferers in our country. If your doctor is unfettered by professional etiquette, he will advise you to use the great life giver. Your friends and neighbors will be pleased to tell you what it has done for them in their time of distress and agony.

Mr. Charles Comeau, of Neguac, N. B., tells of his terrible sufferings, and his cure by Paine's Celery Compound, as follows:

dizziness, pains in the back, and was

"I can conscientiously recommend Paine's Celery Compound to all who may be suffering from dyspepsia and liver trouble. For years, while living in Black Brook, I suffered from a complication of troubles, and was so bad with dyspepsia that I could not touch a morsel of food. I found it difficult to sleep, and what little I did get was often broken with horrid dreams. Intense suffering from liver complaint added to my load of agony; I also had dizziness, pains in the back, and was pale, haggard and despondent.

"I kept doctoring and dosing without deriving the slightest benefit, and finally gave up all hope of getting well. One day my daughter, who had read of a wonderful cure by Paine's Celery Compound, begged me to try one bottle of the medicine. I told her it was no use to throw away money, but she pleaded so hard that to please her I bought a bottle, and before it was used up I felt better. Encouraged so much, I continued with the medicine and improved every day.

"I am now cured, thanks to Paine's Celery Compound. You cannot wonder that I consider Paine's Celery Compound the greatest medical discovery in the world. I urge all who are suffering to try this grand medicine and test its virtues."

SUN'S COLOR IS BLUE.

SO SAYS PROF. LANGLEY OF THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTE.

If We Were Above the Atmosphere the Sun Would Have a Decidedly Bluish Tint to the Naked Eye—Some Recent Interesting Scientific Information About the Colors of Suns.

"There can be no doubt of the correctness of the opinion of the secretary of the Smithsonian Institute, Professor Langley, that the sun is really blue and not yellow, as we see it," said Professor T. J. J. See of the U. S. Naval Observatory, who has made himself famous recently as the discoverer of "double stars" in numbers hitherto undreamed of. "You have only to imagine the atmospheric envelope of the earth, which hinders vision, removed, and the heavens are revealed to the eye in an altogether new and unfamiliar aspect.

"The sky, in broad daylight, is black, and the moon, if above the horizon, is no longer yellow, but a brilliant white. Though the blue sun shine above, the stars are much brighter and more distinctly seen than ever before on the clearest night. Furthermore, they differ very much in color, some of them being red, others blue, others rose-color, others red, others violet, and yet others green.

"A strange aspect of the universe this would seem to be, and yet such is its true appearance, whereas we are accustomed to behold it altered to the eye by the interference of the atmosphere.

"As is well known, the sky looks blue because of the breaking up of the light by innumerable particles of dust and moisture afloat in the air. Take away this hindrance to vision and no longer will diffusion of sunlight obscure the view of the stars, each of which will shine like a separate lamp in the blackness of space.

"The blue sun, under present circumstances, looks yellow because the blue light rays, having very short wavelengths, do not easily penetrate the atmospheric coat of the earth. The yellow waves are much longer and have a better chance to get through; hence the sun is yellow and sunlight is yellow.

"Now, as to the differing tints of the stars, we must understand that they vary in this respect with their age. To begin with, it is necessary to realize that, barring the moon and a few planets of our own system, visible because they are near, all of the celestial bodies one sees in the heavens at night are suns—many of them hundreds of times as big as our own sun.

"The so-called Milky Way is a congress of suns, in which our orb of day is a rather inferior luminary. Planets in general being dark and extinguished bodies, could not possibly be visible by their own light, and so we must perceive that every star which twinkles in the vault above us at night is a sun. By the aid of a very powerful telescope, I have discovered about a dozen stars that are actually made visible by the reflected light of the suns about which they revolve, but they do not importantly concern the general proposition.

"The color of a star—otherwise to be termed a distant sun—varies according to its age. In its youth it is yellow; in its old age blue.

"The tint is a matter of temperature; the hotter a star, the bluer its gets, because great heat means an activity that engenders blue light-waves. Sirius is a very blue star, as seen through the telescope, simply because it is so hot. Probably Sirius gives out 100 times as much light as our sun, though it is only three, or perhaps four, times as big. Vega, in the constellation Lyra, hundreds of times as big as our sun, is blue, and the inference is that the heat it emits is tremendous.

"I have been speaking of the appearance of these stars as viewed through the medium of our atmosphere. Their colors, in some cases, are so vivid as to exhibit marked differences; but if the air envelope of the earth were taken away, their varying tints would be more noticeable.

"From what I have said, you will have understood that the suns of the universe go through progressive alterations of blue as they grow older. Our own sun is becoming steadily bluer, because it is growing hotter and hotter up to a certain point in its history, and then cools. Our sun, through the contraction of its gaseous body, is still gaining temperature, while losing bulk at the rate of ten inches in diameter per diem. It will be ten inches less thick to-morrow than it is to-day.

"However, our sun has nearly reached the limit of its increase in temperature, and before long it will begin to cool off. My belief is that within 800,000 years the solar orb, while considerably smaller than now, will be so hot that it will look decidedly blue even as seen through the earth's atmosphere; thereafter it will show signs of running down quite rapidly, and a tendency will soon follow, on the part of the human population of the earth, to huddle toward the equator.

"So well as we are able to perceive mankind must be destroyed eventually by the progress of cold, and in my opinion the sun will not shine for more than 4,000,000 years longer."

A Complicated Case.

"Is Slippy good pay?"

"Well, if he is, Yanker, the dentist, is the meanest man on earth."

"How's that?"

"I was in Yanker's office when Slippy came to have a tooth pulled. Jaw all swollen out of shape. Awful looking face. Fairly howled with pain. But Yanker wouldn't pull the tooth without being paid in advance."

"Pretty tough on Slippy, wasn't it?"

"Oh, I don't know! He's a man of wonderful self command. Instead of kicking up a row he pulled out a check for $5, received $4 in change and smilingly ordered the doctor to go ahead with the torture."

"But was the check worth anything?"

"Good as gold when it was given, but Slippy reached the bank first and drew out his balance. Now he's telling around that Yanker pulled the wrong tooth and insinuates that there may be a suit for malpractice."

"Yanker will sue, of course?"

"Not he. The truth is that the dentist in his excitement drew two teeth at one haul, the extra one being marked by a big gold filling. Slippy misses that one, but what puzzles him is that his jaw is getting well and that he has no toothache. The dentist that filled the tooth was never paid, and the chances are that Slippy will drop the case as being too complicated."

A Millionaire Jockey.

Ancient Rome had its racing and its popular and well paid jockeys. Betting ran high, and the excitement of the people over the races and their favorite color frequently led to bloodshed. Caligula—he who made a consul of his horse—passed most of his time rioting with the charioteers.

The circus was the place for the racing. The largest of them, the Circus Maximus, about 21,000 feet long, could accommodate 480,000 spectators. Seven times was it necessary to race round the spina, a low stone wall running down the center of the circus. The jockeys drove in a light chariot—usually four in each race—and wore close fitting tunics and leather caps of distinguishing colors.

That the profession was a paying one we learn from ancient writers, money prizes and wages being paid. The jockey Crescens, at the age of 22, had amassed a fortune, and Diocles, king of jockeys, left to his son more than $1,000,000.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Time He Was Married.

A recent wedding in a western town was so much interrupted that the friends of the wedded pair found special reason to congratulate them when the ceremony was at last over. All went merrily until the bridegroom was called upon to produce the wedding ring. In vain he felt in his trousers pocket for the indispensable article. Nothing could be found except a hole through which the ring had evidently fallen into the high boot which the young man wore. What was to be done?

"Take your boot off," said the parson.

The suspense and silence were painful.

The organist, at the priest's bidding, struck up a "voluntary."

The young man removed his boot; the ring was found; also a hole in his stocking, and the worthy minister remarked, evidently with more than the delay of the ceremony in mind:

"Young man, it is time you were married."

Pools on Murder Cases.

Bookmaking in murder cases is one of the forms of gambling here, which has opened a new field to the men who are willing to lay odds. The suggestion smacks of the ridiculous, but a gaudily dressed young man, with a few "notes" in his left hand and $40 in money in his right, appeared in the criminal branch of the supreme court here a few days ago. "Who's on trial?" he asked an officer. Being told, he consulted his notes and said:

"Let's see. Lawyer Blank; defense, insanity; charge, murder." And then, turning to the doorman again, "I'll bet you 1 to 10 he's acquitted."

The court officer looked puzzled, but was astounded when the gaudily dressed informed him he was making "book." The court officer saw that he made tracks, but not before over $900 in bets had been placed on the outcome of the case. An investigation showed that there are a large number of these bookmakers doing business around the New York courts, and their profits are said to be very large.—New York Letter in Pittsburg Dispatch.

Lander's Cravat.

At a friendly dinner at Gore House, when it was the most delightful of houses, his dress—say, his cravat or shirt collar—had become slightly disarranged on a hot evening, and Count d'Orsay laughingly called his attention to the circumstance as we rose from table. Landor became flushed and greatly agitated. "My dear Count d'Orsay, I thank you! My dear Count d'Orsay, I thank you from my soul for pointing out to me the abominable condition to which I am reduced! If I had entered the drawing room and presented myself before Lady Blessington in so absurd a light, I would instantly have gone home, put a pistol to my head and blown my brains out."—"Landor's Letters."

COLD CURE

FROM QUEBEC.

A Letter from the Oldest City in Canada Concerning Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mr. James Walters, of Quebec City, Replies to a Toronto Enquirer—Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Him of Kidney Disease.

Quebec, July 17.—Mr. James Walters, of this city, was cured of Kidney Disease a year ago by Dodd's Kidney Pills. In a statement of his case published at the time he said:

"I have been troubled with Stomach Kidney Diseases for eleven years and could get nothing to help me. I saw by the paper that Dodd's Kidney Pills could cure these diseases, and I determined to try them. I have been so bad my son had to attend to my business, but after I had used two boxes of your Dodd's Kidney Pills I was cured."

A Toronto man who keeps a record of such cases, where diseases such as Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Rheumatism, Heart Disease, Diabetes, Dropsy, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Urinary and Bladder Troubles, Blood Impurities and Woman's Weakness—which are only so many different forms and symptoms of Kidney Disease—are cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills, wrote to Mr. Walters asking him about his cure.

Mr. Walters replied as follows:

Quebec, June 13, 1899.

Dear Sir,—Yours of the 25th May to hand, and I am pleased to say that the cure has been entirely satisfactory to me. I have recommended Dodd's Kidney Pills to scores of people who have all been greatly benefitted by them.

I am,
Yours truly,
JAMES WALTERS,

Quebec City.

The Mortality Record.

The total number of men wounded to date is 1,586; died of wounds, not including those killed outright, 282.

The total number of patients Saturday, including those sick in their quarters, is 1,389.

Samples of Otis' Censorship.

New York, July 18.—The Journal prints a despatch from James Creelman, who was The Journal's correspondent in Manila, and who is now in London, in which he says that unless Gen. Otis is removed the campaign in the Philippines will be a failure. He says Gen. Otis is a fussy old man, unaccustomed to anything but regimental commands, saturated with the ideas and methods of a routine clerk. His experience does not go outside of regimental lines. He is not capable of dealing with the far-reaching, intricate problems involved in a war with the natives.

Creelman says that after the outbreak Otis refused to allow the army to make any advance, and when Gen. Anderson told him that the only way to destroy the enemy was to fight them, Gen. Otis treated him with open hostility, and finally had him returned to the United States. Meanwhile Otis busied himself about details of smaller fights.

The story says Gen. Otis' exercise of his rights to censor press despatches was tyrannical. The night Creelman brought to him a despatch telling how Col. Funston swam a river under fire, Otis, he says, struck out Funston's name, remarking: "I propose to make all the heroes that are made in this war."

At another time, in censoring despatches of actual occurrence, Otis said: "I don't propose to allow the American public to know anything about this campaign that will agitate or excite it. So long as I am in command," he says, "the people of the United States know only such matters as I deem advisable to allow to be known."

FIELD OF GENERAL SPORT

Canoeing.

The Canadian contingent at A C A camp, which opens at Hay Island on August 4th, promises to exceed by a very large number the attendance of former years. This has been no doubt brought about by the very energetic efforts of Vice-Commodore Howell of the Northern Division who has devoted not a little of his time to enthusing the different clubs who in former years have not been represented in camp. The action of the Northern Division executive in offering a prize for competition between Canadian War Canoe crews has been another factor in promoting the success of the meet. The race will take place on August 17th and it is expected that at least 10 crews of 15 men each will compete for the handsome banner which will be awarded the winning crew.

Lacrosse.

Lacrosse, as played in Cornwall, beats prize fights. Who would not be sorry for Peaker, after reading the following:—"The third game abounded in rough work. W. Broderick brought his stick down with all his might on Peaker's back. For this he was sent to the fence, where he muttered to his crowd, telling them what he would do next time. Tobin a little later cut Peaker's lip through with a blow of his stick, and then jumped on Peaker, putting his knees in his back. Peaker had again to retire to the dressing room, and the home players were told to desist in their dirty work. Degan, who poses as a gentleman player, next tried his luck on Peaker. He tripped the Toronto player, but went to the fence."

Golf.

Toronto Star:—Some one who has just returned from Cobourg says the people down there have gone mad on the subject of golf. Nothing else is talked about, nothing else is done, no weather seems to be too bad, no hour too early or too late. At all the cottages and summer houses there are resident or visiting golfers, and at the crowded hotel fragments of golf conversations, comparisons of scores, heated discussions on the merits and drawbacks of the links, and the relative style of the different players come from the verandahs, and accompany the clatter and talk of the dinner tables. Taking it all round, the course is a very good one, fairly flat and with few natural hazards, but lots of artificial ones, and among the players are a number of very strong ones.

Baseball.

A good way to spend a couple of hours pleasantly to-morrow afternoon will be to attend the baseball match between Peterborough and Port Hope teams at the P.A.A.A. grounds. The game should be an exciting one as the teams are well matched and are both playing good ball. The excursion of the Port Hope Methodist Sunday school is coming up to town to-morrow and it is expected that a large number of picnickers will attend the match. Peterborough people should turn out in good numbers. The town has a winning team and it should receive better support. The game will start at 3 o'clock sharp. The local team will consist of Connons 1b, Melrose 2b, Parnell ss, Sheridan 3b, Donovan rf, Grady cf, Thompson 1f, McCabe p, Graham c. Players are expected to be on hand at 2.15.

WORK PROGRESSING.

The Concreting Started on the Canal Lock Near the Little Lake.

Although the rainy weather of the spring and summer has interfered considerably with the work on the canal, good progress has been made at the locks opening into Little lake on the lower end of the Peterborough-Lakefield section. The excavation work has been completed and the concrete work has been begun and is being pushed ahead rapidly. The contractors expect that the lock will be completed by the middle of August.

HON. C. A. GEOFFRION PASSES AWAY

WAS A MEMBER OF THE LAURIER ADMINISTRATION

But Held no Portfolio—A Short Sketch of the Life of the Deceased.

Special to the Review.

Vaudreuil, Que., July 18.—Hon. C. A Geoffrion, Minister without portfolio in the Dominion Government, died at his residence at Dorion at 2.15 this morning. Death came peacefully.

Hon. Christopher Alphonse Geoffrion was born at Varennes, County of Vercheres on the 23rd of November, 1843. He was educated at the College of St. Hyacinthe and McGill University, receiving his B.C.L. in 1866. He was admitted to the bar in June, 1866. He was Batonnier of the Montreal bar in 1884-85, and was appointed a Q.C., in 1887. In 1870 he was married to Eulalie, eldest daughter of the late Chief Justice Sir A. A. Dorion. He was a brother of the late Hon. F. Geoffrion, who was a member of the Mackenzie Administration, and upon his brother's death in 1895 and the vacancy occurred, he was elected to represent Vercheres in the Dominion Parliament. He was re-elected for Chambly and Vercheres at the general election in 1896, was sworn to the Privy Council in August 1896, and called to the Cabinet without portfolio.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement, that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. For sale by James Lynch, druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough, large bottles 50 cents and $1.00.

THE RIGHT SPIRIT

Shown in the Picnic of the Matthews Co's Employees.

The annual excursion and picnic of the employees of the Geo Matthews Packing Co. is being held to Jubilee Point to-day per steamer City of Peterborough. The steamer left the wharf this morning with a good crowd on board and with all prospects of a good day's enjoyment.

The picnic of the Matthews Co's employees is the right kind of a picnic. The proprietors charter the boat for the day, pay all expenses, such as music, etc., take the men down free and pay each man's wages for the day he is absent. They insist on every man going and try in every way to give their hands an enjoyable outing. Needless to say, the men greatly appreciate the annual treat, and the managers of the company lose nothing in the end by extending their hospitality in such a generous and pleasant manner.

SUCCESSFUL RALLY.

Entertainment and Banquet at the Salvation Army Barracks.

The Salvation Army banquet given at the barracks last evening between 6 and 8 o'clock was well attended. There were six tables beautifully decorated with flowers and each containing a splendid spread.

At the meeting which followed the banquet Captain Burchell, of Tweed; Capt. Carter, of Campbellford; Rev. Mr. Bennett, of town, and Alderman Sawers spoke, each giving an interesting address, and all emphasizing the necessity of every person being a true servant of God and a faithful worker for the extension of His kingdom on earth.

Following the addresses Capt Carter and Miss Smith sang, Miss Nellie Smith playing the guitar. Capt. Burchell also sang. Mr. Charles Brooks gave several selections from the gramophone. A song by Bandmaster Green and Miss Smith followed. The meeting was a very pleasant one for all who were present.

A light tea followed, a large number remaining.

Capt. Carter will be here for the children's demonstration, which will be given in the barracks to-morrow evening.

A Children's Aid Case.

The officers of the Children's Aid Society had a peculiar case to deal with the other day. It was that of a girl, aged 14, who was brought to the police station on Saturday evening. She and her stepmother could not agree and she had slept in a woodshed on Friday night. She flatly refused to return home and her father agreed that it would be best to leave her to the care of the Children's Aid Society, who are securing a place for her.

Demonstrated.

Sometimes it costs hundreds of dollars to convince a man; very often less is required, but in the case of Polson's Nerviline, that sovereign remedy for pain, 10 cents foots the bill, and supplies enough Nerviline to convince every purchaser that it is the best, most prompt and certain pain remedy in the world. Nerviline is good for all kinds of pain, pleasant to take and sure to cure cramps and all internal pains. It is also nice to rub outside, for it has an agreeable smell, quite unlike so many other preparations, which are positively disagreeable to use. Try it now. Go to a drug store and buy a 10 cent or 25 cent bottle. Polson's Nerviline. Take no other.

NEGLECTED GRAVE OF A POETESS

AN APPEAL FOR A MONUMENT TO HONOR THE RESTING PLACE.

In Little Lake Cemetery of Isabella Valancy Crawford—Mrs. Wilson Writes of the Deceased and Her Works.

The following letter appeared in Saturday's Mail and Empire:—

Sir,—It is but a few years since the present writer uprooted the dandelions from the sun-baked grave of Poe, and in bemoaning the neglected condition of the plot wherein he and his young wife lie I wrote home:—"If Poe were but buried in Peterborough I know of at least a few there who would delight to care for his grave."

We are told that

Of old the Muses sat on high
And heard and judged the songs of men.

Should these same muses deign to read Canadian newspapers, an ironical smile must have passed over the faces of the nine at the expression of the above-mentioned wish, for all the time, neglected and unnoticed, a grave in the Peterborough cemetery held also its poet. For twelve years the body of Isabella Valancy Crawford has lain here in a plot unknown to the public and utterly unmarked, save for the shamrock planted upon it by the tender hands of an Irish child.

This spring has seen Miss Crawford's book of poems republished in Toronto, and the attention of readers thereby recalled to the merits of her work, therefore the present has been thought an opportune moment for endeavouring to arouse interest in the erection of a simple shaft by means of which her resting place may be redeemed from oblivion. Contributions for this purpose will be gladly received by the president of the Historical Society, Colonel H. C. Rogers, Peterborough, Ont.

As the small donations of American school children proved enough for the cost of a monument to Poe (who by the way wrote no American poetry) cannot subscriptions, though ever so small, be forwarded to Col. Rogers until the aggregate will be sufficient to pay for a modest memorial of her who did much for Canada?

The authoress has but one surviving relative in this country, whose modest circumstances preclude his rendering this labour of love to his sister, so that it is for the public to say whether or not Miss Crawford's grave shall remain unhonoured.

It might not be inappropriate just here to glance at what this Irish girl has done for us as a nation. Because she loved Canada she sang of it as has none of our native born. She has glorified our lakes and forests by glowing descriptions of them, she has described our West and the mad stampede of its cattle, she has pictured the trials of the pioneers, and the loosening of the frost-fetters in spring; she has told of the axe and the canoe, and the clearing, and it was she who wrote the welcome to our soldiers on their return from the rebellion of the Northwest.

Like a lover has she pictured the Canadian woods, and the wild free life of our summers, until we scent again the "pine boughs resinous and cedar," What hunter but has hung his "Fish, like swords on saplings slender," and what camper but recalls this experience when at the close of the long summer day

The darkness built its wigwam walls
Close round the camp, and at its curtain
Passed shapes, thin-woven and uncertain,
As white locks of tall waterfalls.

Oh, yes, Isabella Crawford has done much for us, in having written strong, distinctively Canadian verse, suited to a strong, young land, and when did Canadians begin to be ungrateful?

She gave us of her best and all the time her heart was breaking. She underwent privations, the very thinking upon which seems as an indignity to the dead. The family were strangers in a strange land, and after the death of the father, Dr. Crawford, their sole support developed upon the pen of this gifted daughter, whose work was but poorly paid for, and its merit not appreciated. She struggled on through adversity, sending out several novels and some exquisite poetry which will not die. Her prayer was that of Heine, "Lord! let me grow old in body but let my soul ever stay young. Let my voice falter, but never my hope!"

Her dauntless spirit soared above continuous misfortune and in the midst of disappointment she declared:—

Who curseth sorrow knows her not at all.

The poems "Late-loved, well-loved," and "The Hidden Room," are among her best, but she reaches her zenith in the exquisite lyric beginning:—

O love builds on the azure sea
And love builds on the golden sand,
And love builds on the rose-winged cloud,
And sometimes love builds on the land!

And thus she sang on and on, this bird with the broken wing, until at the age of thirty-six she beat out her passionate heart, and they laid her beside her father in the Peterborough cemetery.

But scant honour was paid her in her lifetime, no half-famished manuscript—as was reverently laid upon Richter's coffin—was borne with her to the tomb, where so far as the body is concerned she vanished into obscurity. But shall it continue so? Shall the grave of this woman remain unmarked?

May one beg of the personal friends of Miss Crawford throughout Ontario to send contributions towards a monument to her? To Canadians I appeal to return a benefit; and to the Irish—they of the tender heart and generous impulse—one but needs to remind you of this gentlewoman's sorrows, and that she was kin of yours, and the response shall be ready.

And to all Britons, whose boast it is that they always applaud valour, I ask you, will you not honour so brave a soldier with a modest monument?

MAUD M. WILSON,
Peterborough Historical Society.

DON'T WANT THE TRIAL.

A Kick About the Counties Paying Expenses of the Ponton Trial.

A Cobourg paper enters a vigorous protest against the Ponton trial being held at that place. It says:—Now that Pare, Holden and Roach, said to be the principals in the Napanee bank robbery, have been arrested, and lodged in the jail, the trial of W. H. Ponton is again attracting the attention of the public. By the decision of the judges at Toronto, Cobourg was the place set down for the next hearing of the case. Of course, that matter was easily settled, but as the county in which the trial is held is to bear the expense, the place chosen should should have been consulted. These counties were not consulted, and as we already have to contribute a large amount for the administration of justice within the counties, all are sufficient. If the Crown is to continue against Ponton until judgment day we think it nothing but proper that the Government should bear all the expense. If the counties of Northumberland and Durham are expected to expend money to carry on the court to prosecute Ponton or any of his alleged confederates, every effort should be put forth to again have the venue changed. We do not want the trial held in Cobourg.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

MATRON AND MAID.

The late Mlle. Rhea once refused a marriage proposal from a governor of South Carolina.

Miss Annie Wheeler, daughter of General Wheeler, has asked the war department to send her as an army nurse to the Philippines.

Mme. Camille Flammarion, wife of the astronomer, is heading a popular movement among Frenchwomen for general disarmament.

Mme. Calve says there is no truth in the recent story that she has ordered her tomb, as she hopes to have no use for it for many years.

Mary Anderson, when journeying by train, whiles away the time playing at chess. If she has no traveling companion, she will play by herself.

Elise Polko, the well known writer on musical subjects, died recently in Munich at the age of 77 years. Before her marriage she sang in opera.

Charlotte Benigna Kant, a grandniece of the philosopher and the last member of his family, has just died in the almshouse at Mittau, in Courland, aged 72 years.

The will of the late Mrs. Thankful A. Price of Cortland, N. Y., bequeaths $5,000 and a valuable farm in Cortland county to Syracuse university for scholarships.

The Duchess of Portland, unlike most wearers of the strawberry leaves, goes into society very little. She is a religious woman and is devoted to her two small children.

Baroness von Suttner, author of "Lay Down Your Arms," holds a salon in the Central hotel at The Hague every night, entertaining friends of peace of all nationalities.

The Duchess of Bedford was the portionless daughter of a poor Indian missionary by the name of Tribe. She met and married the heir presumptive to the dukedom, Herbert Arthur Russell, in Calcutta.

A northern syndicate recently offered Mrs. Jefferson Davis $90,000 for her home at Beauvoir, Miss., but she would not have the place turned to commercial account. Now the state Daughters of the Confederacy are to buy the house for $25,000.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

Plenty of potash makes firm, sweet fruit.

Plant evergreens when the new growth starts.

Govern the depth of covering by the size of the seed.

Trees on the lawn ought not to be set too near the house, nor in too straight rows.

Rotten sawdust and chips from the woodpile are a good fertiliser to use as a top dressing in the garden.

With strawberries care should be taken to pick clean and grade according to the demands of the market.

The only just and proper way of treating an overburdened tree is to thin the fruit in good season. This will be much better than propping up.

It exhausts land quite as much to grow weeds as it does to grow vegetables, and for this reason care should be taken to keep the ground in the garden occupied.

When the berries are to be shipped to market, the picking should not begin in the morning until the dew has dried off, nor should it be continued through the heat of the day.

With gooseberries and currants the first two years only enough pruning will be required to form a broad, open head. After that, pinching back the new growth of wood is needed for fruit development. —Exchange.

Proud to Know Him.

"The other night," said the fat boarder, "I slept in a room with a generous gentleman. I snore horribly—in fact, I'm a snorer from way back. We retired. In the morning when we arose this gentleman handed me a silver half dollar.

" 'What's that for?' said I.

" 'Oh, take it,' he replied. 'You have won it. You deserve it.'

" 'But what for?' said I.

" 'Oh, take the money and go and buy yourself several first class drinks. I like you. You are the best one I ever saw. You are the only man I ever saw who could snore louder than I can holler.' "

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by James Lynch, druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough.

MISS CAPRICE.

BY ST. GEORGE RATHBONE

Author of "Doctor Jack," "Doctor Jack's Wife," "Captain Tom," "Miss Pauline of New York," Etc.

John watches his chance to speak to the girl at his side. He feels that the time has come when he must tell her what he has in his heart—that he loves her.

If she gives him his conge, he will go his way and try to forget; but he has hopes of a different answer; eye speaks to eye, and there is a language of the heart that needs not lips to proclaim it, a secret telegraphy that brings together those who love. The touch of a hand thrills as no other touch can, and the sound of a voice heard unexpectedly causes the heart to almost cease beating.

At length he makes an opportunity, as only a bold and determined lover can. They have gone in the street-cars to the terraced heights of Mustapha Superieur, to visit a house which most tourists see—a house with a remarkable history—and in departing, John and Lady Ruth somehow are separated from the rest. The fault lies with him, because at the last moment he proposed a final view of the wonderful scene spread out below, to which Lady Ruth consented, and as the others boarded the tram-car that would take them back to the city, John called out their attention, and that they would join them later.

There is nothing singular about this, and yet Lady Ruth's cheeks turn rosy as she hears Aunt Gwen's laugh, and stealing a glance over her shoulder discovers that quaint individual shaking her finger out of the car-window.

Upon a rustic seat the two rest. The grand panaroma spread out before them charms the eye, and they feast upon the glorious scene. How blue the sea appears, and the numerous sails are like splashes of white against the deep-back-ground.

There lies Algiers in all her glory, modern structures almost side by side with Mohammedan mosques, whose domes shine like great balls of gold, and whose minarets guard the sacred edifice like sentries thrown out in the nature of defences.

Who could gaze upon such a vision and not feel his heart stirred must indeed be dead to everything that appeals to the better senses.

John Craig, M.D., might ordinarily be set down as an enthusiastic lover of nature, and such a scene when he first gazed upon it aroused the deepest emotions in his artist heart; but strange to say he pays little heed to what is before him now. It is what occupies the rustic seat in common with John Craig that takes his whole attention.

How shall he say it? What words can he frame into an animated expression of his feelings? It was all mapped out before, but the words have utterly slipped his memory, as is always the case in such events.

He turns to Lady Ruth. Her hand is in her lap. He boldly reaches out and takes it. There is only a feeble resistance. Their eyes meet.

"Lady Ruth, will you give me this hand?"

"You—I—what could you do with it?" she asks, turning rosy red.

"Well, to begin with—this," and he presses it passionately to his lips.

"Oh! Doctor Craig, what if some one should see you!" now struggling to free her hand, which he holds firmly.

He laughs recklessly, this hitherto shy young man. Once in the affair, he cares little for prying eyes, and indeed there is small chance of any one noticing them in this retired spot, as there are no other sightseers around.

"I don't care who sees me. I've got to tell what I'm sure you already know, that I love you—I love you."

He leans forward and looks in her face, which is downcast. She has ceased to struggle now, and her hand lies fluttering in his.

Such scenes as these the novelist has no business to linger over. The emotions that are brought out at such a time should be sacred from the public gaze.

John does not wait long for his answer, as Lady Ruth is a sensible girl, and really cares a great deal more for this young man than she has been ready to admit even to herself.

So she tells him that she is afraid she does take an uncommon interest in his welfare and that perhaps it would be as well for her to later on assume such a position as will give her the right to watch over him.

So it nicely settled, and John feels supremely happy, just as all sincere and successful wooers have done from time immemorial.

After a short time John remembers that he meant to introduce a certain subject, and putting aside his feelings of new-found joy—there will be plenty of time for all that—he speaks of Sir Lionel.

"Now that you know I am not at all jealous, I want to talk about another—Sir Lionel Blunt."

Her face lights up with a smile.

"Perhaps I can guess what you would say."

"It is about the affair last night."

"Poor Sir Lionel is rather quiet to-day. He is not so young as he was, and I imagine that his severe exertions last night have caused him many twinges to-day."

"Perhaps. It was the most remarkable affair I ever witnessed."

"You saw it all?"

"Yes. Mustapha and myself were in hiding not far away. We were astounded at the easy way those fellows died."

At this Lady Ruth gives a merry peal of laughter.

"It was ridiculous."

"Did you guess it at the time?"

"Well, certain things looked very strange to me. I was amazed as we were leaving to see a man, whom I was positive had twice fallen as if dead, raise his head and look after us with a smile on his ugly face.

"Whatever I thought, I was so glad to get away on any terms that I said nothing, and when the next engagement took place I found Sir Lionel very much in earnest.

"On this account, although feeling sure that he was the cause of all the trouble, I have been disposed to forgive him. You know the poor fellow professes to be in love with me, though I have had some reason to believe it is my fortune he is after as well, for my father unfortunately left me a heiress."

"Well, I'm in a position to be generous, and, though I condemn his methods, I can easily see how, in his despair, he might forget his honor. I have good reason to believe this is not the first time he has tried to play the hero."

Lady Ruth looks surprised.

"How is that?" she asks.

Thereupon John narrates what the boatman said to him off Malta, concerning a broken plank in the bottom of the little craft, which of course astonishes the young girl.

She shows some indignation at the thought of his imperilling her life.

"The joke of the whole thing lies in the fact that it was you who saved the would-be hero of the occasion," remarks John, and this fact induces both of them to laugh.

On the whole, they feel so happy that it is hard to bear a grudge even against the veteran who has been baffled by fate.

Lady Ruth cannot forget that Sir Lionel gave many evidences of being in love with her, and a woman is apt to forgive even a fault in a man who professes to have sinned for her, to have even given up honor in the hope of winning her favor.

"I have arranged a little scheme whereby I hope to pay Sir Lionel back in his own coin," says the young Chicagoan, grimly.

"Why, John, I thought you said just now that you could forgive him. Now you pretend to be quite blood-thirsty."

"Oh, no; not that. I'm looking out for the poor fellow. He's gone it alone quite long enough, and I want to see him caught."

"Caught? Explain, please. Perhaps I'm a little obtuse, but really under the circumstances——"

"Yes, I know. It's all excusable, my dear girl. In plain English, I want to see the veteran married."

"Married?"

"And I shall take upon myself the task of selecting the girl who will rule him hereafter."

"John, what do you mean? Surely—oh, that is nonsense. Tell me who she is."

"Pauline Potter," calmly.

"Why, that's the actress."

"True."

"The actress who professed to be so madly in love with one Doctor John Craig."

"And as the said Craig is already taken, she is left out in the cold. Now, you behold my little scheme. We are happy—why should not these two people be the same?"

"Why, indeed?"

"Their greatest fault lies in loving not wisely but too well. This has caused them to sin. Now, in order to prevent any future plots that may give us trouble, I propose to so arrange it that Sir Lionel shall have a wife and Pauline a husband."

"A clever idea."

"I want your assistance."

"You can have it at any time."

"We must protect ourselves, and the easiest way to do this will be to disarm our foes."

"Really, Doctor Chicago, I didn't give you credit for so much shrewdness. Tell me if you have any plans arranged."

"Well, only the skeleton of one as yet, but I will tell you all about it as far as I have gone."

They sit upon that bench for a full hour. Time is not taken into account when love rules the occasion.

It is Lady Ruth who finally jumps up with a cry of consternation. She has heard a clock upon a tower in new Algiers strike the hour.

"What will they think of us, John?" she says.

MARQUIS DE GALLIFET.

Sketch of the Career of the New French Minister of War.

Gaston Alexandre Auguste, Marquis de Gallifet, the new French War Minister, whose appointment is regarded as peculiarly significant, is one of the warmest of the monarchists in France and an aristocrat of the aristocrats, who yet declares that he is "at the service of the majority, the constitution and the law." The Marquis has been prominent in the army for 30 years or more. He entered it in 1848, when he was but 18, and at 26 he was a sub-lieutenant. He rose rapidly through the grades of lieutenant, captain, lieutenant-colonel, colonel and division general, and won rare distinction in the war of the Crimea. In Algerian expeditions in 1860, 1864, 1865 and 1868, he rendered great service, and his regiment of African chasseurs, with their splendid action, elicited unstinted admiration from the Prussian King himself during the Franco-Prussian war. At the siege of Paris he commanded a brigade in Versailles. When the army was reorganized the Marquis was nominated general. He is one of the most uncompromising Dreyfusites in Paris.

MARQUIS DE GALLIFET.

Cricket in the Commons.

It is not, perhaps, generally known, writes M.A.P., that the prowess of Sir Timothy C. O'Brien, the well-known Middlesex batsman, who not long ago met with a serious accident in the hunting field, was on one occasion immortalised in the House of Commons. The late Sir Patrick O'Brien, the uncle of Sir Timothy, by whom he was succeeded in the baronetcy, was for many years member for King's County in the House of Commons. Sir Patrick, who was a well-known wit, on one occasion moved the adjournment of an all-night sitting, on the ground "that the members would otherwise be too tired to attend the cricket match at Lord's. If, sir, they only see my nephew at the wickets, they will come back refreshed and in good humor!"

Penns and Curzons.

William Penn, the Quaker, was a son of Sir William Penn, whose great-great-grandfather was a younger son of the family living at Penn. There is no nearer connection with the main line. The wife of Sir Nathaniel Curzon, daughter and ultimate heiress of Will. Penn of Penn, must have been daughter of the William, son of John. The latter died in 1641. As Sir Nathaniel was sheriff of Denbigh in 1700, the dates would tally. The estate of Penn went to Lord Scarsdale, who married the sister and heiress of Roger Penn, the last male owner of Penn of the name of the family (died 1789). The Quaker was born on Tower Hill.—Notes and Queries.

For Company.

"You are so preoccupied sometimes," said Mrs. Fourthly, "that I don't feel safe in letting you go out alone."

"That is to say, my dear," replied the Rev. Dr. Fourthly, with his benevolent smile, "when my mind wanders, as it does occasionally, somebody ought to go along with it."—Chicago Tribune.

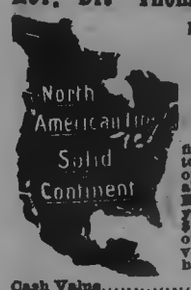
ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

Rev. Dr. Thompson Testifies



Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, North American Life Assurance Co., Toronto:

DEAR SIR,—Your official notice came duly to hand, apprising me of the results obtainable upon my 15-year Endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000, which matured on the 5th inst. Of the various options you have given me, viz.:

Cash Value.....$1 564 96
Paid-up policy, payable at my death.....2,560.00
Yearly income for life of.....166 20

I have decided upon the cash value; and it gives me pleasure to testify that, as I anticipated it would be when I took out the policy, it is very satisfactory. This returns me the full premium of the 15 years and over 4½ per cent compound interest, in addition to which you have carried the risk upon my life. In view of the lowering rates of interest which have been obtainable during the later portion of the period, it is difficult to see how this excellent result could have been surpassed.

Yours sincerely,
REV. J. THOMPSON, D.D.

ELEVEN PROSPECTORS LOST.

Mr. and Mrs. Mills of Vancouver Were Among Those Lost.

Chicago, July 18.—A special to The Tribune from Victoria, B.C., says: "The steamer Tees brings news of the death of a party of 11 prospectors by drowning near Windy Arm. Those known to have been lost are Mr. and Mrs. Mills of Vancouver, Mrs. Klune and daughter and a young man named Harry Howard.

Seven Americans Drowned.

Seattle, Wash., July 18.—The schooner General Siglin, from Cook's Inlet, Alaska, brings news of the drowning of seven Americans at Turnagain Arm early in June.

Burglars at Morrisburg.

Morrisburg, Ont., July 18.—About 2.30 yesterday morning burglars forced an entrance through a rear window into Chalmers' jewellery store, and made an attempt to blow open the safe. Two charges were set off, the last one being of terrific force. Parties living in the building were aroused, and succeeded in scaring off the robbers. The door was badly damaged, but the safe was not opened. Four men were distinctly seen by different persons making good their escape. They fired a number of shots at those who were giving the alarm. This is the second attempt to burglarize Chalmers' store within the last two weeks.

A Word to Anglers in Nepigon.

Toronto, July 18.—The order-in-council respecting fishing in Nepigon Lake provides that no person shall fish in those waters except by angling, and anglers must pay license as follows: For people outside of Canada $10; Canadians, not resident in Algoma, $5; residents, $2.

License-holders are prohibited from cutting timber, and the limit of trout is ten fish or 15 pounds a day.

Another Sort.

"Were there no extenuating circumstances connected with the case?"

"No; nothing but attenuated circumstances."

"What do you mean by that?"

"The defendant's circumstances were so reduced that he could not afford to engage a competent attorney."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

A Neighborhood Tragedy.

"We bought a lawn mower at the Montague auction."

"Well, that was all right, wasn't it?"

"All right? Maria says it is our old one which they borrowed and never returned."

Cheshire cheese owes its excellence partly to geological causes, the red sandstone and bowlder clay, with its immense salt deposits, of which the country is formed, producing a herbage peculiarly suited for cheese production.

An Original Suicide.

Whether it was Voltaire or some other observing, meditative Frenchman who said, "All Frenchmen are actors, and the worst are usually on the stage," does not particularly matter for the subject in hand. While we have reason to be sure of the correctness of the final part of the aphorism, we have not time to show why we do not agree with the last. It is not a scene at the asmises that we are going to describe, although scenes worthy of the Opera Comique are constantly presented there. It is a suicide.

A well dressed gentleman descended the Quai des Tuileries and, seating himself beside a man who was fishing, lit a cigar. He then offered one to his neighbor and plunged into the river, cigar, cane, silk hat and all. The fisherman, who was quick to recover from his astonishment, plunged after him, but the first struck out and swam away. The other regained the bank in disgust.

The former shortly returned and, while treading water before his temporary acquaintance, tossed him a handful of goldpieces. At the approach of a number of persons the strange man produced another handful of coins, which he swallowed and, diving under the water, did not reappear. His body was found five hours later, and, as there was nothing discovered by which to establish his identity it was taken to the morgue.

THE MARKETS.

The Price of Wheat Fell Off—The Decline at Chicago Was a Cent and a Half per Bushel.

Liverpool, July 18.—Wheat futures were off yesterday, declining ½d to 1d per cental, and closing that much below Saturday's final figures.

Chicago, July 18.—Wheat futures declined 1⅛c per bushel yesterday, and closed at the lowest point of the session. The reports of fine crops all over Europe now constitute a bearish factor.

VISIBLE AND AFLOAT.

As compared with a week ago, the visible supply of wheat in Canada and the United States has increased 494,000 bushels; that of corn has decreased 329,000 bushels, and that of oats has decreased 861,000 bushels. The visible supply of wheat in Canada and the United States, together with that afloat to Europe, is 66,690,000 bushels, against 68,256,000 bushels a week ago, and 89,841,000 bushels a year ago.

ONLY OATS ARE SHORT.

London, July 18.—Harvesting began in the rye fields of Great Britain yesterday. The oats crop will be cut a week hence, while the cutting of wheat will commence in the southeast district of England by July 31. The Mark Lane Express says that wheat promises a full average yield, and barely an average, and that the oats crop is distinctly deficient.

Too Rank for Sam Blake.

Montreal, July 18.—While passing through Montreal on his way to Murray Bay, Hon. S. H. Blake, Q.C., the prominent Reform lawyer, indicated the effect of the West Elgin bribery disclosures upon the public mind of Ontario in these words: "If I were in office Preston's head, as well as the others who took part in those disgraceful acts, would fall just as quickly as I could write down their names on paper." Mr. Blake also intimated that while Preston and the balance of the brood of bribers hold office either under Sir Wilfrid Laurier or Mr. Hardy, no self-respecting Reformer can hold up his head and support the party as of old.

To Arrest Nine Men.

Kingston, Ont., July 18.—Yesterday county constables left for Battersea to arrest nine men against whom information was sworn by John E. Dolan. The charge says that the mob tore Dolan from his house, beat him, coated his body with tar and feathers and stole over $4 from his pocket.

Bell Arrested and Liberated.

Montreal, July 18.—George F. Bell, who had been charged by The Sunday Sun with stealing the Carranza letter, was arrested yesterday and liberated on bail.

What is Scott's Emulsion?

It is the best cod-liver oil, partly digested, and combined with the hypophosphites and glycerine. What will it do? It will make the poor blood of the anæmic rich and red.

It will give nervous energy to the overworked brain and nerves. It will add flesh to the thin form of a child, wasted from fat-starvation.

It is everywhere acknowledged as The Standard of the World.

DALLEY'S PERFECT COFFEE never fails to give perfect satisfaction.

A Terrible Threat.

"George," said Mrs. Younglove, "do you know that you have kissed me only once during the past three hours?"

"Yes," he replied, "and if you eat any more onions I may make it three hours and a half next time."

She could [illegible] tremble and wonder if it were to [illegible] out that her love had been misplaced, after all.—Chicago News.

Temper, says an authority, has immense influence on the tone of the singing voice. An ill natured or querulous person will invariably have a catlike quality in the voice, which is perceptible in singing quite as much as in speaking.

The population of the world increases 10 per cent every ten years.

PILES FOR 15 YEARS.

Mr. Jas. Bowles, Councillor, Embro, Ont., writes: "For over 15 years I suffered the misery of bleeding, protruding piles. The many remedies I tried all failed. I was advised to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, and must say that the first application gave relief, after the third day the bleeding stopped and two boxes cured me complete.

A Long Dog.

A lady living on Park avenue, Walnut hills, was recently presented with a full blooded imported dachshund, a living exemplification of the saying, "Man wants but little here below, but he wants that little long." This dog in particular has all the fine points of a true dachshund. Its length is at least four times its height, and its legs are stumpy and have the conventional crook of a golf stick at the foot. The lady has several other dogs and is quite a fancier of canines. The other evening a gentleman called who had heard a great deal of the celebrated animal. As he entered the darkened parlor a small yellow dog of no particular breed arose from a rug in front of the grate and, unnoticed by the gentleman, slowly walked toward the door. The dog crossed half way over the threshold and stood in such a position that a person in the parlor could just see its hind legs and tail. At that moment the maid lighted the gas, and the dachshund poked its head inquiringly through another open door. The gentleman gazed in amazement at the head of the dachshund peering at him from one doorway and the hindquarters of another dog visible in the other doorway, and then in the hearing of the servant ejaculated:

"Lord a-mighty! I heard that this dachshund of hers was a long one, but this animal certainly beats my time!"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

OUR SPECIAL OTTAWA LETTER

AN INTERESTING SKETCH OF LAST WEEK'S BUSINESS AT OTTAWA.

Parliament Votes Millions Each Day —Contractor Bate Makes Money as Well as Mottoe—Men who Step up all Right—More Connolly Contracts —The Senate Consents.

(Special correspondence of the Review.)

Ottawa, July 15.—The business of parliament has made fair progress during this week. One supply bill for some seven millions was passed through both Houses. Lord Minto came down to the Senate and accepted the grant with the usual formalities. While still about it the Governor General gave the royal assent to some seventy bills which have already been passed during the session. Most of them are private bills but they represent a good deal of patient labor that is not recorded in the press. The committee of the whole is now working its way thro' the rest of the supply, and for the past three days has been voting money at the rate of two or three millions a day.

TOO GREEDY FOR VOTES.

Yet the ministers were not satisfied. They appear to be growing rather impatient of criticism and questioning. It was in consequence of the determination of Mr. Fielding to force through, at one sitting, the militia vote of more than a million dollars, involving not only the outlay for all the branches of the service but the policy of the department that the last all night sitting took place. There were many reasons why discussion on this important and expensive department should not be choked off. Sir Chas. Tupper has shown a disposition to be fair and generous by warmly supporting Dr. Borden's policy of holding annual camps, strongly commending the present administration of the Royal Military College, and encouraging the minister in his attempts to provide ample equipment for the force. Having done justice to the minister, Sir Charles proceeded to tell him where he had gone wrong. He told him that the despatch of the military contingent to the Yukon was a costly but inexcusable blunder. The troops were not needed there and had done more harm than good. The mounted police were quite capable of keeping the peace and could be called upon to do duty anytime, while the militia could not be called out except in case of serious trouble. More than a million dollars had been wasted in this expedition. Sir Charles pointed out that General Hutton in his report had referred to another unfortunate result. The absence of so large a part of the permanent force had demoralized the schools for military training and thus seriously impaired the work of military education. Of course the minister of militia would not admit that the had done wrong. Nor did he seemed disposed to accept the statement of Sir Charles that the Yukon miners were as orderly a people as could be found anywhere. Dr. Borden, however, did something better. He said that he would bring half the Yukon corps home again right away.

A HAPPY FOOD CONTRACTOR.

It was after this and when Sir Charles had gone home for the night, that Mr. Fielding insisted on having the whole Militia Vote put through before the House rose. There remained for discussion the Bate provision contract, the clothing contracts, arms and ammunition, staff and equipment and a hundred details of administration and policy. The Bate contract was further ventilated in the light of additional information. Statements brought down showed that the firm supplied the Yukon contingent of 200 men with over $30,000 worth of provisions at prices considerably higher than were current at Vancouver. Last year Mr. Borden explained that though the goods were bought in Ottawa the price was high because the firm paid the freight to the Pacific Coast. He is obliged this year to admit that $2,000 freight was paid by the Government and that Sir Wilfrid Laurier's friend got Vancouver prices for goods at Ottawa. This is the same Mr. Bate who at the Ottawa Liberal Convention of 1893 contributed to the decoration of the Hall the motto, "Laurier expects every man to do his duty." It is evident that Mr. Bate also expects Sir Wilfrid to do his duty on the matter of contracts. In the course of the discussion the Premier took occasion to contradict the statement that Mr. Bate had given him a house.

CORNERING GOVERNMENT BINDER TWINE.

To this same Mr. Bate the Government sold all last year's product of the binder twine works of Kingston penitentiary. The farmers have not forgotten that they paid 12 to 15 cents per pound for twine. He got it for 4 to 4 1-2c. per pound. It was pointed out in the course of the discussion which took place Wednesday that the Government might by selling direct to the farmers have done much to protect them from combine prices. Instead of doing that both the Dominion and the Ontario Governments sold to firms who were in the combination, or who worked in harmony with it. This was hard on the farmer but very good for the operators. The farmer never before paid such prices. The operators never before made such profits. Yet the Government, which might have helped the farmers seems to have stood in with the combines.

DIDN'T GO HOME TILL MORNING.

But this does not explain the all night and all the next day sitting When Mr. Fielding issued his ultimatum that the Militia money must be voted before the sitting ended the opposition members replied with the declaration that the money would not be voted until after a full discussion and full explanation. The long hours of the night passed and no money was voted. The morning wore away and sir Sir Charles Tupper returned at ten to find his friends holding the fort and displaying an unusual amount of curiosity as to military details. The opposition leader assured the Government that his party was anxious to get on with business at reasonable speed but could not be coerced. Finally it was decided to take a rest at one o'clock and to resume the Militia discussion at the usual hour of meeting. By such lessons as this the Ministers are learning that they cannot dictate terms to the minority in the Canadian House of Commons.

THE SENATE MAKES TERMS.

The eyes of the politicians have been turned to the Senate Chamber, where the Grand Trunk and Drummond railway contracts have been in some peril. They have escaped. Both bills have passed the second reading and one is through committee, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Sir John Carling, Mr. Ferguson and the other Conservative ex-Ministers have concluded to rest satisfied with what the Senate has accomplished in amending these measures, and what it is now accomplishing in committee. Half the Conservative Senators present voted with them and with the government. The other half voted for the six months' hoist and against the second reading, which was carried by a vote of 37 to 18. It is possible that a larger opposition may protest against the third reading. But that does not happen until next week.

OLD FRIENDS APPEAR AGAIN.

It is now eight years since the House of Commons dealt with the sensational subject of the McGreevy Connolly contracts at Levis and Esquimalt. Connolly Brothers, the surviving partners in this firm, are once more the theme of parliamentary debate. Once more they are government contractors. Mr. Blair has awarded them a contract on the St. John terminus of the Intercolonial of which the lump sum portion is $328,173. In addition there are contracts for dredging and rock filling at schedule prices. They were not the lowest tenderers. The lowest tender was G. B. Mayes, of St. John, who offered to do the work for $219,990. The next lowest was John Heney, of Ottawa whose offer was $298,193. Mr. Maye and Mr. Henry had no dredges and asked permission to hire one from the United States to be returned at end of the job without paying duty in Canada. The Government refused permission and both withdrew their tenders. The Minister did not call for new offers but closed the contract with Connolly at $108,183 more than the lowest tenders. It is estimated that the duty on the dredge which the Government was asked to forego would have been $33,000. Some members think that the Government might have afforded to give up that $33,000 (which is given up in any case) in order to save $108,000. Others do no hesitate to express the opinion that there is an understanding between the Connolly Brothers and the lowest tenderer and that Mr. Mayes is not premitted to lose anything by the forfeiture of $14,000 deposit which he may risk by not carrying out the contract.

THE COMMON LOT.

While the senators and members of the Commons have many differences they are occasionally united by a common bond of sorrow. The past week has seen one vigorous and prominent member of each chamber fall out of the race. On Monday the intelligence came that Senator Sanford had been drowned that morning in one of the Muskoka lakes. He had been actively interested in the measures before the Senate the previous week and was expected to return to his legislative work the next day. Senator Sanford was one of the most successful business men in Canada. He had large wealth and was full of business projects, but not too much occupied with them to dispense a liberal hospitality and to cultivate a host of friendships.

Two days after Mr. Sanford's death the news reached the capital that Hon. W. B. Ives, M.P. for Sherbrooke, had been struck down suddenly and unexpectedly with paralysis in the train by which he was travelling from the west. Mr. Ives had been visiting the gold mines in the Kootenay, and had reached North Bay on his way home when the calamity came. He was brought here and taken to the hospital, where, at the time of writing, friends are about him waiting for the end. Mr. Ives was not past the prime of life, though he has been for over twenty years a member of the House of Commons. He brought to his public duties a large knowledge of trade and finance and was connected with a number of commercial and financial corporations and enterprises. Mr. Ives held office as President of the Council and Minister of Trade and Commerce successively and was a member of the Thompson, Bowell and Tupper Ministries. A man of strong views he was courteous in giving them expression and enjoyed a large measure of personal popularity. He has been regarded as the leader of the liberal conservative party in Eastern townships.

A member of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Cabinet, Hon. C. A. Geoffrion, is also supposed to be ill beyond hope of recovery. Mr. Geoffrion is almost a new member of Parliament but has long been known as one of the ablest and most eminent members of the Montreal bar.

NOTES.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has given notice that he will place his Senate reform resolutions on the order paper next week. The event is awaited by the Senators with great composure.

A POPULAR OFFICIAL.

Lieut.-Col. Pinault, Deputy Minister of Militia—For Many Years an Officer —Once an M.P.P.

The accompanying cut very fairly portrays the features of one of the most popular and efficient officials in Ottawa. In his short career as Deputy-Minister of Militia, Lieut.-Col. Pinault has come before the public in a most favorable light. He has none of that offensive reserve and haughty bearing that certain brother deputies and lesser officials seem to think sit so becomingly upon them. The free and unaffected Major Pinault that you met a year ago on the streets of Quebec is the same Lieut.-Col. Pinault who holds the high position of Deputy Minister of Militia to-day. He is neither deferential to the great nor overbearing with the small. The least in the land having business with the Militia Department can be assured of courteous and honest treatment at the hands of the big soldierly looking fellow who fills the post of Deputy Minister.

Thirty years ago, then a youth of 17, Louis Felix Pinault joined the Canadian militia. He enlisted in 1869 in the provisional Rimouski Battalion, and the very next year took the field against the Fenian raiders. For some weeks his battalion was in barracks at Rimouski. Encamped in a barn, the Rimouski boys were an object of considerable curiosity to the habitant from below Quebec, who asked if the Englishmen were coming back. Pinault acquired rank after rank in the Rimouski Battalion, until finally, when called to the bar in the city of Quebec, he was made captain of the 9th Battalion, "Voltigeurs de Quebec." He went with the Voltigeurs to the Northwest in the rebellion of 1885, and his conduct there will live long in the memory of the men of the gallant 9th. Captain Pinault was indefatigable in caring for his men, and his invariably good temper and cheerful disposition did much to take the rough side from soldiering in the cold Northwest. When he came back to Quebec he was promoted to the rank of major, and though now a lieutenant-colonel, he will be a long time outliving "Major" Pinault of the Voltigeurs.

LT.-COL. PINAULT, DEPUTY MINISTER OF MILITIA.

In politics Col. Pinault has been a Liberal, and captured Matane in 1890, but the wave that wrecked the Mercier ship likewise submerged Pinault. He went down before Flynn, but the latter electing to sit in Gaspe, having run in two constituencies, the Pinault banners waved again over the electoral division of Matane.

There is none of the bigot, says his biographer, about Lieut.-Col. Pinault. In religious and racial questions he has given abundant illustration of his broad-minded views. He is the man who organized Le Soleil, which made its appearance the very day the Archbishop of Quebec interdicted l'Electeur. He took the management of the new company, which, with no interruption, continued the work of l'Electeur on precisely the same lines.

Col. Pinault wears the Northwest rebellion medal, and is entitled to the Fenian raid and long service medals.

COMTE DE DION.

The French Aristocrat Who Hates the "Peasant President."

The Comte de Dion, who has won for himself a conspicuous place among the ruffian wing of the Royalist party in Paris, is one of the decayed noblemen who move in the set of the erratic and featherbrained Count de Castellane. Dion was one of the loudest in the shameful attack made upon President Loubet at the race track on June 4. His two weeks' sojourn in prison only served to make him all the more popular with the scorbutic aristocracy of which he is a noble exemplar. The Count is the owner of an automobile factory and does not think it beneath him to enrich himself with the dollars that come out of the grime and grease of the shop. At the same time he proclaims his hate for the "peasant President." In olden days his ancestors had power of life and death over their peasants, and the fact that M. Loubet, peasant born, has the power of pardoning a convicted nobleman does not rest easy on Monsieur le Comte's great soul. Dion has not been very active in politics, but now, having insulted the President, it is not impossible he will try for the Chamber.

COMTE DE DION.

Mice in an Organ.

An organist giving an organ recital recently in a church in South Wales by extra pressure on one of the pedals disturbed a nest of mice.

A Good Trick.

The parrot's determination to speak his set phrases under all sorts of circumstances often produces strange situations. The story is told of a sleight of hand performer who kept a parrot that he had trained to say, whenever one of his master's tricks had been finished: "That's a good trick! What's the next one?"

One day the juggler, being in a seaport town, gave his performance in a loft on one of the wharfs, which happened to be just over the place where a large quantity of powder was stored in kegs. The juggler was about to perform some feat which required the lighting of a candle. He lighted it and threw the match away without making sure that the blaze had gone out. The match, still burning, fell through a crack in the floor, and dropped into one of the kegs of powder, which exploded with great force, throwing the building into the air.

The parrot, who was blown up with the rest, did not stop until it reached the pinnacle of the topmast of a great ship which lay off the wharf. There he clung desperately, and looking down to the world below he called out in a shrill voice:

"That's a good trick! What's the next one?"

Clearly Proved.

Mrs. Bolivar heaved a deep sigh.

"Before we were married," she said, "you promised me that my slightest wish would be your law."

"Did I?" said Mr. Bolivar, in a tone of surprise.

"You said," continued Mrs. Bolivar, "that you would give up the club and not play poker any more."

"Did I, really?"

"You swore that you would give me whatever I wanted and that I might go to the seashore every summer and stay as long as I liked."

"Is it possible?"

"Yes. And you said that you would never take another drink and never flirt the least little bit, and now you do all these things and have not kept a single promise. It proves conclusively to me that you never loved me."

"I beg to differ from you there, my dear," said Mr. Bolivar oratorically. "Your premise is all wrong. Your reasoning is woefully at fault. Your statements prove conclusively that I did love you. In fact, I must have adored you madly if I told such whopping lies to get you."

And with this vindication Mr. Bolivar considered the argument at an end.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

What does it do?

It causes the oil glands in the skin to become more active, making the hair soft and glossy, precisely as nature intended.

It cleanses the scalp from dandruff and thus removes one of the great causes of baldness.

It makes a better circulation in the scalp and stops the hair from coming out.

It Prevents and It Cures Baldness

Ayer's Hair Vigor will surely make hair grow on bald heads, provided only there is any life remaining in the hair bulbs.

It restores color to gray or white hair. It does not do this in a moment, as will a hair dye; but in a short time the gray color of age gradually disappears and the darker color of youth takes its place.

Would you like a copy of our book on the Hair and Scalp? It is free.

If you do not obtain all the benefits you expected from the use of the Vigor write the Doctor about it.
Address, DR. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

ESTERHAZY WROTE BORDEREAU.

A Statement Printed in the Paris Matin to That Effect.

Paris, July 19.—The Matin yesterday morning published a statement by Count Ferdinand Walsin Esterhazy, in which he says that he wrote the bordereau by order of Colonel Sandherr, and that it was sent to the house of Colonel Schwartzkoppen, then military attache at the German embassy in Paris, whence it was returned to the War Office. Colonel Schwartzkoppen, being at the time in Berlin, never saw the bordereau, which was forged in order to supply material proof of the guilt of Dreyfus.

The statement contains the assertion that secret agents in Berlin, whose testimony it was impossible to use, had demonstrated that leakages had occurred in the War Office, and the fact that treason existed was undeniable and everything indicated Dreyfus as the traitor.

All the War Ministers, the statement further says, knew the facts and thought the forgery of the bordereau necessary. The evidence implicating Dreyfus were the words of Colonel Schwartzkoppen's own mouth. Generals Mercier, de Boisdeffre and Gonse knew that the bordereau was forged and that Dreyfus was illegally, but justly, convicted.

OVER SIXTY HOUSES BURNED

Quebec City Suffers Seriously Again From Fire.

The Beginning Was Small, But Inflammable Material and Wind Made a Disastrous Ending — Notre Dame Church in Danger—The Royal Canadian Artillery Turned Out and Tore Down a Couple of Houses.

Quebec, July 19.—At 8 o'clock yesterday fire broke out in the first story of a house on the corner of Richardson street and Boulevard Langelier. The woodwork in the vicinity of the fire was dry and ignited like tinder. Next to the building where the fire originated was a shop full of inflammable material, such as varnish, oils, etc. Unfortunately there is a break in the water main, and the supply of water by the old pipes was very poor. A strong northeast wind was blowing, and the fire spread rapidly, notwithstanding the firemen's efforts.

A detachment of the Royal Canadian Artillery, under command of Major Stone and Captains Benson and Imlah, was called from the citadel, and they set to work at once pulling down two houses belonging to Messrs. Guay[illegible] and Bourget, in order to stop the progress of the fire.

At 5 o'clock 29 houses had been destroyed, and the fire was still raging fiercely, threatening to spread in the direction of the large Congregation de Notre Dame Church (Roman Catholic), situated on the corner of St. Joseph and Caron streets. At 7 o'clock the fire brigade succeeded in getting the fire under control, but not before it had reduced to ashes between 60 and 70 houses. The fire covered three blocks in area, from Richardson street, on the Boulevard Langelier, to St. Francis street, destroying houses on King street and on both sides of the street between St. Anselme and Boulevard Langelier. Loss, $100,000; insurance, $50,000.

THE TRANSVAAL.

British Government Regards the Granting of the Seven-Year Franchise as Practically Ending the Crisis.

London, July 19.—The Times this morning says: The Government attaches the highest importance to the Volksraad's seven-year proposal, which is regarded as practically ending the crisis.

THE BOER FRANCHISE BILL

Discussed by the Volksraad and the Seven-Year Franchise Was Endorsed.

Pretoria, July 19.—The Volksraad resumed discussion of the franchise bill at its session yesterday. The trend of the debate favored seven years' retrospective and prospective franchise. Replying to a question, President Kruger reviewed the Bloemfontein conference, and said that the proposals of Sir Alfred Milner, Governor of Cape Colony and British high commissioner of South Africa, were too wide, but that alteration from nine to seven years was only a slight difference, and for reasons of honesty and righteousness he (President Kruger) recommended the alteration. The Government would not be endangered thereby, but would gain the applause of the world.

The Volksraad, in secret session, ultimately adopted the seven years' franchise proposition.

An Ultimatum to the Boers.

London, July 19.—Considerable importance attaches to yesterday's Cabinet meeting, as it is understood that the Colonial Office late last night issued to the Ministers an important communication relative to South Africa. The general trend of the news from that country points to a peaceful settlement of existing difficulties there.

Rhodes Warmly Welcomed.

Cape Town, July 19.—Mr. Cecil Rhodes, formerly Premier of Cape Colony, arrived here yesterday. He was welcomed by a reception committee, composed of influential citizens, and enthusiastically cheered as he traversed the streets. Many of the buildings of Cape Town were decorated with bunting, and in front of the town hall a big arch had been erected, bearing the words: "Welcome, Great Pioneer, Cape Town-Cairo."

MR. CHARLTON

Was Granted an Interview With the Ontario Cabinet About the Timber Law.

Toronto, July 19.—There was a special meeting of the Ontario Cabinet yesterday morning, and Mr. Charlton, M.P.P., with some other gentlemen, were granted an interview regarding the embargo on logs. It is said that Mr. Charlton made the proposal that the Ontario Government rescind the export prohibition on logs temporarily and allow the matter to go to the courts.

If the Michigan lumbermen win in this action they will forego all claims for damages in consideration of the Government allowing the free export of logs to Michigan during the interval that the result of the suit is pending.

Mr. Charlton received no concessions, but was simply allowed to state his case. The Michigan lumbermen claim that the act passed a couple of years ago is unconstitutional.

$55,000,000 TO RUN CANADA.

Out-at-the-Elbows Hangers-on Will Surely Have a Chance for a Crumb When It Takes $10 per Annum From Every Man, Woman and Child in the Dominion to Carry on the Public Business for a Single Year.

Ottawa, July 19.—Fifty-five millions of dollars or more will probably be the amount Parliament will be asked to authorize the expenditure of during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1900.

The main estimates, which are now being voted, amount to $46,986,551, and yesterday supplementary estimates were brought down amounting to $5,497,344, so that the amount asked so far is $51,783,895, of which $43,426,858 is chargeable to consolidated fund and $8,357,039 to capital account. Last year the main estimates amounted to $47,900,487, and the supplementaries brought down this year and assented to by His Excellency a few days ago amounted to $2,647,629, so that the total amount asked for the last fiscal year was $50,548,116. So far the estimates for the current year are $1,235,799 ahead of last year, but it is understood that there are to be "further supplementary" estimates, and a big lot of railway and other subsidies, which will include the $1,000,000 promised for Quebec Bridge, the $60,000 a year, for ever and ever amen, for the Washington of the north, and probably $500,000 for Mackenzie & Mann for the expense they incurred in preparing to build what Mr. Morin called their "Snow-Shore" road into the Yukon, and the supplementary estimates to be brought down next year. So, taking it all together, it is not unreasonable to assume that the total amount to be asked for the current year will be $55,000,000 or more, equal to $10 per head for every man, woman and child in the Dominion of Canada.

Mr. Tarte's Hand Seen.

In the supplementaries brought down yesterday the master hand of Mr. Tarte is very clearly seen. He is prepared to spend and to spend freely and his favors are spread lavishly. On capital account he asks $1,095,010 for "transportation facilities" divided as follows:

Port Colborne harbor improvements, $150,000.

Montreal harbor improvements, below St. Mary's current, $500,000.

River St. Lawrence ship channel to provide for additional works, $78,000.

Enlarging Levis graving dock $117,000.

He also asks $104,709 on capital account for public buildings in Ottawa, $82,211.78 of which is to pay Charles Bois' claim in connection with the Langevin block, $21,897.96 for fire protection and electric lighting Ottawa public buildings; $25,000 for a new military store house; $10,000 for an astronomical observatory and $12,000 to complete the reconstruction of western block after the fire of Feb. 15, 1897.

What Toronto Gets.

Public works chargeable to income amount to $905,962, amongst the votes being the following for Toronto:

Postoffice—For fitting up rental rooms at Grand Trunk Railway Station, $1,000; postoffice improvements, including automobile cars, $12,500.

Harbor—Diversion of the Don and dredging harbor, $50,000.

Other Ontario Votes.

Amongst the other Ontario votes are the following for buildings:

St. Catharines—Drill Hall, $10,000.

Ottawa—New wing to Rideau Hall, $14,000.

Hamilton—Paving yard and public building, $1,450.

London—Addition to postoffice, $4,000.

Brockville—Drill Hall, $10,000.

Kingston—Royal Military College, additional buildings, $8,000.

London—Drill Hall and Armory site, $10,000.

Windsor—Drill Hall, $6,000.

Sarnia—Public buildings, $10,000.

SERIOUS CELEBRATIONS.

THE celebration of Independence Day in the United States is a serious matter, if it is juddged in the light of casualities which result from the noisy demonstrations made with fire arms and explosives. The Chicago Tribune on July 7th made a tabulated statement of the casualities reported from 250 large cities, and the result is astonishing. Here are the figures:—"Number of dead, 35; injured by firecrackers, 849; by skyrockets, 129; by powder, 248; by firearms, 238; by cannon, 259; by stray bullets, 60; by accident, 82. Total injured, 1,851. In these same towns there was a fire loss of $242,570." The celebration in these 250 cities is almost as fatal and serious in its results to life and limb as the Cuban campaign or the most deadly battle fought in the Phillipines. It would seem to a sensible person that some form of celebration equally as demonstrative of loyalty and jubilation, but much less disastrous could be invented. Noise, fire-arms and explosives may well give place to something less harmless.

MANITOBA CONSERVATIVES.

DISCUSSING the Manitoba programme, or rather the platform on which the Manitoba Conservatives will shortly be fighting a provincial election campaign, the Montreal Gazette says there are in that programme a good many things that even extreme radicals might approve of. Manhood suffrage and "one man one vote," are the demands of one of the "planks," coupled with the promise of a fair and equitable franchise law. The "one man one vote" idea is really the just accompaniment of manhood suffrage, and while there are many who hesitate to deprive large property owners of the two, or even half a dosen votes that the laws of many of the provinces allow them to control, the privilege is one that has no defence in logic and all may look to see it disappear before long. Parliament is the gathering of the representatives of the people, not of the holders of parcels of real estate, and with each broadening of the franchise the impropriety of multiplying an individual's voice in the selection of these representatives by the number of divisions he may own land in becomes more apparent. Those who question the propriety of abolishing property qualifications are the minority and recognize the fact; and instead of combating the Conservatives on such an issue the Liberals of the west are likely to take up the same demand. There are, however, more practical reforms than this promised, reforms that the present men in power, with their record of past work, cannot hope to meet the Conservatives on. Five salaried Ministers to look after the business of a province of 250,000 people is more than necessity calls for, and the pledges of the Conservative convention to reduce the number to three, and to cut the indemnity of the members of the Legislature to $400 a session, are warranted by considerations both of economy and good sense. The inauguration of these reforms would be steps towards the adoption of that business administration of the affairs of the province which it needs quite as much as does any of the over-governed heavily-burdened members of the Canadian confederation. The promise to take education out of politics and put it under control of a semi-independent board is one that people outside of as well as those within Manitoba will hope to see fulfilled. The bringing of Manitoba's school affairs into the field of politics gave the province an extension of Greenway rule and the Dominion the Laurier Government. It was a great thing for the Liberal party, but it is doubtful if many think it has been a good thing for the cause of education in Manitoba, or for peace and good feeling anywhere in Canada. For the sake of what is promised in these matters all well wishers of the west will hope that the coming elections will give the Conservatives under Mr. Hugh John Macdonald an opportunity to show their good faith by putting their promised reforms into effect.

HON. C. A. GEOFFRION DEAD.

An Able Lawyer and Minister in the Laurier Cabinet Passes Away—Sketch of His Career.

Montreal, July 19.—The Hon. C. A. Geoffrion, Minister without portfolio in the Laurier Ministry, died at his summer residence, Dorionville, Que., at an early hour yesterday morning.

Sketch of His Career.

The late Hon. C. A. Geoffrion was born at Varennes in 1846, and was educated at St. Hyacinthe, and afterwards at McGill University, where he received the degree of B.C.L. in 1866. He was called to the bar in the same year. In 1887 he was made a Q.C., and in 1891 he received the degree of D.C.L. from McGill, where he has been for many years professor of civil law. In 1870 he married a daughter of the late Chief Justice Sir A. A. Dorion. His brother, the late Hon. Felix Geoffrion, for many years member for Vercheres, was in the Mackenzie Government, and was one of the ablest men in the province. On his death the nomination in Vercheres was offered to Mr. C. A. Geoffrion, who yielded to the request of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and was elected in April, 1895.

THE LATE HON. C. A. GEOFFRION.

In the election of 1896 the County of Vercheres was united to Chambly, and Mr. Geoffrion had for opponent Hon. L. O. Taillon, the late Premier of the province and the local member for Chambly, but was re-elected. His position in the Province of Quebec entitled him to a seat in the Cabinet, but his previous objections to political life continued, and it was only on the earnest solicitation of the party that he accepted Sir Wilfrid Laurier's invitation, and in August, 1896, was sworn in as Minister without portfolio.

Mr. Geoffrion during his professional career was connected with many important cases. He was Mr. Tarte's legal adviser in the famous Connolly-McGreevy investigation in 1891. He represented the Mercier Government in London when the banks appealed to the Privy Council against the tax on commercial corporations imposed by the preceding Conservative Government, and as a result of his argument the act was declared constitutional. He was chosen by the Archbishop of Montreal to defend him in the action for damages which was brought by The Canada Revue because Mgr. Fabre, in the exercise of his Episcopal functions, considered it necessary to forbid the faithful to read that journal. He also was legal adviser of the Banque du Peuple at the time of its suspension. At the beginning of the late electoral campaign it was considered necessary to publish a new French Liberal paper here because La Patrie did not represent the views of the party. Through the efforts of himself and others Le Soir was established, Mr. Geoffrion becoming one of the directors.

Tribute From Parliament.

Ottawa, July 19.—When the House met yesterday afternoon, the death of Hon. Mr. Geoffrion was vividly brought to its attention by the presence of a magnificent floral wreath, which, placed upon the desk, silently proclaimed a vacant chair, and the Prime Minister, with considerable emotion, pronounced a powerful and touching panegyric on a comrade and friend passed beyond the great divide.

Sir Charles Tupper, in tones solemn, and visibly affected, bore a loyal tribute to a generous opponent passed beyond the bar, and a sympathetic House silently bore tribute of esteem to the memory of a man whose treasures of intellect and judicial ability will alike be missed in Parliament and the law courts.

MACCABEES IN CONCLAVE.

Supreme Commander Markey Presents a Highly Favorable Report.

Port Huron, Mich., July 19.—The eighth biennial review of the Supreme Tent, Knights of the Maccabees, opened yesterday with 85 delegates in attendance representing nearly every State and the Canadian provinces. The report of Supreme Commander Markey shows a net increase in membership during the biennial period of 43,485. The increase of membership in the entire order, which includes the Supreme Tent, great camp and ladies' organization during the biennial period, was 98,088. The membership of the Supreme Tent at present is 190,331. The financial statement shows a surplus on hand of $468,036. The Supreme Tent has paid $2,964,500 in life benefits in the past two years.

The ladies of the Maccabees also opened their convention yesterday. The ladies have 45 representatives at the convention.

Firemen at Brockville.

Brockville, Ont., July 19.—The first day of the firemen's international demonstration here was a grand success yesterday. There was a parade in the forenoon and another in the afternoon. The hose reel race was won by Trenton Fire Company; time 46 4-5 seconds, with Saskett's Harbor second; time 48¼ seconds.

Charlton Act Violated.

Belleville, Ont., July 19.—Thomas Lynch of Elsevier has been committed for trial for an offence under the Charlton Act. He is now in jail here.

THE HUNTING LODGE

OF "GOOD QUEEN BESS" IN EPPING FOREST IS TO BE RESTORED.

Corporation of London Will Provide for the Expense of the Work — Queen Elizabeth Used to Ride Up and Down the Lodge Stairs—Full Description of the Historic Structure.

Seventeen years ago, by the exertions and at the expense of the Corporation of London, Epping Forest was dedicated by the Queen to the use and enjoyment of her subjects. The amount paid exceeded a quarter of a million pounds, and the Corporation of London were appointed conservators of the forest.

At the same time Queen Elizabeth's Lodge was transferred to them as an object of public and antiquarian interest.

The lodge seems undoubtedly to belong to the Tudor period. The roof, appearing to belong to an earlier date than the reign of Elizabeth, seems to add force to the claim that it was built in the reign of Henry VII. toward the end of the fifteenth century.

Just recently the corporation decided to expend $3,500 on restoring the lodge in accordance with the recommendations submitted to them by Mr. J. O. Scott.

In his report Mr. Scott points out that when the building was "restored" 14 years ago the object seemed to have been to make the building appear new, and he recommends the removal of the partition on the first floor, taking away the plaster, restoring the woodwork, providing a new oak floor and ceiling, adding four new windows, and restoring the exterior. The corporation have decided that the work shall be begun at once.

The lodge is an oblong structure of timber, 30 feet by 20 feet, consisting of three stories, with gable ends and high-pitched roof, the staircase projecting from the hall. The massive timbers are still in particularly good condition, the walls being upright and the floors level.

According to tradition the building was used by Queen Elizabeth as a lodge

QUEEN ELIZABETH'S HUNTING LODGE.

when she resorted to the Forest to hunt, and it is said that she used to ride up and down the stairs, which are constructed in such a manner that it would not have been a very difficult feat, each stair being a solid oak beam, and the numerous landing places being very broad. A horse block at one time stood on the topmost landing. The top floor consists of one large room, with an arched timber roof.

Whether or not Queen Elizabeth rode up the lodge stairs, there is no doubt that she believed in exercise, as the following extract from a letter to the Earle of Rutland shows:

"Her Majesty desires that you should remember her request to you, which was that you should indever to perfecte your healthe with exercyse, and saeth she knoeth you are lyke her in that she is not delyghted with anye sport much, yet for healthe sake, and because you shall plese her therein, she would you should enforce yourselfe to such exercyses as agre with you."

The Essex Field Club has, for some years, used the large room on the upper floor as a museum, illustrating the natural history of the forest, and the landings of the staircase contain maps, plans, and views of the forest and a small collection of books on Essex.

The museum also contains a large number of geological specimens. The forest is particularly rich in flora, and is a happy hunting ground for the entomologist and the lover of nature who is interested in the mysteries of pond life. The Essex Field Club are desirous of making their collection as complete as possible, but they are hampered for want of room.

The Corporation of the City of London will keep this object specially in view in carrying out the restoration, and the club will therefore in a short space of time be enabled to make a fuller display of their exhibits.

African Rivers.

It is a distinguishing feature of most African rivers that they contain no water for at least eight months of the year. It is true that water can almost always be found in a river bed by digging for it, but in outward appearance a river is usually a broad belt of sand lying between high and precipitous banks. Many and many a coach has been upset in one of these drifts, as they are called. The descent is always steep, frequently so steep that the brakes cannot hold the coaches.

They start going down at a crawl, and then the coach gathers way and goes on with a rush, the mules are driven into a heap anyhow, and one wonders that they do not get their legs broken; but they usually land all right, while the coach, practically unmanageable, goes down like a sort of toboggan, jumping from stone and stone, and swaying like a ship in a sudden squall, and may or may not arrive right side uppermost at the bottom. In fact, the passenger who has gathered his ideas of coaching from a trip to Brighton or a drive to Virginia Water, finds that he has a lot to learn about the subject when he gets to South Africa. Still, on the whole, it was wonderful how few accidents did occur, and if one considers that the coaches ran night and day, and that when there was no moon it would sometimes be too dark to see the mules from off the coach it reflects great credit on the drivers.—Gentleman's Magazine.

Forty Degrees at Sea's Bottom.

Sir John Murray is authority for the statement that 99 per cent. of the bottom water of the ocean has a temperature under 40 degrees Fahrenheit. Between the shore and the 100-fathom line the temperatures were higher. Speaking of the surface water, he said that 87 per cent. of the maximum temperatures, and 75 per cent. of the minimum temperatures were above 40 degrees Fahrenheit.

THE NEW HOUSE OF PROVIDENCE

department. It is largely a counterpart of the one below, consisting of sleeping and day rooms, private rooms for inmates, a room for the Sisters, bath rooms and closet. Every square foot of space will be well utilized.

The third storey will be allotted to the children, being taken up largely by domitories for the boys and girls, at opposite ends of the building.

Altogether the building promises to be an excellent one, an institution well fitted for the noble purpose for which it is intended. Bishop O'Connor and Ven Archdeacon Casey have taken up the cause of the unfortunate and destitute in an energetic manner and have not spared themselves in their effort to provide a home for the homeless and a refuge for the wretched. The need for such an institution in our midst has long been a reproach to the community and far too common has been the spectacle of aged men and women, whose only crime was poverty, being sent up to the common gaol for shelter, many of them seeking to be confined with criminals that they might not die of starvation. The poor we have with us and will always have with us. The lame and the blind, the afflicted of every kind, the helpless orphans and still more helpless aged, God's unfortunates every one of them, still live in our midst and are a living appeal to our charity and generosity. Of all the good works that we can do upon earth the highest and noblest and truest is the care of these, for it is that which was specially ordained by Christ. Civilization has made wonderful advances in the last century but in no respect has such progress been made towards the redemption of the world as in the exaltation of the spirit of Christian philanthropy and the growth of sympathy for physical suffering that has characterized the later years. Organized charity has sometimes been scoffed at but organization and the concentration of energy are necessary to the achievement of results. On Sunday afternoon next at the ceremony of dedication an appeal will be made to the citizens of Peterborough and vicinity for aid for the new H[ome] of Providence. The expense of putting up such a building, of equipping and furnishing it and of conducting it is a large one. The undertaking is as vast as it is worthy and it is hoped that the donations in aid will be many and will be generous. All most surely prove of and sincerely sympathize with the movement. Let each and every one show the true spirit of charity by giving largely even if in so doing it is necessary to deny oneself something. There can be no higher motive in the world and each one assisting has the assurance of Christ's promise "Inasmuch as ye did it unto the least of these my children ye did it unto Me."

GRAY HAIR.

Some people do a whole lot of worrying when a few gray hairs make their appearance. They pick them out carefully, use all sorts of hair tonics, and in other ways try to hide the ravages of time. If they would pay as much attention to the stomach and to the hair, they would show better judgment. They would get at the starting point of the things that make people look old. [illegible] the [illegible] works well the blood will be naturally pure. With pure blood running in the veins, the owner cannot be sick. He won't be nervous either, and his food will agree with him. His lungs will be strong, and there will be no chance for consumption to get a footing. His head will be clear and there will be, within him, an ambition to work. Good health is such a simple thing—so easy to have. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the medicine that induces good health. It strengthens the stomach when weak, purifies the blood, tones up the nerves, strengthens the lungs, and cures all diseases that, if neglected or badly treated, end in consumption. It is a temperance medicine—no alcohol or whisky in it. Its protracted use does not create a craving for intoxicants. If afflicted, [illegible] write about your case to Dr. R. V. Pierce at Buffalo, N. Y. He charges no fee for consultation by mail.

"I will forever thank you for advising me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mrs. Jas. Murphy, of Fonda, Pocahontas Co., Iowa. "It has cured me of chronic sore throat of twelve years' standing. I had doctored for the trouble until I was completely discouraged. I also had chronic diarrhea for twelve years. I am in good health now—better than I ever was in my life, owing to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took several bottles of 'Discovery' before I stopped."

Take Dr. Pierce's Pellets if you want to be permanently cured of constipation.

To Pay for Bremner's Furs.

Amongst the votes of general interest is one of $5,364, amount required to pay Mr. Charles Bremner of Bressaylor, for value of furs entrusted by him to Dominion Government authorities at Battleford on May 26, 1885, and never returned to him. This is the celebrated "Bremner fur case," which aroused so much interest 14 years ago, when the Grit press charged General Middleton, who commanded the forces during the Northwest rebellion of 1885, with stealing Bremner's furs. Bremner was a rebel and his furs were confiscated and, although the matter was thoroughly examined, both departmentally and in Parliament, the late Government would never admit that the furs were not lawfully and properly confiscated.

THE ELECTION CHARGES UP.

West Huron and Brockville Before the Parliamentary Committee.

Ottawa, July 19.—The West Huron and Brockville election charges were taken up by the privileges and elections committee yesterday morning.

Mr. Todd, clerk of the committee, stated that the summonses were sent to the sheriff of Huron, who had served 49 out of the 50.

Robert Clarke of Calgary was reported as on his way to Ottawa.

While William Stanley of Goderich was being examined, Mr. Borden, who was conducting the examination, asked for whom he marked his ballot.

Dr. Russell objected to that question, at any rate at this stage of the proceedings. He held that it was impolitic and improper to ask such a question, and that a provision in the act forbade it. A long discussion took place on this point, Mr. Borden pointing out that he already had the declarations of 45 men who had marked their ballots for McLean at this poll. Mr. Borden also quoted from the Manitoba case, Queen v. Saunders, where the very first witness was asked how he voted. The question was then allowed on the opinion of the Supreme Judges of Manitoba. It was now 1 o'clock, and the committee adjourned till 10.30 to-day.

In the Premier competition Gilchrist and Fleming, Canadians, tied with Mayne and Pattison. The tie will be shot off to-day.

At 600 yards, several of the competitors made the highest possible score. The Canadians scored as follows: Crowe and Fleming 33, Buckley and Huggins 29, Sharpe and Cartwright 27, R. A. Robertson 26.

First Stage Completed.

The first stage of the contest for the Queen's prize was completed yesterday afternoon. Corporal Falmingham of the Second Norfolks wins the bronze medal with a score of 101. Bertram of the Canadian team made a score of 101. The Martin challenge cup was won by Private W. T. Ward, and the Secretary of War's by Lieut. Dunlop of the 1st Lanarkshire Regiment.

SUMMER FASHIONS.

Humble Fabrics Exalted to a High Position.

Within the last few years many materials not before considered as belonging to the domain of dress have come into use for gowns, denim and crash being conspicuous among them, but this year there is a yet more striking innovation, burlaps, pure and simple, being introduced as a dress fabric. Of course it is not the coarsest, roughest kind of sacking. It is the comparatively smooth, even quality of the lightest weight used for wall bangings, etc., and is appropriately trimmed with incrustations of duck of a different color and with cotton or linen braid and tape in fancy patterns. An era of simplicity has begun, for, while these coarse goods are so largely employed for ordinary hot weather wear, swiss muslin, both plain and dotted, composes some of the nicest hot weather gowns.

REDINGOTE.

Country hats of lawn and muslin are again in vogue. They are not particularly durable, but as they are inexpensive that is of little consequence, and they are extremely light and cool as well as attractive while they are clean and fresh. They are entirely composed of puffs and draperies of muslin, and the wearer can give them an aspect of originality by the addition of a knot of velvet or ribbon or a bunch of flowers and some quills.

The picture shows a novel tailor made redingote of very thin mastic cloth. It is tight, but forms a sort of stitched plastron in front, which falls from the neck to the foot and is adorned with wooden buttons. Bands of shirred silk are applied to the foot of the redingote and the sleeves in ornamental designs and also decorate the outside of the flaring collar. There is a narrow belt of the silk also.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Both Flowers and Fruit Are Used as Trimming.

There are little hats entirely of flowers, trimmed with changeable ribbon, which are exceedingly attractive. For example, a toque made of mignonette is decorated with green and white changeable ribbon and another of Parma violets with straw and violet ribbon.

The veil is being omitted more and more frequently, even for informal occasions. Of course it is never worn upon occasions of ceremony. Speaking of omissions, the custom of a man offering his arm to a lady is now more honored in the breach than the observance. For a long time it has disappeared from ordinary daily life, although a former generation considered it essential to good manners. The only occasions upon which the custom has obtained of late years have been the walk in to dinner from the drawing room and the promenade in the ballroom between dances, but now promenaders are beginning to walk side by side without touching arms, and no doubt it will soon be possible for a woman to march in to dinner without actual support from her cavalier. Obstructionists will doubtless be able to trace back this change of manners to the higher education of woman and her adoption of the bicycle.

Cherries are a frequent decoration of hats this season. A model of light beige straw is very prettily trimmed with ecru lace and a quantity of cherries of different shades of red, with foliage.

The hat illustrated is of beige straw, the edge being violet, with beige tulle. At the side is a chou of rare ribbon, connected with another chou which rests upon the hair. A trail of pink convolvulus passes up over the crown.

The Atlin Mining Company of Ontario

LIMITED.

OFFICERS :

JOHN TORRANCE, Jr., Montreal, President. W. W. MEACHAM, M.D., Kingston, Ont., 2nd Vice-President.
WILLIAM MOORE, London, Eng., 1st Vice-President. J. B. CLARKSON, Montreal, Treasurer.
BANNELL SAWYER, B.C.L., Secretary.

CAPITAL: $400,000, divided into 1,600,000 shares of a par value of 25c. each.

INCORPORATION: Working under the Ontario Company's Act, non-personal liability.

TREASURY: Fund 600,000 shares from the sale of which development funds will be received and expended in placing the mine on a dividend paying basis.

MINE: The mining location which it is the special province of this Company to develop, is known as the "Sirdar of the Manitou." It is technically known as the H P 259 location, and lies in the Rainy Lake Mining District of Ontario.

THE VEIN: Is 4 feet wide at the surface or wider and the width increases as the shaft is sunk, until at a depth of 45 feet it is about 7 feet across.

WORK: In addition to surface prospecting and tracing the vein over the property, a shaft has been sunk to a depth of 45 feet, and a contract has been given to sink 30 feet farther and to drift for 60 feet on the vein. When this is completed, further and permanent development will be arranged for.

MILL TEST: Eighteen tons of ore from the dump were milled and the gold retorted at the "Keewatan Reduction Works," which went $9.60 to the ton. Five hundred pounds from the pay-streak was put through, which went so heavy in gold that extra quick silver had to be put on the plates to catch it all.

CONCENTRATES: These were only partially saved, but we have one thousand pounds on hand which we sampled and had assayed by Professor Donald which showed $153.09 to the ton. If all the Concentrates are as rich as this, the whole cost of operating the mine can be paid from them alone, leaving the free milling gold for dividends.

Assays: By Milton Hersey, Esq., B.A., Sc., Consulting Chemist of the C.P.R., of Montreal, average sample of the dump (not knowingly putting in any of the pay streak, which was carefully sacked, as it was extracted from the shaft) went $54.19; also samples from the bottom and sides of the shaft went $72.00 to the ton.

By Professor Donald, M.A., Professor of Chemistry, Bishop's College, sample taken from the pay streak, went $1,585.50.

By various persons, the following results were obtained: $14, $39.60, $615.

PLAN OF OPERATION: As soon as the work now under contract has been completed, our plan is to erect a two stamp mill in such a way that eight more stamps can be added later on, when the mine is sufficiently developed to supply ore rapidly enough to keep that number of stamps going night and day.

OUTPUT: Would be more than enough to keep the two stamps going, when we would be able to see and prove the value of our mine and we would also receive money steadily from the ore to help pay for the development, thus rendering it unnecessary to sell many Treasury Shares and enabling us to command a better price for them when offered.

PROFITS: The total cost of mining this ore need not exceed $2.50 per ton, and estimating it at $20.00 there would be a yield of $18,000 per month, crushing 30 tons a day.

GOLD BRICKS: We expect to have our first gold brick in Montreal within 6 months from the 1st of June.

SHARES: We are offering 100,000 shares at 15c., payable 1-3 cash, 1-3 in 60 days, and 1-3 in 90 days. Those who wish to pay in full at time of purchase may do so and receive their scrip at once.

CONCLUSION: From the results already obtained, we think we are safe in saying that this is one of the best and most promising investments in sight, and we believe that large profits will be made from such investment in a very short while.

ENGINEER'S REPORT.

Wabigoon, Ont., 28 Dec., 1898.

Made by Mr. Hugh D. Alston, of the Neepawa Mine, Ontario, late of London, England.

BANNEL SAWYER, Esq., Montreal, Que.

Sir:—In accordance with your request by telegram dated Nepigon, 22nd Dec., I now beg to hand you report on "Sirdar" Mine, better known as "Swede Boys."

LOCATIONS AND MEANS OF COMMUNICATION. The property contains 67 acres, more or less, situated on the upper Manitou Lake, in the Rainy River District of Ontario, it is distant about seven miles from Denmark at the head of the lake, and about thirty-three miles from the town of Wabigoon, a station on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway. At both points there are stores where nearly all necessary supplies can be obtained at reasonable cost. Communication is carried on during the winter by horses and sleighs, and in summer by steamboats, with the exception of seven miles over a Government road.

SHAFT AND LODE: The shaft is down 45 feet and timbered for about 30 feet and from there down it is about 6 x 8 on a slight incline partly following the hanging wall.

The vein is exceptionally well-defined and regular, and it is a "fissure" vein of a "banded" structure, it shows the full width of the shaft—this would make the vein over 7 feet wide.

MILL SITES, TIMBER, &c. There is a very favorable mill site East of the shaft, on the Lake shore, and, as the ground rises toward the shaft, ore could be supplied to the mill by gravity tramway at small cost.

There is a large quantity of dry timber on the property sufficient for fuel requirements for some time to come; building logs and mill timbers can be obtained adjacent to the lake.

RECOMMENDATION. Considering that this location is so favorably situated for mining and milling, and, judging from the character of the vein and quality of ore exposed in the shaft, I am of the opinion that this location will develop into a very valuable mine on a comparatively small outlay, and have no hesitation in recommending it as a sound investment.

Yours faithfully,

HUGH D. ALSTON.

Last evening about 6.30 o'clock a four-year-old child of Mr. Joseph Armstrong, Water-st., met with a painful accident. She was playing with a match and set fire to her clothing and with her dress in flames went screaming to her grandmother, who, with presence of mind, wrapped her skirt around the child, and although her arms and hands were burned somewhat by the act, she succeeded in putting out the flames. OBITUARY.

Death of Mrs. John Lockhart, a Resident of Town Since 1858.

At the family residence, 73 Harvey-st., the death occurred yesterday of Mrs. John Lockhart, aged 67 years.

Mrs. Lockhart was the youngest daughter of Capt. Thomas Ley, and was born in Mevagissey, in the county of Cornwall, England, on the 17th of May, 1832. She and her sister, the wife of the Rev. E. Roberts, came to Canada about forty-five years ago, and during Mr. Roberts' first pastorate here in 1858 she was married to Mr. John Lockhart, and with the exception of a few years spent in Sunderland their residence has been in Peterborough. Their only daughter, who became the wife of Mr. A. E. Micks, preceded her mother to the eternal rest, leaving little Mildred to the loving care of her father and grand parents. Mrs. Lockhart was an industrious wife, a good neighbor, a steadfast friend and a lover of the Methodist church, and during the last year a great sufferer. But her trust was in God, and realizing the favor and mercy of God her language was, "Though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death I will fear no evil, for Thou art with me; Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me."—Com.

Wm. Nearn was charged with allowing a cow to run at large. He was fined $2 and 85 cents costs.

A charge of assault laid by David Fleming against John McWilliams, jr., was enlarged till next Wednesday.

About two hundred people came from Campbellford, a big reinforcement was gained at Hastings and others were picked up at stations along the route. The train pulled into town at eight o'clock and a change of cars was made. About a hundred people were waiting to take in the trip and joined the excursionists. The train for Lakefield was made up of seven coaches.

THE NEW HOUSE OF PROVIDENCE

OF WHICH THE CORNER STONE WILL BE LAID NEXT SUNDAY.

The Building will be a Model of Design and Equipment for Its Particular Purpose—The General Plan of Construction.

As announced before, the ceremony of laying the corner stone of the new House of Refuge on the St. Joseph's hospital grounds, Ashburnham, will take place on Sunday afternoon, His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, performing. He will also deliver the address in connection.

A study of the plans of the architect, Mr. John E. Belcher, C.E., and of the work already accomplished shows that the building as designed is a model one for the purpose for which it is intended. It will be severely plain and symmetrical and will be primarily utilitarian. In its salubrious situation, commanding a wide and delightful prospect, in the suitability of the general plan to the use to which the building is to be put and in the thorough manner in which all details have been considered and attended to the new institution should be a model one. The Sisters of St. Joseph, of the hospital, have taken a great interest in the building and have aided the architect by many suggestions which have been of great value, their connection with charitable work having given them a wonderful knowledge of what is required. The work that has been done on the building has been considerable and has been very satisfactory and it is expected that the stonework will be completed by the end of the week.

The new building will stand on the same hill as the hospital, about 250 feet to the south west and will face northward. It will be 70 feet long and 42 feet wide, the long side facing north. For purposes of comparison it may be stated that the hospital is 90 feet by 63 feet. It will be of solid stone and brick, the stonework being 22 inches thick and the brick work 18 inches thick, will be of four complete storeys, including basement, and will be topped by a cottage roof. With a view to its use and purpose no attempt has been made to have it present an ornamental appearance but for usefulness it is hard to see how the plans could be improved upon. Special attention has been devoted to provision for light, ventilation and general convenience. On the south side airy verandahs will open off each floor and extend the full length of the building. Inside the height from floor to ceiling of each storey will be 11 feet. There will be wide corridors on each floor extending from end to end, intersected by staircases leading up and down, forming ducts for ventilation. Over all doors will be fanlights to facilitate the passage of air. The main entrance will be in the centre of the north side of the building, there will also be one in the east end and one on each floor on the south side. Five large windows on each floor will admit light from north and south, and in the ends of the building there will be three on each floor.

The interior arrangements as planned are above criticism. In the basement, which will be bright and airy, there will be men's, women's and children's refectories, kitchen, pantry, laundry and other such rooms. The ground floor is for the male inmates, the great part of the space being taken up with the men's ward rooms, both day and sleeping rooms, and there will also be a reception room, a room for the Sisters in charge, closets and other necessary divisions.

The floor above will be the women's

ROWBOAT UPSET IN THE CURRENT

TWO WOMEN DROWNED IN THE MOON RIVER NEAR BRACEBRIDGE.

Miss Sills, of Belleville, and Miss Phillips, of Newmarket, Drawn Into a Chute on the Moon River and Carried Away.

Special to the Review

Bracebridge, Ont., July 19.—Two Toronto ladies, Miss Sills, an invalid, and her nurse, Miss Phillips, who had been residing for some time with T. Burgess, of Bala, were drowned in the Moon river yesterday. They were out in a rowboat and ventured too near the mouth of Moon chute and were caught by the current and swept down the chute. The bodies have not yet been recovered.

SUMMER SCHOOLS AT PORT HOPE.

A SPECIAL LECTURE BY REV CARL S SMITH, OF BERLIN.

Life and Letters of Frederic William Robertson—Departure of the American Lecturers.

(Special to The Review.)

Port Hope, July 18th, 1899.

To the general regret of the school our American friends, in the persons of Dr. John P. Peters and Mr. Robt. A. Woods, have withdrawn, but not before each in his particular work had made considerable impression upon the members of the school and upon the community itself. Dr. Peters concluded his course of lectures on Monday, and left the same evening by the steamer Corsican for Montreal. Mr. Woods left for Boston on Saturday.

The school is to be congratulated for bringing to Canada such prominent thinkers and practical workers as Dr. Peters and Mr. Woods, and cannot too highly appreciate the privilege of hearing them, nor the sacrifice which these gentlemen have made, in so generously surrendering their services.

On Monday evening Rev. Carl S. Smith, rector, of Berlin, lectured to a good audience of visitors and students on the "Life and Letters of Frederick William Robertson." The lecture was replete with artistic coloring, of which Mr. Smith is master, and was listened to with great attention.

The intimacy of all classes of Christian people with the sermons and teaching of Robertson, not less than the noble personality of the man himself, the lecturer, said, demanded a careful study of his life. It has been given to some men to see beyond the age in which they live. They stand as it were upon the crest of the mountain and peering into the distance declare their visions to those in the valley beneath. Robertson was such a prophet. He lived and worked amid extraordinary circumstances. It was an age of awakening thought in the church. Frederick D. Maurice and others were seeking to widen the bonds of the church till it should encompass heaven and earth. Kingsley was busy stirring up the caldron of social discontent. Pusy, Newman, and Kubee were eagerly pressing on the Oxford Revival, and editing the Tracts for the Times, and it was amidst such composite thought and teaching that Robertson had to find his place.

Robertson's early life was marked

Demonstrated.

Sometimes it costs hundreds of dollars to convince a man; very often less is required, but in the case of Polson's Nerviline, that sovereign remedy for pain, 10 cents foots the bill, and supplies enough Nerviline to convince every purchaser that it is the best, most prompt and certain pain remedy in the world. Nerviline is good for all kinds of pain, pleasant to take and sure to cure cramps and all internal pains. It is also nice to rub outside, for it has an agreeable smell, quite unlike so many other preparations, which are positively disagreeable to use. Try it now. Go to a drug store and buy a 10 cent or 25 cent bottle. Polson's Nerviline. Take no other.

A LETTER FROM THE PHILLIPINES

AN AMERICAL VOLUNTEER DESCRIBES THE NATIVES AS USELESS AND DEPRAVED.

A Letter Received From Mr. Ed. Millane, Son of Mrs. Millane, of Ashburnham, Who Has Been in the Islands for Over a Year.

A letter was received the other day by Mrs. Millane, who is visiting her mother, Mrs. Ed. Conroy, Brown-st., Ashburnham, from her son, Mr. T. Millane, a member of the 13th Minnesota volunteers, stationed at Manilla. It was dated Manila, June 7th. He states that the volunteers were at that time expecting to be called home to the United States, regulars taking their place, and that they are not at all sorry to come. They are all in good health and in no danger from the Philipinos but he is disgusted with the country.

He draws a strong picture of the Filipinos and states emphatically that they are not at all understood in this country. They are cruel and treacherous. When the Americans took Manila from the Spaniards it was the expectation of the Philipinos that they would be let into the city to destroy the Spaniards. The word among them was "You let us get into that city and we will kill those Spaniards for you. We will show you what to do with that city." They were very angry that the Americans protected the city and the prisoners looked then for American blood. Mr. Millane believes that the newspapers take a wrong view of the situation. It was necessary for them to hold the country and carry on the war not only to protect the Spaniards but the thousands of other foreigners there as well. The Filipinos are very hard to deal with. If they are treated gently they believe that the Americans are afraid of them and become so belligerent that it is necessary to suppress them.

As an instance of their cruelty the following is given: "It does not seem possible but Chinamen were hired to make big knives and the Filipino women were to be armed with these and every wounded American found on the field was to be despatched by them.. Very poor innocent people, these Filipinos! But we made a raid and got these knives. Our company alone got 300. I have one and am keeping it as a memento."

Mr. Millane dilates at length on the moderation of the Americans. He states that they never attack the natives and never kill any when themselves attacked unless it is extremely necessary. Even as it is now there are several thousands of the natives in bands of fifty or more in the country and sometimes they assemble and make things warm. The insurgents still hold some Spanish as well as some American prisoners. Spain wanted to ransom these but the United States interfered as the money so obtained would help the insurgents.

The writer says: "They (the Filipinos) would be fighting among themselves all the time instead of cultivating the soil and when they had their fill of fighting starvation would be staring them in the face. They would start robbing each other and in this way they would 'govern' themselves until the Filipinos would be no more, which would be a blessing to all concerned. They are taught in their childhood to be dishonest, to be as ungrateful as possible and to take every chance to get a penny in any way except by work. They are lazy and good for nothing and have no moral ideas, although they profess to be Christians. It is a fright how they use their prisoners; they get half rations while the insurgents have full rations. The food consists of rice, rice bread and water. They burned several of their own towns.

The writer states that injustice is done the Americans in the Philippines by many of the writers in the United States and Canada. They are simply trying to keep peace and protect those that would suffer from the lawless and that it is absolutely necessary that there should be military control by Americans or some other civilized nation in order to save the islands from destruction. He does not think that there will be any more great battles as the insurgent army is pretty well broken up and disheartened.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement, that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. For sale by James Lynch, druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough, large bottles 50 cents and $1.00.

AN ENJOYABLE OUTING.

Annual Picnic of the Matthews Co's Employees at Jubilee.

Very successful and pleasant was the annual picnic of the employees of the Matthews Packing Co. at Jubilee Point yesterday. The crowd was large and jolly and made the most of the occasion. The City of Peterborough made good time and an enjoyable time was had at the Point. The firm had provided many conveniences for the picnicers. At Jubilee a programme of sports was run off and a baseball match was played between two teams of the factory. The scorer was unable to keep pace with the runs. Dancing was enjoyed during the day and on the up trip, a good orchestra being on board.

Trouble From a Name.

An item was published in the newspapers a few days ago stating that a Mr Harry LaBelle had been arrested at Clifton on a charge of theft. We wish to state that this is not Mr Harry La Belle, a former resident of Peterborough and a young man well known here. Mr La Belle called at the Review Office to-day and states that he has been within a radius of 50 miles of Peterborough since May. It is a case in which the identity of name might lead to wrong conclusions. Hence this notice.

The Port Hope Excursion.

The town was invaded to-day by a welcome lot of visitors from Port Hope. It was the occasion of the annual excursion under the auspices of the Methodist Sunday school of Port Hope and recognizing Peterborough's advantages as a picnic town they selected it. Their special train of nine coaches arrived at the Grand Trunk station about 10.30 o'clock o'clock and the townspeople were soon aware of the presence of a large number of visitors. The Port Hope people were reinforced by many from Cobourg and Millbrook. They made their headquarters at Inverlea park and the ground presented a pretty scene all day. The return train leaves about 7.30. The Port Hope baseball team accompanied the excursionists and is playing the Peterborough team at the P A A A grounds this afternoon.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

SIR ALFRED MILNER.

Once Paul's Diplomatic Foe in the Transvaal Uitlanders' Differences.

Sir Alfred Milner, K.C.B., who has represented Great Britain in the dangerous negotiations with President Kruger of the Transvaal, is the Governor of Cape Colony and high commissioner for South Africa. He was appointed to this position in 1897 in place of Lord Rosmead, and has given every satisfaction to his Government. Sir Alfred, although an Englishman of the purest type, was born in

SIR ALFRED MILNER.

Wurtemburg, in Germany, where his father was a physician. He was educated in Germany and at Oxford, studied law, and was called to the Inner Temple in 1891. From law he went into journalism, and then got into Parliament, where his talents at once distinguished him and secured his future. He occupied a number of positions in the Government. He is only 46 years old.

Was Diplomatic.

"But why on earth did you introduce me to your aunt as Mr. Darling? Did you forget that it was Scroggs?"

"Certainly not, you old goose. But I know she overheard me call you 'darling' and I wouldn't have her think I was spooney for all the world."

Foolish Notion.

A great many men fail to become orators, in the opinion of The Washington Post, because they cling to the notion that they must say something when they talk.

Bathing an Elephant.

If there is one thing which an elephant enjoys above all things else, it is his bath. In India elephants are used to draw the great guns of the heavy batteries. They take their baths in the barracks, at the troughs where they drink, and they behave much better about it than many children. They have to lie down and be patient while they are washed by their attendants. They turn themselves about very promptly to suit their convenience. The attendant rubs the hide with a piece of stone instead of a sponge, and if the stone slips out of his hand the elephant politely picks it up with his trunk and hands it back. After they have been well scrubbed the elephants give themselves a shower bath, using their trunks to dash the water upon themselves, and they can hit any part of their bodies with ease.

Why?

One of the great Chicago department stores keeps a female hairdresser constantly at work on a dummy head that is adorned with flowing and most beautiful golden tresses. She is watched incessantly by large and interested crowds.

"Yes," said one woman absently the other day to her companion, "blond hair is very beautiful—that is, the real blond hair."

And at least half a dozen women flashed looks of indignation at the speaker. Why?

Local Prejudice.

"Benjamin Franklin sleeps in Philadelphia," remarked the reverent tourist.

"Well," answered the New York salesman with the plaid clothes, "what else is there for a man to do in Philadelphia?"—Washington Star.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by James Lynch, druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough.

"Little I care, for I mean to announce our engagement to Aunt Gwen on sight, and she is the only one who has any business to complain," returns the successful wooer firmly.

"Oh! it so sudden; perhaps we'd better wait a little while."

"With your permission, not an hour. You belong to me, now—see, let me put this solitaire diamond on your finger. It was my mother's ring. By that token I simply desire to warn all men 'hands off.' Tell me, am I right, Ruth?"

"Yes; I can offer no objection. Do as you think best, doctor."

This is a beautiful beginning. Clouds will be rare in their future if they keep on in this way.

So they once more go back to the hotel, and find Aunt Gwen on the lookout, her kindly face wearing an anxious expression that becomes a quizzical one when she sees John smile.

"Your blessing, Aunt Gwen," he says.

"My what?"

"Oh! it's all settled. Ruth has promised to be my wife," continues John, looking very happy.

"The dickens she has!" and Philander pushes into view from behind the voluminous skirts of his better half. "What business has she to accept any one without consulting her doting——"

"Philander!"

"——Aunt? Don't take me seriously, my boy. Accept my congratulations, wish you joy, and, thank Heaven, it isn't that pompous baronet."

"Amen!" says John, warmly.

"Now that you allow me a chance, Philander, I want to say just this; it suits me to a dot. I am delighted—enchanted. Of course you'll live in Chicago. That's another blow against John Bull. We'll be mistress of the seas yet. Here, let me kiss you both, my children, and take the blessing of a woman who has not lived fifty years for nothing."

CHAPTER XXII.

Even in the midst of his happiness, John Craig has not forgotten the one important fact that brought him to Algiers.

While he can devote himself to laying a plan for the accomplishment of a certain object, and with the assistance of Lady Ruth arrange to surprise Sir Lionel Blunt, he is at the same time anxiously awaiting news.

Will Ben Taleb carry out his promise? The heart of the young man beats high with hope.

Unconscious of a great surprise in store for him, John enters the hotel with Lady Ruth.

"A gentleman in the parlor to see you, sir."

John's face flushes; the instantaneous thought flashes into his mind that a messenger has at length come from the Moorish doctor.

He enters.

His eyes are dazzled a little by the glare of the sun on the white buildings, and the room is dim. A man's figure advances toward him. Surely that step is familiar. God heavens, what a shock comes upon him!

"Father!"

"John, my boy!"

He has believed his father to be at the other side of the world. He is surprised at the warmth of the greeting he receives. Really, this is quite unlike the proud man John has known all his life, a man who seemed to ever surround himself with a wall of coldness.

A sudden shock runs through John's ... It is as if he has been given the negative and positive ends of a battery. He believes that his mother is here in this city. Can that have anything to do with his father's coming?

A feeling of resentment springs up, then dies away as he gets a good look at his parent's face.

"Father, what has happened? Have you failed; has any disaster come upon us?"

"Why do you ask that, John?"

"Your face; it has changed so. I miss something I have been accustomed to see there."

Duncan Craig smiles.

"Ah! John, my boy, please Heaven, I am changed. I have been humbled in the dust, and I believe I have emerged from the furnace, I trust, a far better man."

John is puzzled. He cannot make out what has caused this humbling on the part of his proud paternal ancestor, nor is he able to hazard a guess as to the effect it may have upon his fortunes.

Craig, sr., does not explain what brings him to Algiers at this particular time, but immediately starts asking questions regarding the scenes John has gazed upon since leaving the German college of medicine, where he received his graduation diploma.

While they are yet talking, who should appear on the scene but Lady Ruth.

"You carried off my fan, John, and I wanted to mend it while I had the chance. Oh! I beg your pardon; I did not know you were engaged. The clerk told me you were in here, but——"

John has eagerly darted forward and has hold of the fair girl's arm.

"I want to introduce some one to you, some one you would see sooner or later. Sir, this is Lady Ruth Stanhope, a young lady to whom I have lost my heart, and my promised wife."

"What!" exclaimed Craig, sr., "bless my soul, your only a boy, John."

"Twenty-three, sir," promptly.

"Yes, you're right. Time flies. You've given me quite a shock, but, by Jove! I'm already favorably impressed with your taste. Will you allow me the privilege of a kiss, my dear?"

"Sir!" indignantly, for in the dim light she does not see that his moustache is snow-white, as is also his hair.

Her tragic attitude rather alarms John.

"Ruth, it is my father," he cries.

This alters the case.

"Your father! Oh! John, has he——" She sees the warning finger her betrothed raises up, and stops suddenly, for she has been about to say something relative to the presence of Sister Magdalen in the city.

The elder Craig raises the shade, and in the new light Lady Ruth sees a remarkably handsome man of middle age, even distinguished in his manner.

Then he is John's father, too, and that makes quite a difference. She approaches, with hand extended.

"Forgive me, sir. I did not dream John's father was within five thousand miles of Algiers."

"And if you have agreed to be my only boy's wife you must be my daughter, too."

This time he bestows a paternal salute upon her velvety cheek. Possibly Lady Ruth is ready to believe she is entering the Craig family very rapidly; but with a woman's idea of the eternal fitness of small things, she feels very much pleased to know that her future father-in-law is such a distinguished-looking gentleman.

As is proper, she excuses herself, and leaves the room. Doubtless father and son have much to talk over.

When John finds himself alone with the parent for whom he has ever felt the greatest respect without deep filial affection, he grows anxious again.

What can have brought the other across the sea at this particular time? Is it connected with the fact he cherishes; the presence of this other one in Algiers? and, if so, what does Duncan Craig mean to do; cut him off with a penny because he has dared allow the longing of his heart to have its way, and has endeavored to find the mother so long lost?

When he steals another look at the elder Craig's face, he cannot see that there is anything like deep anger there, and yet John admits that he is not a good hand at analyzing motives.

He dares not mention the matter himself, and is therefore bound to wait until his respected father speaks, if he does so at all.

Craig, sr., talks of his trip, declares he is delighted with the glimpse he has had of Algiers, and wonders how it would pay a good doctor to settle down there for the winter months; at which John declares it would just suit him.

Then the other drops a gentle clue to his late movements by asking John which arm it was upon which he was recently vaccinated, which is a puzzler to the young fellow until the name of Malta is mentioned, when he cries:

"Were you at Valetta, father?"

"I reached there two days after you left. Bless me, the whole town was still talking over a brave deed that had recently saved a child's life."

"Nonsense!"

"Well, it pleased me when I heard the name of the young man who saved the child at the risk of his own life. I was proud to know I was his father."

Still no mention of the real cause that has brought him so far from home. John is baffled.

His recent happiness is dimmed a little, and he has an uneasy feeling, as though the unknown were about to happen; a weight rests upon his heart.

A strange thing occurs. Sir Lionel passes the door, and immediately Craig, sr., is taken with a spasm of fury. He acts as if to start to rush out, then faces his son. John sees his father's face for the first time convulsed with fury.

"Do you know that man?" he demands.

"Certainly."

"Is his name Blunt?"

"Yes, sir."

"I thought I could not be mistaken. There is something singular that brings him here at this time. John, is this Reginald Blunt a particular friend of yours?"

"Why, no, sir, in fact, he was my rival for the hand of Ruth Stanhope. But you call him Reginald; this is Sir Lionel Blunt, a colonel from India and the south of Africa."

(To be continued).

Could "Lick the Name."

"I don't know how it is here," said a visitor at one of the hotels, "but over in Georgia the phrase, 'lick the name,' is still quite current on the countryside. Lick the name is an innocent rural variation of the vendetta, and when a man proclaims his ability to do it he generally has quite a job on his hands. I was at a small interior village on court day recently and saw two farmers get into a debate over a horse trade. 'Yer a liar!' said one. 'Shuck yer coat, Bill Taylor,' retorted the other. 'I kin lick the name!'

"Mr. Taylor shucked his coat and got licked. It appeared, however, that his victor had just started in. Less than ten minutes afterward he was hailed by a husky young chap, who immediately inquired: 'Did y' say y' could lick we uns' name?' 'Who are y' anyhow?' asked the warrior. 'Ceph Taylor.' 'Who's yer pap?' 'Lige Taylor; lives on the branch down yonder.' 'Shuck yer coat!'

"They went at it, and Ceph was added to the vanquished, but he put up a hot fight for the honor of the tribe. In the course of the afternoon two other Taylors challenged the rash assertion, and the last disproved it. In so doing he lost a section of one ear and parted company with two teeth.

"I will not harrow your feelings by describing the other gentleman. I judged from the episode that it was very unwise to undertake to lick such a widely borne name as Taylor. When I start ont to lick a name, it will be something like Cholmoldey or Zentivistiskoff."—New Orleans Times Democrat.

An Impious Retort.

"William and Mary," says a correspondent of the Chicago Record, "is the oldest college in America, although Harvard graduated a class first. In 1685 the Rev. James Blair was sent over to Virginia to act as a sort of deputy for the bishop of London, who had ecclesiastical jurisdiction over the colonial churches. They called him a 'commissary.' In 1691 he returned to England to represent to the king and the bishop the necessity for an institution for higher education. He was kindly received by his sovereign and by the clergy, and in February, 1692, the king granted him a charter and gave him £2,000 in cash and the revenues of certain crown lands.

"Seymour, the attorney general, having received the royal command to draw up the documents, remonstrated. He saw no need of a college in Virginia. The patient Mr. Blair explained that it was needed to educate young men for the ministry and begged the honorable attorney general to remember that the colonists had souls to be saved as well as the people of England.

"'Blank your souls!' exclaimed the impious Seymour. 'Make tobacco!'"

A Memory of Boyhood.

The boy is there, a barefooted, freckled, backwoods lad, whose age might be anywhere from 8 to 12, fishing pole in hand. There are bramble scratches on his bare brown legs, like the marks of a wildcat's claws, while patches of sunburn show rosy red through the opening of his cotton shirt. A single suspender and a brim torn straw hat complete the tout ensemble, if we may except a yellow, switch tailed cur, with one ear slit and a sinister cast in an eye, sitting close at the fisher lad's back.

But sunburn, scratches and tatters, even the dog, are all forgotten as the boy watches breathlessly the wabbling cork that buoys his fishing line. A kingfisher utters its harsh, rasping protest against this invasion of its vested rights; a squirrel chatters hysterically just out of reach of the owner of the switch tail, who dares not resent the intrusion.—Outing.

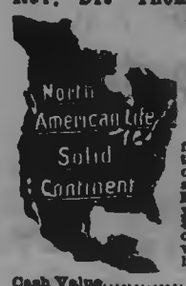
ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

Rev. Dr. Thompson Testifies



Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, North American Life Assurance Co., Toronto:

DEAR SIR,—Your official notice came duly to hand, apprising me of the results obtainable upon my 15-year Endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000, which matured on the 5th inst. Of the various options you have given me, viz.:

Cash Value	$1 564 96
Paid-up policy, payable at my death	2,560.00
Yearly income for life of	166 20

I have decided upon the cash value; and it gives me pleasure to testify that, as I anticipated it would be when I took out the policy, it is very satisfactory. This returns me the full premium of the 15 years and over 4½ per cent compound interest, in addition to which you have carried the risk upon my life. In view of the lowering rates of interest which have been obtainable during the later portion of the period, it is difficult to see how this excellent result could have been surpassed.

Yours sincerely,
REV. J. THOMPSON, D.D.

WHEAT CROPS OF THE WORLD

Russia Is Going to Have a Tremendous Shortage.

A Severe General Storm Damaged British Crops, and They May Not Now Rank as "Fair"—Prospects in India Greatly Improved in Some Parts, But Not in the Punjab—The World's Outlook.

Washington, July 19.—The Agricultural Department's foreign crop report for July states that the commercial authorities estimate the shortage in the Russian wheat crop at from 85,000,000 to 120,000,000 bushels, as compared with last year. The deficiency is most serious in the regions most favorably situated for export.

The Austrian outlook for wheat and rye is good in all but one province, that of Bukowina. Austria, Roumania and Bulgaria are all slightly below their average in wheat, rye and maize.

A fresh estimate of the Spanish and Italian crops puts it at 24,000,000 bushels below last year, the shortage being somewhat the heavier in Spain.

The wheat crop in France is represented as satisfactory, but the optimistic estimates made earlier in the season have been scaled down by later crop damage, the estimate now being 352,000,00 bushels.

In Great Britain, cable reports of a severe general storm presage considerable damage to a grain crop that otherwise would have ranked as "fair."

The report from India shows better conditions in Bengal and the northwest provinces than for several years previous, but this improvement does not extend to the Punjab.

CANADA-WEST INDIAN TRADE.

Improved Steamship Service Discussed—Reciprocity Treaty With U.S. Signed.

Washington, July 19.—Details of plans by the British Government for building up trade between the British West Indies and British ports, and also between Canada and the British West Indies, have been received here. They are in a letter from the Colonial Office in London to the West Indian committee, written under direction of Mr. Chamberlain, Secretary for the Colonies, explaining the plan of establishing new steamship lines with subsidies paid in part by the Imperial Government, and intended to link together the Mother Country and the colonies, as well as the colonies themselves. The matter is of special interest in connection with the recent negotiations between the United States and Great Britain on reciprocity with the British West Indies, as these colonies have shown a disposition to look to this country for trade, as well as to the Mother Country and Canada.

An Imperially Subsidized Line.

As to the line between Canada and the British West Indies, the letter of the Colonial Office says: "As regards improved inter-insular service, and an improved Canadian service, a contract will, it is hoped, shortly be concluded, with the aid of an Imperial subsidy, between the Dominion Government and Messrs. Pickford and Black, which is hoped will effect both objects.

"The contract is for a period of five years, the contract to begin in July, 1900, and the contractors will bind themselves to establish a fortnightly service between Jamaica and Southampton. This service will begin in May, 1900, the steamers making fortnightly runs, and having 15 knots speed. They will have a capacity for carrying 20,000 bunches of bananas, and while intended specially as fruit carriers, they will take passengers also. A subsidy of $10,000 per year is to be paid the line, the British Government paying half."

And They Have Signed.

Special Plenipotentiary Kasson for the United States and Secretary and Charge d'Affaires Tower for Great Britain yesterday signed at the State Department the reciprocity treaties made under the terms of section 4 of the Dingley tariff act with Bermuda and the other British West Indian colonies. The treaties were concluded some weeks ago, and sent to the British Foreign Office and to the colonies for approval. The approval having been given, the formal signature to the several instruments occurred yesterday.

How He Used His Pistol.

"If you ever have to use a pistol," said a man of experience, "the chances are you'll find yourself in endless trouble with the courts. When I was living out in Texas I adopted a scheme that worked like a charm. I went armed, like everybody else, but I always kept one blank cartridge under the hammer of my revolver, for use as a bluff.

"One day a professional bully made a dead set at me, and when I saw that a fracas was unavoidable I whipped out the gun and blazed away square in his face. The suddenness of the thing scared him nearly to death, and he tore down the railroad track and fell into a cattle guard, thinking he was killed. Another time a fellow threatened to carve me on sight. I met him coming into a store and instantly opened fire. He skipped out nimbly and couldn't be found for three days. Those blank cartridges saved my bacon and my reputation, and, best of all, saved me the untold tribulation of defending myself in a murder trial. After that I was regarded as the gamest citizen in town, and the bad men gave me a wide berth. Of course I always had five good bullets in reserve in case the bluff failed to work, but, I'm thankful to say, I never had to use 'em."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A SUSPICION OF FOUL PLAY.

A Manitoba Girl Found Dead in a Neighbor's Milk House.

Stoney Mountain, Man., July 19.—Miss May Smith, a bright young lady, about 20 years of age, daughter of John Smith of Fieldhead Farm here, left home about noon on Monday and did not return. A searching party turned out and searched until about noon yesterday, when Neil Ibister found her body in a milk house on an adjoining farm, lying on her face, dead. A bottle, supposed to contain poison, partly full, was beside her; also an egg cup. There is a suspicion of foul play.

Lost flesh lately?
Does your brain tire?
Losing control over your nerves?
Are your muscles becoming exhausted?

You certainly know the remedy. It is nothing new; just the same remedy that has been curing these cases of thinness and paleness for twenty-five years. Scott's Emulsion. The cod-liver oil in it is the food that makes the flesh, and the hypophosphites give tone to the nerves.

Springs and Mattresses

DURABILITY AND COMFORT are the essential qualities of good Springs and Mattresses. These we try to combine in all our lines from the cheapest to the best. Prices in Springs have advanced, but we are selling at the old prices.

Our $2.50 Spring is one we can recommend, not high priced, still strong, durable and elastic, and will stand constant use for years. Our $3.00 and $3.50 Springs need only to be seen, they recommend themselves and we guarantee them.

We have cheaper Springs suitable for cottage or occasional use, and higher priced ones.

Mattresses are important when it is a question of comfort in bed. For $3.00 we give you a mixed Mattress with good quality of ticking, well filled and made—a thoroughly serviceable mattress. For $3.50 $4.00, $4.50 and $5.00, we have them in different qualities of ticking, and in one and two-part Mattresses. Fibre, Moss, and Hair Mattresses from $5.50 up, in finest sateen ticking.

FOLDING SPRING COTS AND MATTRESSES for camp and cottage, very comfortable, not expensive, easily handled, occupy little space; a most complete article in camp or cottage.

Cricket.

A match at the old fashioned game of single wicket will take place at the East Nicholl's park on Monday afternoon next at 3 o'clock, between Messrs C J Logan and Sam Ray on one side and Messrs Miles Hamilton and H Burnham on the other. With the exception of two games last summer Messrs Miles Hamilton and J H Burnham vs Dr Boucher, jr. and Mr W F Hamilton, which prove of great interest, no game of single wicket has been played here for many years. The rules governing are, each side must do its own bowling and fielding, a run up and down to count one, and no runs to be made off ball played behind the wicket.

WEDDING BELLS.

The Pretty Wedding of Miss May Macfarlane and Mr Will Wilgar.

A charming July wedding took place this afternoon at 1.30 o'clock, at the residence of Mr. Andrew Macfarlane, Homewood-ave., when his eldest daughter, Miss May, was united to Mr. Will Wilgar, of the Lachine Land and Hydraulic Co., Montreal, and formerly of the Canadian General Electric works. Both young people are well known and highly popular in town and have the best wishes of many friends in their happy union.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. G. Potter, of St. Andrew's, in the presence of about fifty guests. The bride looked very pretty in a gown of white organdie, trimmed with lace and insertion. Miss Maud Macfarlane, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. She also was attired in white organdie. Mr. Clarence Wilgar, of Toronto, assisted his brother.

After the ceremony a dainty wedding breakfast was served on the lawn, Mr. H. Long, caterer. Mr. and Mrs. Wilgar left on the 4.45 C.P.R. express for a trip to the West. Returning, they will take up their residence in Montreal.

The presents to both bride and groom were numerous and magnificent.

SIMONS—WALL.

An interesting event occurred at St. Peter's cathedral last evening at 7.30 o'clock, when the wedding was celebrated of Mr. P. Simons, jr., of town, and Miss Maggie Wall, daughter of Mrs. Edward Wall, Elizabeth-st., Ashburnham. A large number of friends had gathered at the cathedral to witness the ceremony. The knot was tied by Ven. Archdeacon Casey.

The bride wore a very pretty gown of white organdie, trimmed with silk lace and insertion, and a white leghorn hat nicely trimmed. The bridesmaid, Miss Annie O'Neill, was also nicely dressed in white organdie and wore a black hat. Mr. Jerry McCormick was best man.

After the ceremony the wedding party drove to the residence of the bride's mother, where a sumptuous supper was enjoyed and where the happy couple received the congratulations of their friends. They were the recipients of many handsome presents. Mr. and Mrs. Simons will take up residence on London-st.

SUMMER SCHOOL AT PORT HOPE

with an enthusiasm for a military career, and he eventually secured a commission in a cavalry regiment serving in India. Five days prior to the arrival of the commission, and through the influence of a clergyman, he had decided for holy orders and matriculation at Oxford. A devotional nature, geniality and kindness marked his life at the university. He was a faithful student, but graduated with no pronounced distinction. He was ordained in 1840, and for seven years worked as a curate. During this period of his life, a severe spiritual crisis and struggle fell upon him, and it is the marks of this struggle that are evident in his after life and teaching. In 1847, after much hesitation, he accepted the rectorship of Trinity church, Brighton, a position which he held till his death in 1853. Of his great life work much might be said. His heroic independence, and non-party position in all matters of theological and social question marked him out for peculiar and bitter persecution. But in this peculiar day of strained social relations, and bitter religious controversy, Robertson stood like a true prophet. He was the champion of the working men, and a moderate Churchman, holding aloof both from extreme evangellicalism, and the High Church party. There was danger in the position but he knew nothing of danger. He did his duty and bore his cross to the end. Amidst great suffering at the close, he would constantly say, "It is the Lord. Let Him as what seemeth Him good." Robbertson's contribution to the religious thought of the world is chiefly his sermons, and his lectures upon the books of the Bible. The secret of his power is to be found in the life of the man which lies behind his sermons.

Selwyn's Curious Taste.

George Selwyn had a strange but not uncommon passion for seeing strange bodies especially those of his friends. He would go any distance to gratify this pursuit. Lord Holland was laid up very ill at Holland House shortly before his death. George Selwyn sent to ask how he was, and whether he would like to see him. Lord Holland answered "Oh, by all means! If I'm alive tomorrow I shall be delighted to see George, and I know that if I am dead he will be delighted to see me!"—Letter of General Fox.

Mr Wrighton got in the next bid at 8¾c and got Lakeview, Fraserville, Otonabee Union, Lakefield and Central Smith. Termination of the French Shore Modus Vivendi This Year.

St. John's, Nfld., July 20.—The Newfoundland Legislature closed yesterday. Rear-Admiral Sir Frederick George Benham Bedford, commander-in-chief of the British North American and West Indian Station, paraded 1,000 seamen and marines from the British fleet for the occasion. Governor Sir Henry Edward McCallum, in his speech closing the session, observed that the termination of the French shore modus vivendi at the close of this year without any demand by the Imperial Government for its re-enactment indicated the likelihood of an early peaceful solution of the whole difficulty.

SECRETARY OF WAR QUITS.

Alger's Resignation to Take Effect on August 1.

Everybody Thought He Was Going Out, But Not Quite So Suddenly—The London Standard Says It Means the Removal of the Blot From the McKinley Administration—Time Claims Resignation as a Victory for Public Morals.

Washington, July 20.—Secretary Alger yesterday tendered to the President his resignation of the War Portfolio. The resignation will become effective August 1, though it was tendered "at the pleasure of the President." Notwithstanding the reports that Mr. Alger would not long continue at the head of the War Department, his actual resignation came suddenly and unexpectedly. That it would come by the end of the year was generally believed, but so little was it expected at this time that some of the Cabinet officers, when the news first became public, were inclined to regard the announcement as premature. Formal acceptance of the resignation had not been made by the President up to a late hour last night, but will be in a letter to be written within the next day or two. No official statement as to the cause of the resignation was procurable, either from the President or from Secretary Alger, neither of whom would talk on the subject. Nor was the letter of resignation obtainable at this time.

Did Not Stand on Order.

Secretary Alger arrived from holidays at the seashore in Washington on Tuesday night, too late to make any official calls. Almost before the Executive Departments were opened for business yesterday morning he called at the White House, and visiting the President in his office, announced that he had concluded to resign his office. What passed on that point between himself and the President is only of the matter of surmise, for neither have anything to say on the point. The Secretary returned to his office, wrote out his formal letter of resignation, and personally carried it over to the White House. His call on this occasion was brief, and when he returned to the War Department he closed the door of his office to most of the many callers who were in waiting. To the newspaper men who sought to secure some expression from him, the Secretary was courteous, but uncommunicative.

Blot on McKinley's Administration.

London, July 20.—The Standard this morning in an editorial article regarding the resignation of Secretary of War Alger, says: "President McKinley's prompt acceptance of Mr. Alger's resignation is equivalent to an admission that the War Department has been badly managed. It is significant that the resignation followed so quickly on the Manila correspondents' 'round robin.' Alger is the great blot on the McKinley Administration."

The Times describes the resignation as "a decided victory for public opinion and public morals over political organizations. By resigning, Secretary Alger has practically allowed judgment to go against him by default and has relieved the McKinley Administration from a responsibility that was assuming serious proportions."

THE BROOKLYN CAR STRIKE.

Rioting, in Which Some Were Hurt, Was Rife—The Strike Extending.

New York, July 20.—After an evening and night of rioting, in which policemen, carmen and sympathizers were more or less badly injured, at 10.30 o'clock last night all operations on the Second avenue line of the Metropolitan Street Railway Co. were suspended. None of the officials of the company would assign a reason for withdrawing the cars, but the strikers claimed that the company did not have men enough to run them.

Eight Avenue on Strike.

About 100 motormen employed on the Eight avenue line held a meeting last night, effected an organization and declared a strike in operation. At 10 o'clock half of the cars were taken off the Eighth avenue line without warning, and at 11 o'clock all the cars save eight were taken off, and these were run on an hourly schedule. The strikers promised that by to-day they will have all the men out on Eighth avenue. The attempt to blow up the elevated railway structure at Fifth avenue and 25th street, Brooklyn, yesterday morning with dynamite ruined one of the pillars, but fortunately no one was hurt.

Bicycle Used as a Sinker.

Chester, Conn., July 20.—The body of Harry Chadwick, the New Britain young man who was murdered Sunday by Joseph A. Hough during an altercation which arose from the fact that both men were paying attention to the same young lady, was recovered last night from the Connecticut River, where, weighted by the victim's bicycle, it had been thrown by the now self-confessed murderer.

Trolley Accident at London.

London, Ont., July 20.—James Bartell, motorman, and J. Murphy, conductor, were badly injured in a street car collision yesterday afternoon. They will be laid up for a couple of weeks. Both cars were badly wrecked.

MULOCK'S PYROTECHNICS.

Thought He Had Sir Charles on the Hip, But It Did Not Work.

Criticism of Sir Wilfrid, Based on Reports of Speeches of Duke of Devonshire, Was Quite Fair—Preference in Home Markets Were Not Offered to Canada by the Duke, Although Report May Have Said So.

Ottawa, July 20.—The distinctive feature of yesterday's proceedings in the House was that, after moving that the House shall sit in the morning on and after to-day, and also on Saturdays, Sir Wilfrid Laurier took occasion to outline the business which it is proposed to ask the House to transact during the remainder of the session. He said there would be some railway subsidies which would be brought down next week, one or two unimportant departmental bills, which would not excite controversy, and a resolution to amend the Chinese Immigration Act. He also intimated to Col. Domville that an opportunity would be given for discussing Mr. Flint's prohibition resolution, which has been hung up on the order paper for a month or more.

There Will Be Further Estimates.

In answer to a question by Sir Charles Tupper, Hon. Mr. Fielding said that there may be some further supplementary estimates, but the amounts would be small.

This, it appears, is to be the Government program, and, with a morning session of two hours and fairly long evening sittings, it looks as if prorogation may take place by the end of July or early in August. The House is daily growing smaller and smaller, and in another week it may be difficult to scare up a quorum.

Preferential Trade.

This has been "preferential trade" day in the House, the greater portion of both the afternoon and evening sessions being taken up by a discussion of the motion of which Mr. McNeill gave notice on April 21 that he would move on the House going into committe of supply, and which, after reciting at length the utterances of Hon. Joseph Chamberlain and the Duke of Devonshire on various occasions with reference to preferential trade within the Empire, concludes as follows:

That, in the opinion of this House, this Government has not made in response to these repeated advances by the Imperial authorities any attempt to secure for the produce of Canada that preferential treatment in the markets of the United Kingdom which would be of such inestimable value to the farmers and other producers of Canada competing against foreign rivals in the markets of the United Kingdom, would set in motion a great tide of immigration to our shores to people the vast wheat areas of the Canadian Northwest, enhance farm values in the older Provinces, promote the unity of our Empire, and speedily deliver it from dependence upon a foreign food supply.

Sir Charles' View.

Sir Charles Tupper, in support of the motion, spoke at length, reviewing the question of countervailing duties from its inception, pointing out that they were in force with respect to India with the approval of the British people, and would apply with equal force to Canada and the other colonies. As to the step taken in 1897 towards preferential trade, by the adoption of a preferential tariff, while it had increased our imports, it had not increased our trade with Britain. Preferential trade within the Empire would, however, be of incalculable benefit to Canada by increasing our trade and population. The Mother Country was annually importing over £100,000,000 worth of bread and meat, and most of this would be purchased within the Empire under a preferential trade arrangement.

Sir Wilfrid's Interpretation.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that, while he appreciated the moderation of the remarks of the leader of the Opposition, he did not agree with him as to the interpretation of Mr. Chamberlain's remarks. What Mr. Chamberlain spoke of was a policy of free trade within the Empire, an Imperial zollverein, without customs duties, except on spirits, tobacco and a few such articles. Were the Conservatives prepared to vote for that? He

VALUE OF WATER POWER.

Ten or fifteen years ago the scientific writers were trying to prove that the steam engine had forever superseded water power. But improved methods in the generation and transmission of electrical energy have again brought water power to the front. A slight retardation of this tendency has been created by the advance in the price of copper, but in turn this is having the effect of bringing aluminum into use as a conductor, for it appears that aluminum is a better conductor than copper, while its lightness and greater tensile strength permit it to be strung more easily and at small expense. It is believed that the demand for aluminum will result in improving the devices for its manufacture to such an extent that it will soon become a formidable rival of copper for all electrical work where copper is now used. In many directions enterprises are on foot to utilize existing water power or by canal-cutting and dam-building to create new power. At Massena Springs, N Y, 40,000 horse-power is being secured by diverting the waters of the St. Lawrence river. Omaha expects to obtain 28,000 horse power from the Platte river. At Rochester, N. Y., 20,000 horse-power is to be got out of the Genesee river. At Niagara Falls the water power that is now under control of the American company will soon lapse to the Canadian Government, when it will be improved by a Canadian company. Between Chicago and Marseilles on the Illinois river 100,000 horse-power will be created by the waters of the drainage canal channel.—Chicago Record.

CANADA has had reason of late to mourn many of her brightest sons deceased. Hon. John F. Wood, of Brockville; Senator Sanford, of Hamilton; Hon. W. B. Ives, of Sherbrooke, and last Hon. Mr. Geoffrion is numbered among the shining marks who have been struck by the arrow of death. Politicians of all classes will feel sincere regret at the passing of Canada's brilliant sons.

THE theory of the Gerrymander bill is that every Government on attaining office is free to alter the constituencies so that the power of the people to express an independent opinion on public affairs may be reduced.

If this principle is to prevail it will be a bad thing for the country.

The more immoral the Government the more it will gerrymander; the greater the power to gerrymander the less urgent will be the necessity to do right.

Conservatives and Liberals alike will do well as citizens to declare that a redistribution once every years is often enough.

Every Government ought to be able to face the constituencies which elected it.

An Old Offender.

Belleville Sun: When Constable Loucks, of Marmora, arrived at the county jail yesterday with the man calling himself "Brown," who was arrested for stealing Mr. S. A. Lazier's horse and rig from the paper mill on Monday morning, Jailer Appleby at once spotted the prisoner as Humphrey Guest, the oldest and best known "penitentiary bird" in Canada.

Guest, who is 78 years of age, has put in 42 years in penitentiary, chiefly for horse stealing, and has been sent down three times since Mr. Appleby became jailer. It is but little more than a year ago since he finished his last term in the "pen."

Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co.

Takes a Front Rank Among the Great Medicine Concerns of the World—Bright Prospects for the Future.

When the American business of the Dr. A. W. Chase Medical Co., along with the private formulae of Dr. Chase, were bought by Messrs. Edmanson & Bates Co., some years ago, the attention of all Canada was attracted to the enterprise of this prosperous Canadian firm which has made such a phenomenal success with Dr. Chase's Remedies in Canada.

Their new venture across the border has proven itself a wise investment, and has already assumed such vast proportions as to warrant the formation of a company with large capital to enter into competition with the largest proprietary medicine concerns of the United States. To this end the Dr. W. A. Chase Medicine Co., of Buffalo, N.Y., has been formed, having a capital of $100,000, and with ample means to spend large sums in advertising these world-famous remedies. Mr. Ira Bates has taken the management of the Buffalo office, and Mr. W. J. Edmanson remains in Toronto as manager of the Canadian business.

The same generous and extensive advertising policy which has won for this company the distinction of being the most progressive and up-to-date advertisers in Canada has been adopted in the United States. The advertising appropriations for the first year will amount to from $40,000 to $50,000, and this will be confined almost conclusively to the States of New York and Michigan. Large space will be used in the leading newspapers and booklets and other advertising matter will be liberally distributed.

People everywhere recognize the difference between these great private prescriptions of Dr. A. W. Chase and the patent medicines made and sold by the inexperienced. Eminent physicians endorse and recommend Dr. Chase's family remedies as the best treatment the world affords for the diseases for which they are recommended. Druggists find these celebrated remedies the easiest in the world to sell, because they are so universally successful and because their merits are heralded abroad with the most liberal and extensive advertisnig.

To the very ends of the earth Dr. Chase's remedies are known and appreciated. Only a few weeks since a shipment was made to England, and in the near future there will be opened branches in Australia and Southern Africa to meet the demand aroused for these remedies by the immense circulation of Dr. Chase's famous Receipt Book in those far-off countries.

The enormous sale which Dr. Chase's remedies have already acquired is sufficient guarantee that their merits have but to be made known to the people to insure their immediate popularity. With the facilities of unlimited capital these preparations will be introduced into all parts of the world, and judging from past successes, there is every reason to believe that the Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co. will soon take its place among the greatest medicine concerns on the continent.

OLD ETNA IS NOISY.

The Earthquakes Accompanying the Eruption Do Damage in Rome.

Rome, July 20.—There was an eruption of Mount Etna yesterday morning. After loud subterranean noises the crater vomited forth dense columns of smoke, which were followed by enormous masses of sand. A strong earthquake shock occurred here at 2.20 o'clock in the morning, and was followed during the ensuing 15 minutes by a number of other severe shocks.

Some Houses Fell.

Rome, July 20.—The damage done here by the earthquake shocks was slight, but at the village of Rocca di Papa, 15 miles southeast of Rome, it was more serious. A number of houses in that place fell. A part of a church was demolished at Castel-Gandolfo on the northwest side of Mount Albano and 14 miles southeast of Rome. No fatalities have been reported.

AN INTERESTING CASE.

Mr. W. G. Phyall, proprietor Bodega Hotel, 36 Wellington Street East, Toronto, says; "While living in Chicago I was in a terrible shape with itching and bleeding piles. I tried several of the best physicians and was burnt and tortured in various ways by their treatments to no purpose, besides spending a mint of money to no purpose. Since coming to Toronto I learned of Dr. Chase's Ointment, I used but one box and have not been troubled with piles in any shape or form since."

WITNESSES WERE PUT OUT.

Proceedings in the West Huron and Brockville Election Investigation.

Ottawa, July 20.—The investigation by the privileges and elections committee into the alleged malpractices in the Brockville and West Huron elections was continued yesterday, with Mr. Fortin in the chair. Sir Louis Davies said the inquiry was strictly limited to the conduct of the deputy returning officers and did not in any way imperil the seat. Under the circumstances he thought the evidence tendered by Mr. Borden should be admitted. Still he contended that the returning officers should be called first. Mr. Powell contended that the course adopted by Mr. Borden to get the evidence should be followed. Then Mr. Russell moved, and it was carried, that all witnesses be excluded from the committee room. Mr. Holmes, M.P., also left the room, as he had been named as a witness.

James McManus on the Stand.

Then the examination of James McManus was proceeded with. He lived at Colborne and was a scrutineer for Mr. McLean at the election at poll 4, Donald Cummings' booth. After stating who were present, he said the deputy returning officer put the counterfoils from the ballots in the right-hand pocket of his coat, with one exception. Witness did not watch very carefully; they were neighbors and he trusted him. He asked the deputy returning officer why he did this, and he said it made no difference.

Cross-Examination.

In cross-examination by Dr. Russell, witness said he kept the tally. There were 98 votes altogether. The ballots were all right, and the papers made up. The only thing he saw wrong was Cummings putting the counterfoils in his pocket. In answer to Mr. Bell, witness said Cummings put the counterfoils in his pocket before he put the ballot in the box. He could not say whether he took anything out of his pocket.

Mr. McInerney asked witness how many they had in their book marked for McLean.

Sir Louis Davies objected. They could put the book in. Mr. Fortin said that it was outside the subject of inquiry.

Marking the Ballot.

Mr. Bennett pointed out that the ballot was so initialled that in order to see the initials the deputy returning officer must see how the ballot was marked.

Mr. Donald Cummings, deputy returning officer at poll 4, sworn, was a member of the Reform committee. He was told he was to be returning officer some days before the election. He met no Liberal workers in connection with the matter. His instructions were in the ballot box. He received papers from Lawson, Chisholm & McEver on behalf of Mr. Holmes, but none for Dancy. He did not know that only two men should act as scrutineers. He swore the three in, and Dancy did not act. Dancy acted on his behalf at the count. He believed Dancy was acting for Mr. Holmes. He kept the counterfoils in his pocket so as not to litter up the floor. He had heard that 48 men had declared they voted for McLean, and that only 20 had been found in the box, but he could not account for it. He marked some in ink and some in pencil. He observed that if he opened the ballot so as to see his initials he could see how the vote was marked. He put the counterfoil in the stove at home the same night. Witness at first said he did not burn them at the police station because there was no fire, but finding that there was a fire in the stove said it did not occur to him.

The committee adjourned till to-day without completing this witness' examination.

SCURVY, FROST, STARVATION.

The Three Factors Which Took Off Twelve of a Party of Thirteen.

Seattle, Wash., July 20.—The loss of 12 members of the steamer Elk expedition to Kotzebue Sound is reported from St. Michael's by the steamer Roanoke. Twelve men perished at various points along the trail between the Selawek and Koyukuk Rivers. Scurvy fell first upon them, then starvation and frost. Mrs. W. H. Bens of Bay City, Mich., was the only survivor. The dead are all Americans. The story of the death of this party was told to Harold Sturgis of Chicago by Mrs. Bens, who was brought in from the headquarters of the Koyukuk River the day before the Roanoke left. Mrs. Bens escaped death on the trail, but is in danger of dying from scurvy. Her husband, her fortune and her friends were swept away by that wild trip across the Alaskan mountains.

AT BISLEY CAMP.

News From the Riflemen Now Representing Canada in England.

Bisley Camp, July 20.—The "Premier" competition was at last brought to a close yesterday; it should have been concluded on Monday, according to the schedule, but four men tied for first place kept the competition dragging, but it was eventually won by a Canadian, Lieut. J. W. Gilchrist, 1st B.F.A., and Private A. B. Fleming, Brandon Infantry Company, were tied with two others, Wayne and Patterson, and on the shoot-off Gilchrist won, and thus becomes the owner of a Premier Helical bicycle, valued at £21. In shooting off the tie in the Premier competition, Fleming of the Canadian team secured the second prize, £10.

Queen's Prize Scores.

So far there have been but three centuries made in the Queen's Prize competition, but none of these has been made by a Canadian. The best Canadian scores are: Ogg, 99, winning £2; Gilchrist and Cartwright, each 91, winning £1.

St. George's Competition.

Shooting in the St. George's Challenge Vase competition began yesterday morning. In this competition Pte. A. R. Fleming of the Brandon Infantry Company made 35 at 500; Lieut. John Buckley, 33rd Battalion, made 34; while Pte. J. H. Simpson of the Royal Grenadiers, Sergt. C. R. Crowe, 1st B.F.A., Surgeon-Lieut. Bertram of the 77th Battalion, and Mr. Bayles of Toronto, Canada, each scored 33.

Duke of Cambridge.

The Canadians are well to the front in the Duke of Cambridge competition, though there were no possibles made, as there are ten shots at 900 yards. In this competition Buckley led the Canadians with a score of 44 out of a possible 50. Bertram and Rennie each tallied 43 out of the possible 50. Wilson came next with 41; Lieut. R. A. Robertson, 13th Battalion, 39; Lieut. A. Robertson, 77th Battalion, 38; Mr. Bayles, 38, and Ross 35.

Volunteer Aggregate.

Surg.-Lieut. T. Bertram of the 77th Battalion looks the probable winner in the Volunteer aggregate, which is awarded to competitors in the Martin's Cup, Queen's Prize, first stage, and St. George's, first stage, whose respective scores make the highest aggregate. Eighty prizes are offered, the first being a $1,000 challenge cup and £15.

The scores of the Canadians are as follows:

Surg.-Lt. T. Bertram, 77th Batt.....	196
Lieut. H. C. Blair, 79th Batt.....	187
Sergt. C. R. Crowe, 1st B.F.A.....	189
Pte. A. R. Fleming, B.T. Co.....	187
Sergt.-Maj. S. J. Huggins, 13th Batt...	193
Lieut. R. A. Robertson, 13th Batt.....	184
Capt. O. W. Wetmore, 74th Batt.....	188

SWEPT DOWN MOON CHUTE.

Two Ladies From Toronto Meet Death by Drowning at Bala.

Bracebridge, Ont., July 20.—On Tuesday morning two Toronto ladies, Miss Sills, an invalid, and her nurse, Miss Phillips, residing for some time with Mr. T. Burgess of Bala, went down the river in a rowboat. As far as known they ventured too near the mouth of the Moon chute, and the current being very strong, they were swept down the chute.

Could Not Help Them.

A party going down the river in a boat saw their danger, but they were too far from them to render any assistance. They found the boat, cushions, oars, etc., at the foot of the rapids, but no signs of the unfortunate occupants. The place where the accident happened is very dangerous, the current very swift and strong, and strangers should never venture near without a guide. This is only one of a number of accidents that have happened at Moon chute.

Miss "Belle" Sills, as she was popularly known among her friends, was a daughter of Mr. E. G. Sills, ex-M.P.P., of Belleville. She had been suffering from nervous troubles since last autumn, and was in charge of Miss Mary Phillips, who is a graduate of the Toronto General Hospital, and a daughter of Asa Phillips of Newmarket.

MIRACLE WAS REMARKABLE.

Man Paralyzed for 30 Years Springs to His Feet Cured at Ste. Anne de Beaupre.

Montreal, July 20.—A remarkable miracle has just been reported from Ste. Anne de Beaupre. It appears that one Hector Poulin of Potsfield, Indiana, who had been almost completely paralyzed for 30 years, arrived at the shrine a few days since and was carried to the church, where he heard mass. After this Poulin was taken to the communion railing, and while praying fervently for the intercession of the blessed virgin's mother, he felt a strange sensation pass over him, and for the first time in more than a quarter of a century he sprang to his feet perfectly cured, and walked through the aisles singing the praises of the bonne Ste. Anne.

A Job for Major Marchand.

Paris, July 20.—Major Marchand has been attached to the Fourth Regiment of Marine Artillery, which is now garrisoning Toulon.

OLD-FASHIONED WOMEN.

Have a very natural prejudice against anything that offends their fine sense of delicacy. And for that reason numbers of such women have suffered in secret and in silence the pangs and pains consequent on the derangement or displacement of the delicate organs of sex. Any suffering to them was better than the shame of questions and examinations which probed modesty to its very core. But while they could hide their suffering they could not conceal its ravages. The darkening circles beneath their eyes, the sallow skin, the cheek robbed of its roundness, the body shrunken by wasting flesh, all these signs marked the presence of disease.

To every suffering woman who values modesty Dr. Pierce's method of treatment is a boon beyond price. His remarkable remedy for all female disorders and diseases, "Favorite Prescription," cures ninety-eight out of every hundred cases, no matter how obstinate or complicated the disease may be. Any woman who needs more help may write to the Doctor for his free counsel and advice. Such letters come from thousands and are treated with absolute privacy.

"I write these few lines hoping that some other suffering woman will try Dr. Pierce's medicines, as I did," writes Mrs. O. B. Adams, of Fargo, Cass Co., N. Dak. "I had female weakness very badly; so I had to be in bed part of the time. I was tired and sick all the time, could not do my housework; had fainting spells, nervous headache, backache and pain in my left side when I would lie down; I had pains and aches all over. I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and had not taken two bottles when I was able to be around again and do my work, with no pain. I have taken five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, two of his 'Compound Extract of Smart-Weed,' and several vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets.' I am feeling better than I have for a great many years. I think Dr. Pierce's medicines are the greatest in the world."

When the bowels are obstinate, take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They don't gripe.

Aaronsberg Gets His Divorce.

After recess the bill for the relief of Abraham Aaronsberg of Toronto was read a third time and passed.

The amendments made by the Senate to the bill respecting the Montreal Terminal Railway Company and to the bill incorporating the Canadian Birkbeck Investment & Savings Company of Toronto were read and agreed to.

The bill to incorporate the British American Pulp & Paper Company was read a second time and referred to the private bills committee.

Mr. McNeill's Resolution Again.

Mr. McNeill resumed the debate on the preferential trade resolution, speaking at some length in support of it.

Hon. Mr. Mulock followed. In the course of his remarks he said that the resolution was not so much in favor of preferential trade as it was an attack on the Premier for his alleged refusal of preferential trade, where it was offered to him by the Duke of Devonshire. The resolution contained reference to alleged utterances by the Duke of Devonshire, which he (Mr. Mulock) doubted the Duke of Devonshire had ever made. To set the matter at rest he had written to the Duke, sending him a copy of The Mail and Empire containing the report of a speech made by Sir Charles Tupper, in which he referred to reports in the English papers of a speech delivered by the Duke in favor of preferential trade with Canada, which letter he read, together with the following reply from the Duke of Devonshire:

Duke of Devonshire's Letter.

Privy Council Office,
2nd of May, 1899.

My Dear Sir,—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of 1st April.

The best answer I can give to your enquiries is to inclose you a copy of the report of the speeches made on the various occasions in the summer of 1897, when I had the pleasure of meeting the colonial Premier, in my capacity as president of the British Empire League. I do not think that in any of these speeches you will find anything to support the view of my opinion on the question of the policy of granting preferential trade to the colonies, which appears to have been held by Sir Charles Tupper, and by some of the journals in this country, which seek to attribute what they term "protectionist heresies" to members of the Unionist Government. It was, no doubt, my speech at Liverpool on the 12th June, 1897, which was referred to by Sir Charles Tupper, and my admission that free trade had not done for us all that was once expected may have been commented on by free trade or opposition journals. But, while I congratulate Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Dominion of Canada on the offer which had been made, and admit that British goods at reduced rates as compared with those on the goods of other nations is an important step in the direction of the Imperial unit, I had no authority to offer, and did not offer, to Canada, preference in British markets.

You are at liberty to make what use you please of this letter.

Believe me, dear sir, your faithfully,
"Devonshire."

Based on Newspaper Reports.

Sir Charles Tupper, in half a dozen words reply, showed that his speech and the resolution he had moved were both based on English newspaper reports, and the Duke says in his letter that such reports were current in English newspapers. He was, therefore, he contended, justified in his remarks.

The Debate Adjourned.

The debate was continued by Mr. Moore, Dr. Sproule and Mr. McMillan until 12.30, when the debate was adjourned by Mr. Davin.

Drownings at Rat Portage.

Rat Portage, Ont., July 20.—Two drowning accidents occurred in this vicinity yesterday. H. Thorpe, aged 14, was lost by the upsetting of his canoe here, and Joseph Bourdeau, porter on the steamer Keenora, fell from the boat at Little Falls, Rainy River.

Burglars at Parkhill.

Parkhill, July 20.—The office at the G.T.R. station was broken into on Tuesday night and the safe blown open. Several packages were badly damaged and a watch was taken. The burglars escaped.

THE HISTORY OF A LIE.

First somebody told it,
Then the room wouldn't hold it,
So the busy tongues rolled it,
Till they got it outside;
Then the crowd came across it,
And never once lost it,
But tossed it and tossed it
Till it grew long and wide.

This lie brought forth others,
Dark sisters and brothers,
And fathers and mothers—
A terrible crew;
And while headlong they hurried,
The people they flurried,
And steamed and worried,
As like as days do.

And so, evil-boded,
This monstrous lie goaded,
Till at last it exploded
In smoke and in shame;
When from mud and from mire
The pieces flew higher
And hit a sad liar,
And killed his good name.

A VACATION STUDY.

THE QUESTION OF THE BUILDING OF A BIRD'S NEST.

Young Naturalists Will Find It an Interesting and Profitable Theme for the Summer Holidays—Some Examples of Bird Ingenuity—Four Nests That Are General Representatives.

Why birds build nests seems strange when we consider that everywhere there are abundant nooks and crannies that might be utilized and which would prove quite as safe as the frail structures many birds do build in trees and bushes. The origin of nest-building opens up too wide a field for discussion to be treated here. It is enough to know that most birds build nests and a great many do not, and that the nests of different species of birds vary greatly. These are nests which are mere platforms of sticks that do not hold together until the young birds are able to take care of themselves, and from such simple structures we find a gradually increasing skill in nest-building to the woven fabric that will withstand the storms of more than one season.

There are four familiar birds that can be observed very readily and without wandering far afield. These are the chipping sparrow, the robin, the oriole and barn swallow. The "chippy" is almost a domesticated bird and very promptly on settling down for the summer selects a nesting site. The selection of material demands judgment, and if we watch closely we shall see the bird picking up many a little twig, flexible rootlet or blade of last year's grass. It is sometimes carried off and then rejected, but more often the bird lifts piece after piece and then tosses it aside with an impatient movement of the head and you almost fancy that you hear "Pshaw!" Indeed, the bird does sometimes chirp in a way that clearly indicates disappointment. But the trouble does not always end in the selection of a bit of material. It may meet with approbation on the part of one and disapproval on the part of the other bird. Though very loving generally, mated birds have been known to quarrel more frequently when their nest is being built than at any other time. Later the more serious demands made upon them give them less time to think. The foundation laid down, the building of the sides is quite rapid, but not a careless pitching together of the material gathered. Piece by piece it is fitted together, so that when the structure is finished it is so firm that no repairs are ever needed. These nests have been blown out of trees in the winter following their construction and rolled over rough ground for a long distance, and yet they held together. For the nest the chippy requires hair, and that of the horse and cow is generally used. There seems to be no loss of time in finding all they need, and here we have an instance of the bird's skill in collecting. Try to find a dozen hairs of horse or cow and see how long it will take. Yet the bird does not pluck the desired hair from the animals, or even enter stables and cow sheds in search of them. This hair, which is coiled round and round, completes the building of the chippy's nest. It may have been a matter of three days or a week, but, whether the one or the other, if patiently observed there would have been noted most of the virtues and all the infirmities of mankind. The angelic is only a large fraction of bird nature, and no honest naturalist will overlook the remaining fraction.

ORIOLE AND NEST.

As set forth all this may seem the climax of dullness and the young aspirant for natural knowledge will be disappointed in the absence of adventure, but excitement of a healthy kind is really seldom lacking. Never a chippy but has its foibles, and these will show themselves upon occasion. A well-known naturalist waxed coarse black sewing silk until it looked like hair from a horse's tail and the deceived bird has had to put on its thinking cap to some purpose to solve the mystery. You only need, first, patience and ingenuity on your own part to measure the intellectuality of many a little bird. No great naturalist ever became so at a single leap.

The robin is so much larger a bird that fewer difficulties are encountered in observing it from start to finish. Its nest is often in so exposed a position that we wonder it was chosen, and the bird's judgment sometimes proves at fault. A storm, a sudden gust of wind, may render it untenable and it is abandoned. The robin's nest is not merely a large cup-shaped structure, built of coarser material than that used by the chippy. It is lined with mud instead of soft material, so the bird in a way is a mason as well as carpenter. Here a problem arises: What advantage has mud over hair and small feathers? It has not been solved, and probably never will be, but it is wholesome exercise of your imagination to go over all possible reasons, and some day when you least expect it the truth may become plain.

BARN SWALLOW AND NEST.

But if sitting hour after hour watching robins at work proves a little tire-

some it will not be so when the Baltimore oriole weaves the pendent nest. This bird selects strong, flexible materials, and, selecting the end of some far out-reaching branch, ties curious knots and then lets fall long loops of string, which form the framework of the future nest. Then follows the interlacing of shorter threads and a close-woven fabric is the result. It proves a fairly good waterproof cloth when finished; in reality a bag with an opening at one side, or more frequently at the top. How the bird manages to hold on to slender twigs and with its beak accomplish all it does is marvelous; yet it is not deterred by stiff breezes and appears to enjoy its work the more as difficulties arise, if we may judge from its songs that mark every moment of leisure. To appreciate what the building of such a nest means it must be examined carefully, but never under any circumstances until the bird is through with it. It is never justifiable to rob a bird.

Turn now to the nest of a barn swallow, which has been aptly described as "half a teacup stuck against a wall." The foundation is clay and sand, which they work up into mortar and as tiny pellets carry to the nesting site, usually a rafter in a barn and near the peak of the roof. Bit by bit these "bricks" are placed in position and are glued together with an adhesive salivary secretion. Then comes the grass lining and a few soft feathers.

These four nests represent in a way

BLACKBIRD'S NEST.

those generally to be found during the summer. There are endless variations in different directions, and it is the business of the young naturalist to determine their character and ownership. It will prove an interesting exercise to learn what bird has built the nest you have destroyed. Let the nest be the means of thorough acquaintance with its builder and rest assured that to know a bird is to love it, and loving it you will be its stanch defender.

Drawn at Night.

The architect and his friend the builder were driving back to the former's office. They had been out to the edge of the city to look at some work on which they were engaged. As they drove by a certain house the builder looked up at it proudly, saying: "There is a house that I built myself. I not only built it, but I drew all the plans. Every bit of work in it is mine." The architect looked at the house and smiled in a provoking way.

The builder noticed the smile and looked at the house in a new light. "How hard I worked on that!" he said. "In the daytime I had to do something else, but every night I would sit up late drawing on those plans. I drew on 'em every night for a month."

The architect looked at the house again and smiled once more, and the builder saw him.

Again he turned his eyes toward the product of his brain, twisted his neck to squint at it after the carriage had passed it. Then he looked at the architect with humility. "It looks as if those plans were drawn at night, doesn't it?" he said, and there was pathos in his voice.

The Horrible Servian Court.

Berlin, July 19.—A pamphlet just issued by a German publisher gives a horrible picture of the Servian Court and Government. King Alexander is described as a drunkard whom excesses of every description have reduced to a state approximating imbecility.

A Tiny Bale of Hay.

Alfred C. Webber of Lisbon Center, Me., has in his possession a small bale of hay, about 8 inches long and 4 inches deep and wide, and one of the reasons why Mr. Webber keeps this hay in his best room is because it is nicely wired and put between thin pieces of boards so that no chaff can escape, but chiefly because the hay was cut as far back as 1749, on the John Rogers farm in Kittery. It was baled up by Mr. T. Trafton, who was a native of Kittery, and who is now a dealer in Massachusetts.

THIEVES AT NORWOOD.

Grist Mill Broken Into and a Jewellery Store Attempted.

A gang of thieves broke into to the grist mill at Norwood on Monday night about one o'clock and opened the safe by means of a combination which was posted near it. They only succeeded, however, in abstracting a few coppers when it is thought they were frightened away.

They then tried Mr. Geo. Duffield's jewelry store and had succeeded in prying off the casing and were reaching in to unfasten the bolts when they were surprised by hearing a shot fired at them by Mr. Harry Buck, who has only recently commenced sleeping in the store. They hastily decamped and Mr. Buck heard them driving away in what seemed to be a light wagon.

No clue has as yet been obtained as to the identity of the burglars.

A PAINFUL INJURY.

Mr Corry Had His Leg Broken in an Accident at the Canal.

An accident occurred about 8 o'clock this morning at the canal, at the lock near the Little lake, in which Mr. Corry, of Corry & Laverdure, the contractors, had his leg broken. He was standing on a derrick about twenty feet from the ground when the machine broke and he was thrown to the ground, falling so heavily that his leg was broken below the knee. He was fortunate in escaping more serious injury and one of the workmen also had a very narrow escape. Dr. McGrath was called and attended to Mr. Corry's injuries.

Outing of the Lords of Creation.

About fifty of the business and professional men of the town took in the private excursion to Idyl Wyld per steamer City of Peterborough yesterday and had a pleasant afternoon in communion with nature. They made a call at Jubilee and proceeded to Idyl Wyld, where tea was had. The return trip by moonlight was very enjoyable. The boat reached the wharf before midnight.

A UNIQUE AFFAIR.

The Lesson of the Wise and Foolish Virgins Depicted at the Barracks.

A new feature in the parade of the Salvation Army last evening was a carriage occupied by ten girls dressed in white, who were to represent the characters of the ten virgins in the parable from the New Testament at an entertainment at the barracks afterwards. Quite a crowd was attracted and witnessed a unique entertainment. The platform at the barracks was beautifully decorated. It was completely covered with cedar boughs, upon which had been tied red and white roses. The exercises were opened in the manner followed at regular S.A. services. Adj. Aikenhead was in charge. During prayer the "ten virgins," kneeling, sang several Salvation hymns very sweetly.

Capt. Carter, of Campbellford, superintended the singing of the ten young girls, who rendered several hymns in an exquisite manner. The ages of the virgins ranged from about ten to thirteen years. Little Christian Miller sang a solo very sweetly, Maud Stevens and Mabel Job each gave a recitation with pleasing effect. Mabel Brooks sang "Do not turn me from your door," very sweetly. The entire number of girls sang "Jesus is Mighty to Save," Millie Bacon leading.

Capt. Burchall then sang a song of his own composition. It was entitled "I used to sing the Devil's songs." The ten virgins in the meantime had left the platform and at the conclusion of the Captain's song they returned, five bearing lighted lamps without oil. They recited the New Testament parable of the "ten virgins," after which the five "wise virgins" sang "Yes, we are ready," and then followed a hymn from the other five. This hymn was a request for oil from the others, who replied in song that they had no oil to spare. Captain French then sang "Behold, the Bridegroom Cometh." the five "foolish virgins" withdrew from the platform singing "Do not shut the door." The "wise virgins" then left the platform singing that they were going to meet the Master. The "foolish virgins" then came in with lighted lamps, singing that they were ready for the wedding. Capt. French sang in return "There is no use knocking at the door."

Adj. Aikenhead leaves to-morrow for Dawson City.

Band Concert at Chemong.

The concert at Chemong park last evening was very successful. The 57th battalion band furnished a delightful programme, There was a big gathering, many driving out and many wheeling. A band stand has been erected in front of the hotel at the park and the music could be heard to good advantage. Mr. George Brown, of the Chemong park hotel, was very hospitable and extended all courtesies to the guests. The cottages at the resort are nearly all occupied and the number of guests at the hotel is large.

A REVIEW OF THE SESSIONS.

THE CANADIAN SUMMER SCHOOL FOR CLERGY AT PORT HOPE.

A Most Substantial Success—A General Summary.

The second session of the Canadian Summer School for Clergymen was concluded at Port Hope yesterday afternoon, and may be pronounced a most substantial success, in the accomplishment of the of the objects of the school. Through our Port Hope correspondent, The Review has been able to keep its readers informed of some features of interest to the public. A general summary may therefore not be out of place.

It is just two years since the happy scheme was evolved in the brain of some enthusiastists of Peterborough and vicinity, and the result of their efforts in the advance of intellectual life and activity, is to be read in the results of the two sessions of the school, the second of which has just been concluded. There are of course many sides and aspects of this work, but the chief aim of the management, and to which all other issues may be regarded as incident, is to stimulate among the clergy of the Church of England a zeal for the highest knowledge to awaken some understanding and appreciation of the great and pressing problems in the world to-day, and to provide the basis upon which such study and investigation shall proceed. The world does not want, and will not endure platitudes to-day, and the clergyman who would aspire to help the world must be informed of the many serious problems of the world. It is for this reason that the clergy directly, and the laity indirectly, cannot too highly estimate the privilege of having the intellect and scholarship of such men as Dr. Peters, Dr. Low, and Mr. Robert A. Woods, brought in to influence the thinkers of the Canadian church. Dr. Peters is without question in his department one of the first men in America. He is possessed of admirable scholarship, and wide experience. He has a practical knowledge of the East, where for some years he was head of an exploring and excavating party. His lectures therefore on Old Testament theology were given with a certain freshness, and illustrated by many a personal reminiscence. Dr. Peters is essentially a critic and no doubt many of his ever interested audience, did not agree with his theories. But the doctor was there to express the truest working theories, and his audience was there to learn, and certainly many went away to think.

Of Dr. Low's lectures much might be said, and yet fail to express the appreciation of those who heard him. We

EXCURSIONISTS LEAVE

The Port Hope Methodist Sunday School—The Campbellford Trip.

The Grand Trunk station was a busy place last evening. There was a big gathering when the special train of the Methodist excursionists of Port Hope and their friends left for the return home about 7.30 o'clock. Many of the townspeople were down to see them off. The excursionists were highly pleased with their day in town and voted Peterborough a first class place. Rev. Mr. Young was up for the day.

About eight o'clock the excursionists who had been up at Stony lake on the trip run by the C.M.B.A. of Campbellford, arrived from Lakefield. They reported a very pleasant day at Burleigh, though the breezes were rather chilling. A special train was made up and the excursionists proceeded homeward. Rev. Father McCloskey was among the picnickers from Campbellford. Seventy-five Hastings people took in the trip and there were also many from Peterborough.

Personal.

Miss Susie Barnett leaves to-day for her home in Arnprior for holidays, and will be absent till October 1st.

Mr. Frank G. McNaughton, of the Styles and Cash Printing Co., New York, is in town on a visit. Mr. McNaughton is an old Peterborough boy and has been absent about ten years.

MATCH WON BY A SINGLE RUN

PETERBOROUGH DEFEATS PORT HOPE A SECOND TIME IN BASEBALL.

An Exciting Game at the P. A. A. A. Grounds Won by the Home Team by 15 Runs to 14—A Good Crowd Present and All Well Pleased.

The baseball match at the P.A.A.A. grounds yesterday afternoon between Peterborough and Port Hope was the most exciting that has been played in town this season, and again the home team scored a victory, though by a very narrow margin, the score being 15 runs to 14. At the end of the eighth innings the score was 12-13. Port Hope went to bat and, encouraged by the applause of supporters, brought in two runs; Peterborough went in and made 3 before the side was put out. The attendance was large, many of the excursionists from Port Hope, both ladies and gentlemen, being present, and they gave their men lots of encouragement. They apparently take a great interest in the game. Their team came up determined to win if at all possible, that they might have revenge for their defeat in Millbrook on July 12, but again the locals proved themselves superior.

The game was exciting all the way through. Peterborough took the lead early and at one time had the score 6-2, but the visitors looked as if they could be trusted to spring a surprise at any time and in the seventh innings they went over the plate for 8 runs, due largely to errors by the home team, and brought their total up even. From that out the finish was of the hurricane style and the rooting and hooting and cheering of the crowd was enthusiastic and fervent. Both teams batted well and the fielders on both sides handled the high flies well. Sheridan and Graham did good work with the high flies in the infield. In batting and in outfield work the Peterboroughs showed considerable improvement over their last matches, especially in the earlier part of the game. The first five innings were excellent and though the play then became somewhat ragged and was marked by more errors than should have been it lost nothing in excitement. Lionel King umpired impartially and was called upon at times to give some close decisions. The score was as follows:

NOTES.

Won by a neck.

One of the features of the game was Sheridan's catch of a high fly near the bleachers after a hard run.

Thompson in left field and Grady in centre caught well.

The Port Hopes are a husky lot of players, nearly all old hands at the game. They are strong batters.

Connors and McGill, the two first basemen are each credited with 13 put outs. Who was unlucky?

Col. McLean, of the Durham Field Battery, was one of the interested spectators.

The Port Hope twirler was afraid of Donovan after his record at Millbrook. He gave him his base on balls four times.

Sheridan showed good form both in batting and baserunning, although he was caught once in trying to steal home.

Norman McGill, who played first bag for Port Hope, was a member of the Peterborough team three or four years ago, while attending the College here, and played on second base.

Chris. Graham while at bat got a hard one from the pitcher just between the shoulders. It sounded like a drum.

Donovan got a nasty cut on the inside of the cheek. The pitcher tried to catch him at second and as he reached for his base the ball struck him in the face with great force.

The scoring of the game by innings on a blackboard on the north fence, where the results were made plain to all, was a great convenience. It shows that the managers wish to please the patrons of the game.

Tutten, of Port Hope, made the only home run of the day. He batted the sphere over right field fence. The three bases were filled and four runs were netted.

The Peterboroughs brought in 5 runs in the 6th innings by good batting and base running by the visitors went them 3 better by making 8 in the next.

A batted ball in the seventh went for the umpire like a dum-dum bullet and he managed to get it in the small of back by turning round quickly. The accident mixed the play up somewhat.

The finish was good. Connors went to bat in the last innings and was put out. Donovan and Grady got to the bases and Sheridan made a good hit that brought them in. He then scored himself on a hit by Parnell and the game was won by a run.

Demonstrated.

Sometimes it costs hundreds of dollars to convince a man; very often less is required, but in the case of Polson's Nerviline, that sovereign remedy for pain, 10 cents foots the bill, and supplies enough Nerviline to convince every purchaser that it is the best, most prompt and certain pain remedy in the world. Nerviline is good for all kinds of pain, pleasant to take and sure to cure cramps and all internal pains. It is also nice to rub outside, for it has an agreeable smell, quite unlike so many other preparations, which are positively disagreeable to use. Try it now. Go to a drug store and buy a 10 cent or 25 cent bottle, Polson's Nerviline. Take no other.

A Bold Fox.

The evening before last a fox entered the yard of Mr. T. Croly, north of Nicholls park, and carried off a hen. It was seen around the yard again yesterday and at other yards around. It seemed very bold and a party is being gotten up to have a chase for the bushy tail.

DINNER SETS.

China Hall is Showing a very fine assortment of Dinner Sets at prices much lower than those of any other dealer in the Midland District. As these goods are advancing in price at the potters it will pay you to buy now.

HOW TO GET PLUMP AND ROSY.

Nature meant every woman to be plump, rosy and well developed, and if she has become pale, weak and nervous, Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food will restore and revitalize the wasted nerve cells, make the blood rich and pure, and give new vigor and elasticity to the whole body. For ills peculiar to women there is no remedy so successful as this great food cure of Dr. A. W. Chase. At all dealers.

At Inverlea Park.

The Sons of England band gave their first open air concert of the season at Inverlea park last evening. There was a large attendance and the evening was a very pleasant one. The band discourted an excellent programme.

Police Court.

At the Police Court this morning Dan Hillier was charged with abusing his wife. The charge was the result of a row a few evenings ago, but the accused maintained that he was in the right and was discharged with a warning.

Wm. Hornbeck, charged with indecent exposure, was fined two dollars.

The Irish Language.

It sounds profane to ask whether our ancient tongue is worth preserving. Yes, it is, even as a spoken language, and so well worth preserving that if the effort be not made, and, with God's blessing, made successfully, we should be held accountable for casting from us what is, in the natural order, apart from the national spirit, the noblest inheritance of our race.

It is the misfortune of many good Irishmen to know nothing of the Irish language, however anxious about it, and, through an untoward history, it is the way with many others to care but little for its fate, because the invader has branded it as an inferior tongue. But it never happened that any one competent to form an opinion who knew Irish did not esteem it as a noble vehicle of human thought and feeling.—Gael.

The Name Tombigbee.

Mr. Charles Gibson of Eufaula, I. T., says that Tombigbee, river is often written about and is in history, and not one in a thousand knows why it is called Tombigbee. Years ago there was such a thing as a white man coming among the North American Indians. It was the case with the naming of this river. There was a lone white man among the Choctaw Indians. He was a friendly white man, not a boomer nor a land grabber, nor was he a hobo.

He was a workingman and farmed a little, built houses or huts for the natives, and here comes in the history of not only the naming of the river, but when the North American Indians began to bury their dead this white man could make a coffin and persuaded the wild men to bury their dead under the sod. This good man lived on the banks of the river. The Choctaws did not know his name, but called him the coffin maker, which in Choctaw is otombe igbee. From this the white man has changed the above Choctaw words to Tombigbee river.—Minneapolis Tribune.

Must Have Been Blind.

Here is rather a good story, which has also the merit of being true. A large firm in Aberdeen recently engaged as office boy a raw country youth. It was part of his duties to attend to the telephone in his master's absence. When first called upon to answer the bell, in reply to the usual query, "Are you there?" he nodded assent. Again the question came and still again, and each time the boy gave an answering nod. When the question came for the fourth time, however, the boy, losing his temper, roared through the telephone:

"Man, a' ye blin'? I've been noddin me heid aff for t' last hanf 'oor!"—London Mail.

Debarred to Save Room.

Down here they saw the horns off the "wild" or Texas cattle before they ship them east. The animals pack better, take up less room in the cars, are not so likely to injure one another and look better to the buyer. A Texas steer may carry just as much beef and tallow as a mulley cow, but his long horns make him look leaner. Texas cattle have a bad reputation, too, and when their horns are sawed off they look as innocent and harmless as a barnyard heifer. —Iola

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. MISS CAPRICE.

BY ST. GEORGE RATHBONE

Author of "Doctor Jack," "Doctor Jack's Wife," "Captain Tom," "Miss Pauline of New York," Etc.

"Then I made a mistake. It is his cousin. Yet I knew the face; I knew the face."

Again John wonders.

"Did a Blunt ever do you a wrong, father?"

"Yes, I have believed so these many years; have been ready to stake my life upon it; and yet, and yet. Heaven forgive for what wicked thoughts I have hugged in my heart."

These word arouse a wild hope in the mind of John Craig. Can it be possible his father has after all these years seen light?

The idea is so wonderful that, although hope causes his heart to beat like a trip-hammer, he remains silent. When the time comes, Craig, sr., will speak; he knows this of old.

Later on, when John finds himself alone, he begins to think again of the little scheme he has decided to work, for the edification of himself and the future good of Sir Lionel Blunt—ditto Mademoiselle Pauline, the tragedy queen.

It must be well carried out to produce the intended effect, for these are more than ordinarily sensible people and might resent the interference of outsiders in their private affairs.

Whatever happens must not appear to have been prearranged, but be purely accidental.

Perhaps success may come; it is worth an effort at any rate.

John fears more than ever lest Pauline, in the bitterness of her anger, attempt some injury toward the girl he loves and who has made the sweet confession that he is very dear to her.

This causes him much more uneasiness than anything else ever did. He can feel afraid for the safety of Ruth where he would not dream of allowing the sensation on his own account.

Hence his anxiety to mature his plans and clear the path ahead.

In the perfected work, he believes he can count on the assistance of Mustapha Cadi. The Arab guide has already proved himself so valuable a man that John is ready to trust him with nearly anything.

So he waits to hear of some message from the old Moorish doctor, and while waiting begins to arrange in his mind the plans for a future campaign.

Pauline is still at the hotel, for he has had a glimpse of her. The actress does not seem very much discouraged by the disasters of the past. She smiles on meeting John, and nods in a cheery way, as though giving him to understand that she is not done with him yet. He feels that he can afford to meet her in the same spirit, although anxious about his Ruth.

Fortune favors him, too.

The British nobleman happens to be standing near as Pauline sweeps past, and as is her professional habit she gives him a bright look, that somehow starts the blood to bounding in the veteran's veins.

He approaches John.

"Pardon me, but did you bow to that lady, my dear doctor?"

John admits that he did, though careful not to show any unusual eagerness about it.

"May I ask who she is?"

"Come, this is rather singular."

"What is?"

"Why, truth to tell, I believe the lady is already interested in you."

"To me?"

Sir Lionel at once puffs out a little, as though feeling consequential. It is gratifying to his conceit to hear that this beautiful being has actually taken notice of him.

"Well, it would not be right for me to say more," continues the dipomatic young man, and this increases the curiosity of the soldier.

"Who is she, doctor?"

"One of the most noted beauties on the American stage," replies John.

"An actress?"

"Yes, and a clever one; very popular in the States, and highly respected. Why, she set half the young men in Chicago wild a year or two ago."

"Including yourself, doctor," slyly.

"I acknowledge the corn, Sir Lionel. Young men have no show to win her favor."

"Indeed."

"She prefers a gentleman of middle age. A man who has seen life and varied experiences."

"Wise girl."

"In short, Sir Lionel, Pauline Potter is an admirer of bravery; she adores a soldier who has won his spurs."

"Ahem! Pauline is a favorite name of mine. I've read of her triumphs, too. She was out in Melbourne two years or more ago and carried the town by storm."

"That is a fact."

"Dame take it, d'ye know what I've half a mind to do?"

"What's that, Sir Lionel?" asks John, with a very sober face, but secretly chuckling at the success that is meeting him half-way. Why, he has hardly dug his pit before the baronet comes tumbling into it.

"I've a good notion to strike up a flirtation with Mademoiselle Pauline, to relieve the tedium of the hours. Who knows what result it might have?" thinking that perhaps such a move might arouse a feeling of jealousy in Lady Ruth's heart, and thus disclose to herself the state of her feelings.

"Who knows, indeed? Be careful, Sir Lionel. Pauline is a bewitching creature. She may add your heart to her list of conquests."

"Well, if I entered the lists, I'd give as good as I received," complacently stroking his luxuriant moustache.

"Jove! I really believe you would. And I'm human enough, having adored the bright star in vain, to wish that some one else might cause the beautiful Pauline to feel some of the pangs she gave us. If the notion strikes you, colonel, I wish you success."

Then John immediately branches out upon another subject.

The seed is sown. It will require time to germinate, and then perhaps the result may prove satisfactory.

So much for the beginning.

When John finds himself alone, he sets to work trying to kindle a counter-irritant, a congenial flame that will burn in the heart of the actress.

Securing a beautiful bouquet of flowers, he fastens to them a card upon which he has written in a hand somewhat like the bold chirography of the veteran, the words:

"A compliment to beauty and histrionic renown."

This he first shows to Lady Ruth.

Then a servant is hired to take it to the room of Pauline Potter, and he is to utterly refuse any information beyond the fact that a gentleman paid him to do it.

Of course this will excite the curiosity of the actress, and further developments may soon be expected.

John, in a secure corner, waits, nor does he have long to watch before Pauline appears, going straight to the desk where lies the ponderous tome in which have registered men of note from all over the world.

She is looking for a signature that will in some degree at least correspond with the writing of the the note found among the flowers. Only a few minutes she remains there, and then, turning away, gives the watchful John a chance to see the smile on her face.

Pauline has, as she believes, discovered the identity of the unknown who sent the flowers.

The little side plot works space, since each of them already feels an interest in the other. The flame being kindled, the fire will grow of its own accord.

He believes he can turn his attention to other things if necessary.

The remainder of the day is put in with sightseeing. John notes one thing. Sir Lionel leaves them after a time and saunters back to the hotel. When this occurs, Lady Ruth and the doctor exchange significant looks. They understand that already the seed is beginning to sprout, and the absence of the Englishman is a positive relief to them.

Duncan Craig accompanies the party. Aunt Gwen has already taken a great fancy to the gentleman, and makes it as pleasant for him as possible.

John tries to study his father in secret, but finds it a hard task.

Craig, sr., is a lawyer of repute in Chicago, a man with a large income. He has been called a sphinx, and well deserves the cognomen, for no man shows less upon his face the emotions of his heart.

Only in debate, and when addressing a jury that hangs breathlessly upon his words, does he drop the mask and show what fire is in his soul.

So John, as in times of old, is unable to fathom the depths of his father's thoughts.

He is wretched, not knowing whether the coming of Craig, sr., will influence his mission for good or evil.

And still the expected message from Ben Taleb does not come.

Once more evening veils day's splendor, and another night approaches, a night that John hopes will make a change in this monotonous run of luck, and bring him news.

Imagine his astonishment and secret delight when an open carriage stops at the door of the hotel, and as he glances at the elegant couple seated therein discovers Sir Lionel and the Potter.

It almost takes his breath away.

"Well, he is a hurricane in love, declare. If he fought in the same way the Victoria Cross wouldn't be enough to decorate him. Jove! they already are dead set, each with the other. That was the cleverest piece of business I ever attempted. If success comes, I'll have to set up as a matchmaker."

How gallantly Sir Lionel assists the lovely actress from the vehicle, as if he expects that the whole town may be watching.

(To be continued).

Too Much of a Jar.

A little group of professional men were talking of dentists the other day when the stout man of the party related a humorous incident that occurred some time ago. It happened in a dentist's office in Kansas City.

A typical cow puncher came in and wanted a tooth treated. He was a big fellow with an immense soft hat, and when he deposited himself in the operating chair everything creaked.

"Mind you don't hurt me," he said in a menacing tone, and then the dentist got to work.

After boring into the tooth a moment he paused.

"Now," he said, "don't stir. If you do, this tool may slip and your nerve will get a nasty jar."

All went well for a few moments and the big fellow threw his head back.

There was a yell, a scramble, a falling chair, and then a brawny fist flew out, and a dazed and bleeding dentist picked himself from the floor on the opposite side of the room.

"You blamed idiot," he mumbled with his hand on his jaw, "I told you not to move!"

"That don't make a mite o' difference!" roared the cow puncher. "No man kin hurt me like that an live!"

And, seizing his big hat, he plunged heavily down the stairs, anathematizing the whole dentist fraternity at every step.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THE FEDERATING COLONIES.

Something About the Paternal System of Legislation in Australia.

H. de Walker, writing of Australia's government in a recent Atlantic Monthly, says: "The railways, almost without exception, and all the telegraphs and telephones, are in the hands of the community. In the few cases in which we find the private ownership of railways, a particular line was demanded at a certain time, and the Government were not then in a position to borrow the funds required for its construction. Western Australia has recently purchased the entire property of one of the two private undertakings in the colony.

"We find in most of the colonies a mass of sanitary and industrial legislation.

"Again South Australia, Victoria, Western Australia and New Zealand lend money to settlers at low rates of interest; South Australia sells its wines in London; Queensland facilitates the erection of sugar mills; Victoria and South Australia have given a bonus upon the exportation of dairy produce. These colonies and New Zealand receive the produce, grade and freeze it free of charge, or at a rate which barely covers the expenses. Victoria contributes toward the erection of butter factories; Victoria and New Zealand have subsidized the mining industry; and Western Australia has adopted a comprehensive scheme for the supply of water to the gold fields.

"The national system of primary education is in all the colonies compulsory and undenominational. In South Australia, Victoria, Queensland and New Zealand it is also free. In the other colonies fees are charged, which may be remitted wholly or partly in the case of the inability of parents to pay them.

"New Zealand and South Australia have appointed public trustees. New Zealand has long had a department of life insurance.

"Finally, since my visit in 1897, New Zealand has adopted a system of old-age pensions. A pension of seven shillings a week is to be given to every person above the age of 65 years, provided he or she has lived in the colony for 25 years, and is able to pass a certain test in regard to sobriety and good conduct.

"Such, then, are the main lines of development in Australia and New Zealand; and it is noteworthy that the colonies which are the most advanced—Victoria, South Australia and New Zealand—escaped the forcible introduction of convicts which has undoubtedly been prejudicial to the others. In fact, South Australia and New Zealand were settled largely by immigrants selected by various associations in Great Britain."

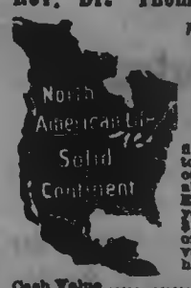
Rev. Dr. Thompson Testifies



Wm. McCabe, Esq., Managing Director, North American Life Assurance Co., Toronto:

DEAR SIR,—Your official notice came duly to hand, apprising me of the results obtainable upon my 15-year Endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000, which matured on the 8th inst. Of the various options you have given me, viz.:

Cash Value.....$1 864 96
Paid-up policy, payable at my death.....2,560.00
Yearly income for life of.....166 20

I have decided upon the cash value; and it gives me pleasure to testify that, as I anticipated it would be when I took out the policy, it is very satisfactory. This returns me the full premium of the 15 years and over 4½ per cent compound interest, in addition to which you have carried the risk upon my life. In view of the lowering rates of interest which have been obtainable during the later portion of the period, it is difficult to see how this excellent result could have been surpassed.

Was Sent for Trial.

The hearing was then proceeded with, and in an hour all the evidence was taken and the warrant executed sending John T. Roach to jail to stand his trial.

The first witness was Mr. E. H. Baines, Toronto, late manager of the bank here, who testified that the robbery had taken place on the night of the 27th or the morning of the 28th of August, 1897, and that witnesses Pare and Holden at the trial had implicated Roach. Witness said he did not remember seeing the prisoner before.

Nathan Meeks said Roach did not look like the fourth man that was in the company of Pare, Holden and Robert Mackie, and he would not swear that he had ever seen him before.

Saw Him With the Burglars.

Willie Joy a lad of 14 or 15 years, said he had repeatedly seen Roach in company with Pare and Holden during the summer of 1897, and on one occasion had rowed Roach up the river to Hawley's Point.

Sidney Scott, who testified at the trial that he saw four men in his sap house, one of whom was Robert Mackie, could not recognise the prisoner as one of the four. Roach looked like one of them, but he would not swear he was the man. He did not talk to the fourth man.

Says Roach Was the Man.

Constable Sills said he saw the prisoner in May or June of 1897, in company with Pare and Holden.

To Roach the witness said: "I have no doubt you are one of the men I met that evening."

Also Identified Him.

Fred. Vanalstine positively identified Roach as one of the men in company with Pare and Holden.

Garrett Joy said, when asked by Mr. Deroche if Roach had been seen by him in company with Pare and Holden: "Roach would fill the bill, but I would not swear positively he was the man."

Elias Smith was called, but after looking at the prisoner could not recognise him and was not sworn.

This Was the Case.

Mr. Deroche here rested his case, stating that sufficient evidence had been adduced to show that Roach was a party to the robbery, and the Magistrate sent him up to await his trial at the Assizes.

When asked if he had anything to say, Roach said he had not, but inquired at what time the trial would be heard. This the Magistrate was unable to tell him.

When judgment had been given, Roach said, "Thank you."

GRAND LODGE A.F. & A.M.

The Grand Master at Ottawa Tells of a Most Prosperous Year.

Ottawa, July, 20.—The annual communication of the Grand Lodge, A.F. & A.M., Canada, convened in Harmony Hall here yesterday morning, Most Worshipful Bro. E. T. Malone, Grand Master, of Toronto, presiding. The Grand Lodge was welcomed by addresses from members of the craft in the Ottawa district, and also by Mayor Payment of Ottawa, on behalf of the civic authorities.

Grand Master's Address.

Grand Master Malone read his annual address, which was received with approbation and referred to the board of general purposes.

He gave a glowing report of the progress of the craft. The G.M. has found the condition of the craft most satisfactory.

He reported: "Information from all parts of the province justifies me in reporting a very prosperous year. I am safe in claiming an increase of almost 1,000 in our membership. Brethren who were estranged from us for years are again in the fold. The work of the lodges is in skilled hands; the members are enthusiastic and filled with love for the order, and a determination to live up to its precepts. In addition to the large sums of money granted annually by Grand Lodge for benevolence, I am pleased to note that the subordinate lodges are alive to their duty, and have expended over $8,000 in practical Masonic charity."

Distinguished Visitors.

At the afternoon session a number of distinguished representatives of sister Grand Lodges were introduced and received with great enthusiasm. Among the visitors were: M.W. Bro. Flint, M.P., Grand Master Grand Lodge of Nova Scotia, and M.W. Bro. D. C. Fraser, M.P., Past Grand Master of Nova Scotia; Mr. J. V. Ellis, M.P., Past Grand Master Grand Lodge of New Brunswick, and Senator Yeo, Past Grand Master Grand Lodge of Prince Edward Island. Each of the distinguished visiting brethren briefly conveyed fraternal greetings from the sovereign grand jurisdictions which they severally represented.

A Jointed Snake.

Mr. George D. Pemberton of Spottsylvania, Va., reports the following: "While walking around my farm I came across a copper colored snake about 2½ feet long. I struck the reptile a blow on the head with a stick, and, to my surprise, the snake fell apart in four pieces. Near by was a hole, and into this the head went, and, although I worked for half an hour trying to get it, I failed. I then examied the body, which was as hard as if had been frozen, and, as far as I could discover, it was entirely lifeless. Thinking it was a jointed snake, I left the pieces of the body on the ground and went to the house. Shortly afterward I returned, but the portion of the body that I had left disappeared and no trace of it could be found."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Dear Child.

"What are you after, my dear?" said a grandmother to a little boy who was sliding along a room and casting furtive glances at a gentleman who was paying a visit.

"I am trying, grandma, to steal papa's hat out of the room without letting the gentleman see it. He wants him to think he's ont."

Lacrosse

Of the lacrosse match in Cornwall on Saturday last between Cornwall and Toronto the Montreal Star says ... "There were a few accidents in the match, and again there were accidents that were not accidents at all. As an instance, Hess, the little goal keeper, cracked 'Dock' Peaker on the cranium while the latter was charging home while not in possession of the ball. Hess got there in one, two three style, and the doctor had to be fixed up. Then Yorke tried the soundness of Madden's head, not mentally, but lacrossically, and opened a gash which required a few stitches, for which he took the fence. Then Peaker got another, just to remind him of the first, and Black's ribs were tested and found to sound properly."

Seaforth will play the Tecumseh-Elms at Toronto on Saturday.

Markham and Brampton come together at Brampton next Saturday.

The Peterboroughs will go down to Hastings to play a match with the Hastings team to-morrow. Hastings expects to win.

AS IT CAN BE PLAYED.

Orangeville, July 19.—Fred S. Dowling, kidney ruptured by being kicked, eye blackened, jaw badly bruised.

Patrick Kelly, kneecap fractured.

George Donaldson, right lung injured, spitting blood.

Adam Caridge, internally injured.

Charles Shore, three scalp wounds, one requiring seven stitches.

The above is a list of the most serious injuries brought home by members of the Dufferin lacrosse club this morning from their encounter with the Athletics of St. Catharines yesterday. The team was accompanied by only two residents of this place, and on the field it was found that the Athletics had resolved upon a policy of terrorizing both their visitors and the referee. Threats were freely indulged in, several Orangeville players being told that should they pick up the ball they would go down. These threats were carried out to the letter and the above casualties represent the penalty paid for daring to play the national game in St. Catharines.

A REVIEW OF THE SESSIONS.

are especially attracted to Mr. Low because he is a Canadian, and thoroughly up to date in his keen insight into various problems created by the rapid advance of modern science, and his course of five lectures on "The old faith and the new philosophy," provoked on all sides well merited commendation, and it is hoped that Dr. Low will have this course of lectures published and placed within reach of the reading public.

Our social problems are amongst the most urgent of our age and time, and of the various aspects of these problems the school learned much that is interesting and practical from Mr. Robert A. Woods, of Boston, Mr. Woods' charming personality in itself won everyone's sympathies. But his skillful presentation of those factors in social life and social work, with which he is so familiar, caused even greater weight, and won for his subject a growing sympathy and interest. Mr. Woods is a young man, but one of wide experience, of practical common sense and unlimited sympathy. He is director of the work of one of the social settlements in Boston.

The lectures delivered by Provost Welch on the Pastoral Epistles, and by the Rev. Prof. Rigby, on the "Life and times of Hildebrand," provided much information of importance, and were most generously commented upon by the members of the school. But Dr. Welch and Prof. Rigby require no introduction to the Canadian public. On the whole the Canadian summer school for clergymen, seems to have appreciated the right idea at the right time, and the movement should claim the support and co-operation alike of the clergy and largely of the Church of England. If that support is forthcoming we see no reason why this movement should not ultimately and increasingly prove an immense education power.

Socially, nothing was left undone by the people of Port Hope that could have been done for the entertainment of the visiting clergymen, a fact for which the management of the school is greatly indebted.

The bride was charmingly attired in blue and white silk organdie, and was given away by her brother, Mr. James A. Norris. The bridesmaid, Miss Beatty, sister of the groom, being gowned in white silk organdie. Dr. J. J. Elliott, of Toronto, assisted the groom.

MINING PROSPECTS.

Results of a Prospecting Trip Through Haliburton.

On Friday last Mr. A. Rogers, of Stirling, passed through town en route for his home, after a two months' prospecting trip in the County of Haliburton. His party is made up principally of Stirling people, who have formulated a stock company for prospecting different mining sections, and have secured the services of a Californian expert. Mr. Rogers, in the Lindsay Post, states that the prospecting party has been fairly successful so far, and they have located several mines. One of their best prospects is a mica mine. This mine comprises a small mountain on the Tyrell farm. They were fortunate in tracing the main and cross veins, and are fully satisfied that they have struck it rich. They have already cleared away the surface, and have sunk a 16 foot shaft, and are now commencing to cross-tunnel the same. Some fine samples have been taken out, and clear, sound sheets of mica, 12x18 inches are in evidence denoting the future prospects of the mine. Mr. Rogers is quite enthusiastic over this claim, and states that a couple of tons of this kind of stuff contained therein will fully repay them for all outlay up to date. The same party of prospectors later on found what they believe will prove an even better mica mine, but as they have not secured the mining claim on it they are not giving any information about it. They have located a very rich lead mine, and are of the opinion that there are great deposits of lead all over the northern district. Another location that his party are particularly pleased with is a phosphate bed. They have unearthed a number of phosphate samples, running in thickness from the size of a lead pencil up to that of a man's arm. Mr. Rogers exhibited two or three samples and was particularly sweet on a sharp, clear, green specimen of phosphate. He states that if this phosphate find increases with development that it will prove a veritable bonanza to their party. On being quizzed as to gold mining in Haliburton county, Mr. Rogers was just a little reticent. He states that his party have found nothing which would lead them to think they had found a gold deposit, but admits that they have discovered rock of gold-bearing formation, but to what extent it is or is not mineralized he would not presume to state. Mr. Rogers states that the country is highly mineralized and that every farmer has one or more mines on his property or adjacent thereto. Speaking of the country generally Mr. Rogers states that it is one of the greatest grazing countries in the world, and that fortunes will yet be made in that section by enterprising ranchers.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement, that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. For sale by James Lynch, druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough, large bottles 50 cents and $1.00.

THE NEW OFFICES

Of the Wm. Hamilton Mfg. Co—Enlarged Accommodation and Increased Convenience.

The enlarged equipment and premises of the Wm. Hamilton Mfg. Co. and the increasing development from year to year are matters of local pride, aside from the fact well recognized that by such enlargement additional employment was furnished. While this has been going on the business offices of the company remained the same, the modest enough comfortable facilities housed in the brick building south of the works being made to do service. The inevitable result ensued that more accommodation was called for to allow for the work of the enlarged clerical staff. Some time ago the first step was taken by commencing the erection adjoining of a large double storey fire proof vault or room. This was completed and fitted with shelves, racks and all conveniences for the placing of papers and records. The lower storey is used for keeping the records of the business office, the upper storey for the records, plans, sketches and drawings of the drafting department.

The old vault in the centre of the office building was taken down. This made considerable of a mess, and the opportunity was taken to re-model the arrangements. A room at the back was taken and the stairway giving access to the second flat removed. This room has been fitted up for the secretary of the company, Mr. A. E. Loch, who gives up his desk in the main office, the space being taken by Mr. E. M. Poussette, the company's accountant.

The room of the President, Mr. Wm. Hamilton, jr., and the main office have been —to use a delightful expression—thoroughly swept and garnished. New hardwood floors have been laid, the wainscoting grained and varnished, walls and ceilings papered, the heating apparatus overhauled and the neatest thing in the way of a staircase erected by which to reach the upper floors and draughting rooms. The staircase is of cast iron, of handsome pattern, circular in form, occupies very little room and is light and graceful in appearance. Such form of staircase is commended to the attention of owners and tenants of stores as being exactly the thing for use where space is limited.

The draughting room, where Mr. A. C. McCallum and his assistants are at home all day, has been brightened up and doubled in size by absorbing a room that has been used as a store room and refitted with convenient drawing tables, shelves and appliances.

RAILWAY TIES.

The Rathbun Mill at Campbellford Turning Out 1 800 a Day.

In order to keep pace with the pressure of business the Rathbun mills at Campbellford are being run on over-time—two hours and-a-half night work. There are 49 men employed, including those who drive the delivery wagons and "pilot" the logs from the river to the endless, revolving spiked chain that carries them to the "batting" saw on the second floor of the mill, near the carriage. The mill commenced operations on the last day of June, and up to the date above mentioned 30,000 ties were manufactured, besides a large number of shingles, between 30,000 and 40,000 being turned out daily. From the cedar logs have been cut 400 cords of slabs, which have been piled in two long rows at the north end of the mill. These will be converted into shingles later on.

From the saws there are turned out between 1,500 and 1,600 ties every day, at which rate scarcely five minutes time is wasted. The supply of logs for present use was boomed at Crow Bay last fall, and part of the drive now on its way here will be retained to keep the mill running to the end of the season.—Herald.

Uncle Sam's Mind Made Up on Alaska Boundary Question.

Secretary Hay and Senator Fairbanks Had a Talk, and the Visitor to Alaska Says It Will Not Pay the U. S. to Give Way—Good Thing if the Amicable Relations Will Stand the Strain.

New York, July 21.—A Washington despatch to The Herald says: "As a result of a conference between Secretary Hay and Senator Fairbanks Wednesday afternoon, the United States will not withdraw one foot from the line it has fixed in the negotiations with Great Britain as to the boundary line between Alaska and Canada.

"Much depended upon the character of the report which Senator Fairbanks made to the Secretary of State. As a Senator and as a member of the high joint commission, his conclusions, after his investigation in Alaska, are of a highly important character. The Senator reported the situation with respect to the miners as satisfactory, but he has changed his view materially with respect to the disputed territory, and now holds that it is to the interest of this Government, as well as to the inhabitants of the territory, to maintain its position.

"Just what will be the outcome of the boundary dispute cannot be stated, but an official with whom I talked remarked that it was well for the friendly relations between the two Governments that a solid framework of amicability supported them before the boundary negotiations commenced."

No Postponement Arranged for Yet.

The Senator had another conference with Secretary Hay yesterday morning and also called at the War Department. Notwithstanding a rapid exchange of telegrams during the day between Senator Fairbanks in this city and Sir Wilfrid Laurier in Ottawa, at the close of office hours no arrangement had been reached as to the postponement of the meeting of the joint high commission. Some interest attaches to this apparent transfer of the negotiations from the hands of Mr. Choate and Lord Salisbury in London, to Senator Fairbanks and Sir Wilfrid Laurier on this side, and perhaps it is this change in the personality of the negotiations that has given rise to the renewed hope of a reassembling of the commission.

KNOCKED OUT BY SENATORS

The Redistribution Bill Was Given the Coup de Grace.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell Stood Under the B.N.A. Act, and the Vote for Constitutionalism Stood 36 For to 14 Against—Mr. McNeill's Preferential Trade Resolution Voted Down in the Commons by a Majority of 36.

Ottawa, July 21.—After three days of calm, dispassionate and very instructive debate the Senate yesterday afternoon gave the coup de grace to the redistribution bill by adopting by a vote of 36 to 14 Sir Mackenzie Bowell's amendment to the motion for a second reading, in which it is declared in effect that it is inadvisable to pass the bill at present, because the British North America Act only provides for a redistribution after each decennial census.

IN THE COMMONS.

Mr. McNeill's Preferential Trade Motion Voted Down.

Ottawa, July 21.—Yesterday was not a particularly interesting day in the House, almost the whole of the morning, afternoon and evening sessions being taken up with a continuation of the debate on Mr. McNeill's preferential trade resolution, on which the House divided at 10 o'clock, the motion being lost by a vote of 41 for to 77 against. The division was on party lines, with the exception that Messrs. McCarthy, Stubbs and Rogers voted against the Government.

The House then went into committee of supply and will probably sit late.

TO BE PROSECUTED FOR LIBEL.

W. T. R. Preston After The Toronto World for Criminal Libel.

Toronto, July 21.—Yesterday afternoon County Crown Attorney Curry received a cablegram from W. T. R. Preston, as follows:

C.P.R. TELEGRAPH COMPANY.
London, July. 20, 1899.

Curry, County Crown Attorney, Toronto:

Enter action for criminal libel against Toronto World for articles contained in issue of June 28th.

W. T. R. Preston.

Mr. Curry took the matter in hand at once, as he went to the business office of The World and procured a copy of the issue of the paper referred to in the cablegram.

SUNDAY CAR BILL DEFEATED.

The Manitoba Legislature Throws Out the Winnipeg Option Bill.

Winnipeg, July 21.—The Local Legislature did not prorogue yesterday, as expected. A lively debate took place on the bill to ratify the agreement by which the Government is to take over 542,560 acres of M. & N. W. Railway lands for the purpose of realising on the security for moneys advanced by sale to actual settlers. An Opposition motion for the six months' hoist was lost by seven votes against 24, and the third reading was carried.

The bill providing for a vote on Sunday cars in Winnipeg was defeated.

The Legislature passed the C.P.R. bill yesterday, giving the company power to build into the Waskada country.

BRIDEGROOM KILLED TWO MEN.

Fatal Result of a Charivari to Newly-Wedded Couple in Quebec.

Montreal, July 21.—A rather tragic affair is reported from St. Eustache, where a party had gathered around to serenade Mr. and Mrs. Neal Guilard, who had just been married. During the serenade the groom discharged a gun, with the effect that Isaac Lamoureaux was killed and his nephew badly wounded. It is said Guilard had married against the wishes of his first wife's relations, hence the trouble. No arrests have yet been made.

Fire at St. George.

St. George, Ont., July 21.—Yesterday morning the Laurason Block was destroyed by fire. The building was occupied by J. P. Laurason's bank, W. Saas' bakery, W. T. Hunter's livery; Hazard's shoe store, and Crozier's meat shop. By the exertions of the citizens the fire was confined to the building, although several times the Snowball wagon works across the street were on fire. The loss will amount to about $3500.

A Marvellous Change.

New York, July 21.—A marvellous change has come over the strike aspect in this city and Brooklyn. Cars appear to be running on all lines pretty much as they did before the strikes began. Any number of men appear to be willing to take the places of the strikers.

Found Hanging to a Tree.

Kamloops, B.C., July 21.—An unknown man has been reported hanging from the limb of a tree near the Indian reserve here. The body was in an advanced state of decomposition.

FOURTEEN FAKE BALLOTS

Deposited in One Division for Holmes in West Huron.

They Were on Different Paper From That Used for the Government Supply, and Were Initialed by D.R.O. With Astonishing Neatness and Similarity—Looks as If a Printing Office Was Attached to the "Machine" There.

Ottawa, July 21.—The upper corridor of the House of Commons at 10 o'clock yesterday morning reminded old-timers very much of the stormy days of the Tarte-McGreevy investigation in 1891. The private bills committee room, in which the committee on privileges and elections was holding its meeting, was crowded almost to suffocation, while the corridor was well filled with the 50 odd witnesses who have been summoned, and all of whom are excluded from the committee room. About one-half of them walked or sat about the corridor, while the other half took possession of room 46 and amused themselves playing cards, smoking and chatting. There was a constant stream of members and strangers going in and out of the committee room and the scene was the most animated witnessed in the Parliament buildings for many years.

Cummings on the Stand.

The examination of Donald Cummings, deputy returning officer at poll No. 4, township of Colborne, riding of West Huron, was resumed in the privileges and elections committee yesterday morning. Mr. Borden took him in hand and elicited the fact that while the poll clerk was at dinner, Lawson, one of Mr. Holmes' scrutineers, had charge of the poll book and made entries in it to the number of some 16 or 17.

Dancy as Agent.

Dancy, a Goderich lawyer, was present at the counting of the votes, and said he had papers to act for Mr. Holmes, but did not show them. Cummings said he did not swear Dancy. Mr. Borden then showed the witness a paper authorizing Dancy to act as agent for Holmes. This paper was in the sealed envelope sent to the returning officer from this polling booth after the close of the poll. Mr. Cummings examined the paper carefully, and then declared he had never seen it before. He was not able to give any explanation of how it got into the envelope.

Ballot Box Locked All Day.

To Dr. Russell, Cummings stated that the ballot box was locked all day, and in his charge. He was only out of the booth for two or three minutes during the whole day, and while he was out the scrutineers on both sides were present. There were 98 ballots handed to him, and he put all of these in the box.

The Ink-Marked Ballots.

Witness having stated Wednesday that he gave up marking his initials in ink because the paper on which the ballots were printed was so thin that the pen went through, Mr. Powell took up the ballots one by one and had him state whether they were endorsed in ink or pencil. The greater number were marked in pencil. In the case of the 20 ballots for McLean, there was none the initials on which he would swear to be in ink. Taking 14 ballots marked for Holmes, on which the initials were in ink, the witness stated that the straight line bounding the right edge of the space, in which Mr. Holmes' name was, was sharp, distinct and unbroken. The other Holmes ballots, the McLean ballots and the unused ballots had this line broken and jagged in every case. The paper on which the 14 were printed was also thicker and heavier paper than the rest of the ballots. Mr. Powell took him over these one by one, and compared them with others, and the witness gave his judgment that the paper was different. Asked how he could explain this, Mr. Cummings said he could not account for it.

Cummings Couldn't Swear.

Mr. Powell—Will you swear that a single one of these 14 ballots were taken by you from the parcel of ballots given you.

Mr. Cummings—I could not positively swear.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

The Daily Review.

FRIDAY, JULY 21, 1899.

PENITENTIARY INMATES.

The report for 1898 on the penitentiaries of Canada indicates a rather unpleasant increase in the graver class of crimes. When the year began there were 1,383 convicts undergoing punishment; when it closed there were 1,446. Taking the average daily population of these penal institutions during the year the following growth is shown:—

1894	1,179
1895	1,250
1896	1,314
1897	1,383
1898	1,415

This means an increase in five years of 20 per cent. in the convictions for the gravest class of crimes, and though in the report it is pointed out that there has also been an increase in the general population of the country, it cannot be maintained that it equals the growth in the number of penitentiary convicts; nor does it seem reasonable to accept the unpleasant facts as an evidence of the greater efficiency of the police and the greater facilities for the detection and capture of criminals afforded by the expansion of the telegraph, telephone and railway systems. It looks much as if, accompanying the increase in homicides which has been lately commented on, there was also a growth of less heinous, but still serious offences against the law. It would seem, too, that the younger generation is supplying too large a share to the prison population. Of convicts under 20 years of age there were 159 last year, as compared with 126 in 1896; in the same time those between 20 and 30 years increased from 628 to 654. It is men under 30, in the beginning of their careers, who succumb most readily to temptation to crime. This, possibly, more than any security afforded by matrimony, may account for the fact that 926 out of 1,446 penitentiary inmates were unmarried. Accepted theories are also somewhat controverted in the facts that less than a third of the convicts (445) are set down as intemperate, 835 being temperate and 166 abstainers; and only 267 are illiterate. All but 7 profess some religious faith. Penitentiary convictions are frequently, however, except in crimes of violence, for offences of a character that illiterate or debased persons do not have the opportunity to commit. Breaches of trust, forgery, and several forms of theft are only possible among those who have rather more than the average opportunity, intelligence or address, and these are not found in the lower strata of the morally weak or the criminally inclined. There are exceptional circumstances that separate the penitentiary from the ordinary prison inmates where generalization as to the cause of crime is sought to be made. They make, however, the increase in the number of penitentiary convicts a matter of serious import, and such an increase is now recorded.

THE Liberal Montreal Witness continues to express its dissatisfaction with the Laurier Administration. It says "there is something inconsequential about the Postmaster-General's reasons, as given in Parliament, for postponing the appointment of a postmaster for Montreal, namely, that the postoffice here is being conducted in an antiquated manner, and needs to be reformed by department experts before the man who is to manage it can even be selected. One would think that the right way to deal with a decadent or out of date institution would be to find a modern and capable expert to manage it. If the interference of superior officers was found temporarily necessary, surely the best service such could render would be in initiating the new man in his duties and confirming him in his authority. The difficulty would seem to be that the Government has no thought of appointing a post office expert to the vacant position, but some politician who till to-day knows nothing about the inside of a post office, and the best that can be hoped from such a one is that he will not do any harm. To this end everything must be made as right as possible before he takes possession of his office."

A DRIVE IN MANITOBA.

A Former Peterborough County Boy Writes of a Trip—Crops Look Well—Government Criticised.

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—As the evenings are rather long in this our fair Province and as I have a little time which I can call my own, I thought I could not employ myself better than by sending a few lines to be inserted in the columns of the Review, giving a brief sketch of our trip to the Moose-Mountain district. 'Twas on the 26th of June, long before the sun had appeared in the horizon, a company of five whose names are Messrs. George Reynolds, George Palmer, John Reynolds, Percy Reynolds, and Wm. Gray, started on a driving expedition to Cannington, N.W.T. I must say we had a merry crew and if you had been there you would say so too. Leaving Grand View, via Lander passing through the Sand Hills, Finlay, Pipestone and within two miles of Reston, where we pitched our tent for the night, but being threatened with a severe rain storm we removed to a neighbor's house where ewwere heartily received and we were led by his kindness to know that we were at home on his beautiful premises. On the 27th we continued our journey west, through Reston, and reached, what is better known here as the Clarke Settlement, for dinner and after doing justice to the inner man, Mr. Clarke put in his team and drove us a distance of about fifteen miles to view some of the prairie lands. Returning with Mr. Clarke for tea we spent a very pleasant evening under his hospitable roof. Just a word here. I may say that the settlers in Manitoba are not what many of the eastern people would term them—harsh and hard hearted. In our travels we found them all to the contrary, with the exception of one farmer who with his hired man was working in the field tilling the soil. Some of our company greeted them with the usual salutation due to any gentleman and also passed a joke with the servant. I must say we were all amazed to find they were not in the humor for receiving congratulations. Judging from their high flown conversation they must have been closely related to some of the foreign importations, as they used terribly abusive language. In less time than it takes to relate, however, the incident one of our true loyal subjects had alighted from the vehicle and taking off his coat in the way of a challenge, was much disappointed to find it was not the man he had to face but something after the style of a Winchester, an dWilliam, who had received a severe wound on his hand, acted the part of a captain and by his strict orders we were compelled to retreat, which we did and proceeded west in real safety. Arriving at Cannington, N.W.T., near the mountain, we pitched our tent again to enjoy the peaceful slumbers which so readily overtake the traveller, but misfortunes appeared to be in close proximity. We arose during the night to see if our horses were safe and imagine our surprise to find they had taken their departure and left us a distance of one hundred miles from home and about sixty miles from a railroad. It was then no doubt, for the first time we could fully sympathize with the poor farmers in the Moose-Mountain district, where the Government have promised to give them a railroad for fifteen long years and have simply taken it out in promises, much to the disgust of the farmers in and around Cannington. I hear a great deal of criticism of the present Government, but they have not held the reigns very long as yet, and according to many of the grievances of the farmers in the Province of Manitoba and the N.W.T. think they might have helped them considerably. However I am afraid I am getting into politics instead of the topic of our trip. We found our horses and started for home on the 30th, taking a different trail, angling south-east to the old Melita road, passing through the French settlement, where we found they were progressing favorably. Their crops were looking fine and they were busily engaged turning the prairie upside down for another year's crop. On the 1st of July we travelled through a fine tract of country, reaching Broomhill, situated about fifteen miles northwest of Melita, when we again pitched our tent for the night. The second was the Sabbath but ew had to still continue our journey as our provisions were nearly exhausted and we were about twenty-five miles from home To make a long story short, we arrived there just in time to partake of a sumptuous repast, with the friends at home. To be brief and to the point I must say we had an elegant trip though it was somewhat tiresome. The crops in our travels give every appearance of a bountiful harvest and the majority of our crew are thinking of going back west again to try their luck homesteading, our friend Captain Gray, going also, and we thin kby all appearances he will take more than the homestead. Hay crops are also very promising, if it is not too wet to cut the hay lands.

Now Mr. Editor, not wishing to be tiresome or to impose upon you in any way, I trust you will give this letter space in your valuable columns, thanking you for the past favors, I remain,

Yours truly,

GEO. REYNOLDS,

THE PEACE CONFERENCE.

Britain and America Voted Against the Prohibition of Asphyxiating Gases and Expansive Bullets.

The Hague, July 21.—The first committee of the international peace conference met yesterday. After a long discussion, the convention unanimously supported the prohibition of firing explosives from balloons. The delegates representing the United States and Great Britain voted together against the prohibition of the use of asphyxiating gases and the expansive bullets. Capt. Mahan and Sir Julian Pauncefote moved the suppression of the clause and proposed a formal convention upon the other three points of the Muravieff circular. This was agreed to and the amended report will be submitted to the full conference to-day.

The third committee adopted the 24 articles of the arbitration scheme, with the exception of the five clauses relating to international courts of inquiry, action on which awaits the result of instructions from the Roumanian and Servian Governments to their delegates.

KRUGER'S MODIFICATIONS

May Prove Basis of Settlement Between Britain and Transvaal.

London, July 21.—Replying to a question in the House of Commons yesterday regarding the relations between Great Britain and the South African Republic, the Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, said that the modifications made in the franchise law of the Transvaal led the Government to hope that the new law may prove the basis of a settlement upon the lines laid down by Sir Alfred Milner, the British high commissioner of South Africa. The Government, however, observed that the Volksraad has still retained a number of conditions that might be interpreted so as to take with one hand what was given by the other. It would also be easy by subsequent legislation to alter the whole character of the concessions, but, Mr. Chamberlain added, the Government feels assured that President Kruger, having accepted the principle for which the British Government has contended, is well prepared to reconsider any details of his scheme which might possibly hinder the full accomplishment of the object in view, and that he will not allow it to be nullified or reduced in value by subsequent alterations of the law or any act of the administration.

RATTLESNAKES

are not more deadly than the millions of disease germs that are floating in the air we breathe and in the water we drink—germs of typhoid fever, malaria, consumption. Compared to a disease germ, a rattlesnake is a gentleman. He is a fair fighter. He tells you to look out. He rattles before he strikes. You have a chance to fight or run. The disease germ sneaks in. It comes while you are sleeping. It gains an entrance to the blood. It propagates there. It multiplies. In a few hours, or days, your blood is full of its children—millions of them. They go all over your body seeking a weak spot. They don't rattle—they strike. You feel listless, nerveless, sluggish, feverish, and maybe you're flat on your back before you really know there is anything the matter.

The only way to keep out disease germs—to keep from being sick—is to keep your blood pure and rich, and your liver active and healthy.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the greatest tonic in the world, will do it.

Charles H. Sargeant, of Plain City, Madison Co., Ohio, writes: "During the summer and fall of 1896 I became all 'run-down,' nerves were out of order and stomach out of order. I wrote to Dr. Pierce for advice. He said I had general debility, and advised Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Since I stopped taking it about one year ago, I have not taken any medicine of any kind, and have been able to work every day. My appetite is good, I can eat three square meals a day, and I do not feel that miserable burning in the stomach after eating. My blood and nerves are in good shape."

FRIDAY, JULY 21, 1899.

HULOCK'S PYROTECHNICS.

Mr. Powell—Considering that these 14 ballots are all marked in ink, all for Mr. Holmes, that the paper is heavier, that the line to the right of Holmes' name is not jagged like the others, are you prepared to swear you got these from the returning officer.

Mr. Cummings—I cannot swear that.

Mr. Powell—Where might you have got them, then?

Mr. Cummings—I don' know. I suppose from the returning officer, that is my impression.

A Tell-Tale Initial "C."

The witness further swore that the initial "C" on the back of the 14 ballots was different to the "C" as written on the other 54, except in one or two cases. The cross marked against Holmes' name seemed to be uniform in the 14, while in other cases it varied. The edge of this lot, too, was rougher and a trifle larger than the regular ballot. Finally, Mr. Cummings admitted that he was satisfied that these 14 ballots never came out of the bundle of ballots he had got from the returning officer, but he had never got any ballots from any other person. Still he could not explain how his initials came to be on the back, when they did not come out of the regular bundle.

Initials on a Certain Spot.

Mr. Powell elicited the further peculiarity that the deputy returning officer had put his initials in every case, with very slight variations, on a certain spot marked by a difference of light and shade, while the suspicious ballots had the initials in various positions. Cummings denied that any voter had objected to his way of handling the ballots or accused him of monkeying with them. He had never had any conversation with anyone regarding the conduct of the election.

Cross-examined by Dr. Russell, Cummings said it was quite possible for a voter to take a ballot from him and hand him back a false one without his detecting it.

Who Did the Stuffing?

So far the evidence found in the ballot box proves conclusively that it was stuffed with bogus ballots for Holmes, although it is not yet quite clear who did the stuffing. Perhaps to-day's evidence may throw a little light on that question.

It being 1 o'clock the committee adjourned until this morning.

THE PHILIPPINES FLOODED.

Forty-One Inches of Rain Fell Within the Last Twenty Days.

Washington, July 21.—The following despatch has been received at the War Department:

"Manila, July 20.—To Adjutant-General, Washington: Storms still prevailing; barometer rising, indicating improving weather conditions. Average rainfall, July, several years, 14½ inches; for 20 days now closed, 41 inches; country flooded.

"Troops on outposts have suffered and former lines of communication cut in some instances; not serious.

"No material increase in sickness reported. Telegraphic communication maintained with San Fernando, Bacoors and nearly all other points. Unable yet to send returning transports. (Signed)

She Married the Coachman.

Swampscott, Mass., July 21.—Abbie Phillips, aged 17 years, niece of Warren W. Phillips, was married yesterday to Bernard B. Kennedy, who is employed by the family as coachman. The girl's parents died when she was about 12 years old, leaving her a fortune of $2,000,000 in trust until she became of age. Miss Phillips is a graduate of the high school and is prominent in the best circles.

Cape Breton Miners on Strike.

Sydney, C.B., July 21.—The drivers at Dominion pit No. 1 of the Dominion Coal Company are on strike for an advance of 15 cents a day. The demand was refused and the mine is idle. It is feared that the miners will strike in sympathy.

THE SUMMER WARDROBE.

New Poplins—How Traveling Gowns Are Made.

Poplin is one of the best of the season's materials. It is used for all sorts of gowns, from simple ones to those of great elaborateness, and is seen in black and all the new colors—several blues and violets, a number of greens, grays and beiges and poppy and venetian red. There is a lovely shade of pastel green, another of light hortensia blue and a beautiful silver gray. Poplin is employed for little girls as well as women.

Traveling gowns are very simply made, the tailor made style being preferred, and all elaborations of fastening and trouble-some adjustments are avoided. A pocket is a necessity, but it is difficult to put it anywhere except in the back seam and yet keep it out of evidence. Where there are no plaits at all in the back of the skirt it cannot be kept out of sight even there. In such a case it is best to trim the two sides of the front and conceal the opening of the pocket under the trimming. The skirt should be short, so that it need not be held up in the hand during walking. The bodice which is most convenient is the jacket or bolero, which may be open or closed, according to circumstances. It should be worn over a neat shirt waist of percale or wash silk.

The cut shows a gown of flax blue linen. The upper part of the skirt is adorned with heavy white embroidered motifs, and the bodice, which forms a slight blouse in front, is similarly trimmed. The upper part of the bodice is cut away in a fanciful form to show the neck, and the edge is finished with a plaiting of white mousseline de soie. The half length sleeves and the epaulets are finished in the same way. JUDGE CHOLLET.

FASHION HINTS.

Items of Interest Concerning the Wardrobe.

Capes are still worn for the carriage, for evening and as traveling wraps, and their utility will keep them in fashion for a long time yet, but the bolero or short jacket is now preferred for general use.

The fashionable wedding costume includes something beside the gown, veil and accessories. The bride must have special garments all through, beginning with underwear of fine linen trimmed with real valenciennes lace. Then come the short petticoat of white liberty silk, the long petticoat of white moire or satin, elaborately trimmed with lace, mousseline de soie and ribbon, and the corset of white satin or opal broche silk. These concealed decorations are quite as costly as the gown itself and are of the finest quality and workmanship.

The bodice differing from the skirt is still worn, both by girls and women. Corsages are no longer made with a blouse effect at the back, the front only being allowed to overhang the belt. Bodices of taffeta or of mousseline de soie over silk are in as much favor as ever.

The cut shows a costume of poppy red taffeta. The skirt is covered with an application of yellow guipure and has a tunic of plain taffeta with a stitched edge. The little coat is cut to match and has a stitched edge also and opens over a plastron of the guipure over taffeta. The sleeves are plain, the epaulets being cut in one with the bodice. Fancy buttons decorate the corsage, and there is a neck frill of yellow chiffon. The hat of yellow straw is trimmed with red poppies and red tulle. JUDGE CHOLLET.

MEN OF MARK.

McCarthy is the name of a negro lawyer in London who has a good practice.

Chauncey M. Depew claims that he has the finest private reference library in New York.

General Leonard Wood is partial to cigarettes, rarely smoking cigars, a fact which commends him to the Cubans in his province.

General Arthur MacArthur used to be known among his friends as "the quiet man," owing to his good temper in all personal disputes.

Governor Tanner of Illinois has bought a large tract of land in Iowa, which he means to turn into a model farm, an idea to which he has given much thought.

Senator Carter of Montana is said to be one of the best experts on metals in all the west. He can tell at a glance whether a specimen is genuine and whether it is worth "looking into."

Senator Hanna owns a theater in Cleveland, which is one of his pet hobbies. He gives it a great deal of thought and attention and when in town is, with Mrs. Hanna, a confirmed "first nighter."

Lieutenant Colonel Marion P. Maus, inspector general, has been relieved from further duty in Washington and ordered to San Francisco for assignment to duty as inspector of that department. Colonel Maus has been on the staff of General Miles for several years.

President McKinley has decided to visit Minneapolis and St. Paul this summer, at the time of the return of the Thirteenth Minnesota and South Dakota regiments from Luzon. He will attend the Grand Army encampment in Philadelphia in September.

Mr. J. H. Blackburne attributes his success as a chess player to his memory, which is indeed wonderful, and, though it seems paradoxical, the attention that he has given to the game is largely the cause of his having such a good memory. Practice has developed the faculty.

Edward Y. Perry, an eccentric millionaire of Hanover, Mass., is dead, leaving a will in which all his property, except a homestead and $20,000 for the widow, shall be used to help poor people. No preference is to be shown, and the trustees simply have power to decide as to the worthiness of applicants.

Henry Probasco of Cincinnati was a millionaire a few years ago. But he adopted Mr. Carnegie's views of wealth and gave away his fortune in benevolences. Today, at 79 years, he finds himself impoverished and lives in a little rented house, supported by a small salary as an officer of a cemetery association.

One of Sir Henry Irving's first experiences of the theater was with a provincial stock company. "Until I got there," says Irving, "I didn't know that I was to take the place of an actor, locally popular, who had left on bad terms with the management. The audience took my predecessor's side and hissed me every night."

G. L. Watson of Glasgow, the designer of the Britannia, Valkyrie and other famous yachts, refuses to have anything to do with a boat after it once leaves his hands. He has never owned a yacht, and so jealously does he guard his model room that no one has ever gained access thereto save Lord Dunraven and Lord Lonsdale, who represented the German emperor in the building of the Meteor.

THE BOOKMAKERS.

The first visit of Thomas Hardy, the novelist, to America was made as a college lecturer upon architecture. Mr. Hardy is a great admirer of the United States.

Mrs. Margaret Deland is probably the best mountain climber in New England. When she finishes a book she is now at work on, she will visit Switzerland and try her mountaineering skill on some of the Alps.

Jules Claretie proposes that the chair in the French academy which has been vacant since the death of Dumas forever remain so out of honor to its last occupant and that another be created to fill up the requisite number of 40.

In the latest chapter of his reminiscences Justin McCarthy says Charles Reade was the most conceited man he ever met. That's distinction indeed among English literary men, whom the late George William Curtis called the vainest persons to be met anywhere.

Mr. Ruskin is in these days weak and frail, but mentally he is quite clear. He does not work, but is said to take a lively interest in the progress of the world. He is perfectly happy—so happy, he says, that he wishes to live on. He takes slow walks in fine weather, and in the evening he is read to. He loves Scott's novels as much as ever.

JUNE JEWELRY.

An elegant little salts bottle takes the form of a solid silver heart beautifully chased.

Despite the many new inventions in jewelry, the long jeweled chain is still in evidence.

Handsome thermometers have the glass tube mounted upon stag horn, with silver trimmings.

Some good watches for men are in dull silver with engraved design of hunting and fishing scenes.

Among necklaces, pearls reign supreme either in a single strand with diamond clasp or in many rowed collars.

Postal card racks, upright in form, are one of the later additions to the list of conveniences for the escritoire.

Silver, as usual, takes a leading place among June wedding gifts. In addition to standard articles in table ware there are innumerable dainty things in special spoons and forks, trays, bonbon dishes, etc.—Jewelers' Circular.

WOMEN'S WAYS.

Every time a woman sees a mirror she pauses to reflect.—Chicago News.

When a woman goes over to the neighbor's by the back way and cries before speaking, she tells a terrible story.—Atchison Globe.

A woman is never so proud as when praise of her new hat leads her to confess that it is an old one she trimmed over.—Berlin (Md.) Herald.

Whenever a pair of shoes feel comfortable after but twice wearing a woman feels mad at herself for not having endured greater pinching at first.—Philadelphia Times.

When two women pass each other on the street and only one of them turns around to look back, it is easy to determine which one it is that is wearing her old clothes.—Rochester Herald.

Tired Eyes.

A correspondent of Popular Science News tells of a party of Alpine climbers who, having spent five hours among the snows of the mountains, returned to their homes after dark. A great change had to all appearance taken place since the night before. Instead of being illuminated in the usual way, the place was supplied with green lights.

It took the travelers a little time to realize that they were suffering from Daltonism, or color blindness, superinduced by eye fatigue. The intense light caused by the sun shining upon the snow had for the time rendered them unable to judge of colors and given rise to their curious mistake. Three hours elapsed before the eyes regained their normal condition.

Chevreul explains that the eye cannot gaze long upon a given color without tending to become insensible to it. When the eye looks long upon a color, it should be rested by the complementary color. Thus an eye that has grown tired with green should be rested by red, which is green's complementary color.

The Atlin Mining Company of Ontario

LIMITED.

OFFICERS:

JOHN TORRANCE, Jr., Montreal, President. W. W. NEACHAM, M.D., Kingston, Ont., 2nd Vice-President
WILLIAM MOORE, London, Eng., 1st Vice-President. J. B. CLARKSON, Montreal, Treasurer.
BANNELL SAWYER, B.C.L., Secretary.

CAPITAL: $400,000, divided into 1,600,000 shares of a par value of 25c. each.

INCORPORATION: Working under the Ontario Company's Act, non-personal liability.

TREASURY: Fund 600,000 shares from the sale of which development funds will be received and expended in placing the mine on a dividend paying basis.

MINE: The mining location which it is the special province of this Company to develop, is known as the "Sirdar of the Manitou." It is technically known as the H P 259 location, and lies in the Rainy Lake Mining District of Ontario.

THE VEIN: Is 4 feet wide at the surface or wider and the width increases as the shaft is sunk, until at a depth of 45 feet it is about 7 feet across.

WORK: In addition to surface prospecting and tracing the vein over the property, a shaft has been sunk to a depth of 45 feet, and a contract has been given to sink 30 feet farther and to drift for 60 feet on the vein. When this is completed, further and permanent development will be arranged for.

MILL TEST: Eighteen tons of ore from the dump were milled and the gold retorted at the "Keewatan Reduction Works," which went $9.60 to the ton. Five hundred pounds from the pay-streak was put through, which went so heavy in gold that extra quick silver had to be put on the plates to catch it all.

CONCENTRATES: These were only partially saved, but we have one thousand pounds on hand which we sampled and had assayed by Professor Donald which showed $153.09 to the ton. If all the Concentrates are as rich as this, the whole cost of operating the mine can be paid from them alone, leaving the free milling gold for dividends.

Assays: By Milton Hersey, Esq., B.A., Sc., Consulting Chemist of the C.P.R., of Montreal, average sample of the dump (not knowingly putting in any of the pay streak, which was carefully sacked, as it was extracted from the shaft) went $54.19; also samples from the bottom and sides of the shaft went $72.00 to the ton.

By Professor Donald, M.A., Professor of Chemistry, Bishop's College, sample taken from the pay streak, went $1,585.50.

By various persons, the following results were obtained: $14, $39.60, $615.

PLAN OF OPERATION: As soon as the work now under contract has been completed, our plan is to erect a two stamp mill in such a way that eight more stamps can be added later on, when the mine is sufficiently developed to supply ore rapidly enough to keep that number of stamps going night and day.

OUTPUT: Would be more than enough to keep the two stamps going, when we would be able to see and prove the value of our mine and we would also receive money steadily from the ore to help pay for the development, thus rendering it unnecessary to sell many Treasury Shares and enabling us to command a better price for them when offered.

PROFITS: The total cost of mining this ore need not exceed $2.50 per ton, and estimating it at $20.00 there would be a yield of $18,000 per month, crushing 30 tons a day.

GOLD BRICKS: We expect to have our first gold brick in Montreal within 6 months from the 1st of June.

SHARES: We are offering 100,000 treasury shares at 15c., payable 1-3 cash, 1-3 in 60 days, and 1-3 in 90 days. Those who wish to pay in full at time of purchase may do so and receive their scrip at once.

CONCLUSION: From the results already obtained, we think we are safe in saying that this is one of the best and most promising investments in sight, and we believe that large profits will be made from such investment in a very short while.

ENGINEER'S REPORT.

Wabigoon, Ont., 28 Dec., 1898.

Made by Mr. Hugh D. Alston, of the Neepawa Mine, Ontario, late of London, England.

BANNEL SAWYER, Esq., Montreal, Que.

Sir:—In accordance with your request by telegram dated Nepigon, 22nd Dec., I now beg to hand you report on "Sirdar" Mine, better known as "Swede Boys."

LOCATIONS AND MEANS OF COMMUNICATION. The property contains 67 acres, more or less, situated on the upper Manitou Lake, in the Rainy River District of Ontario, it is distant about seven miles from Denmark at the head of the lake, and about thirty-three miles from the town of Wabigoon, a station on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway. At both points there are stores where nearly all necessary supplies can be obtained at reasonable cost. Communication is carried on during the winter by horses and sleighs, and in summer by steamboats, with the exception of seven miles over a Government road.

SHAFT AND LODE: The shaft is down 45 feet and timbered for about 10 feet and from there down it is about 6 x 8 on a slight incline partly following the hanging wall.

The vein is exceptionally well-defined and regular, and it is a "fissure" vein of a "banded" structure, it shows the full width of the shaft—this would make the vein over 7 feet wide.

MILL SITES, TIMBER, &c. There is a very favorable mill site East of the shaft, on the Lake shore, and, as the ground rises toward the shaft, ore could be supplied to the mill by gravity tramway at small cost.

There is a large quantity of dry timber on the property sufficient for fuel requirements for some time to come; building logs and mill timbers can be obtained adjacent to the lake.

RECOMMENDATION. Considering that this location is so favorably situated for mining and milling, and, judging from the character of the vein and quality of ore exposed in the shaft, I am of the opinion that this location will develop into a very valuable mine on a comparatively small outlay, and have no hesitation in recommending it as a sound investment.

Yours faithfully,
HUGH D. ALSTON.

The Lindsay Telephone Franchise.

Lindsay Post:—According to arrangements made at last week's meeting called to discuss the local telephone franchise, the matter was again considered by the board of trade on Wednesday evening. There was a very good attendance and a long discussion ensued. The opinion of the meeting was strongly opposed to the granting of an exclusive franchise to the Bell Co., as advocated by Alderman Sootheran and a few others. A motion to that effect had but a couple of supporters, and a subsequent motion that the Victoria Co. franchise be limited to a term of five years was also frowned upon, it being pointed out that it would be absurd to expect that a company would construct a line when there was a possibility that they would be told to pick up and leave at the end of the term mentioned. Mayor Walters thought there was no reason why the board of trade should have been asked to express an opinion concerning the matter, as the council were quite competent to deal with it—if not, they would resign. The Council will now arrange to give the Victoria Co. the necessary right of way under certain conditions.

HOPES OF THE PROHIBITIONISTS

THE METHODIST ORGAN ON THE COURSE THE AGITATION HAS TAKEN.

Provincial Prohibition Cannot be Satisfactory or Final—On the Pledging of Candidates.

Christian Guardian.

The course of events since the meeting of the Parliamentary Committee in Ottawa has not tended to raise the hopes of the prohibitionists of receiving from the Laurier Government any adequate answer to their demands. The sole movement in the House of Commons in this connection since that meeting has come from Mr. Flint. Mr. Flint, as a private member, has brought before the House a series of resolutions intended to carry out the policy which the Parliamentary Committee thought to be best, namely, Provincial prohibition by the authority of the Dominion Parliament. Fearing that these resolutions were not early enough on the order paper to secure a full discussion, Mr. Flint requested the Premier to give them special recognition. In reply the Premier promised to set apart a day for its consideration, after the disposal of the Redistribution Bill. It is a week since the measure was sent up to the Senate, but the day has not yet been set.

The immediate demand of the Alliance is also for Provincial prohibition by act of the Dominion Parliament. It was felt at the convention, however, that insufficient emphasis was placed on the ultimate end by the form of Mr. Flint's resolutions, and, therefore that point is, in the report of the Executive, made very emphatic. And this is wise. While we may accept for the present or near future an act which will enable the Provinces to enact a prohibitory law as they may decide, we do so only on the principle that half a loaf is better than no bread at all. It must be clearly understood that we will accept nothing as final which falls short of total prohibition.

The action taken by the Dominion Council is a necessary supplement to that of the Ontario branch. The latter formulated the policy to be pursued; the former provides the machinery to carry out this policy. We have got all that we will get by asking. We must now convince the politions of both parties that we are in earnest. As long as there is doubt that we will sacrifice prohibition to party, we can hardly look to the politicians to accede to our demands. Those with whom we contend have shown that business is first and party afterwards. We must stand as firm for the cause of righteousness as they for commercial gain.

In connection with the pledging of candidates, one point is of special importance. Past experience does not encourage us to place much confidence in ante-election pledges from the party candidates. If we are to enforce our demands we must be sure of the men whom we pledge. We cannot do this by allowing the party to go ahead and nominate their candidates, and then ask them to pledge themselves. We must organize first. Our candidate should already be picked out, and his record should count for at least as much as his present promises. Then, with our candidate chosen, we can bring some influence to bear on the party conventions as to the selection of a candidate. If our candidate is accepted by their party, we will then know where we stand, and we will have an answer to the undecided who may say that one man is as good as the other. If both parties refuse, we will at least have a man whom we can run exclusively as a prohibitionist. The action of the Executive does not look to the formation of a third party, but it may create a necessity for a third candidate in some constituencies. One case of this kind, in which the party candidates were defeated, would have a tremendous moral influence.

SOLEMNLY ORDAINED

And Inducted to the Pastorate at Omemee was Rev. Wm. Kannanwin.

A special meeting of the Peterborough Presbytery was held in the Presbyterian church at Omemee yesterday afternoon for the ordination and induction into the pastorate of the Omemee congregation of Rev. Wm. Kannanwin, B.A., of Shelbourne, Ont. Rev. J. G. Potter, of St. Andrew's, presided, and Rev. A. C. Reeves, of Lakefield, conducted divine service. There were also present Rev. Wm. Bernett, clerk of the Presbytery, Rev. J. W. McIntosh, of Centreville, and Rev. Wm. Johnston, of Millbrook.

Rev. Dr. Nugent, missionary-elect to India, Rev. Mr. Langfeldt, of the Episcopal church, and Rev. Mr. Pope, of the Millbrook church, who were present, were invited to sit and correspond with the Presbytery. This invitation was accepted.

Rev. Mr. Kannanwin was then duly and solemnly ordained to the work of the ministry, and was given the right hand of fellowship by the ministers present.

After this ceremony Rev. Mr. Johnston addressed the minister, and Rev. Mr. McIntosh addressed the congregation, dealing with the responsibilities and duties of the people.

The ladies served luncheon at five o'clock, after the service, and a public reception was then extended to the newly-inducted pastor in the evening.

Besides choruses by the choir, short and appropriate addresses of welcome were made by the ministers present and an address was presented to the new pastor by Mr. Jardine, principal of the Public school, and one from the Young People's Societies and the Sunday school. A pleasant feature of these presentations was the presenting of a large bouquet to Mr. Kannanwin by a member of the primary department. The successful evening closed with the singing of an appropriate hymn and the benediction.

—A large crowd of excursionists from Bobcaygeon spent the day at Chemong park yesterday. It was a united outing of the village churches.

—Rev. E. W. Mackay, M.A., of St. Peter's church, Madoc, a brilliant young Scotchman, will officiate at both services at St. Andrew's church next Sunday.

—The accommodation at the Wolfe-st. wharf is not sufficient for the river fleet. To-morrow there will be five steamers at the wharf here, and there is only room for three to land passengers direct.

—There was no police court this morning. The only excitement around the station was caused by a man who had found a child on the street and wanted to get rid of it. The proper owner appeared after a time.

—Mr. J. Howland has been duly sworn in as special constable for Victoria museum and Inverlea park. Boys and others who have made themselves nuisances around the park are warned to be more discreet in future.

—The Catholic Order of Foresters, of town, are making thorough preparations for their excursion to Idyl Wyld on civic holiday. A competent committee has charge of all arrangements and an excellent day is promised to all who attend.

GATHERING OF THE CRAFTSMEN

MASONIC GRAND LODGE IN SESSION AT OTTAWA.

Six Hundred Delegates Present—Municipal and Fraternal Welcomes—General Notes of the Convention.

Ottawa Citizen: Over four hundred lodges are represented by about six hundred delegates at the Masonic grand lodge, the business of which is now well under way.

The Grand lodge opened at 11.30 Wednesday morning. There was a very large attendance, Harmony hall, where the meetings are held being filled to the doors. Attired in their brilliant regalia the Grand officers presented an imposing sight, while the Grand organist rendered a number of selections which added an air of impressiveness to the ceremony. Grand Master E. T. Malone, of Toronto, was supported on the dias by A. A. Stevenson, P.G.M., Montreal; J. K. Kerr, Q.C., P.G.M., Toronto; Hugh Murray, P.G.M., Hamilton; H. Robertson, Q.C., P.G.M., Collingwood; R. T. Walkem, Q.C., P.G.M., Kingston; J. Ross Robertson, M.P., P.G.M., Toronto; W. R. White, Q.C., P.G.M., Pembroke; W. Gibson, M.P., P.G.M., Beamsville; R. B. Hungerford, P.G.M., London; C. W. Postlewaithe, G.S.W., Toronto; H. Rush, G. J.W., Peterborough. Delegates numbering from one to six were present from four hundred and fifty lodges.

Mayor Payment, of Ottawa, made an address heartily welcoming the brethren, to which Grand Master Malone replied. The Ottawa lodges also extended a felicitous greeting, the Grand Master replying.

The annual address of the Grand Master was a lengthy document and dealt with the condition of the craft, the meeting place of Grand lodge, the general Masonic relief association, the ballot, the history of Freemasonry, in Canada, appointments, finances and other such matters.

AN APPEAL.

The grand master thanked the Grand lodge officers and district deputies for their assistance, and concluded with the following appeal to the brethren: "I desire to impress upon you their duties. Our individual conduct and effort depends the maintenance of the high standard of Masonry. The world will judge of us as we conduct ourselves in the daily walks of life. While never losing sight of the obligations we have entered into with one another we must not forget that it is our duty to take an active interest in everything that tends to the betterment and elevation of mankind. To quote from a Masonic periodical 'The trouble with all of us is that we are Lodge Room Masons, Lodge Night Masons, and not Every Day Masons. Masonry is for our morning thought and and our evening meditations, and should be mixed up with every action of the day. We are not to wear our Masonry on our sleeves for show; then it would become offensive and bring us censure. Masonry should be zeal and shown in cheerfulness of disposition, the freedom from harsh words, the forbearance of others, the willing help rendered to those who need a word of comfort, and our own good deportment. These are Masonic charms more valuable than jewelled decorations; they prove a man to be an Every Day Mason.' Let us prove to the world that we have a mission, and that we find a joy in doing good not only to those within our circle but to our fellow men."

FINANCES AND GRANTS.

At the afternoon session of the grand lodge reports of several of the committees were presented and adopted, after some discussion.

The report of the audit and finance committee stated that the total receipts during the year amounted to $21,040.92, and the expenditure to $18,793.32, leaving a balance on hand of $2,247.60. The receipts during the previous year were $19,-998.82.

The benevolence board reported that during the year it received 272 applications, of which 146 were from private lodges; 136 applications were granted, the sums amounting to $5,270. Through local boards of relief 126 applications were received, and $3,920 paid out. Fifty-one lodges, receiving grants from grand lodges, had contributed by local boards of relief. The total amount received from all sources for the benevolent fund was $15,-069.09.

DECEASED BRETHREN.

The committee on the fraternal dead through its chairman, Mr. A. T. Freed, reported that since the last communication death had removed many endeared to the lodge by close association. Among these mentioned were W. Bro. McPherson, of No. 422; Chas. McDonald, No. 78; Gilbert Wells, No. 10; John Walter, Murton, No. 27; Francis Richardson, No. 25; J. M. Munro, No. 147; J. Smeaton, No. 57; W. H. Timbers, No. 264.

CONDITION OF MASONRY.

The report of the board on the condition of Masonry, presented by Mr. Hugh Murray, stated that of the 360 lodges in the province, 355 had been officially visited and inspected during the year. The D. D.G.M.'s had performed their duties in a

Satisfied With Their Trip.

Port Hope Guide: Wednesday morning (July 19) at 8.30 o'clock crowds could be seen wending their way to the Midland platform, intent upon attending the Methdist Sunday school excursion to Inverlea Park, Peterborough. At about 9 o'clock the special train drew into the station, the excursionists swarming on until nine coaches were comfortably filled. After a rapid run on the Midland, with our old friend and trusted driver, Mr. David Clark, at the throttle, stopping at Garden Hill, Millbrook and Fraserville, we pulled up at Peterborough about 10.30 o'clock. Here a large number of pleasure seekers stomped off for the day, and the remainder proceeded to Inverlea Park, an ideal spot, (situated on the banks of the Otonabee River) for a picnic. By this time all were ready for refreshments, and after the inner man had been satisfied, various amusements were indulged in. The committee in charge of the sports for the day entertained the children with numerous races. Some visited their friends in the town, while others drove around, viewing the sights of Chemong Park, as well as those of Peterborough. All had been informed beforehand that the train would leave the park at 7 p.m., which perhaps was the only disappointment of the day, as many would have preferred to remain later. As it was, the train left Peterborough at 7.30 on its homeward way, laden with its precious freight, making the run in about one hour. All who attended expressed themselves as satisfied with their trip, as well as benefitted.

His Opinion.

The woman who speaks her mind freely on all occasions had been telling the sad eyed stranger to whom she had been introduced what she thought of Mormonism. Her remarks were eloquent and acrimonious. She had a flow of language which never failed and was fortified with facts which could not be refuted. He listened patiently till she had finished and then said meekly. "Yes, madam; I'm a Mormon myself."

"I don't care," she exclaimed, though her face reddened a little. "A man ought to be satisfied with marrying one woman to wait on him and be browbeaten by him."

"I don't browbeat anybody," he responded reproachfully.

"It doesn't make any difference whether you do or not. No man has any business to marry two wives."

"I agree with you perfectly, madam."

"Ha! You admit it."

"Yes'm; no man ought to have two wives. If he takes more than one, he ought to stick to odd numbers and have three, five or seven. It obviates the necessity of a man's mixing in. In case of a family dispute it provides for a deciding vote and prevents a deadlock."—Washington Star.

Fresh Laid.

A lady who did not appear to be in a very good temper bounced into a certain grocer's shop the other afternoon.

"Is your father at home?" she asked of the small boy behind the counter.

"No'm," was the reply. "Anything I can do for you?"

The lady hesitated before remarking.

"I've called to complain about the eggs I obtained from your father this morning. He told me they were fresh laid, and"—

"Did he get 'em from the window?" asked the youthful salesman.

"Yes."

"Then it's all right, 'm—they're fresh laid!"

"But I say they are not."

"You'll excuse me, 'm," said the youngster, endeavoring to be polite. "But I ought to know. They came in a crate yesterday. I unpacked every one on 'em an laid 'em there in the window only this morning. So I knows they're fresh laid, and that settles it."—London Answers.

Queer Origin of a Hotel.

They say that the best hotel in Texas is to be found at Belton, a town on the Santa Fe road and is kept by "seven sanctified sisters," as the proprietors are popularly called. Several years ago a woman in the place and her husband quarreled over the best way of expounding the Scriptures to a Sunday school class and were so stubborn that they separated and were finally divorced.

This family controversy was taken up by the town, which was soon distinctly divided between the adherents of the husband and the adherents of the wife. The result was a large crop of divorces, and seven husbandless women, including the original cause of the commotion, joined together and rented the town hotel. One of them did the cooking, another was parlor maid, a third made up the beds, and so they divided the work among them and ran the establishment on the co-operative plan.—Chicago Record.

Other Dangers.

"What are you reading about?" asked the man with the wise manner.

"The stock market," replied the youth.

"Don't do it."

"But I never put up any money Therefore I can't lose."

"It makes no difference. You're likely to become one of these people who tell how much money they would have made if they had only done what they came pretty near doing, because they didn't see how things could go otherwise. And then even your best friends will wish sometimes that you would bet your money and lose it and keep still about it."

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by James Lynch, druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough.

MISS CAPRICE.

BY ST. GEORGE RATHBONE

Author of "Doctor Jack," "Doctor Jack's Wife," "Captain Tom," "Miss Pauline of New York," Etc.

Doubtless his actions are in part studied with a view to the effect upon a certain person, nameless, who must assuredly be looking from her chamber window above.

In that case he is apt to go too far, and soon find himself in the wiles of Pauline, who, accustomed to playing with men as one might the pieces on a chess-board, would have little trouble in manipulating one Englishman, fresh from the wilds of South Africa.

So John rests on his oars and waits for the chance to come; and the unseen hand that weaves the fabric of their lives, manipulates the shuttle through the woof.

When Mustapha catches his eye he comes up hastily, understanding there is something in the wind.

"We are to go again into the old town."

"When, monsieur?"

"This night. See! Ben Taleb has sent me a message."

The Arab looks at the paper stolidly; it might as well be Sanskrit to him.

"Read it, monsieur."

So John complies, and his guide takes in all that is said. He nods his head to show that he understands.

"This time I, too, will change my appearance, and they will not know that it is Mustapha Cadi who walks through the lanes of old Al Jezira with an unbeliever at his side."

"A bright thought, Mustapha. When shall we leave the hotel?"

"Say half-past nine, meet me here. I will have all arranged. The burnoose is safe."

John prepares for business.

He remembers that on the previous occasions he had need of weapons—that they came very near an encounter with the natives—and hence arms himself.

Before quitting the hotel, he feels it incumbent upon himself to see Lady Ruth, and tell her where he is going. Nothing like beginning early, you know. She has already commenced to control his destiny.

CHAPTER XXIII.

John hears at last.

A native servant brings him a note, and it can be set down as positive that the young Chicogan eagerly breaks the seal.

It is from Ben Taleb. He writes a fair English hand, for he is a man of much education.

"Come again this night at eleven. Tell Mustapha to be at the wall where you departed from my house at that hour, and to rap upon the large stone with the handle of his knife, giving the signal of Mahomet's tomb.

"BEN TALEB, of Morocco."

So John's heart thrills with expectation. This looks friendly; he may be near the end of his journey. It is still dark and uncertain ahead, for even when he has found his mother, a reconciliation between these separated parents seems impossible. The past has too much of bitterness in it to be easily put aside.

His first thought is of Mustapha, and he casts around for the Arab, whom he last saw close by the door of the hotel.

The dusky courier is near by, engaged in a little game with several companion guides, for the Arab, as a rule loves gaming, and will risk everything but his horse.

Lady Ruth has a headache, and is bathing her brow with cologne in the privacy of her little boudoir parlor, but readily consents to see the young man.

"You'll think me a fright, John, with my hair brushed back like this"—John stops this in a thrice, as an ardent lover might, taking advantage of the professor's absence, and the fact that Aunt Gwen has gone back in the second room for another chair—"but once in a great while I have a headache that will only succumb to certain process. You will excuse me?"

"Indeed, I sympathize with you; have had the same splitting headache myself more than a few times. I wouldn't have intruded—"

"You know its no intrusion, John," with reproach in her eyes.

"Kind of you to say so, my dear, but to the point. I have hear from Ben Taleb."

"Oh! your face tells me it is good news."

"I am to visit him at ten."

"To-night?"

"Yes."

"But John, the danger. You yourself told me it was no little thing to enter old Al Jezira in the night. Those narrow lanes, with strange figures here and there, eyeing one fiercely; the houses that threaten to topple over on one's head; all these things make it a risky place to wander in even during the daytime. After dark it must be awful."

So John describes the plan of action, and interests his affianced, who asks more questions about his former visit, not forgetting the marvellous beauty of the Moor's daughter, for she is human.

Time flies under such circumstances, and hence it is John suddenly exclaims:

"I declare it is after nine o'clock."

"And my headache is gone."

At this both laugh.

"You must be a wizard, John, to charm it away so completely," she declares.

"I trust I shall always be as successful in the days to come," breathes John, and this of course causes a blush to sweep over the fair maid's face.

He hurries to his room to prepare for what is before him. Deep in his heart arises a prayer for success. Again that feeling of anticipation sweeps over him. Remembering former disappointments, he endeavors to subdue his hopes and to prepare for another set back, but this does not prevent him at times from indulging in dreams of happiness.

It is just half-past nine when he reaches the door of the hotel.

Mustapha Cadi is there, looking confident and bearing a small bundle. Again, in a dark corner, John assumes an Arab covering, while his conductor proceeds to alter his own looks so that any whom they meet may not know who the tall Arab is.

So they tread the lanes of the hillside town. Just as on the previous night, they meet Arabs, Moors, Kabyles, Jews and negroes. The silence is like that of the tomb, and yet the interior of more than one house doubtless presents a spectacle gay enough to please any lover of light and color of lovely women, of rippling fountains, sweet flowers that load the air with their incense, and all the accessories a Moorish court can devise, for these people, while keeping the exterior of their dwellings plain, spend money lavishly upon the interior.

Now they are at the wall, and Mustapha gives the signal clearly: indeed, John fancies the hilt of the knife meets the stone with more force than is necessary, or else his ears deceive him.

The signal is heard, is answered, and in another minute they are inside the wall.

As he walks along behind his guide, John whispers to the Arab:

"On my word, I believe the fellow neglected to quite secure the door in the wall," to which remark Mustapha replies in low tones:

"Presumably he knows his business, monsieur; anyhow, it concerns us not at all."

Which John takes as a gentle reminder that these Arabs are very particular not to interfere with things that belong to another.

He says no more.

They reach the central room, opening upon the court where plashes the fountain.

The guide stops.

Upon the scented air comes the notes of a musical instrument, a mandolin, and the chords are peculiarly sad and yet so full of music.

Then a voice breaks forth—such singing John has heard only in his dreams—it is a voice of wondrous power, sympathetic and sweet, a voice that would haunt a man forever.

John knows no Moorish maiden can sing that song, and his heart gives a wild throb as the conviction is suddenly forced upon him that at last, after these weary years of waiting, after his search over half the world, he is now listening to the voice that hushed his infantile cries, and fell upon his ears like a benison.

No wonder, then, he stands there as if made of stone—stands and drinks in the sweet volume of sound as it floods the Moorish court, until the last note dies away as might the carol of a bird at even-tide.

Then he swallows a sob, and braces himself for the coming ordeal. Something behind reaches his ear. He is positive he catches a deep groan as of despair; perhaps it comes from some cage, where this Moorish judge has an enemy in confinement.

He is not given a chance to speculate upon the subject. His guide touches his arm and points. John discovers that his presence has already been made known to the Moor.

He is expected to come forward. Under the circumstances, the young man is in no condition for delay. That song, that heavenly voice, has gone straight to his heart, and he longs to look upon the face of the sweet singer.

So he advances, not slowly and with any show of dignity, but in the eager way that does credit to his heart.

He sees a figure in black, seated near the old Moor, and instantly his eyes are glued upon that face.

Then his heart tells him he now looks upon the face of the mother who has been lost to him so long.

Does she know? Has she received his note, or is her presence here simply the desire of her friend, the old Moor. She does not show any intense excitement as he approaches, and this tends to make him believe she has been kept in ignorance of the truth.

The Mohammedan doctor and his lovely daughter watch his advance with deep interest, for they are human, and take pleasure in a good deed done. The Koran commends it just as thoroughly as does our Bible. At the same time slaves are in waiting nearby, armed with deadly cimitars, and should it prove that John has deceived them, that the Sister does not greet him with love, but fear, because he bears the name of Craig, a signal from Ben Taleb will be the signing of his death warrant.

John fastens his eyes hungrily upon the face he now sees. He stands distant only a yard or so, and as yet has not uttered a syllabel, only waiting to see if his burning gaze, his looks of eager love and devotion, will have a miraculous effect on his parent.

As he stands thus mutely before her, she becomes aware of his presence for the first time. She looks up at his face, the casual glance becomes immediately a stare; her cheeks grow pale as death; it is evident that something has aroused memories of the past, and they flood her soul.

Slowly the woman arises. Her figure is slight, but there is a nobility about it. Purity is written upon her brow, in her eyes shines the light of faith that dares to look the whole world in the face. And before a word is spoken John Craig knows his mother has been dreadfully wronged in the past; suffering in silence because of some noble motive.

She has gained her feet, and now advances, walking like one in a dream, her hands outstretched. No wonder; it is like a phantasy, this seeing a loved face of the past in the home of a Moor in Algiers. She must indeed think it an illusion.

Now her hand touches John's face. Imagine the intense thrill that sweeps over his frame at the impact. Soul speaks to soul, heart answers heart.

The woman begins to tremble. The look of frightened wonder upon her face gives way to one of astonishment.

"It is no illusion! Alive! Oh, what does this mean? Where am I? Who are you?"

Thus the broken sentences fall from her lips, as though she hardly knows what she says.

John can only think of one reply, and as he puts out his hands, his whole heart is contained in the whispered words:

"Oh, my mother!"

This seems to break the spell. In another instant she has eagerly clasped her arms around his neck.

"Heaven be praised; my prayer is answered. My child has sought me out."

It is the magic power of love.

John's face tells his great joy. Words are denied them for some little time, but with brimming eyes they gaze into each other's face.

"Oh! mother, I have searched for you in many lands. For years I have longed to see you, to tell you that my heart believed in you. By the kindness of Heaven, that time has come."

"And you, my own boy, you believe me innocent, worthy of your love, though the world called me guilty," she murmurs.

"Yes, because of the great love I bear you, I would believe it against all. Oh! my mother, how barren my life has been, without your companionship, your love. Many, many nights I have wept bitter tears of anguish to think of you somewhere upon the face of the earth, wandering alone, because of circumstantial evidence."

Again from the darkness beyond the court comes that deep, terrible groan. The old Moor turns his head as though he does not understand it; but the tableau in front is too dramatic to be lost.

Rev. Dr. Thompson Testifies

Wm. McOuat, Esq., Managing Director, North American Life Assurance Co., Toronto:

DEAR SIR,—Your official notice came duly to hand, apprising me of the results obtainable upon my 15-year Endowment Policy in your Company for $1,000, which matured on the 5th inst. Of the various options you have given me, viz.:

Cash Value	$1 564 96
Paid-up policy, payable at my death	2,520.00
Yearly income for life of	166 90

I have decided upon the cash value; and it gives me pleasure to testify that, as I anticipated it would be when I took out the policy, it is very satisfactory. This returns me the full premium of the 15 years and over 4½ per cent compound interest, in addition to which you have carried the risk upon my life. In view of the lowering rates of interest which have been obtainable during the later portion of the period, it is difficult to see how this excellent result could have been surpassed.

Yours sincerely,

An Atchison man says that the worst gossiping done anywhere under any circumstances is that told at night when two or three people are sitting up with a corpse. GEN. ALGER'S LETTER.

What the Secretary of War Said to the President in Tendering His Resignation and the Reply of Acceptance.

Washington, July 21.—The following is Secretary Alger's letter of resignation and the President's reply to it:

"July, 19, 1899.

"To the President:

"Sir,—I beg to tender you my resignation of the office of Secretary of War, to take effect at such time in the near future as you may decide the affairs of this department will permit.

"In terminating my official connection with your administration, I wish for your continuous health and the highest measure of success in carrying out the great work entrusted to you.

"I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

"R. A. Alger."

The President's Reply.

The President replied:

"Executive Mansion,
"Washington, July 20, 1899.

"Hon. R. A. Alger, Secretary of War:

"Dear Sir,—Your resignation of the office of Secretary of War, under date of July 19, is accepted, to take effect, the first of August, 1899.

"In thus severing the official relation which has continued for more than two years, I desire to thank you for the faithful services you have rendered the country at a most exacting period, and to wish you a long and happy life.

"With assurances of high regard and esteem, I am, yours sincerely,

"William McKinley."

Who Will succeed ?

Among the many names most prominently mentioned as his successor was that of Gen. Horace Porter, ambassador to France. Nearly every general who figured in the recent war has been mentioned as a possibility, that of Gen. James H. Wilson being about the most prominent in this class.

DEWEY FOR PRESIDENT.

Although a Dewey Sympathiser, Oliver H. P. Belmont Does Not Think the Seamen Would Beat Bryan.

Trieste, Austria, July 21.—The United States cruiser Olympia, with Admiral Dewey on board, arrived here yesterday morning. The Olympia will remain here about two weeks. Admiral Dewey's health is perfect. The foreign consuls were received by Admiral Dewey on board the Olympia during the forenoon.

Would Dewey Beat Bryan?

Chicago, July 21.—Oliver H. P. Belmont of New York was asked last night if William C. Whitney's sudden departure for Europe was in the nature of a mission. He said he understood Mr. Whitney meant to see Admiral Dewey and persuade the sailman to let his name be presented to the National Democratic convention as a candidate for the nomination.

"Do you think that if the Admiral were brought to consent he would beat Mr. Bryan in the convention?"

"Candidly," replied Mr. Belmont, "I do not think he could. Mr. Bryan, so far as I can fathom, seems the well-nigh unanimous choice of the whole party. Assuredly he is the natural and logical candidate, and to-day he is invincible."

Fire on the Athabasca.

Owen Sound, Ont., July 21.—Fire broke out about 10 o'clock last night in the C.P.R. steamer Arthabasca, which was tied up at her dock. An explosion of some combustibles took place, after which the fire was discovered. An effort was made to subdue the flames by steam, to save the cargo. The hold had to be eventually flooded with water. The loss will be considerable, as there was a large quantity of freight damaged.

An Increase of $30,000.

Toronto, July 21.—Another meeting of the Employing Printers and the Typographical Union was held at the Queen's Hotel last night for the purpose of discussing the request of the men for an advance in wages for book and job work. As a result of the meeting an increase of about ten per cent. on present wages was granted. This will mean a total increase of $30,000 per year.

The Coquette.

A coquette is a being who wishes to please. Alas! coquettes are too rare. 'Tis a career that requires great abilities, infinite pains, a gay and airy spirit. 'Tis the coquette that provides all amusements, suggests the riding party, plans the picnic, gives and guesses charades, acts them. She is the stirring element amid the heavy congeries of social atoms; the soul of the house, the salt of the banquet. Let any one pass a very agreeable week, or it may be ten days, under any roof, and analyze the cause of his satisfaction, and one might safely make a gentle wager that his solution would present him with the frolic phantom of a coquette.—Lord Beaconsfield.

The Widow's Devotion.

There was a man hanged for murder in Sydney, Australia. By his widow's consent, his figure was exhibited in a local waxworks show. Every Sunday for six months the woman, dressed in deepest mourning, called and put a clean shirt on the unresisting form of the wax man. Then her visits stopped. Some time after, happening to meet the manager of the show the lady explained, with many blushes, that she had married again, and her new husband energetically objected to her wifely attention to the toilet of No. 1's graven image.

Arrival of Mrs. Sanford.

Hamilton, July 21.—Mrs. W. E. Sanford and the party who met her and her daughters at New York arrived here yesterday morning. The private service over the remains of the late Senator will be held this afternoon at the cemetery chapel. It is probable the remains will be placed in the Watkins vault until the handsome mausoleum is ready for their reception.

IT'S TOO RISKY

To undergo an operation for itching, Piles when Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment is a surer, cheaper, easier way to cure.

Cruel, barbarous methods belong to the dark ages of the past. There was a time when a surgical operation was considered the only possible cure for piles. Not so now. Occasionally there is still found a physician who adheres to this dangerous and expensive method, but to every one who still believes in using the knife, ninety and nine recommend the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Dr. C. M. Harlan, writing in The American Journal of Health, said:

"We know that 'Dr. Chase's Ointment' meets all the requisitions of the highest standard of worth, that it will be held in high esteem wherever it is used, and consequently we endorse it to every reader."

By force of merit alone Dr. Chase's Ointment has won its way into this wide, wide world, until it has made the name of Dr. Chase familiar in almost every home, and won for the venerable discoverer the title of "America's Greatest Physician."

Dr. Chase's Ointment has never been known to fail as a cure for piles. It matters not whether blind, itching, bleeding or protruding, Dr. Chase's Ointment is an absolute and perfect cure.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment is the discovery of the author of Dr. Chase's Recipe Book, whose portrait and signature is on every box of the genuine. All dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, Toronto.

Doctors now agree that consumption is curable. Three things, if taken together, will cure nearly every case in the first stages; the majority of cases more advanced; and a few of those far advanced.

The first is, fresh air; the second, proper food; the third, Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil with hypophosphites.

To be cured, you must not lose in weight, and, if thin, you must gain. Nothing equals Scott's Emulsion to keep you in good flesh.

Demonstrated.

Sometimes it costs hundreds of dollars to convince a man; very often less is required, but in the case of Polson's Nerviline, that sovereign remedy for pain, 10 cents foots the bill, and supplies enough Nerviline to convince every purchaser that it is the best, most prompt and certain pain remedy in the world. Nerviline is good for all kinds of pain, pleasant to take and sure to cure cramps and all internal pains. It is also nice to rub outside, for it has an agreeable smell, quite unlike so many other preparations, which are positively disagreeable to use. Try it now. Go to a drug store and buy a 10 cent or 25 cent bottle. Polson's Nerviline. Take no other.

Baseball.

An effort is being made to have a Toronto team come to town to play a match with the Peterborough baseball team on the 27th inst., the day of the Gooderham & Worts employees excursion to town. One of the best teams of the city will be secured if possible.

Port Hope Guide:—The File Factory base ball team went out on the excursion to Peterborough yesterday and played a game with the team of that town, which resulted in a loss for the visitors by 14 to 15.

The match throughout was close and very exciting and although our boys lost they feel quite proud of the style of ball played by both teams, and if Mr. Lionel King, the umpire, had used his spectacles in the last innings, there is no doubt but that Port Hope would have won. His decisions showed very poor judgment at times, and although it is not exactly correct for a player to reprove the umpire, yet Pitcher Burt could not repress his feelings when he gave the batter five strikes before the umpire called three.

McGill, Hayden and Edmunds did some excellent work on the infield while Burt and McElroy, as battery, were never better. All the visitors batted well, Tutton's home run being the chief feature.

"Dan" McCabe and Graham were Peterborough's battery, and also played well.

We hope to see the return match played here before long when a fine game may be looked for, as the teams seem to be very evenly matched.

THE NEW OFFICERS.

Staff-Capt. Burdett and His Wife at the Army Barracks.

Staff-Capt. Burdett and wife, the newly-appointed Salvation Army officers in charge of the local corps, arrived in town yesterday and were at last night's meeting at the barracks. The captain is an able speaker and delivered a very instructive discourse, basing his remarks upon Isaiah 48, 16, and following verses. He emphasized the necessity of living in strict conformity with the commands of God if we hope to possess and retain that peace which He has promised to His servants. Obedience is the great test of true fellowship with God, and if we let anything interfere with our duty to Him, and are not obedient in all respects to His laws, we cannot hope to be in possession of the peace which He says He will impart to His children. Capt. Burdett has the reputation of being one of the most forcible speakers of the Salvation Army in Canada.

GOLD IN HASTINGS.

Diamond Mine Near Madoc Shows Rich Ore.

Mr. J. B. King and Messrs. Leopold and Charles Meyer returned to Ottawa from Hastings county on Wednesday, where they spent several days looking after the work on the Diamond gold mine, which was purchased by them and their associates in May.

Mr. King brought back a fine sample of quartz, about as large as a man's thigh, weighing about 100 pounds. It is a very rich gold bearing quartz, highly mineralized, and was taken from about 20 feet below the surface.

A reporter of the Ottawa Free Press was shown the ore and with the naked eye could easily trace a streak of free milling ore around the centre of the rock, about an inch in width. It showed indications of a rich bearing high grade gold. Mr. King was enthusiastic over the prospects and said that other samples had been assayed at $3,700 a ton.

The work already done has been sufficient to demonstrate the value of the property, and the Free Press was informed from independent sources that it gives promise of being one of the richest properties in Ontario.

The mine is seven miles northeast of Madoc and consists of 60 acres. The company has opened two veins, one of them a free milling quartz, 10 feet wide, with a diagonal direction across the lot. It has been opened for 700 feet and continues for a distance of 2,200 feet. This large vein is crossed midway by a vein of gold bearing mispickle, which is of the same character as the one of the Doloro mine at Marmora, in the same county. The Doloro company is producing with a 10 stamp mill a 20 to 25 pound brick of bullion at every ten days' clean up, valued at about $5,000. Three shafts have been sunk 75 feet on the Diamond property, and the work is progressing steadily.

There are several thousand tons of ore on the dump, and preparations are being made by Mr King to put in a stamp mill.

From the character of the ore shown the Free Press and from reports received from other miners in Hastings it looks as if the Diamond is going to be a fine property.

Ants and Their Effects—India.

Small, soft and feeble as the white ants are, yet by their numbers and powers of destruction they have influenced to some extent both the architecture and also the civilisation of the country. To their ravages, which prevent much the use of timber, is in a great measure due the massive solidity of the grander Indian edifices, and by their devouring of papers and documents they have restricted the cultivation of literature. They have rendered the preservation of books difficult. They have continuously destroyed the records that would have thrown light on the history of the past.—"Haunts and Hobbies of an Indian Official."

The Study of Art.

The cheapest way to add to one's knowledge of art is to study the illustrated periodicals of the day. Every person should be able to distinguish between pen-and-ink sketches and wash drawings. Pen-and-ink illustrations are made either from original sketches or from photographs. The drawings are made about twice the size of the cut required so as to allow of such reduction as will remove the traces of minor inequalities. The cuts are made by the action of light on acid spread over a zinc surface. The wash drawings are really water-colour sketches in black and white, but are made so as to provide for some reduction—usually not so much as in the case of pen-and-ink sketches. These are reproduced by being photographed, the photograph being afterwards thrown with the aid of a strong light on a copper surface which is covered with acid. These plates, which are technically known as "half-tones," are more expensive and more delicate than the zinc plates made from pen-and-ink work. Photographs are reproduced in the same way as a wash drawing. To get a colour effect for a cover or a frontispiece, two or more plates must be used. Two plates will give from two to four colours.

All this study of pictures is interesting, and tends to develop one's appreciation of the beautiful, and to make one appreciate colour, proportion, grace, and harmony. It also has the effect of making a person more observant. The more one sees in the life about him, the more he is able to enjoy it. The man who cannot appreciate a pretty picture in all its details is not fully educated. The only Canadian publication which regularly employs both pen-and-ink and water-colour artists is The Canadian Magazine, although pen-and-ink work of a less artistic character is to be found in most Canadian dailies.

Salvation Army Band.

The Salvation Army band were unable to play in the park on Charlotte-st. last evening owing to the arrival of Staff-Capt. and Mrs. Burdette, the new officers. The band were granted the privilege by the Council to postpone the concert until Monday night next in order to attend the welcome service.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement, that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. For sale by James Lynch, druggist, Hunter-st., Peterborough, large bottles 50 cents and $1.00.
